NEWS FROM SWEDEN,

By L. HARALD KJELLSTEDT, F.R.P.S.

Svensk Filatelistisk Tidskrift, from which these notes are culled, has come to hand with its last number of the year. On the front page, preceding the index to Vol. XII we find that the editorial staff consisted of Mr. Ernst Wilms, Editor-in-chief, and Messrs. L. H. Kjellstedt, O. Kraepelien and H. Wennberg, Associate editors. The volume consists of 238 pages and the finances of the journal are so satisfactory that a substantial surplus will be turned over to the treasury of the publishers, the Philatelic Society of Sweden. As during former years the S. F. T. has donated considerable space to American philately.

The Estate of a Philatelic Magnate.—The so called "Lindström Collections", which were accumulated by Sweden's foremost collector, the late Professor Alb. Lindström, have now come on the market. His entire holdings have been purchased by the firm H. Lichtenstein in Stockholm for 227,500 kronor. The total catalogue value is about one million kronor. As Professor Lindström never employed a philatelic assistant, and was a very busy man, the arrangement and mounting of his treasures were not given sufficient attention but the quality of the stamps is generally very good. The most prominent of the collections is that of Sweden. The specialised division comprising the issues of 1855-58 is alone valued at 57,000 kronor and was undoubtedly the finest in existence. Of the 4 sk. bco. we find a mint corner block of 25 stamps. The official reprints of the sk. bco. stamps are found in imperforate blocks of 4. Prof. L.'s collection also contains one of the two known copies of the error 5 öre 1891 brown instead of green. A number of copies of the 20sh 30d error, used and unused, are also found as well as half a sheet of the dark green 5 öre of 1891-92 imperforate. In the Postage Due stamps a block of 16 of the 6 öre yellow printed on both sides. Of the 17 öre grey of 1865-66 the collection contains a mint block of 8. Of the official stamps perf. 14 occur in entire sheets, blocks and singles. Of the great rarity, 10 surcharged on 12 perf. 14, two used copies are found, also 10 on 12 and 10 on 24, used and unused, with inverted surcharge.

Another fine collection is that of Denmark. Here we find two entire, mint sheets of the 4sk of 1864-65, as well as blocks and strips. Of the 48sk of 1870 the collection contains a mint block of 24 stamps.

The collections of Denmark and Scotland together represent a catalogue value of 170,000 mark, according to Senf. The three cornered Capes are well represented with about 30 copies of the 1 shilling green. The German states, Spain, Portugal and England are very fine. The English 1 shilling green of 1847 is found in a used block of 20 stamps. The 5 pounds orange of 1882 occurs in pairs.

Professor Lindström's intense philatelic enthusiasm is indicated by the presence of about thirty general collections ranging in value from a few hundred up to several thousand kronor.

The purchasing firm has no intention of throwing these vast holdings on the market but will incorporate them with its regular stock.

Baron Leijonhufvud, whose collection of Sweden was awarded a gold medal at the Vienna exposition, had the first pick of the Swedish section of the Lindström collections and purchased the following rarities: One quarter sheet with margin of the 4sk bco.; one block of 16 of the 5 öre 1858; one block of 9 of the 24ö, 1858; one block of 40 of the 20ö of 1865-66; one block of 4 of the 6ö gray, 1872-78, perf. 14; one block of 9 of the 4ö of same issue; the error 5ö of 1891-92 brown instead of green; block of 6 of the 6ö official, gray, perf. 14; block of 15 of the lilac 6ö perf. 14; block of 10 of the 30ö and block of 10 of the 50 both perf. 14; block of 16 of the 6ö Postage Due printed on both sides. All the items of this purchase are in mint condition. The baron's collection of Sweden contains every known variety except the 3sk bco. yellow of which only one copy exists in a well known Paris collection. One of his unique pieces is a used copy of the 8sk bco. on ribbed paper.

A Favored Stamp Dealer.—About a year ago the Swedish post department farmed out to the well known Stockholm dealer, Consul Harry Wennberg, the retailing of Swedish postage stamps at the general post office at Stockholm. This arrangement seems to have given mutual satisfaction because it is now announced that Consul Wennberg has been given the same contract at the post office of Malmö, the third Swedish city in size. Nor is this all because Mr. W. has also been granted the right to carry a stock at these postoffices of philatelic supplies of foreign stamps, albums, etc. I suppose that the retailing of the regular postage stamps is carried out by Mr. W. at a greatly reduced cost as far as the post department is concerned.

The New Swedish Stamps.—Consul Wennberg points out that the 5 öre, Gustaf V, watermarked crown, is the stamp of the day in Sweden with prices varying from 8c to 35c per copy. He cautions collectors not to buy too many copies at the higher prices, considering 13c for unused and 3c for used copies a fair average at the present time. He advises special attention to the new values 15, 20, 25, 30 and 35 öre and those coming so as to procure them as early as possible because distinct changes in shades of the 20, 25 and 30 öre have already been observed, and the first shades will always become the scarcest. In connection with this subject, the S. F. T. furnishes an interesting table of what has been issued so far. All issues are perf. 13x13½.

OUR REVIEW.

Stamps of U. S. and Colonies.—Wendover Neefus, the Hudson, N. Y., dealer, has issued his 1912 list, comprising offerings in U. S. and colonies. Special attention is called to the double pricing on condition, the terms "good" and "fine" being employed. The book consists of 28 pages, is well printed and neatly arranged.

Stamp Collectors' Annual.—Published at 44 Fleet St., London, England. Edited by D. B. Armstrong. Price 30c post paid. This is the 9th edition of this most valuable Annual and Mr. Armstrong has acquitted himself most creditably in the new work that he has taken over. Mr. Armstrong is easily one of the leading figures in British philately and is out-ranked only by Mr. Melville in his splendid activities in connection with our hobby.

The contents of the volume are indeed varied. For a frontispiece we have a picture of the Prince of Wales and the leading article deals with the young royal stamp collector, who is styled "a worthy son of a philatelic father". The "Story of the Year" is an interesting resume of what has taken place upon both sides of the water, while such chapters as "Foreign Postal Agencies of the Powers", "The Year's Best Books", "The Universal Postal Union", "Celebreties of the Stamp World", etc. indicate the scope of the work. It is a marvelous compendium of information and should be in the hands of every collector.

List of Novelties.—Bright & Son, 164 Strand, London, England A forty-paged price list of sets, packets, and stamp collectors accessories for the season of 1912. Sent post free on request.

Philatelic Literature List.—Issued by Victor Marsh, 389 Brixton Road, London, England. This very pretentious list of philatelic literature is a valuable production. It is issued in two forms, one edition being printed on blue wove paper and supplied free of charge, the other edition consisting of two hundred copies on deckle edge laid paper with plate of twenty collotype illustrations. The price of the latter is 62c. Anyone at all interested in philatelic literature will find this list indispensible. Numerous interleaved blank pages may be found in the book.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from Robt. L. Ekstrand, Albert F. Ritter, Leon V. Cass.

STAMPS OF CHILE USED IN PERU.

These stamps may best be divided into three grades of importance:—First and most important of all, those used in Lima and other towns which remained Peruvian after the war. Secondly, those used in the Provinces of Arica and Tacna, the nationality of which, even now, is not definitely fixed; and thirdly, those used in the Province of Tarapaca, a territory ceded to Chili under the peace treaty. The towns under the first heading are Lima, Callao, Mollendo, Yca (or Ica), Paita, Pisco, Eten, Salaverry, and Trujillo (or Truxillo). Under the second, Arica and Tacna; while the third boasts of Iquique and Pisagua.

It is clear that, for the towns in the first class, the date of the postmark is practically immaterial; any Chilian stamps used in these towns are equally of interest, since the towns were, and are still, Peruvian. On those used in the places mentioned in the second division the date is important, and should be before 1884, though stamps used in these towns after this date are sometimes not altogether without interest. Those used in the towns given in the third list must bear postmarks dated prior to October 23rd, 1883, the date of the Treaty of Ancon, though perhaps one might claim that the period should be extended to the date of the Congress which ratified this treaty, April, 1884. Legally I suppose the latter date is correct, but it is better to adopt the earlier one, to avoid all question.—Gibbons Monthly Journal.

THE NOVEL WORD CONTEST.

By A. W. Dunning.

Up to date I have received some 62 answers to my "Novel Word Contest" which appeared three times in the columns of the Weekly. Your readers may be interested in the statistics of the contest. Number of persons first and number of correct answers second:—1 - 9, 2 - 11, 1 - 12, 2 - 13, 5 - 14, 2 - 15, 6 - 16, 7 - 17, 3 - 18, 3 - 19, 2 - 20, 6 - 21, 8 - 22, 6 - 23, 5 - 24, 1 - 25.

As some of the correct answers were necessarily arbitrary, I think the showing was very good indeed.

—C. B. Bostwick, 30 Church St., N. Y. City, is desirous of obtaining detailed information in regard to the stamps of the Cayman Islands. Will subscribers having U. P. U. "Specimen" surcharges, Jamaica stamps used in the Cayman Islands, or provisional envelopes of May 1906, please communicate with Mr. Bostwick?

A TRADE COLUMN WORD.

By M. D. Olmstead.

Enclosed find check for $7.50 for another 50 lines as by your terms. I don't know as I have used up my last 50 but this will certainly assure you that I have derived pleasure and profit from my first $7.50.

I have been going to write you for the last three weeks, to tell you my experiences resulting from my ads in your trade column; but I've got to get some sleep and will have to cut even this short.

I'll simply say that your Trade Column is great and perhaps before long I'll find time to tell you just what I have got in results from my first $7.50.

EDITORIAL.

Big Number—The convention number of the American Philatelist has been distributed and Mr. Howes, as editor, has handled the contents in a way to make an admirable number. While necessarily the transactions of the convention at Chicago require the greatest share of the space for their accomodation, yet there is much outside of these pages as well as some matter in the convention records that has a wide general interest. The American Philatelic Society Philatelic Index is an invaluable document and will be a monument when completed to the research and perseverance of the patient compilers. In the convention account the differences that devoloped between the WEEKLY and the officers of the society last year are reviewed at some length in certain of the reports. The whole case centered about the act of the convention at Detroit in so altering the contract after the WEEKLY had been accepted as the official journal as to void it; and leave the empty shell after the meat had been taken. The number has one hundred and forty pages and is impressive evidence of the fact that America's foremost philatelic body stands for work as well as words.

Masterly—The publication of another society presents itself for notice. A Check List of the Philatelic Publications in the English Language for the Year 1909 has been issued by the American Philatelic Literature Society, in beautiful typographical dress. The work has been compiled by W. R. Ricketts, Historian for the American Philatelic Literature Society and the book of nearly one hundred pages was printed by George Ward Linn, the secretary. While it is not to be expected that a review can dwell explicitly upon the contents of a reference book of this kind, still one may marvel at the able manner in which the compiler achieved his end. Mr. Ricketts possesses in heaping measure those rare attributes without which it is impossible to successfully undertake this painstaking task. The publications of the United States, Great Britain and the British Colonies, respectively, for the year 1909, are classified under the heads of Auction Catalogues; Catalogues; Handbooks and Pamphlets; Periodicals and Price Lists of Some Worth. The regular edition of the book, which is free to members is sold to others at one dollar.

Confederate Paper—From H. Wesley Legg, we have received for inspection "a U. S. A. envelope essay on this same C. S. A. paper" as described in the WEEKLY of December 23rd. In the upper right hand corner of the envelope is the three-cent blank impression, brought out by pencil rubbing, of profile of Lincoln, enclosed in frame similar to that of the three-cent, 1864, U. S. envelope. Mr. Legg says that the "essay is of considerable rarity" and that he knows of only one other. There were captures at different times of blockade-runners with supplies of banknote paper for the south and evidently, the confiscated paper was carefully preserved and in some instances put to use by the federal authorities. As has been said before, there are eight varieties of Confederate watermarked paper, but some of them are variations of one of the main types. In this connection, the following item has been found: "On the 15th of April, 1863, Mr. Joseph Walker of Charleston, S. C., was appointed an agent of the Confederate Treasury Department to proceed to England for the purpose of purchasing paper, inks and other material for treasury notes." Upon his representations, Straker and Sons of London produced "a large number of chemicographed plates" for the treasury department, and in the autumn of 1863, the plates and supplies were consigned to Nassau for trans-shipment on the fleet blockade-runners. The cargo never reached a southern port as all the blockade-runners were intercepted by the northern patrols; the confiscated plates were sold at auction subsequently. These plates were printed from after they came into private hands but not upon confederate watermarked paper.

Russian Locals—It is supposed that the interest in Russian rural or Zemstvo stamps is not an increasing one; on the contrary, they seem to be sinking slowly beneath the philatelic surface. In the philatelic press of this country, references to the stamps are very infrequent in late years. However, in Europe and particularly in Germany, where the collecting taste is catholic and independent, the Russian local or district stamps have their following and in a recent advertisement some of the rarities are priced as follows: Alatyr, 1867, 2k, black, $50; Borowitschi, 1876, 3k, bronze, $75 and Oust Syssolsk, 1872, 3k, black on yellow, $50. While the creation of the rural stamps was made officially in 1870, yet for some years previously, they had been used without prohibition. The vast wastes or sparse population of many of the districts made the government reluctant to extend its mail service into them; and to relieve this condition, the rural post-offices were established. These offices carried local letters within the district and also conveyed letters to and from the nearest governmental office. Their standing as locals is not to be questioned and they provide a field that a few collectors cultivate with much satisfaction, albeit that scant, if any, general philatelic attention is given to it. An American, William Herrick, compiled an authoritative catalogue of these Russian locals about eighteen years ago.

Theories—A reader wishes to know how a strip of three of the Baltimore carrier stamps, one cent black, horseman, used on the cover, without the government stamp is to be "analyzed". While the used carrier stamps seldom are found "se tenant" yet there are not a few examples of the stamps in that condition to be cited. They are to be found in the great collections of Mr. Worthington and Dr. Bowers, for instance. It is known that the Franklin carrier in strip of three was used to pay the regular postage but as the Franklin and eagle carrier stamps were issued under the authority of an act of congress, they may be said to be in a class by themselves, purely official. Still, the existence of stamps of semi-official character could be accounted for in this same way. Again the letter may have been a local one that was handled without the aid of the U. S. mails, except insofar as the services of the carrier, a functionary occupying an officially appointive position (in contrast to the carriers employed by the local and express companies) entered into the transaction. Extra weight of a letter, a bulky pamphlet or a book may have required the additional carrier stamps. That the carrier or semi-official stamps are a class concerning which there is much to be learned is an accepted fact. There is but little printed record of the stamps and of the regulations attending their use and of their delivery on letters that is available for the use of the investigator of these days.

THE EARLY STAMPS OF GUATEMALA.

By W. J. C. Pope.

(Reprints of this article will be made uniform with the series advertised from time to time. These reprints fit into the blank album wherever needed and are supplied at 5c each. We furnish a neat binder for 30c which covers actual cost only.—Ed.)

(Concluded from last week.)

The stamps utilized for provisionals were those used for the collection of taxes on the coupons of the "FERRO CARRIL AL NORTE" (Northern Railroad), and were 1 peso face-value. The stamps shew the portrait of M. Rivera Paz, who was the first President of Guatemala. He remained in office from 1821 to 1845, when Carrera (mentioned at the beginning of this article) took over the reins of the Government.

The decree authorizing the issue is dated February 12th, 1886; it mentioned the evident need of higher values, and the "100 centavos" is described in it as "1 piastre", an echo of an old Spanish collection of names.

The stamps were issued on May 6th, 1886, but how many were left for Parker has not been stated. The stamps were surcharged in black, and monopolize a big space on the surface of the stamp, the values being:—

25c on 1p vermilion.
50c " " "
75c " " "

The surcharge of the 25c, 50c, and 75c was set up in four blocks of 50 stamps each in five rows of 10, so that there were 200 stamps to the sheet. The post office sheets consisted of 100 stamps in ten rows of 10, but the stamps were printed in sheets of 200 in two panes. The division between the panes was marked by arrows, similar to the method employed in the United States of America. The panes were severed down the centre and issued to the Post Office as sheets of 100 stamps. The consequence, of course, is that all the stamps in either the first or last vertical row of each Post Office sheet are imperforate.

The surcharges of the 100c and 150c were set up in blocks of 25 stamps in five rows of 5, but were printed in sheets of 200, and issued as sheets of 100 stamps to the Post Office, which cut them down into panes of 25.

There are a great many varieties of these surcharges, really too many to mention in detail, but I give a few of the most distinct:—

Most of these varieties are not noted by Gibbons.

(h) "Co" of "Correos" out of alignment.
(i) comma, for full stop, after right-hand "50c" in fourth line.

75c.

(a) "centovos".
(b) "centanos".
(c) "s" of "Nacionales" inverted.
(d) figures on stamp read "75" "50" "75" "75".
(e) no full stop after "75c" in fourth line.
(f) "Carreos".

A variety which is common to all the above three values, and repeated several times on the sheet, is that the four links under the words "Correos Nacionales" can be found inverted as well as the single link under the "e" of "Guatemala". The way to tell this is by the shading. For a normal link the thick lines of shading should be inside the top and outside the bottom line, and the thin lines should be outside the top and inside the bottom line; for the inverted link the shading is found exactly opposite. This explanation is rather mystifying, but, if compared with the stamp, will be clearer.

100c on 1 peso.

(a) values read "110" "100" "á00" "100".
(b) "Guatemala" in heavy type.
(c) centre ornament below 'Guatemala" is colourless, except small dot.
(d) ditto is of solid colour.

(a) "Guetemala".
(b) "G" of "Guatemala" inverted.
(c) ornament below "Guatemala" inverted.
(d) four figures "5" in italics.
(e) "G" of "Guatemala" inverted and double.

In the 25c, 50c, and 75c stamps only the figures of value were altered according to the denomination that was to be printed. So supposing the type was set up for the 50c value, and the authorities required some 75c stamps, what they did was to remove all the figures "0", shift each "5" slightly to the right, and put on the left the figure "7". A proof of this is shown by the error which occurs on the 75c of "50" and "75" appearing on the same stamp.

In the 100c value the word "Guatemala" is printed in two types, the lowest row of the sheet being in thicker lettering.

Issue of 1886-94.—The man Parker mentioned above performed his part very well, and selected eleven very distinct colours for the eleven values. The design was the original suggestion of Dr. Emileo de Léon, the Postmaster-General, and is very appropriate to Guatemala, marking as it does the progress of the country. The quetzal is a true emblem of liberty, because the bird will not live in captivity.

The stamps were manufactured by the American Bank Note Co. of New York. They were lithographed on white wove paper by transfers from an engraved die, and issued to the public on July 1st, 1886.

The following is the list of stamps issued, and the quantity of each printed:

1c blue	250,000.
2c brown	150,000.
5c purple	500,000.
10c mauve	300,000.
20c green	200,000.
25c orange	100,000.
50c olive-green	100,000.
75c rose	100,000.
100c deep brown	100,000.
150c blue	100,000.
200c yellow	100,000.

Issue of 1886 (Provisionals).—The 1 centavo of the last issue soon ran out of stock, and as a temporary means of supplying the Government 70,000 of the 2 centavos stamps were surcharged, and put on sale on the 12th November, 1886. The surcharge is type-set, and was evidently set up in five blocks of 20 stamps in two rows of 10; it contains several varieties.

For this surcharge the stamp went under the press twice; first the words "PROVISIONAL — I — UN CENTAVO" were printed, and then by a second printing the date "1886" was added. This can be proved in a number of ways, one being that the two surcharges have hardly ever the same quantity of ink on them, one being heavier than the other. There were two printings of the date surcharge, one having a full stop after it and the other with none.

As I said before, there are several varieties of this surcharge, among them being:—

(a) "1886" double.
(b) " inverted below figure "1".
(c) surcharge inverted without stop.
(d) " " with "
(e) broken figure "1".
(f) "N" of "PROVISIONAL" out of alignment.

Issue of 1887-94.—In the meantime the Government had replenished their stock of the 1c, 2c, and 5c stamps, but these were engraved instead of lithographed. As the stock of stamps became exhausted, the high values were replaced by the engraved. The stamps were issued in the following years:—

1, 2, and 5 centavos in 1887.

The rest of the values, viz., the 50, 75, 100, 150, and 200 centavos, were never engraved and only exist lithographed.

The way to distinguish the stamps of the lithographed issue from those of the engraved is, on the latter the lines at the extreme top of the stamp above the locomotive and the steamer stand out clear from the rest. The numerals also differ. The 2c lithographed stamp has a much stouter "2" than the engraved, and the "10" of 10c engraved is much larger and bigger than the lithographed "10".

Issue of 1888.—The lithographed and first engraved stamps of the 5c value have a thin figure, but this type was superseded in 1888 by stamps with a numeral considerably thicker.

Issue of 1894.—A new value, 6c, was introduced at the end of 1894, though previous to its issue a provisional 6c had been made. On January 6th, 1890, the peso of Central America was fixed by a monetary conference as:—=$2.0698 Central America=$1 United States, equivalent to about 4s in England.

In consequence, postage on ordinary letters required a higher denomination, and in 1894 the 5c was replaced by the new value, 6c.

As I have just mentioned, a 6c provisional had been made previous to the supply of the regular type. It was issued in April, 1894, and about that time there was a dearth of 2 and 10 centavos stamps.

This want was soon satisfied, for the authorities surcharged four values of the 1886 (lithographed) issue as follows:—

2c on 100c brown.
6c on 150c deep blue.
10c on 75c rose.
10c on 200c yellow.

The ink used in the surcharge was red for the 6c on 150c, and blue-black for the other three values. The surcharge was set up in blocks of 20 stamps, in ten horizontal rows of 2.

There are two types of each surcharge common to all the four values; they are in regard to the length of the date "1894"—one is spaced and the other cramped. On both types of the 10c on 75c and the 10c on 200c can be found three varieties of the figure "1" of "10" centavos, they being quite distinct.

The 10c on 75c rose can be found with its surcharge double.

In Central and South American countries a great many 1 centavo stamps are used at the end of the year for local postage on New Year greeting cards. The Guatemalan authorities, finding themselves short of this value in this year, authorised, by a decree dated 21st December, the issue of a quantity of the 2 centavos (engraved issue of 1887), the stock of which had now been replenished from New York, to be surcharged 1 centavo. The surcharge was similar to that on the last set of provisionals, but this time in black.

There are only two errors of note in this surcharge, one of them being in the word "CENTAVO". This word is spelt "C-E-N-T-A-V" without the final "o". The positions of this error are the 1st, 3rd, 5th, 7th, and 9th stamps in the fourth horizontal row of the sheet. The stamps were surcharged in blocks of 20 stamps in ten horizontal rows of 2, and hence the sheets were put under press five times for each surcharge, thus making the error "CENTAV" occur five times. The other error to which I call your attention is the double surcharge. There are several forms of this; some appear smudged or blurred, and others quite distinctly doubly printed.

The type of "1" of 1 centavo in the surcharge can be divided into three types, all three being quite of a distinct character.—Stamp Lover.

THE BIBLIOGRAPHY OF PHILATELY.

Quoted from Observations Based on Catalog of Lord Crawford's Library.

The work of the philatelic librarian has hitherto been extremely complicated in certain directions as anyone must know who has attempted to complete files of the thousand and more different (and often indifferent) stamp papers published in the United States. Collectors will find the catalogue of immeasurable service, inasmuch as it forms a detailed map of this little explored territory. To instance a few of the complications. Probably nearly two hundred stamp journals started in the United States never issued a second number, the first and last number was invariably full of optimistic promises for a brilliant future, and it has been extremely difficult to get certain knowledge of whether there was any continuation at all. Another example typical of the difficulties that beset the student of philatelic literature has been the utter disregard of uniformity, sometimes in size of paper, sometimes in the very title, sometimes in both. Here is a journal of which five numbers were issued by one and the same publisher, yet it managed to change both its shape and its name before its little flame finally flickered out. It was The Fireside Friend, published at Sawens, New York State, in 1888, size 5½x8½, these being the title and size of No. 1, but with No. 2 the title was changed to The Collectors' Friend, still in the same small size; thus it remained for two issues, numbered 2 and 3 respectively; then a second No. 3 (an error of numbering) appeared with the same title, but nearly double the size, 11x13. A minor change of title in the second No. 3, had it been noticed at the time, might have struck the subscriber as ominous, for the plural form appeared corrected to the singular, The Collector's Friend, and as possibly this one individual withdrew his support, the little lamp of learning flickered out with No. 4.

Quaint and often ludicrous titles were used by some of the small journals published across the Atlantic during the epidemic periods, when every boy wanted to own his own organ of philatelic power and influence. As some of these titles presented no clue whatsoever to their real or supposed connection with stamps, they provided another considerable difficulty for the collector. Some examples of ridiculous titles were: The Baby Philatelist, The Philatelic Snoozer, The Philatelic Squeal, and many more. Of titles not perhaps so absurd, The Amateur Clipper, The Yankee Clipper (? of perforations), Common Sense, Plain Talk, and a hundred others conveyed no clue to the nature of their contents.

Another difficulty presented itself in the wholesale amalgamations which the slender lives of most of these little leaflet journals made possible, some of the bigger journals having after their title the words "with which is incorporated . . .", the incorporations including as many as a score of other titles. This amalgamating sometimes led to curious complications. Here is a monthly journal, volumes 1 and 2 of 1905 and 1906 (Nos. 1-21). In the beginning of the next year the whole number jumps to "128." The literaturist has hitherto had to discover for himself that the two-year-old journal has swallowed up an older one, retained the title of the lean cow, and taken on the respectable age of the fat one.—Stamp Lover.

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Any information regarding new issues will be gratefully received and acknowledged. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, 17 Addison St., Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed, stamped envelope. We cannot give applicants the addresses of our correspondents. Correspondence regarding precancelled stamps must be sent to FRANK B. ELDREDGE, Attleboro, Mass., when due credit will be given in this department.

UNITED STATES:—Franklin S. Smith writes as follows regarding the Montclair, N. J., precancels: The postmaster has taken advantage of the ruling of the Postoffice Department and has had about $1,000 worth precancelled. The values include from the 1c to and including the 15c. The history of these stamps is very amusing and interesting. He at first had a plate made with a circle and name of the city, and then finding that he had to have two parallel lines, used a small rubber stamp to add a line similar to that in the middle of the circle on all his 10 and 15 cent stamps. Then he found that this was not right, so he had the bars printed additionally tangent to the circle, but as they did not hit exactly the result is that the lines appear above and below the circles at various distances on all denominations. These stamps were not available after Dec. 25, 1911, and as they gave out he used a rubber stamp with two bars, and the name of the city in two lines for the cancellation, the 15c having been seen with this cancellation.

BULGARIA.—Le Bulletin Philatélique learns that the postal authorities are thinking of offering the remainders of old issues for sale. The remainders are said not to be very large.

CANADA.—Through the courtesy of the New England Stamp Co. we are able to announce the definite issue of the King George stamps, the 1c and 2c values having been shown us. The design is similar to the King Edward stamps, the arrangement of the upper half of the stamp being the same, except that the words, "Canada Postage" are larger and bolder. The lines of the oval are also more prominent, while the crowns in the upper corners are changed in form. The King is in a full dress naval uniform, though without chapeau, and faces to left. The oval containing the portrait is smaller, the band around it being slightly wider. This oval band terminates at the King's shoulder in a group of maple leaves on each side, leaving an open space below the oval in which is placed the value in words, in two horizontal lines. The squares in the lower corners, containing the figures of value, are larger and fully shaped. The colors are changed, the 1c being a bright green and the 2c a carmine red. Paper and perforation are unchanged, and the stamps are not watermarked. The whole arrangement and appearance is far superior to the English issue.

Mr. A. McKechnie has also shown us specimens of these new stamps.

Adhesives.

1c green.
2c carmine red.

CAYMAN ISLANDS.—Harry E. Huber reports a novelty from the Islands in the shape of a new 2½d stamped envelope, the color being ultramarine on gray blue; size, 165x94 mm; and the design being the same as for the 1d stamped envelopes and post cards, except that the inscription reads, "Cayman Islands Postage" in smaller letters. The date of issue was probably the latter part of November.

Envelopes.

2½ ultramarine on gray blue.

Mr. Huber is informed that further delays have occurred in connection with preparing the new King George design key plate, and now the new stamps are not expected to arrive until next spring.

COSTA RICA.—The E. B. Cookson Co. has shown us a provisional revenue from Costa Rica, which has been used for postage. The stamp was originally dated 1910, but this date has been changed by overprinting "1911" in black, horizontally across the stamp. The copy shown us has been placed on the back of the envelope and escaped cancellation.

CUBA.—L'Echo notes that the 1c green and violet and 2c carmine and green, recently current, have been found with inverted centres. The 10c will shortly be issued in a single color, orange.

GERMANY.—Offices in China.—Mr. Schachne shows us the 5pf divided face German card with the same overprint as on the 1905 set.

Post Card.

2c black on 5pf green on buff, divided face.

GOLD COAST.—The New England Stamp Co. has shown us the 2sh 6d King Edward stamp on multiple paper, in the new colors.

Adhesive.

2sh 6d black and carmine on blue.

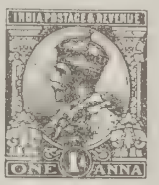
GREECE.—The London Philatelist notes that a change has been made in the current 50 lepta stamp, the most noticeable difference being in the shading of the background. The figures of value vary slightly and other differences may be found.

GUATEMALA.—Two new provisionals have been issued in Guatemala, the stamps of the 1902 set being used as the base. The surcharge consists of "Correos de Guatemala" printed diagonally on the stamps from lower left to upper right, while the values, "Dos—Centavos" and "Seis - Centavos" are arranged horizontally in two lines in the upper left corners of the stamps. The date, "1911," is printed in the lower right corner, also horizontally. The surcharge is in carmine on the 2c and in black on the 6c. We are indebted to William L. Aldrich & Co. for unused specimens of these provisionals, the E. B. Cookson Co. having also shown us the 6c in used condition. Mr. Aldrich's correspondent writes that nearly all of the issue was used up very quickly, and that the stamps are no longer obtainable at the postoffice, unless the purchaser accepts 80 per cent of his purchase in stamps of other denominations.

Provisional Adhesives.

"Dos Centavos" on 5c blue and black.
"Seis Centavos" on 10c orange and blue.

INDIA.—We illustrate the new 1a stamp, with portrait of King George, through the courtesy of W. T. Wilson. This was described sufficiently in No. 1096, with the exception of the color, which is a delicate shade of rose carmine. The stamp is very handsomely printed, and presents a much finer appearance than the 1d stamp of Great Britain, though neither of them have the most satisfactory picture of the King,—for instance, the very good portrait used by Newfoundland in its recently issued Royal Family set. However, the new Indian stamp is vastly more attractive than anything the mother country has yet shown, possibly owing to the greater experience and facilities of the De La Rue concern, which has just renewed its contract with the Indian Government for a term of years.



Adhesive.

1a rose carmine.

Trengganu.—We have received from Mr. Schachne the first cards from this Indian State. The stamps show the Rajah's portrait, numerals of value appear in each lower corner with name of the state between, native inscriptions on the other three sides. There are three headlines at upper center, all in English and there are no "arms".

These seem to be only for local use as no "U. P. U." appears.

Post Cards.

1 cent green on buff, 120x74.
3 cents red on buff, 140x90.

VENEZUELA.—Le Bulletin Philatelique chronicles a set of "Instruccion" for inland postage, in addition to the regular postage stamps noted several weeks since.

Adhesives.

WITH THE BOY PHILATELIST.

Edited by BERTRAM W. H. POOLE, Box 231, Altadena, Calif.

We propose to insert upon this page matter that will be of interest to the boy collector. Some two thousand boys are now on our mailing list and it is our desire to come closely in contact with them in such a manner as will be most helpful. Any information desired will be cheerfully rendered through these columns. Do not submit stamps for examination.

MADAGASCAR.

The British Inland Mail.

Last week I gave a brief history of the "Consular Mail" stamps of Madagascar and I now propose giving a brief account of another series of labels issued in the island under British auspices. The labels in question are the stamps of the British Inland Mail and though these are not listed in Scott's catalogue they are mentioned in most of the leading European catalogues. At the time the stamps appeared and also some years afterwards when the remainders came on the market they were condemned on all sides and placed under the ban of the short-lived Society for the Suppression of Speculative Stamps. There is little doubt that speculation entered largely into their issue but when we separate the grain from the chaff it seems plain that while the post was a speculation on the part of certain private individuals, it had official sanction, and served a useful purpose in maintaining communication between Antananarivo and the coast. The British Inland Mail certainly existed and it would seem that the stamps not only franked missives to the coast but also as far as Durban, Natal, where the letters had to be again franked with the necessary Natal stamps to carry them on to Europe. Though their use was restricted they are hardly locals in the strict sense of the term. Why Scott's ignore them I cannot say but their attitude is inexplicable in the face of the fact that they do list the stamps of the "Consular Mail" stamps, which from the remarks published last week, would appear to have had no postal use at all.

This British Inland Mail was started in January 1895, at a time when, as France and the Malagasy people were at war, communication between the capital and the coast was practically non-existent. In connection with this post a set of seven stamps were issued all of the same design. The stamps were type-set and consisted of a double-lined rectangle inscribed "Postage" at top, "Madagascar" at bottom, value in words at left, and "Kirobo" at right. In the centre is a diamond inscribed "British Inland Mail, 1895", while in the lower spandrels the value is shown in figures. The 4d was printed in black on thick laid paper while the other values, 1d bluegrey, 6d yellow, 8d salmon, 1s fawn, 2s bright rose, and 4s grey, were printed on wove paper. The "plate" for each value consisted of six stamps and four impressions were taken from this plate to form a sheet. The two lower impressions were printed upside down on the sheets. An error of the 4d is known with the word "FOUR" spelled "Fuor". Unused and genuinely used copies of these stamps are rare though cancelled-to-order (from he remainders) the set can be purchased for less than $2.00.

In March 1895, a set of more pretentious design was issued. The values and colors were:—2d blue, 4d rose, 6d green, 1s slate-blue, 2s chocolate and 4s bright purple. These stamps were manufactured in London, being printed by lithography and perforated 12. The central design shows two Malagasy runners, one having two boxes attached to his shoulder for carrying the mails and the other armed with a spear as a protection against wild animals. On each of the boxes the words "British Mail" appear in microscopic capitals. Above the picture the inscription "British Inland Mail, Madagascar" is shown in white letters on a solid ground. Underneath the central vignette is a native word to denote the value while in the upper angles the value is shown in British currency.

The 2d and 4d values were printed in sheets of 36 arranged in six rows of six, while the other values were in sheets of 18 in three horizontal rows of six stamps each.

The lithographic stones for the 2d and 4d values were made up of transfers of strips of six and though each stamp in the strip differs from the others the differences are so minute that it is only possible to detect them in a few cases.

The other values appear to have been transferred in strips of three. In the 1s this can be proved by the presence of a small dot after the shilling sign in the upper right hand corner on the third and sixth stamps of each row of six. In the 2s, the third and fifth stamps in each row of six show a tiny dot in the right lower corner of the tablet containing the word "LOSO" so this value is also proved to have been transferred in strips of three and though I have been unable to detect any peculiarities on the 6d and 4s, it is highly probable these were also transferred in strips of three.

The margins of the sheets are plain except for the presence of colored dots at each end of the second row in the small sheets and the third row in the large sheets. The perforation was the work of a single line machine and the perforations extend across the margins on all four sides.

The paper is white wove and unwatermarked.

These stamps were in use but a few months for in September the French entered the capital, Antananarivo, took possession of the island as a French colony and the British Inland Mail was promptly suppressed. The remainders of this issue were sold in London in 1903 and as they were sold at much below face value the whole set may still be obtained for about $2.00.

SIERRA LEONE.—20TH CENTURY.

By D. B. Armstrong.

The Twentieth Century postal issues of Sierra Leone call for little remark, and are about the least troublesome of all the British Colonial stamps of this period. They are printed from the De La Rue Colonial "Postage and Revenue" key-plate, and, save for the changes in watermark and paper, there is no variation. A supply of King's Head stamps of all values was received in the colony in December, 1902, but was not immediately placed on sale, as there were still large stocks of Queen's Head stamps on hand. In the meantime, the Colonial Postmaster endeavoured to work off part of this stock by issuing a circular letter to the stamp trade announcing the issue of the new stamps, and appending a list of Queen's Head stamps remaining on hand. This effort does not seem to have met with a great deal of success, and it was not until May 18th, 1903, that the pioneer value of the King's Head series made its appearance, and it was September 29th before the remaining twelve stamps followed suit.

May 18th and September 29th, 1903.

A single value only of this type, the 1d, was issued upon unsurfaced paper, with the Multiple Crown CA watermark, being placed on sale nearly a year previous to the issue of the remaining denominations of the multiple series, which were all printed on the newly introduced chalk-surfaced paper. This stamp is consequently rather scarce, and has made considerable advances in value during the past few years.

August 6th, 1904.

Design, etc., as before. Wmk. Multiple Crown CA. Unsurfaced paper. Perf. 14.

1d purple and rosine.

This was the first Crown colony to have its stamps printed on chalk-surfaced paper, and the 1905 issue of Sierra Leone was the pioneer series of British Colonial stamps printed on this paper. They were despatched from London in June of that year, and issued in the colony at various dates during August and September. Pending the receipt of these stamps in the summer of 1905, several values of the King's Head series were sold right out, and for a short time the same denominations of the Queen's Head type were reissued, previous to the destruction of the entire remaining stock, of which the colonial authorities had been unable to make a satisfactory disposition.

Shades.

A new printing of the 1d value issued in November, 1906, was an entirely new shade.

1d dark lilac and rose, instead of purple and rosine.

Later printings of several of the low values have had the body of the stamps printed in a shade of pale lilac, quite distinct from the purple first employed.

2d " " " and orange-brown.

4d " " " and rosine.
5d " " " and black.

During the course of 1907, in accordance with the provisions of the Rome Convention of the Universal Postal Union, three of the low-value stamps were issued printed entirely in the colours prescribed by that body.

WRITE FOR CATALOGUE

179 Broadway, New York City

AN AVIATION STAMP PROBABLE.

POSTMASTER GENERAL STATES THAT HE IS IN SYMPATHY WITH THE PROJECT.

(We are indebted to Arthur W. Line for the following clipping from the Los Angeles Herald of Dec. 27. It will readily be noted that Postmaster General Hitchcock is on record as favoring an aeroplane stamp and from his letter to Mr. Ferris he plainly indicates that a special stamp of this kind is one of the possibilities of the near future. No doubt we can stand this novelty, providing every little aviation meet throughout the length and breadth of the land does not require an individual issue.—ED.)

Postmaster General Frank H. Hitchcock has personally expressed his regret to Dick Ferris, director general of the Los Angeles aviation meet at Dominguez next month, that he cannot issue the first especially designed aerial postage stamp in honor of the third international flying exhibition of Southern California. His appreciation of Ferris' work and of Los Angeles as a point for progress in flying is shown in his assurance that the stamp would be designed and issued if time permitted.

This information was contained in the following letter received this morning at aviation headquarters:

"My dear Mr. Ferris: I have received your telegram of the 10th instant requesting the preparation by this department of a specially designed aeroplane postage stamp for the commemoration of the third international aviation meet to be held at Los Angeles, Cal., from the 20th to the 28th of January next, and in reply regret to have to inform you that it is not possible, on account of the shortness of the time, to prepare and issue such stamps.

SIX WEEKS TO MAKE THEM.

It takes at least six weeks to prepare designs, make plates and print and issue a new lot of postage stamps, which fact you will readily see renders me unable to comply with your request, although I should like very much to do so, as I am interested in the development of aviation as a possible facility for the transportation of the mails.

Regretting my inability to give a more satisfactory answer, I have the honor to remain yours very truly,

FRANK H. HITCHCOCK,
Postmaster General."

Ferris had already received the same news in substance in a telegram from United States Senator Perkins, who, with Senator Works and Congressman Stephens, had been supporting the interests of Los Angeles in getting into history with the first postage stamp to commemorate air delivery. In reply he wired urging that the ordinary special delivery stamp be surcharged "Aeroplane Delivery" and sent to Postmaster Harrison for sale at Dominguez. This suggestion is now officially before the post-office department at Washington.

WANTS STAMPS ANYWAY.

It was followed by a letter from Director General Ferris to Postmaster General Hitchcock urging that, regardless of the Los Angeles meet, a special stamp commemorating aerial delivery of mail be issued as early as possible in 1912, as it will be utilized at the big aviation meets which come later in the year than at Los Angeles. In any event, therefore, Dick Ferris will get the credit for outlining the idea and securing the co-operation of the post-office department.

He said today that the plan had been ready to present to the department at Washington several months ago, but that it could not be presented officially until the organization for the 1912 meet had been perfected. On the same day that the California Aviation society entered into a contract with the American Aeroplane company to conduct the meet Ferris sent telegrams to Postmaster General Hitchcock, Senators Perkins and Works and Congressman Stephens.

KING EDWARD VII ENVELOPE, WRAPPER, AND POST-CARD STAMPS OF GREAT BRITAIN.

By Lionel W. Crouch.

(Reprints of this article will be made uniform with the series advertised from time to time. These reprints fit into the blank album wherever needed and are supplied at 5c each. We furnish a neat binder for 30c which covers actual cost only.—Ed.)

Introduction.

By way of a sequel to the hand-book just published by our Editor, on the King Edward VII stamps of Great Britain, and which describes only the ordinary adhesive stamps issued during the late reign, we propose to present to our readers a history of the stamps embossed or impressed upon postal stationery during the same period, and hope to make it as exhaustive as possible. We wish to create no misapprehensions at the outset, and therefore will indicate as clearly as possible the scope of this article.

As we rather expect that our manner of dealing with the stamps in question may be liable to criticism by some philatelists, we feel that we must attempt to present a few arguments in our own defence. We allude, of course, to the time-honoured controversy of "Entire" versus "Cut-square." We propose to discuss these stamps from the "Cut square" point of view, only recognising varieties of die or colour, and entirely disregarding the shape, size, texture or colour of the paper or card upon which such dies are impressed. Our chief reason is that "the stamp's the thing," and that the size or colour of the paper upon which it appears is of no more importance to the stamp collector (as opposed to the stationery collector) than is the size or colour of the envelope or other cover upon which we place our adhesive stamps. Although we do not agree with Mr. H. L'Estrange Ewen in many of his contentions on philatelic subjects, we are unreservedly with him when he says in his "Catalogue of the Unadhesive Postage Stamps of the United Kingdom, 1840-1905," "that the paper or other material on which an unadhesive stamp is impressed does not form part of the stamp," although we admit that "it is an impossibility to collect the impressions without any paper at all." The collector of entires will argue, with a certain amount of reason, that the envelopes, post-cards, and wrappers sold at the post-offices are every bit as official as the stamps impressed thereon. True, but, although very interesting in themselves, it is the stamp, and the stamp alone, which concerns us. We think that our contention that stamps cut from stationery do not lose their interest or value has been greatly supported by the recent action of the authorities in permitting the use of "cut-squares" for prepaying postage.

Having made our apology, we will now indicate the method of our procedure. We propose to divide our subject under the following heads:—

- A. Envelope Stamps.
- B. Registration Envelope Stamps.
- C. Wrapper Stamps.
- D. Post-card Stamps.

We must express our indebtedness to the following publications and articles:—

The Priced Catalogue of the Unadhesive Stamps of the United Kingdom (1st edition, Sept., 1905), by Mr. H. L'Estrange Ewen.

Notes on the Postal Issues of the United Kingdom during the Present Reign (London Philatelist, Vol. XIII, p. 55) by His Gracious Majesty King George V (then Prince of Wales).

The Stamps and Entires of Great Britain issued during the Reign of King Edward (Philatelic Record, Vol. XXXII., p. 205) by Mr. L. W. Fulcher.

Ewen's Weekly Stamp News, various numbers.

With regard to official information, documents, etc., relating to these stamps are few and far between, consisting of short references in the Reports of the Postmasters-General and an occasional official notice.

"Cut-Squares" as Adhesives.

As we mentioned above in the introduction, the late reign saw an important and long-desired reform introduced, permission being given by Act of Parliament for stamps cut from stationery to be affixed to postal covers in prepayment of postage, a use expressly forbidden by section 19 of the Post Office Act, 1870. It should, however, be pointed out that registration envelope stamps may only be used on registered objects, and not for prepayment of postage.

This innovation was brought about by section 2 of the Post Office Act, 1904 (4 Edw. 7. cap. 14), intituled, "An Act to amend the Post Office Acts with respect to cumulative commissions on Money Orders and the use of embossed and impressed stamps," which provided as follows:—

> "2. The Treasury may by warrant under the Post Office Acts, 1837 to 1903, regulate the use, by way of prepayment of postage, of embossed or impressed stamps cut out or otherwise separated from the cover or other paper, card, or thing on which the stamp was embossed or impressed, and section nineteen of the Post Office Act, 1870, which prohibits such use of such stamps, shall be repealed."

The London Gazette for December 9th, 1904, contained the following announcement:—

> "In pursuance of the Rules Publication Act, 1893, the Postmaster-General gives notice that a warrant, dated December 7th, 1904, has been made, on his representation, by the Commissioners of the Treasury, under which, on and after January 1st, 1905, embossed or impressed stamps, cut out of or otherwise detached from an envelope, cover, post-card, or other postal form, may be used in payment of postage."

In order to complete the documents relating to this subject, we quote the following paragraph from the FIFTY-FIRST REPORT OF THE POSTMASTER-GENERAL ON THE POST OFFICE, dated the 28th July, 1905:—

> "USE OF CUT-OUT STAMPS.—The Post Office Act of last session enabled me to withdraw the prohibition of the use of cut-out stamps in payment of postage as from the 31st December; and embossed or impressed postage stamps cut out of envelopes, post-cards, letter-cards, wrappers, or telegram forms may now be used as adhesive stamps for the purpose of prepaying postage."

A. Envelope Stamps.

Issue of 1902-3.—The death of Queen Victoria on the 22nd January, 1901, necessitated a new issue of envelope stamps in addition to new adhesive stamps. The new dies bearing the bust of King Edward VII were brought into use gradually as they were required. The values remained as under the previous reign, viz.:— ½d, 1d, 1½d, 2d, 2½d, 3d, 4d, 6d, 10d, and 1s, and the designs were very similar. The ½d envelope stamp was the first to be issued, being quickly followed by the 1d, both in January, 1902. The 6d appeared in February, and the 1½d in September. The other values did not see the light of day till the following year. No official notification of any kind seems to have appeared announcing the new stamps.

As had been the practice since 1855, the public were permitted to send stationery to Somerset House to be impressed with whatever amount of duty they required; in this way various compounds of the several values are to be met with, but do not appear to us to be possessed of any greater interest than, say, a 1d and a 1½d adhesive stamp affixed to an envelope to prepay postage at the 2½d rate. Most of the values were exclusively used for this purpose, only the ½d and 1d being on sale at the post offices, though for some time the Victorian 2½d continued on sale. Telegram forms stamped with the 6d stamp were to be purchased at post offices in not less a quantity than twenty, but these were all stamped at Somerset House. The ½d and 1d envelope stamps, which were on sale to the public at the post offices were, however, printed by Messrs. Thomas De La Rue & Co., of Bunhill Row, London, E. C., who held the contract down to December 31st, 1910. These can be distinguished from those impressed at Somerset House, as will hereafter appear.

The easiest way to deal with this issue seems to be to consider each value separately, as the design is different in each case, and the different points frequently arise.

The One Halfpenny.—As stated above, the ½d envelope stamp was the first value issued to the public, appearing on January 7th, 1902. The design shews a colourless bust to left of His Majesty, surmounted by a crown, from the base of which issues a branch of laurel at the left and a branch of oak at the right; in a curve below the bust are the words POSTAGE HALF PENNY; the whole is surrounded by a single-lined oval measur-

During the currency of this issue no less than sixty-six dies were made and registered, numbering from 1 to 66. Dies 1 to 6 and 31 to 42 were used by Messrs. De La Rue & Co., for stamping stationery for sale at the post-offices, and bear the letters B.R. on the base of the bust; these letters are the initials of Bunhill Row, the site of Messrs. De La Rue's works. These dies are then indistinguishable inter se. The other dies bore the die numbers on the base of the bust in the place of the letters B. R.; they were exclusively for use at Somerset House for stamping stationery sent in by the public. Dies 7 to 30 and 43 to 55 inclusive are known to have been used at Somerset House for this issue, the characteristic of which is the colour, dark green.

Dies 1 and 2 (both B.R.), December 2nd, 1901.
" 3 to 6 (all B.R.), December 12th, 1901.
" 7 to 18 (all numbered), Dec. 31st, 1901.
" 19 to 30 (all numbered), April 25, 1902.
" 31 to 42 (all B.R.), September 16th, 1902.
" 43 and 44 (both numbered), Oct. 28, 1902.
" 45 to 54 (all numbered), Feb. 19th, 1903.
" 55 to 66 (all numbered), Jan. 12th, 1904.

Die 3, which was one of those lettered B. R., had been registered as early as November 23rd, 1901, but this registration was of the size of envelope rather than of the die.

We have not thought it necessary or advisable to give a list of the die-numbers with the earliest known date of each, as it would make dull reading, besides becoming inaccurate in a short time owing to further discoveries of early dates.

The first delivery of ½d post-office envelopes by Messrs. De La Rue & Co. was made on December 20th, 1901.

The One Penny.—The 1d envelope stamp was the second value to appear, being first issued at the post offices on January 21st, 1902. The design shews a profile bust to the left of King Edward VII upon a solid oval, surrounded by an oval of dots broken at the top by a cross; round this centre oval is an oval band of network, superimposed on which at the top appears the crown with branches of oak and laurel, as in the ½d; the bottom part of the oval band is inscribed in colour POSTAGE ONE PENNY; the whole design measured 28 mm. in height and 24½ mm. in width. This stamp was embossed in a deep red colour, varying considerably in the Somerset House impressions which sometimes appear in a pale rose-carmine.

Eighty-eight dies were made and registered for this stamp, of which dies 1 to 6 and 31 to 42 inclusive bore the letters B.R. on the base of the bust; being used by Messrs. De La Rue for printing stationery for sale at post offices; the other dies, viz.:—7 to 30 and 43 to 88, bore numbers in place of the letters, and were intended for use at Somerset House for impressing private stationery. The dies lettered B.R. are, of course, indistinguishable inter se. Up to the time of writing, impressions from dies 7 to 30, 43 to 79, 81 and 82 are known.

Die 1 (B.R.), December 23rd, 1901.
Dies 2 to 4 (all B.R.), December 18th, 1901.
" 5 and 6 (both B.R.), Dec. 23rd, 1901.
" 7 to 12 (all numbered), Dec. 31st, 1901.
" 13 to 18 (all numbered), Jan. 15th, 1902.
" 19 to 30 (all numbered), April 25th, 1902.
" 31 to 42 (all B.R.), July 8th, 1902.
" 43 and 44 (both numbered), Oct. 28, 1902.
" 45 to 54 (all numbered), March 3rd, 1903.
" 55 to 66 (all numbered), Sept. 25th, 1903.
" 67 to 78 (all numbered), June 20th, 1905.
" 79 to 88 (all numbered), Mar. 16th, 1909.

Die 5 (one of the B.R. dies) had been registered on November 23rd, 1901, but, as in the case of the ½d die 3, this registration was apparently of the envelope rather than of the die.

The first delivery of the 1d post office envelopes was made by Messrs. De La Rue & Co. on December 31st, 1901.

The Three Halfpence.—This value appeared about the middle of September, 1902. The design, which is very similar to that superseded, shews the King's head to left on a solid shield with an inner line of dots; this shield is surrounded by a shield-shape network border, upon which at top appears a solid tablet shewing a crown in white with a small five-pointed star on each side; in the top angles of the shield-shaped border are plugs shewing arrowheads pointing inwards; the bottom part of the border contains a solid tablet inscribed POSTAGE THREE HALFPENCE in white. This stamp was struck in orange-yellow, varying from pale to deep.

Three dies were prepared and registered, but only one, die 1, was utilised for this issue. These dies all bore the numbers on the base of the bust and were intended for use only at Somerset House for impressing private stationery. The three dies, 1 to 3, were registered on July 8th, 1902, but according to His Majesty's article published in the London Philatelist for March, 1904, the date of the first registration of the die of this value was April 8th, 1902; possibly this was the date of the registration of die-proofs in black, as in the case of other denominations.

The Two Pence.—The 2d value did not appear until some time in February, 1903. The design shews the usual profile of King Edward VII to left on a solid shield surmounted by a crown superimposed upon an oval network border; the lower part of this border contains, in solid lettering, the words POSTAGE TWO PENCE. The design measures 27 mm. in height and 24 mm. in width. The colour in which this value was struck was lake, varying slightly in shade.

Three dies, Nos. 1 to 3, were prepared, but only dies 1 and 2 were brought into use. This value was exclusively printed on private stationery at Somerset House, and accordingly the dies were numbered on the base of the bust. All three were registered on January 12th, 1903. Die 2 was brought into use in December, 1903.

In the article by His Majesty King George, already alluded to, November 27th, 1902, is given as the date of registration. Mr. L. W. Fulcher has kindly informed us that this was the date of registration of a die-proof in black, while impressions of the working dies in colour were registered on January 12th, 1903, as above stated.

The Two Pence Halfpenny.—February, 1903, witnessed the advent of the King Edward VII 2½d envelope stamp. The design shews the usual portrait to left on a solid upright pointed oval with an inner line of dots, surmounted by a crown; this was surrounded by a pointed oval network border with outer scallops; at the left of the design are the words TWO PENCE, and at the right HALF PENNY in solid lettering; a small solid tablet at bottom placed on the network border is inscribed POSTAGE. The design measures 29 mm. in height by 24 mm. in width. This value was struck in ultramarine.

The 2½d denomination had, since 1892, been one of those which were on sale at the post offices, but of late years its use has been small, owing to the reduction of the letter-rate to the Colonies and certain foreign countries from 2½d to 1d. Although, as we shall see, special dies were prepared for impressing on stationery intended for sale to the public, the issue of this value at post offices was discontinued from January 1st, 1904, until which date the 2½d envelopes of Queen Victoria had been on sale. The following official notice, dated early in December, 1903, was published:—

> "It has been decided to discontinue the issue of the 2½d embossed envelopes (L. & M.), and their sale to the public will cease at the end of the present month."

Five dies were prepared for this value, of which dies 1 and 2 bore the letters "B.R." on the base of the bust and were intended for use by Messrs. De La Rue & Co. on stationery for sale at post offices, but were never utilized. Dies 3, 4 and 5 bore numbers instead of letters, and were intended for use at Somerset House. Only die 3 was brought into use. All the five dies were registered on February 18th, 1902, but registration of probably a die-proof in black took place on December 21st, 1901.

The Three Pence.—The first 3d die was brought into use in February, 1903. The design shews the usual portrait on solid ground within a trilobe-shaped network border: below the head a bunch of laurel and one of oak appear, tied together by a ribbon. At the top of the stamp is a crown, and the lower part of the border is inscribed in solid capitals, POSTAGE THREE PENCE.

Three dies were prepared, and all bore the number of the die on the base of the bust, being only for use at Somerset House for private stationery. A die-proof in black was registered on November 4th, 1902. All three dies were first registered on December 9th, 1902, in a lilac-rose colour, similar to the last Victorian 3d envelope stamp, but for some reason this colour was abandoned, and the three dies were re-registered on December 15th, 1902, in brown. Dies 1 and 2 have been brought into use, the latter appearing late in December, 1903.

The Four Pence.—About the same time as the 2d, 2½d, and 3d, the King Edward VII 4d envelope stamp appeared. The design shews the usual profile to left; at the top is a crown with a short piece of network on either side. The portrait is nearly surrounded by two branches of laurel, and below appear in a curve the words, POSTAGE FOUR PENCE. The whole is surrounded by a circle of dots and an outer double circle consisting of a thin-lined circle within a thick-lined one, the diameter of which measures about 26 mm. The colour employed was a bright orange-vermilion.

Again, in the case of this value, three dies were prepared, and all bear the die number on the base of the bust, being only intended for use at Somerset House. Only die 1 has been brought into use. All three dies were registered on January 12th, 1903; a die-proof in black was registered on December 4th, 1902.

The Six Pence.—As there was a considerable demand for this value for use on telegram forms, it was one of the earliest of the Edwardian series to be brought into use, appearing towards the latter part of February, 1902. The design shews the usual bust of His Majesty surrounded by an ornate octagonal network border; at top is shewn the crown, on either side of which small solid tablets are inscribed POSTAGE; at the bottom is a solid tablet containing the rose, shamrock and thistle, on either side of which, at left, there is the word SIX, and at right, PENCE, in coloured capitals; the design measures 27 mm. in height and 24 mm. in width. It was struck in varying shades of violet.

Owing to the large employment of this value in stamping telegram forms, no less than eighteen dies were prepared; their use on envelopes and other postal stationery was small. All these dies were numbered on the base of the bust and were exclusively used at Somerset House, although books of twenty telegram forms stamped with these dies were on sale at the price of 10sh 2d per book at post offices through-

EDITORIAL.

In The Newspapers—Some weeks the newspaper press carries a generous leaven of philatelic items and occasionally one can find philatelic inspiration enough in the news columns of the week to fortify a column or two in a stamp paper. Slowly, stamps are attaining a firmer footing on the threshold of the large world of general affairs. It is apparent that the excellent news-gathering organization known as the Associated Press has shown more consideration for stamp news recently than ever before and while it is not supposed that any actual instructions have emanated from headquarters to recognize stamps in particular, yet any policy of expansion in this regard is beneficial to philately. As the news of stamps seeps into the public mind, the seeds of philatelic interest will germinate in the thoughts of those who are receptive at all to the philatelic idea. The law of average must apply and out of every unit of so many outsiders to whom the subject of stamp collecting is brought, a percentage of collectors will be found.

French on Canada's Stamps—A press despatch from Ottawa says that inasmuch as under the Canadian constitution, French as well as English is the official language, a movement is largely supported to have the postage stamps of Canada printed in both English and French, instead of English only as has been the custom. At different times in the past, the French in Canada have expressed their opinion that French should have its place on the stamps but no sustained or concerted agitation was instituted to attain this end, it seems. Now, however, during the present era of good-feeling between the English and French in Canada, there should be a strong likelihood that the wish of the French people will be respected. The maple leaf issue of Canada, 1897, was retired and succeeded by the numeral issue because there was no denomination expressed in number on the stamps.

We beg to announce that we will sell at auction on January 29th, 30th and 31st, 1912

A Stamp "Collector"—A Denver telegram says that a former postal clerk there removed "stamps from old envelopes which lead him to substitute old stamps on letters and packages passing through the mails for those uncanceled." The cause of the culprit's downfall is alleged to have been a fondness for collecting stamps "acquired in early youth." The offender was fined twenty-five dollars on two counts and was forced to make restitution to the government to the amount of one hundred dollars to cover his peculations. Those who collected stamps in the seventies, for instance, have lively recollections of the disappointments following the receipt of foreign letters, eagerly anticipated, which had been denuded of their stamps. For a time, foreign stamps were boldly appropriated by stamp collectors in the postal service but when complaints against the practice began to multiply, one stamp perhaps of several was taken and in other cases, ordinary United States stamps were used to replace the foreign stamps that had been abstracted. As the years advanced and disciplinary measures were enforced by the government to correct the abuse the thefts by philatelic postal clerks diminished in frequency. Latterly only rarely are the foreign stamps intentionally removed from one's mail.

Heavy Postage—A number of correspondents have sent us a clipping from the Portland Oregonian telling of a mail parcel that required postage to the amount of $40.82 that was despatched from Seattle, Washington, to Melbourne, Victoria. The bundle was "encased in a wooden frame five feet long by five feet wide and several inches thick. . . . Forty stamps each of the one dollar denomination and several minor stamps, representing a cost of $40.82 were required to pay postage on the package going as first-class mail. The total weight is 82 pounds." It is believed that a large painting was the contents of the crate. At the postal union rate of fifty cents a pound for foreign first-class matter, to which no limit of weight applies, the cost on 82 pounds would be $41, and allowing for registration, the package weighed 82 pounds approximately, according to the postage. The superintendent of mails of the Seattle office is right doubtlessly, in saying that it "probably was the largest single piece of mail ever handled" at his office. Some years ago, packages of bonds and securities sent from Chicago and New York to the financial centers of England and from there to this country required heavy postage and added five dollar denominations in blocks for instance and pound values of English stamps to the collecting supply. At the rate of five cents a half-ounce, postage mounted up rapidly but registered mail of the kind received favorable consideration from the insurance companies.

Old Plate-Numbers—Mr. Lloyd A. Wilsey, Winona, Minn., writes: "I have in my collection a certain plate of the 1-cent blue, 1895, number 455. At the same time in my collection, the plates of the 1-cent green of 1898 run back as far as 439. Was the old ink used on the new plates when the new color was ordered? At the same time, I have the 10-cent, plate numbers 303 and 305 in two different shades, Scott No. 273 and 283a, the first green and the second brown. Is this case one similar to the first? Can you recommend any publication taking up these minor points of history with respect to these plates, the bureau issues?" Referring to the fourth edition, January, 1899, of Bartel's reference list of plate-numbers, we find the plates in the colors and numbered as our correspondent says. The first 1-cent green plate was 439 but there is plate 439 as well of the 1-cent blue. A half-dozen or so of the plates of this period were used in printing both the 1-cent blue and the 1-cent green on different runs; and the same circumstances apply to the 10-cent in green and in brown, respectively. Other than the Bartels and the J. W. Scott plate-number catalogues we know of nothing in the nature of publications that would be helpful but the stamp papers of that time gave much attention to plate-numbers and printed many items that could be pieced together to afford consecutive reading.

U. S. Cancellations—The interest in cancellations on early United States stamps is growing steadily and there are indications that a few collectors are giving freely of their time and money to this subject which embodies so many fascinations. Inquiries come asking of the significance of a wide variety of markings and it becomes a conviction that there is much to be studied about them before definite information can be recorded. In this connection, a reader is informed that domestic letters still are marked "steamboat" according to governmental regulations when conveyed by boat of the kind; and in former days, the stamp itself was sometimes canceled by die with the word, sometimes abbreviated to "steam."

NEW REVOLUTION IN ECUADOR.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6th.—Dispatches have been received at the State Department from Ecuador, indicating that another revolutionary movement has been inaugurated in that country and that the troops at Guayaquil have proclaimed General Montero supreme chief of that Republic.

The troops participating in the movement have conferred this title upon the General provisionally, pending the arrival of Flavio Alfaro, a nephew of the late President, Elroy Alfaro, who, according to the present plans of the military, will be made President of Ecuador. Flavio Alfaro was reported to have left Panama a few days ago for Ecuador.

DEATH OF WM. J. GARDNER.

H. W. Doscher & Co. informs us of the death of Wm. J. Gardner of San Francisco, the sad event occurring Sunday, December 24.

Mr. Gardner was very well known in philatelic circles, having been a collector for many years. His membership in the American Philatelic Society dates back to its earliest days. He at one time possessed a very fine collection of British North American stamps which he disposed of to Henry J. Crocker. Lately he has been specializing in China, Japan and Hong Kong.

Mr. Gardner leaves a widow and a wide circle of acquaintances to mourn his loss.

SPRINGFIELD EXHIBIT IN BOSTON.

The members of the Boston Philatelic Society are to have a rare treat on Tuesday evening, January 16, when a representative of the Springfield Stamp Club will visit the Boston society and exhibit the "sidelines" for which the members of the Springfield Club are so well known.

It is anticipated that there will be a large attendance to enjoy what will no doubt be a superb philatelic treat.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—Automatic machines for selling postage stamps are now extensively used in German postoffices, and have effected a considerable saving in the postal administration, although convenience to the public was the prime motive for their introduction. Nearly 50,000,000 stamps were supplied by the machines during the past year, their value aggregating about $750,000.—Clipping from F. C. DePuy.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from Hugo Kuenstter (7), Jno. F. Hinson, J. H. Foster, Arthur W. Line, F. C. DePuy (3), W. C. Bartlett, Ben Delovage, Herman W. Boers (2) and R. E. Jessop (2).

—Chas. H. Jumper of Detroit, Mich., was a recent caller at the Weekly office.

—"Borely is a nuisance. No matter when you meet him he wants to talk about his stamp collection."

"Don't blame him for that, my boy. As a rule stamps are things which are naturally on the tip of everyone's tongue."—Baltimore American.

—The latest country to try an aerial postage service is Italy. The Italian aeronaut Dal Mistro recently carried a sack of mail between the Bologna and Venice postoffices in a Deperdussin monoplane, covering the distance of 101 miles in 1 hour and 28 minutes.—Clipping from F. C. DePuy.

—Bert J. Turner of the Hobbyist, submitting specimens of the new Canada stamps, writes:—"The 1 and 2 cent values only on sale so far. They were issued with the new year, and will remain in use one month and permanently after old series used up in various offices. Other values to be issued are of same denominations and colors as the Edward set."

TYPES OF THE 2c COLUMBIAN.

Singularly enough we have received two communications dealing with four types of the 2c Columbian. We are indebted to G. A. Hunt for a detailed description, also for the sketch illustrating three of the four types. Mr. Hunt's article follows:—

"The circular of a New York house calls to collectors' attention three types of the 2c U. S. Columbian 1893 issue. Few collectors know of these three but as a matter of fact there are four types, and a number of years ago they were called to my attention. I will endeavor to describe all four types for the benefit of Weekly readers and in the order of their scarcity.

Type I.—Normal.—The lower right hand vertical corner line is complete and connects with all the lower horizontal lines running from the title or inscription at bottom of stamp.

Type II.—The lower right hand vertical corner line is broken at the 10th horizontal shade line, the lower ten horizontal shade lines being devoid of an outer line.

Type III.—The lower right hand vertical corner line is twice broken, first at the 12th horizontal line. The 13th, 14th and 15th horizontal lines are devoid of an outer line, the 16th and 17th lines have the outer line continued, the 18, 19 and 20th horizontal lines are then without the outer line, (see cut).

Type IV.—Type 4, by far the rarest type, has a cap over the numeral "2" similar to the 2c 1890 capped 2, with which every collector is familiar.

While all these types are interesting minor varieties and not as yet catalogued it would be a wise thing to have a set of the four types as an interesting side line. Remember it took nearly sixty years for the cataloguers to recognize the two types of the 10c 1855 issue."

Our other correspondent, Robert F. Chambers, of Providence, R. I., sends in the following information in relation to the comparative scarcity of the varieties:

"I thought it might interest the readers of the Weekly to know the comparative scarcity of the 2c Columbian variety that was chronicled a month or so ago. I refer to the one with the lower right hand corner unfinished. On looking over 374 2c Columbians I found 70 of the unfinished die; 12 of a broken frame and 1 with the 2c capped as in the 1890 issue. This would make the first variety just about four times as rare as the ordinary type while the capped "2" is well worth looking for."

A WORD FROM OUR DAILY MAIL.

We enclose check for December advertising. Results have been very satisfactory. More replies for the money than we ever got out of any other stamp magazine.—Geo. W. Linn Co.

TRENTON, N. J., PHILATELIC EXHIBIT.

The Trenton Philatelic Society extends a cordial invitation to its friends and especially philatelists to view its 4th anniversary exhibit of postage and revenue stamps, Jan. 8 to 13, at the Art Gallery of the School of Industrial Arts, corner of W. State and Willow Streets. The gallery will be open from 2 to 5 and 7.30 to 9.30 p. m.

We note from the catalog no less than fifty-eight frame numbers, the exhibits covering a very wide range of philatelic subjects. Mr. Ackermann's collection of Canal Zone, which secured the silver medal at the Vienna Exposition last year, is accorded first place, sixteen frames being devoted to the exhibit. Mr. Sterling will show his lock seals and tax paids. Fourteen different members of the society are numbered amongst the exhibitors, making a very creditable showing for the society.

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Any information regarding new issues will be gratefully received and acknowledged. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, 17 Addison St., Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed, stamped envelope. We cannot give applicants the addresses of our correspondents. Correspondence regarding precancelled stamps must be sent to FRANK B. ELDREDGE, Attleboro, Mass., when due credit will be given in this department.

UNITED STATES.—Arthur R. Bardsley reports the following plate numbers on the new registration stamps: Bottom plate numbers 5720, 5723, 5726 and 5729, obtained at Atlantic City; top plate numbers 5729, obtained at Pittsburg.

Arthur W. Line inquires why the United States persistently ignores the rule of the Union Postal Union, in the color of its postal cards.

Under the authority of the Postmaster General, many post offices precancelled the values from 1c to 15c for office use during the Christmas rush. Fred G. Ward reports such action at Springfield, Shelburne Falls, and Northampton, Mass. LeRoy Pratt reports similar action at Tacoma, Wash. One sheet of the 2c Lincolns was also precancelled at Tacoma, with the others. Mr. Eldredge reports the following errors on the Tacoma precancels: Two widths between bars one 12 and the other 14 mm. The only inverted was the 1c, the only doubles were the 2c and 3c, there was half of a sheet of the 2c, printed without bars.

Forest A. Black sends a long list of stamps precancelled for the Christmas rush but details are lacking. Mr. Eldredge writes: If correspondents will send the stamps that they wish mentioned, it will make the work of the compiler a great deal easier, and also save some disappointments in not seeing them listed. Always send a stamped envelope with correspondence if it is desired to have the samples returned.

Elmer Tolpelmann shows us a 7c permit of Chicago, No. 301, which has been overlaid with 3c and 4c stamps to prepay postage.

The following new Precancells noted since last issue, have been reported by Thomas C. Keyes, Frank B. Eldredge and Henry McConnell:

BOLIVIA.—M. D. Senior has shown us a used specimen of the 5c on 2c green, chronicled in No. 1087.

CANADA.—In connection with the new King George stamps chronicled in No. 1097, the following official circular, kindly furnished by J. D. Cox, will be of interest:

"Circular to Postmasters.

KING GEORGE V POSTAGE STAMPS.

Postmasters are hereby informed that arrangements for a new issue of postage stamps bearing the portrait of His Majesty King George V have been authorized, and that they will be supplied with the same for sale in the usual way to the public on and after the 1st January, 1912.

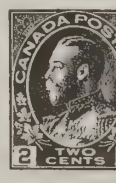
The colours and denominations of the forthcoming series will be the same, respectively, as those of the current series.

Postmasters will please bear in mind that they are not to return to the department any of the present stamps on hand, but will sell them in the ordinary way, and that after the new stamps will have been in course of issue for, say, a month, the issue of the old stamps will be resumed, in order to exhaust the balance of them in the Department, after which the issue of the new stamps will be taken up again and go on without interruption. As it is possible that only the denominations in greatest and general demand (the 1c and the 2c) will be ready for issue on the date above mentioned, requisitions for a short interval may, at first, be filled partly in the new series and partly in the old.

A change in the design of the stamp used in the current postal stationery (post cards, stamped envelopes, &c.,) to correspond with the new series of postage stamps, will be made so soon as the present stock of postal stationery shall have been exhausted.

LOUIS P. PELLETIER,
Postmaster General.
Post Office Department, Canada,
OTTAWA, November, 1911."

Herewith we present an illustration of the new King George set. Without doubt, this set will prove a very popular one.



We are indebted to Frank W. Lynes and Clarence Weher for specimens of the new issue.

We are also indebted to Charles Bailey for specimens of the King George 1c and 2c stamps. They were issued at Toronto, Jan. 1, 1912, and it was expected that the higher values would follow immediately.

Frank M. Mason has also favored us with the new 1c and 2c stamps.

GREAT BRITAIN.—Arthur W. Line has shown us the recently issued "thin white" letter card, but with the portrait of King George. The stamp and coat of arms are the same as those on the King George ½d post card, the only difference being in value and color.

Mr. Line also sends us new perforations on current King Edward stamps 2d, 4d and 9d, perforated 14x14½; 3d perforated 15x14½. Mr. Line says he is disgusted with recent minor varieties of Great Britain, and apparently he is not alone in this opinion.

Letter Card.

Portrait of King George.
1d carmine on white.

W. H. Peckitt has shown us the ½d and 4d King Edward stamps, perforated 15x14.

Offices in the Levant.—W. H. Peckitt has shown us 1½d and 4d, Harrison print, surcharged with new values in Turkish money.

Adhesives.

"1 Piastre" on 2½ ultramarine.
"30 Paras" on 1½d lilac and green.
"1¾ Piastres" on 4d orange.

INDIA.—W. H. Peckitt and W. T. Wilson have shown us the 2a and 3a values in the new King George set. Evidently there is to be no sameness in the set, as each value has a different arrangement of figures of value, the shape of the frame and the ornaments in the corners.

Mr. Wilson has shown us the three values postmarked at Delhi on the day of issue, the 2a and 3a with monogram in circular postmark and the same values with the monogram and straight line postmark made by the electric postmarker.

Adhesives.

2a lilac.
3a orange.

ICELAND.—W. T. Wilson and the New England Stamp Co. have shown us several new values of the John Sigurdsson commemorative set, the 4a value of which was chronicled in No. 1072. The new values are identical in design with the one already chronicled.

Adhesives.

1e yellow green.

KELANTAN.—Mr. Schachne sends another issue from a new locality which looks like those noted last week for Trengganu except the stamp. This has what we suppose are the state arms occupying the center rectangle—numerals of value are on blocks in each lower corner with "Kelantan Postage & Revenue" (in two lines) between. The only native characters on the cards are on the other three sides of the stamp and are identical on both cards though he values are different.

NICARAGUA.—Hermann Focke sends us a very interesting error recently discovered in 5c value of the stamps surcharged on the back of the 2c railroad stamps. The fiscal surcharge, "Timbre Fiscal—Vale 5 ctvs" occurs on both sides of the stamps, in both cases reading down. Mr. Focke has shown us a vertical pair used. This is evidently a great rarity, and of priceless value to a specialist in Nicaragua stamps.

PORTUGUESE INDIA.—Some time since we chronicled the 2r of this colony surcharged "Republica" and perforated diagonally, each half being surcharged with a new value. Whitfield King & Co. have now shown us a similar stamp, the 2r surcharged "Republica" having been separated into two halves by a vertical line of perforations, and each half surcharged "1—Real" in two lines. As the line of perforation runs through the old value, it has not been obliterated.

Provisional Adhesive.
"1 Real" on half of 2r orange.

ST. HELENA.—W. H. Peckitt has shown us the 4d and 6d values, in the reissue on plain paper. The 4d is in new colors.

Adhesive.
4d black and red on yellow.

SALVADOR.—The E. B. Cookson Co. has shown us a cover with the new 5c and 12c officials, noted some time since.

M. D. Senior has shown us the 1c and 13c of the "Palace" type, in the new colors chronicled some time since.

ZAMBEZIA.—Whitfield King & Co. inform us that the stamps of Zambezia have now been issued, with surcharge "Republica." This completes the list of colonies which have received the surcharge.

OUR SOUDAN PREMIUM.

We thought we had a good supply of this premium but we little dreamed of the demand we should create by advertising it in the WEEKLY. No less than fourteen disappeared in one day, last Monday. We shall locate a further supply of this fine Soudan cover and fill all orders as soon as possible.

THE UNITED STAMP COMPANY HERALD.

Volume 1, Number 1 of the United Stamp Company Herald has been received, and is one of the best if not the best of the so-called "house organs". Originally intended to be eight pages, it has been increased to twelve and in this number is begun the reprinting of Coster's "U. S. Locals." Though printed many years ago, this book has achieved a secure reputation in philatelic literature. We bespeak for the Herald a warm welcome and feel sure that it will be well patronized.

out the country. Dies 1 to 13 inclusive have been brought into use up to the time of writing. Dies 1 to 12 were registered on February 18, 1902, and must have been employed before, or directly after, that date, as copies of die 1 are known used on February 23rd, 1902; dies 13 to 18 were registered on December 30th, 1907; die 10 was registered (? in black) as early as December 21st, 1901.

The Ten Pence.—The 10d value was the last of the series to be brought into use, the earliest known date of use being October 2nd, 1903. The design shews the usual profile to left within an octagonal network frame, at the top of which is a crown, and the lower part of which is inscribed POSTAGE TEN PENCE in solid capitals; it measures 26 mm. in height by 23 mm. in width, and was struck in red-brown.

Although this stamp is inscribed POSTAGE, it is not, strictly speaking, a postage stamp at all, as from January 18th, 1902, this value could not be impressed upon postal stationery, being exclusively reserved for stamping foreign and colonial telegram forms. As the above date is prior to that of the issue of the King Edward 10d, the stamp in question has never served a postal purpose. The following official notice on this point was posted up at Somerset House:—

> "18th January, 1902.—From this date the use of 10d Postage Die will be discontinued. By Order."

Three dies all numbered on the base of the bust were prepared and registered on March 16th, 1903, a die-proof in black having been registered on February 2nd, 1903; only die 1 has been brought into use. The stamp is only obtainable on yellow paper, as that is the colour of the paper on which the foreign and colonial telegram forms are printed.

The One Shilling.—The highest value envelope stamp is the 1s, which appeared late in September, 1903. The design, which is the most original of the series, the others being copies of the Victorian designs, shews the usual bust to left in a shield surmounted by a crown; conforming to the lower part of the shield is a semi-circular tablet inscribed POSTAGE ONE SHILLING, from the extremities of which the rose, shamrock and thistle emerge; all this is within a single-lined octagon, the spaces being filled in with slight ornamentation. The stamp measures 26 mm. in height and 23 mm. in width. It was struck in a light shade of yellow-green.

In the case of this denomination also three dies, all numbered on the base of the bust were prepared and registered on March 9th, 1903, a die-proof in black having been registered on January 26th, 1903. Only die 1 has been brought into use, and was only employed at Somerset House for stamping private stationery.

Issue of 1904.—The colour of the ½d adhesive stamp was changed in November, 1904, from dark green to pale green in consequence of the difficulty of distinguishing the ½d and 2½d in artificial light. The colour of the ½d envelope stamp was also similarly changed, no doubt in order to conform to the adhesive of the same value, as there could be no question of confusion with other envelope stamps. The ½d envelope stamp was registered in the new colour on September 13th, 1904, and was issued to the public in December, 1904.

Several of the dies, which were used for the issue in dark green, were also employed for this issue. Of course it is impossible to say which of the "B.R." dies were struck in yellow-green. Another batch of dies (all numbered) was registered after the change of colour, dies 67 to 76 being registered on February 24th, 1909. Dies 45 to 48, 50 to 74, are known to have been brought into use.

Issue of 1907.—From October 1st, 1907, the colour of the 1½d envelope stamp was changed from orange-yellow to purple. This change was apparently announced by an official notice, which we have been unable to trace. The FIFTY-FOURTH REPORT OF THE POSTMASTER-GENERAL ON THE POST OFFICE, dated September 8th, 1908, makes the following reference to this issue, giving the reasons for the alteration:—

> "POSTAGE STAMPS.—The colour of the 1½d embossed postage stamp was changed in October last from yellow to purple, as some difficulty had been experienced in distinguishing the yellow stamps in artificial light."

Die 1 was in use at the date of the change of colour, and continued to be employed. Die 2 was brought into use in June, 1908.

AT THE END OF THE RAINBOW.

By FRED MICHAEL.

Ours is a very pretty rainbow of wondrous colors that attract, fascinate, and at its end waits a pot of gold.

A collection of stamps means the investment of a large sum of money and it is proper and right to consider its financial cost, its prospective returns. 'Tis not wrong midst our pleasures to ask their cost.

But beware lest the colors of your rainbow fade in the glare of the gold. The pot seems very near "but over the hill" and many with brave hearts have started on its quest to find disappointment. Beware! Admire the reds and blues of your stamps, learn their lessons, read their stories. Someday you may find the gold at your feet.

Any information desired will be cheerfully rendered through these columns. Do not submit stamps for examination.

MADAGASCAR.

The French Colonial Issues.

In the two previous issues of the WEEKLY I have described the stamps issued in connection with the two British posts established in the island of Madagascar and to complete the philatelic history of the territory we have now to consider the stamps issued under French authority.

To begin at the beginning it should be stated that though the first European to see the island was a Portuguese—Ferman Soares, who sighted it in 1506—the first settlements were made by the Dutch. These did not last long and the next European nation to attempt to colonise the island was France. A settlement or Colonial station was established on the east coast in 1662 under the protection of Richelieu. Then for nearly two centuries the French made vain but persistent attempts to establish military posts on the east coast and finally they claimed the island as French—a claim to which the Malagasy people hardly agreed. In 1883 active steps were taken to secure control of the island by France. An invading army after some resistance entered the capital and in 1885 Madagascar was proclaimed a French Protectorate.

Evidently no attempt was made at establishing an inland postal service and so far as the ports were concerned the public had the option of using either the French or English mail as the protectorate was not officially recognised by the British Government until 1890. The stamps used at the French offices at this period were evidently those of the general French Colonial series of the "Commerce" type. The first distinctively Malagasy stamps did not appear until 1889—two years after the British Consular Mail had been suppressed. These took the form of provisional 5c and 25c labels. The 10c and 25c stamps of the then current colonial series were overprinted "05" and the 40c was surcharged "25". Why 25c stamps should have been reduced in value only to make a 25c provisional necessary is a mystery. No name appeared on these labels and the overprinted values are the only distinguishing marks by which they can be apportioned to Madagascar. In April, May and June, 1891 several 5c and 15c provisional labels were made in the same way. The 40c was surcharged "05", the 10c and 25c were surcharged "5", and the 25c was also surcharged "15". Evidently towards the end of June, 1891, the stock of the ordinary postage stamps was completely exhausted and on the 29th of that month a set of type-set provisionals were issued. The values and colors were:—

10c	black on blue.
15c	blue on blue.
25c	brown on buff.
1fr	black on yellow.
5fr	lilac and black on lilac.

The design consisted of a rectangular frame of ornaments; in the centre were large numerals, to denote the value, with dotted lines above and below. At the bottom of the central portion was the name "MADAGASCAR," while at the top was the inscription "Postes Francaises." The stamps were imperforate and the printing plate for each value contained ten varieties. Evidently one plate served for all values with the necessary alteration of the numerals in the centre.

The protectorate formed by the French in 1885 was never acknowledged by the Malagasy government and after considerable friction the French sent another armed expedition to the island in 1895. The French troops entered the capital, Antananarivo, in September with the result that the British Inland Mail was suppressed. Queen Ranavalona III was forced to confirm the treaty of 1885 and in 1896 the territory was proclaimed a French Colony. In the following year the Queen was deposed and exiled as her presence on the island was hardly conducive to peace. In 1896, shortly after the island had been formally annexed to France, Madagascar was chosen as the headquarters of an administrative area known as Madagascar and Dependencies. The dependencies consisted of Diego-Suarez, Nosse-Bé, and Sainte Marie, all of which had up to that time issued their own distinctive stamps. These special issues were discontinued in favor of a general set inscribed "Madagascar et Dependances." These stamps were all of the same design, similar to that used in so many other French Colonies, which was known officially as the "Commerce" and Navigation" type. The values and colors were as follows:—

2c	brown on buff.
4c	purple brown on grey.
5c	green on pale green.
10c	black on lilac.
15c	blue.
20c	red on green.
25c	black on rose.
30c	cinnamon on drab.
40c	red on yellow.
50c	carmine on rose.
75c	brown on orange.
1fr	olive green on toned.

The 1 franc comes in two varieties—with either red or blue name at base—both being of equal value. In 1899 a 5 francs stamp was added to the set the color of this being mauve on pale lilac.

In 1900 the 10c, 15c, 25c, and 50c were issued in rose-red, grey, blue, and brown on azure respectively and in 1902 the color of the 5c was changed to pale yellow green, these changes all corresponding to similar changes in the stamps of other colonies.

On June 2nd, 1902, some of the 50c in the old colors, the 5fr and 1fr were utilized in the formation of provisional 5c, 10c, and 15c labels. The surcharge in each case consisted of large numerals with a bar below. In the following month there was a further crop of provisionals viz:—"0,01" on 2c, "0,05" on 30c, "0,10" on 50c, "0,15" on 75c and "0,15" on 1fr. These all exist inverted and in addition there are numerous varieties caused by the misplacement of the comma and differences in the shape of the numerals. At the same time, either by accident or design, the 30c and 50c stamps of Diego-Suarez were overprinted "0,05" and "0,10" respectively.

SHORT REPLIES.

B. F. J. (Elgin, Ill.)—Minor varieties of surcharge caused by broken type, such as those you mention, are of little interest and certainly of no extra value on account of the defects. (2) As the Gibraltar ½d was printed at two operations the color of the words of value frequently differs from that of the rest of the design. (3) Your Cuban stamp is the normal variety. (4) No, benzine is of no assistance in finding watermarks on stamps printed on chalk-surfaced paper.

SET OF OFFICIALS PROPOSED.

Britt Would Use Stamps Instead of Franking Privilege.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—Adequate postage rates are discussed in the annual report of Third Assistant Postmaster-General James J. Britt, made public today. Mr. Britt recommends a flat increase of 1 cent a pound for newspapers and periodicals. He also recommends that postage stamps be issued to United States senators, representatives and executive officials of the government, instead of permitting the use of the congressional frank and penalty envelope, as at present.

The report shows that at the close of the last fiscal year 27,864 newspapers and magazines were admitted to second class mail privileges. It is pointed out that good feeling and co-operation now exist between the department and publishers due to the removal of many burdensome requirements, the effect being to relieve the department of unnecessary work and the publishers of much annoyance.

Postage stamps to the number of 12,775,000,000 were sold last year, the receipts for which amounted to $226,469,000. More than 85,000,000 money orders, aggregating $687,715,644, were issued and paid during the year, at a loss of less than $2,000 through errors. Recommendation is made that authority be given to the postmaster-general to fix fees for the issuance of domestic money orders, no fee to be less than 5 cents or more than 25 cents.

Have advancing ideas of their own—
Unique, but distinctly their own.

BRITT'S ANNUAL REPORT.

MUCH MATTER IN IT OF INTEREST TO COLLECTORS OF UNITED STATES STAMPS.

The postage stamp is now serving its sixty-fifth year of public usefulness in this country, the first issue having been placed on sale July 1, 1847. The total number of stamps issued to the end of that fiscal year was 860,380. A comparison of the first year's issues with those of the fiscal years 1910 and 1911, given below, is of interest, although it should be explained that prepayment of postage did not become compulsory until 1856, so that the demand for postage stamps in the earlier years was not so great as it would otherwise have been.

Details of the issues of 1911 appear in the following table:

Postage stamps, stamp books, coiled stamps, stamped envelopes, newspaper wrappers and postal cards, by denominations issued during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1911.

POSTAL SAVINGS ISSUES.

The act of Congress approved June 25, 1910, establishing postal savings depositories, provides

"Sec. 2. That the Postmaster General is hereby directed to prepare and issue special stamps of the necessary denominations for use, in lieu of penalty or franked envelopes, in the transmittal of free mail resulting from the administration of this act.

"Sec. 6. * * * That in order that smaller amounts may be accumulated for deposit any person may purchase for ten cents from any depository office a postal-savings card to which may be attached specially prepared adhesive stamps, to be known as 'postal savings stamps,' and when the stamps so attached amount to one dollar, or a larger sum in multiples thereof, including the ten-cent postal savings card, the same may be presented as a deposit for opening an account, and additions may be made to any account by means of such card and stamps in amounts of one dollar, or multiples thereof, and when a card and stamps thereto attached are accepted as a deposit the postmaster shall immediately cancel the same. It is hereby made the duty of the Postmaster General to prepare such postal-savngs cards and postal-savings stamps of denominations of ten cents, and to keep them on sale at every postal-savings depository office, and to prescribe all necessary rules and regulations for the issue, sale, and cancellation thereof."

partment has issued postal savings cards and stamps, and official stamps and stamped envelopes, described as follows:

"Postal savings card.—This card was first printed in orange ink on stiff white cardboard of bluish tint, but a blue ink was subsequently used. The size of the card is 5⅝ by 3⅜ inches. At the top in large shaded capital letters appear the words 'U. S. Postal Savings Card,' and in plain gothic capitals the following:

" 'This card with nine 10-cent postal savings stamps affixed will be accepted by the postmaster at any postal savings depository office in the United States as a deposit of one dollar and placed to the credit of the depositor either opening an account or in adding to an existing account.'

"At the left is printed a stamp of 10-cent denomination, the design of which is identical with that of the 10-cent postal savings stamp, showing the words 'U. S. Postal Savings, 10 Cents' in white lettering upon a background of ornamental lathe work; the stamp being a rectangle 27/32 of an inch high by 23/32 of an inch wide. To the right of and below the imprinted stamp are nine spaces, arranged in two horizontal rows, for the affixing of adhesive stamps, the upper row of spaces being numbered from 1 to 4 and the lower row from 5 to 9, inclusive. Surrounding the whole is a frame of lathe work."

The card printed in orange was first placed on sale January 3, 1911; the blue card on August 14, 1911.

"Postal savings stamp.—The stamp is a rectangle on end, of design and size identical with those of the stamp printed upon the postal savings card. The color is blue. The words 'U. S. Postal Savings, 10 Cents' appear in white capital letters upon a background of lathe work."

This stamp was first placed on sale January 3, 1911:

"Postal savings official stamps.—1-cent purple, 2-cent black, 10-cent red, 50-cent green, 1-dollar blue. The stamp is a rectangle on end, of about the same size as an ordinary postage stamp. In the center is an ellipse containing the words 'Official Mail' in white letters, the background within the ellipse being lathe work. Outside of and following the curve of the ellipse are the words 'U. S. Postal Savings' in white letters. In each lower corner is a numeral expressing the denomination, and between these numerals the word 'Cents' (or 'Dollar') appears in white letters. In the corners at the top are small, triangular panels containing relief work.

"Postal savings official stamped envelope.—The embossed stamp is an ellipse on end. The color is red. In the center in plain gothic type appear the words 'Official Mail' in two horizontal lines. In the upper half of the border are the words 'U. S. Postal Savings,' and in the lower 'Two 2 Cents,' the numeral 2 being prominent."

By the Postmaster General's order, No. 5480, of May 8, 1911, this office was charged, beginning May 15, with the duty of issuing postal savings cards and and stamps and official stamps and stamped envelopes for correspondence relating to the postal savings system. These issues in the period from May 15 to June 30, 1911, were as follows:

Postal savings cards:—10-cent, 524,000; value $52,400.

Postal savings stamps:—10-cent, 4,560,000; vaue $456,000.

Postal savings official stamps:—1-cent, 23,000; 2-cent, 395,400; 10-cent, 126,800; 50-cent, 10,000; 1-dollar, 10,000; total value $35,818.

Postal savings official stamped envelopes:—2-cent, 591,000; value $11,820. Of these 99,000 were of the No. 7 size and 492,000 were No. 8.

New Postage-stamp Agreement.

The agreement with the Secretary of the Treasury for the production of adhesive postage stamps, which expired January 31, 1911, was renewed for the four-year period beginning February 1, 1911, at prices which will effect a saving estimated at more than $100,000 for the term of the agreement. This economy was made possible by the introduction of improved machinery and methods at the Bureau of Engraving and Printing.

Improvement of Postage Stamps.

The postage stamps of current issue, while possessing high artistic merit, have given considerable trouble to the public and to the postal service on account of the similarity of designs of the different denominations. All of the 11 stamps are of identical design, except that the 1-cent denomination bears the head of Franklin, while the others bear the portrait of Washington. There are not a sufficient number of distinctive colors for all the stamps, making it necessary above the 6-cent to use different shades of the same colors given the lower denominations. Thus the 1-cent and 8-cent are different shades of green; the 3-cent and 50-cent are different shades of purple; the 5-cent and 15-cent are different shades of blue. In the rapid handling of mail matter one denomination is very apt to be mistaken for another, particularly under artificial light. The first six stamps are of sufficiently contrasting colors, and to give more marked contrast to the remaining five, steps have been taken to print them with a different border design. This new border is simple, but artistic, and of a character which is economical as to wear of printing plates. Further, the first six stamps will bear the head of Washington, while the remaining five will bear the head of Franklin. The 1-cent and 2-cent stamps will also be altered to express the denomination in numerals instead of in words, thus conforming to the other stamps of the series. With these changes the stamps will combine utility with art and harmony, presenting the head of the first President on the first six denominations, and that of the first Postmaster General with a different border design, on the last five. The engravings and printing plates are now in course of preparation, and the new stamps will be issued in the current fiscal year.

During the year the department's supply of 13-cent stamps became exhausted, and the denomination was discontinued, its primary purpose, to prepay postage and registry fee on foreign mailings, having ceased to exist when the registry fee was increased to 10 cents.

Registry Stamp.

This new stamp, of 10-cent denomination, was originated by the Postmaster General to prepay registry fees. It is of special design, and will at once identify mail matter to which it is attached as registered and entitled to all the benefits and safeguards of the system. A description follows:

"The registry stamp is a rectangle on end; the size of the design is approximately three-fourths by seven-eighths inch; the color is light blue. The design shows an eagle with extended wings, perched upon a rock, within a circle set in a panel of plain lines. Above the circle and following its curve the words 'United States Registry' appear in two lines; and in the two lower corners the denomination

COILED STAMPS.

The improved machinery for coiling postage stamps mentioned in last year's report has so reduced the cost that the Bureau of Engraving and Printing has been enabled to make a very substantial reduction in the coiling charge. A comparison of the present with former prices follows:

For Coils of	Former charge.	New charge.
500 stamps, perforated,	$0.0761	$0.03
500 stamps, unperforated,	.0547	.03
1,000 stamps, perforated,	.1122	.06
1,000 stamps, unperforated,	.0885	.06

This reduced cost will enable the department during the current year to decrease the charge to the public for coiled stamps, which will undoubtedly stimulate the demand for this very convenient form of issue. The coiled stamps are issued primarily for use in automatic vending and affixing machines. A number of such machines have been developed, and additional ones will doubtless be invented and marketed, as a broad field seems to exist for labor-saving devices of this kind. The department has been pleased to do what it could, by preparing stamps in coils, to facilitate the development and use of these appliances, but it has been compelled to deny many applications for coils in special forms different from the adopted standards. Obviously it is impracticable to keep on sale in post offices coils constructed to meet the special needs of many different venders and affixers; and if an exception were made in favor of one manufacturer, the demands of others for special construction could not consistently be denied. This office has therefore taken the position that vending and affixing devices requiring coiled stamps should be made to conform to the standards which have been adopted by the department. The standard coils as now furnished have 500 or 1,000 stamps, perforated or unperforated, arranged endwise or sidewise, as may be desired by users. From this it will be seen that a considerable variety is provided.

STAMP BOOKS.

That the public continues to appreciate this convenient form of carrying postage stamps is evidenced by the large increase in the demand during the past year, amounting to 10.98 per cent. over the issues of 1910. The stamp books are sold at 1 cent each above the value of stamps contained therein, and the revenue from this source on the books issued in 1911 aggregated $267,164.06. The cost of manufacture was $77,214.17, leaving $189,949.89 to defray cost of distribution.

NONPOSTAGE STAMPS.

The constantly increasing use of nonpostage stamps issued for philanthropic and advertising purposes has caused much embarrassment to the service in the handling of mail matter to which they have been attached. Many of these contained numerals or resembled postage stamps in color, shape, or design, and have been mistaken for such stamps by the public, and have required close examination on the part of postal employees to identify them, thus retarding the rapid handling of mail matter which is so essential to the highest efficiency of the service. For this reason the Postmaster General issued an order, No. 5620, of July 1, 1911, providing that nonpostage stamps shall not be affixed to the address side of mail matter, but that they may be affixed to the reverse side of domestic mail matter provided they do not in form and design resemble postage stamps and do not bear numerals.

STAMPED ENVELOPES.

The total number of stamped envelopes and newspaper wrappers issued to postmasters in the fiscal year 1911 was 1,690,775,385. Of these 1,195,937,245, or 70.73 per cent., bore printed return-cards, while 494,838,140, or 29.27 per cent, were unprinted.

The gross selling value of stamped envelopes and newspaper wrappers issued was $33,825,300.85, and their postage value was $31,558,438.45, leaving $2,266,862.40 to defray cost of manufacture and distribution. The contract cost was $1,429,023.36, leaving $837,839.04 for cost of distribution.

NEW STAMPED-ENVELOPE CONTRACT.

The contract of 1907 for the department's supply of stamped envelopes and newspaper wrappers expired on June 30, 1911, and a new contract was awarded to the Mercantile Corporation, of Dayton, Ohio, after bids had been advertised for, at a reduction in price which will effect an economy estimated at $300,000 for the four-year term. The specifications were so drawn as to call for separate bids upon the number of printed and of unprinted envelopes estimated to be needed, with a view of making a corresponding difference in the selling prices of the envelopes. The contractor's proposal, however, was only 1 cent per thousand more for printed than for unprinted envelopes, which strikingly evidences the great economy made possible by printing the return-card and embossing the stamp upon the envelope simultaneously, as is done in the stamped-envelope factory.

While this difference in the contract cost of printed and of unprinted envelopes is so small that it would not of itself materially affect the selling prices, a calculation of the saving made by reason of the extension of shipments of unprinted envelopes by freight instead of by registered mail indicates that these envelopes can be sold at considerably less than the prices charged for printed envelopes, which must continue to be shipped by mail. The calculations which have been made also indicate a number of changes in the selling prices of printed envelopes, some of which will be increased and others reduced to conform to existing costs of manufacture and distribution. While the department, as required by law, will receive the

—A. A. Kelson, Niagara-on-the-Lake, Ont., Can., favors us with blocks of the new 1c and 2c Canadian stamps with head of King George, showing the numbers 1 and 2 on the 1c value and No. 1 on the 2c. Mr. Kelson is advised that the new issue will be on sale for but a month, when it will be retired until the remainder of the King Edward issue has been disposed of.

—Theodore Siddall, Manila, P. I., sends us a list of used Philippine postage stamps such as he has on sale at retail and wholesale. We have no hesitancy in giving Mr. Siddall this bit of complimentary mention when we consider the many courtesies that he has rendered our readers in the past.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from F. R. Gellerman, Ralph H. Graham (3), I. W. Risdon, Edw. P. A. Pifer.

—The Canadian Philatelist of Regina has not been issued for several months, and in a batch of clippings just at hand from Ralph H. Graham we find one which states that the paper has been sold to a Chicago journal.

—G. M. Williamson submits a block of six 1c green with plate No. 5799. He writes, "I had understood that all above No. 5718 were to have the head of Washington. This you will note has the head of Franklin and has the number 5799."

—"The Crocker lot of rare stamps was very fine indeed and a special gold medal was given it, even though it arrived after the exhibition closed. There is a box of cigars for callers at my shop this week owing to the advent of F. W. Jr. a fine 11 lb. boy, on Wed. Dec. 13th, both mother and boy doing very well indeed and father pleased and happy. Both Mr. Pack and Mr. Crocker are held in high esteem here for sending their magnificent exhibits to this far off City and one hears praise of both every day on all sides. The ½d and 1d are the 'rare birds' of the Gilbert & Ellice surch. set and none of these values are to be had here and £1 is asked for sets lacking these two values."—F. W. REID.

EDITORIAL.

Worth Getting—The Stamps of Cook Islands, by Bertram W. H. Poole, has been published in pamphlet form by the Mekeel-Severn-Wylie Company as the first of a series of philatelic hand books. A book of twenty-four pages, about seven by twelve inches each, with all needed illustrations, embraces Mr. Poole's studies which are presented in the most edifying manner. The little book which is sold for twenty-five cents, is one that will fit comfortably in any philatelic library where it will justify its place as a work of reference; and to the one who collects the stamps of Cook Islands, it becomes indispensable. The philatelic hand book on the subject of the stamps of a single country has become a popular instructive factor during the later years; and the time will come when about all the countries of the world will be treated in this way.

Still Stampless—There is a possibility of an untold number of Nicaraguan provisionals if a report that has been received is to be relied upon. The steamer that carried in its cargo the stamps of the new issue of Nicaragua duly called there but for some reason did not or was not allowed to deliver the new stamps that have been prepared in London. It is gathered that the reason for this failure was not due to any question of finances but to a dissension of some kind at Corinto. The boat proceeded on its way, without disembarking the stamps, probably to New Orleans as our information comes from that city.

Bound to Come—We are for more local societies and fewer national organizations of stamp collectors; and consequently, it is gratifying to find that Mr. Kjellstedt's advocacy of the "linking up" of the national societies now playing at cross purposes is meeting with so much favorable acclaim. Really, the only obstacle to a consummation of the plan is the natural pride that officers and members may feel in their certain society and their reluctance, consequently, to lose the identity of the organization to whose success they have contributed by zealous work. Yet, it is almost certain that these persons would gracefully yield their position when once it is seen that the advantages of amalgamation are for the benefit of all philately. In the next issue, we shall discuss the opinions that have been received since Mr. Kjellstedt broached the plan in the WEEKLY.

NEW YORK COLLECTORS

Please remember that the stamps of our Eighth Auction Sale, comprising the Ketch Collection of unused stamps will be exhibited at the Collectors' Club, 14 Park Place, on Jan. 26th, 1912. Do not miss this opportunity to view the collection, as it includes a superb lot of 20th Century Stamps.

Official Stamps—The annual report of the third assistant postmaster-general, James J. Britt, is not devoid of philatelic flavor. Mr. Britt has not relinquished his idea of special stamps for the use of members of congress and the "executive officials of the government" and of withdrawing the penalty envelopes and congressionally franked envelopes from use. He recommends that the official stamps be employed so that the volume of free matter passing through the mails may be more surely and accurately determined than at present; and it is anticipated that the special stamps will act as a check generally on franking abuses. There is no doubt but that the leakages that seemingly are inseparable from a liberal franking system are a matter of concern to the department that is so intent upon correcting wasteful methods and that has been so successful in eliminating sources of loss. Stamp collectors may know that an issue of some sort of official stamps is a growing possibility.

Registry—Many months ago, a state convention of postmasters adopted a resolution urging that the department issue a registered envelope of heavy or linen-lined paper as many of the envelopes used by the public to enclose registered matter were of cheap, flimsy paper that afforded little protection to the contents. A paragraph in this paper told of the action of the convention. A letter from Washington gives the information that an issue of this kind may be forthcoming, although there is no evidence at present to justify a positive statement that the department has decided upon the step. The writer says further that one reason for the issue of the special registry stamp was that some large users would regard them as a check upon the "stamp drawer" as they are not available for general postage.

At Trenton—It is assumed that the Fourth Anniversary Exhibit of postage and revenue stamps of the United States and foreign countries held by the Trenton Philatelic Society was a success as it was promoted under intelligent and influential patronage. The exhibition place seemed to be an ideal one, the Art Gallery of the School of Industrial Arts, Trenton, New Jersey, and the display was made from January 8th to 13th, 1912. According to the catalogue fifty-eight frames were hung and among the exhibitors were Senator Ernest R. Ackerman, who showed his specialized Canal Zone; Mr. E. B. Sterling, who displayed Lock Seals, in reconstructed plates, and Tax Paids; and Mr. Alvah G. Clark, who was represented by the later issues of United States, including revenues. About a dozen other members of the society loaned their stamps for exhibition purposes. That an exhibition of this kind is calculated to sow seeds of philatelic interest in the fertile minds of the public must be admitted; and in some respects, it is a factor more effective than the great exhibition with its vast ranges of stamp wealth. The local exhibition is the one that is apt to get closest to the average non-philatelic citizen of the home town.

Twenty Years Ago—We are pleased to find that the Chicago Post has a proper appreciation of the importance of philately. Under the head of what happened in Chicago twenty years ago, the paper printed in its issue of January 9th, 1912, information of the fact that the Chicago Philatelic Society had held its annual banquet just a score of years ago. We well remember that banquet and the fascinations of the evening at a time when the "world's fair" spirit permeated all Chicago. While the World's Fair was not held until 1893, the year of the stamps, yet at the banquet many of the members told of Chicago's determination to be a royal host to philately during the fair and the American Philatelic Society convention of 1893.

One-Cent Postage—A bill has been introduced into the house by Representative LaFollette of Washington providing for a postage rate of one cent an ounce on first-class mail matter. It will be interesting to notice what disposition is made of the bill, as there is no unanimity of opinion by any means that the one-cent rate is advisable at this time. The suggestion that the reduction be made should come from Postmaster-General Hitchcock, who has converted the liability that long has burdened the department into an asset; and who now is working other practical reform in the department. Let one-cent postage come but only after further needed readjustment is made in the department and after the parcels-post system is established.

TYPES OF THE 2c COLUMBIAN.

Supplementing the article published last week, we have received from Arthur Barger a further study of the varieties to be found in the two-cent Columbian. In addition to the types illustrated, Mr. Barger shows us two other "varieties." In the first, the vertical line shows two small breaks opposite the fifth and eighth horizontal lines from the bottom. In the second, a well-defined line runs at right angles with the last nine horizontal lines in the same manner as found in connection with variety 2 reported last week, where the upper horizontal lines are similarly treated. Evidently the wear and tear upon the plate will account for these "varieties."

Mr. Barger writes:—"I have had the opportunity of looking over 2,000 of these stamps and with the following result:—200 of Type 2; 100 of Type 3; 3 of Type 4 and only one of Type 5. I was unable to find any with a cap over the numeral '2'."

LOS ANGELES AEROPLANE MAIL.

(Arthur W. Line, 508 Verbena Drive, Los Angeles, Cal., sends us the following clipping from the Los Angeles Herald of Jan. 5 and accompanies it with the statement that he will be very willing to mail post cards or letters during the meet to any stamp collector who will favor him with them all stamped and addressed ready for posting. Mr. Line's courtesy will no doubt be appreciated by many of our readers, but to save our correspondent unnecessary trouble it should be borne in mind that January 28 will be the last day upon which mail can be collected.—ED.)

An aerial postal service to and from Dominguez field during the international aviation meet, January 20 to 28, is assured.

The sub-station will be a branch of the Compton postoffice, and will have several clerks in charge. The postmarking stamp will print the following: "Aeroplane delivery, Aviation Field, Los Angeles," with the date in the center.

Every half hour the mail will be collected and given by the assistant postmaster to an aviator, who will be duly sworn into the postal service. The flyer will place the sack of mail aboard his aeroplane and carry it to the Compton postoffice where he will drop it. Twice each day the aerial postman will bring mail from Compton to the aviation field. This mail will be distributed at the sub-station and delivered to the addresses at the window.

THE TRENTON EXHIBITION.

Just as we go to press particulars are at hand in connection with the Trenton exhibition which we are glad to say was a pronounced success. Pending a detailed story next week we print this excerpt from a letter from the efficient chairman of the exhibition committee, Alvah G. Clark:—

"Our Society after considering the matter of an exhibit and thoroughly understanding what a task it would be, decided to tackle it. We had a committee of, I think, about seven members. This committee met and formulated a letter to all the members of the society telling them what we intended to do, how much wall space we had at our command and solicited their descriptions of what they would exhibit. The next move was to co-operate with the School of Industrial Arts of the City (the building of which is pictured on our invitation and catalogue) in reference to their art gallery which is a large room on the third floor of the building fitted up on all four sides with Frink Reflectors (this room together with the building was designed by Mr. Cass Gilbert of New York City, one of the Country's leading architects) and for their exhibition frames which are of uniform size of 22 by 28 inches and made perfectly plain of pine and stained a rich brown. These privileges were gladly accorded us by the Director of the School, Mr. Frank Forrest Frederick.

You can get some idea of the size of the exhibit when you consider that we used sixty-four frames instead of 58 as the catalogue stated.

Our invitations and catalogues were mailed to 500 of Trenton's leading citizens and about an equal amount or more were mailed to philatelists all over the country. Many regrets were received but a goodly number living within a radius of 150 miles attended.

Our society has received a number of applications by this exhibit and others are promised. This, together with the fact that philately has been pushed another step forward, makes us feel that it was a great success.

The cost, well, this is known only to the society, I can say. There was a cost to all of this, but we feel the money was well spent, and then the Trenton Society does not mind this.

I would be omitting one of the main things of the exhibit if I failed to mention the collection of specialized Canal Zone which was loaned us by our worthy member Mr. Ernest R. Ackerman. It defies a written description and one would have to see it to realize its greatness. One visitor to the exhibit passed the remark that the owner of this collection must have been the printer of the stamps.

It is said of committees that they are divided into three parts, viz: one-third does all the talking, one-third stays at home and the other third does all the work. Not so with the committee that labored with me in the cause.

Every member put his shoulder to the wheel, and thus, all working in harmony we did something. What we did beside holding the exhibit (which was pronounced by philatelists from New York and Philadelphia who journeyed to this city to see it, as the largest and best, held in the East in some time) I cannot say but the fruits of our labors are already beginning to show themselves. We think the end is not yet."

NEW NEW ZEALANDS.

The Postmaster General has officially informed the Philatelic Society of New Zealand that the new issue will be out within six months. The ½d and 1d denominations will be surface printed, but the other values will be printed from steel plates. It has not yet been decided whether the full series will be issued, but it is assumed that there will be a change in each value at present bearing the late King's head. Mr. Faris has been informed that there will be no alteration in design of the 1d, and the 2½d, 9d, 2s and 5s, will, he understands, remain pictorial as at present. Mr. Faris writes further, that the last named four values are now all perf. 14 rough, i. e., from the old machine, now condemned and discarded. As present stocks become sold out, fresh printings will be perforated on the new 14x14¼ comb kept for these sized stamps, so readers should look out for them. There have been no such comb issues yet. He adds that the 2d and 1s King's head have appeared as officials, but he has not yet seen them. The ½d, 3d, and 6d King's heads do exist overprinted "OFFICIAL." Postage Dues—these are all rough perf. machine. No comb issues yet. They will, of course, come with the fresh printing.—Australian Stamp Journal.

ANNUAL BANQUET.

By G. Carlton Russell.

The 17th annual meeting of the New England Philatelic Association and American Envelope Society Consolidated, was held in the "Owl's" Club Room, of the Hayward, No. 16 Hayward Place, Boston, on Tuesday evening, January 9, 1912. Seventeen members and friends sat down at 7.30 p. m., and enjoyed the bountiful repast provided for the "inner man" by the "special committee" appointed for the occasion.

President E. F. Sawyer sat at the head of the table and in his genial manner acted as toastmaster. After the "cheese and crackers," cigars were lighted and each member who had been formally introduced by the chairman with some fitting remark, responded gracefully to his name with some good story or special talk on philatelic lines.

At 10 o'clock the President called the regular monthly meeting to order. After the reading of the records of the December meeting and the annual reports of the officers were accepted and placed on file, the election of officers for 1912 took place. The following were elected for the ensuing year:— E. F. Sawyer, President; W. D. King, Vice-President; G. C. Russell, Secretary and Treasurer; W. G. Bail, W. L. Aldrich and Chas. H. Stone, Governing Board.

E. W. Gilson, Fitchburg, Mass., and Arthur Abbott, Boston, Mass., were elected members under suspension of the rules.

A vote of thanks was given to Mr. Legg for his kind invitation to the members of the N. E. P. A. and A. E. S. Cons., for a second outing to be held at Pepperell some day next summer.

The following were present at the banquet:—H. W. Legg, L. L. Green, C. H. Stone, F. W. Stiles, W. G. Bail, A. P. Brown, Marcus W. White, Chas. R. Lewis, I. W. Risdon, C. W. Stiles, P. C. Kimball, W. L. Aldrich, E. W. Gilson, Edw. Gowing, Arthur Abbott, E. F. Sawyer and G. C. Russell.

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Any information regarding new issues will be gratefully received and acknowledged. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, 17 Addison St., Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed, stamped envelope. We cannot give applicants the addresses of our correspondents. Correspondence regarding precancelled stamps must be sent to FRANK B. ELDREDGE, Attleboro, Mass., when due credit will be given in this department.

UNITED STATES.—F. B. Eldredge reports the following new precancels:
Marlboro, Mass.; 1c 1911, reading down; type I.
Lynn, Mass.; 5c 1911, reading up; type III.
Lynn, Mass.; 6c 1911, reading up; type III.
Racine, Wis.; 1c 1911, inverted; double, type VI.
Chicago, Ill.; 3c 1911, normal; type V.

ARGENTINE REPUBLIC.—We illustrate herewith the design of the latest from Argentine.

AUSTRALIA.—The Bazaar says: Of the many designs submitted for the Commonwealth postage stamps, it is understood that ten are still under consideration, after three months of weeding out. It seems that the Postmaster-General finds it difficult to make a final choice as between these. All are said to be original and pleasing and each has its own special attractions. So to assist him in the process of making up his mind, the embarrassed Minister is inviting expressions of opinion from members of Parliament, and has had the designs prominently placed on the walls of the Government and Opposition rooms at Parliament House. In the multiplicity of counsellors there may be safety. At the worst, if a mistake be made in the final choice, the Minister may, as the Postage Stamp suggests, lighten his responsibility by sharing it with others, and may perhaps silence some of those who would be his severest critics.

BARBADOS.—Ewen's Weekly is informed that the new stamps, with Arms and King's Head combined, will be out next April or sooner. The values to be printed are ¼d, ½d, 1d, 2d, 2½d, 3d, 4d, 6d, small design; 1sh, 2sh, 3sh, large design.

CANADA.—We are indebted to Bert J. Turner and Albert F. Ritter for information regarding the new 1c and 2c stamps.

CEYLON.—Ewen's Weekly is informed that the new King George stamps will not be on sale before July, 1912. All values are to be for postage and revenue purposes and will range from 2 cents to 500 rupees. The 5c on 64c has been found with double surcharge.

CONGO.—The J. B. J. reports the 15c orange post card, surcharged "10" in black, the card having been previously overprinted "Congo Belge" with a hand stamp.

Provisional Post Card.
"10" on 15c orange.

COOK ISLANDS.—The Australian Stamp Journal says there is no present intention to alter the design of the stamps of Cook Islands, bearing the head of the late Queen Makea.

DAHOMEY.—Die Post says that a new set of stamps of distinctive design is to be issued during the coming year. The design resembles that of the 15c Congo, and represents a native clining a bread-palm.

FRENCH GUINEA.—This French Colony is to have a new set of stamps this year, says Die Post. The design represents three carriers wading a ford.

GABON.—La Revue Philatelique Francaise chronicles a new envelope for this Colony, the stamp being of the current warrior type, inscribed "Congo Francais —Gabon."

Envelope.
10c carmine and red on gray; 147x112 mm.

INDO CHINA.—This Colony has a new envelope issue, according to La Revue Philatelique Francaise.

Envelopes.
10c carmine and black on greenish; 123x96 and 147x112 mm.

IVORY COAST.—Die Post says that a new set of stamps of distinctive design is to be issued during the coming year. The design is a river scene showing a boat with five natives and a load of merchandise.

MADAGASCAR.—The remainders of the 5c and 10c stamps previously issued for Anjouan, Grand Comoro, Mayotte and Moheli, have been sent to Madagascar to be used for postal purposes. These remainders were, until recently, held in Paris.

MAURITANIA.—A new set of stamps is to be issued for this French Colony, according to Die Post. The accepted design shows a child seated on an ox, with the driver alongside.

PHILIPPINES.—Theodore Siddall sends specimens of the 2c and 10c Philippine stamps with the new single-lined letter watermark, that have just been issued.

Mr. Siddall says that "they are not yet on sale in Manila. The watermark on these stamps, as a variety, amounts to nothing at all, as it is not always on the stamp to a sufficient extent to identify the letter; but the best test for the new watermark is that stamps that have the new watermark are on a very white paper, whereas the old ones are on a dirty-looking white paper; compared to the new. But as this difference is due only to whether the paper was made in summer or winter, the next lot of paper for the new stamps may be on the dirty (made in summer) paper. The watermark on the 20 centavo yellow stamps is so elusive that even Nick Winter, the cinematograph detective, couldn't detect it."

PORTUGAL.—We are informed by Whitfield King & Co., that the 25r value of the Vasco da Gama set has now been overprinted "Republica" for use in the mother country, like the 50r and 75r values previously announced.

A. de la Tarre Bueno sends us a clipping from O Seculo, of Lisbon, showing the new design for the Portuguese stamps, both in the normal size of the stamp as it will be issued and enlarged to show the details of the design. These stamps for the Republic will be issued during the beginning of February and the monetary unit will be in conformity with the new system which is to be established.

In connection with this stamp for the Republic O Seculo says—"The new postage stamps approved by the Government and destined for the continent have already been engraved; the stamp has been gotten up by the Casa da Moeda, by Portuguese artisans and will be placed in circulation during the first days of February. The values will appear in the new monetary unit."

Mr. Bueno says the article is not quite clear as to whether it is the die or the stamps which are ready. He has shown the article to some Portuguese friends, but they all claim that they cannot tell from the text which is meant.

The design shows a half length picture of a woman, probably typical of the Republic, turned slightly to the right but facing to the front. "Repvblica Portvgveza" runs across the top, and "Correio" across the bottom, with a star at each end. No place appears in the engraving for the value.

SENEGAL.—This French Colony is also to have a new set of stamps, according to Die Post. The design represents a Sengalese market.

SPAIN.—Offices in Morocco.—Whitfield King & Co. have shown us a new printing of the 10c rose, overprinted "Correo Espanol—Marruecos," for use in the Spanish offices in Morocco.

TURKEY.—Champion's Bulletin says that a new set of stamps will be issued in March. The Sultan's signature will be replaced by a picture of the Constantinople Postoffice.

UPPER SENEGAL.—This French Colony is also included in the list given in Die Post of those to have new stamps during the coming year. The accepted design shows a native in Arab costume, near a camel and a mehari.

HUDSON-FULTON PLATE 5394.

By courtesy of CLARK & ROBB.

(While it is no doubt probable that Mr. Kidder has duly chronicled the varieties herein referred to, we believe the matter will be of sufficient interest for us to publish these notes so kindly furnished by Clark & Robb. We do not deem it necessary to have a plate made in view of the very definite statement as to the location of these stamps.—Ed.)

This plate contains the only errors on any of the plates of this series. They are so plain and so noticeable that more importance should be attached to them. A correspondent writes: "I have gone into the details, have consulted, not only with the Director of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, but also with the Chief of the Engraving Division and with the mechanic who laid this plate out and it was this last named man who really solved the problem."

We will describe the variety, the stamps on which it occurs and their location on the plate.

The error on stamp No. 1, consists of a small circle just over the second "9" of 1909; this circle is very light and not plainly seen without a glass.

On stamp No. 3 a similar circle is seen just over the "6" of 1609. There is also a very light circular line through the left hand figure "2".

On stamp No. 4, the circle over the figure "6" is a little plainer and the line through the figure "2" is quite plain and distinct.

These stamps are located in the upper left hand corner of the sheet as printed and on the perforated sheets will be found in the upper left hand pane of 60 stamps, the horizontal row.

Our correspondent further writes: "When the question as to how it occurred was put to the Chief of the Engraving Room, he replied that in his opinion it was due to lint or other foreign substance on the transfer roll and that was what was first published in regard to these errors, but this view was contested by some readers and to make sure, I made further inquiries, and at my request, the man who laid the stamps on the plate with the transfer roll was called into consultation. After some questioning he reluctantly admitted that after he had "laid on" the first four stamps, he found he had them too low to come out right at the bottom of the plate. He then took them off the plate, burnished it and started again a little higher, but in burnishing the plate, it is evident that the lines above described were not wholly taken out. It will be noticed that the little circle over the figures "9" and "6" are the same size as the circle just above it and which forms a part of the labels bearing the words: "HUDSON-FULTON CELEBRATION." The line across the figure "2" is the same shape as the top of the "2" and the same distance from the top of the figure as the circles are from the ends of the label. This bears out the story of the mistake in starting the plate."

BRITT'S ANNUAL REPORT.

full cost of manufacture and distribution, in addition to the postage value of the stamped envelope sold, the net result of the amended prices is a saving to the purchasing public estimated at over $100,000 per annum. The new prices will take effect January 1, 1912.

In preparing bidders' specifications for the new stamped-envelope contract, the department called for proposals upon envelopes of the patterns manufactured under the 1907 contract, and also for separate bids upon a new cut of envelope which was believed to be more economical of production. The bids received for the new style were found to be lower than for the old cut by 1 cent per thousand for the No. 5, and by 2 cents per thousand for the No. 13 size, these two sizes representing 82 per cent. of the total output. The contract was accordingly drawn to provide for the new style of envelope in the No. 5 and No. 13 sizes, no change being made in the cut of the remaining envelopes because the prices were the same as for the old cut. While the new No. 5 and No. 13 envelopes can be more economically manufactured than the old cut, they are equally serviceable.

The new contract does not provide for "open-end" envelopes, the public demand for this style not having reached the department's antcipations.

The watermark in the stamped envelope paper has been altered, showing the initial year of the new contract, 1911.

EXCESS REVENUE FROM STAMPED ENVELOPES.

This revenue comprises the aggregated fractions of a cent gained by postmasters over the rate per thousand in the sale of envelopes and wrappers in odd quantities. It amounted during the fiscal year 1911 to $128,042.25, compared wih $62,170.04 for the period of the fiscal year 1910 after January 24, in which postmasters were required to account for this revenue.

IMPROVEMENT OF POSTAL CARDS.

In preparing specifications for postal cards for the four-year period beginning January 1, 1910, the weight of the paper was reduced from 150 to 130 pounds per ream of 500 sheets, 24 by 36 inches in size. This reduction accomplished a large economy in cost of manufacture and distribution of cards, and was believed not to affect their serviceableness. Experience has shown, however, that under existing methods of printing postal cards the paper was not sufficiently substantial for the purpose, and its weight has therefore been increased to 140 pounds per ream, with a corresponding increase of thickness. Postal cards made of this heavier paper show marked improvement, and the new weight of 140 pounds effects a considerable economy in cost compared with the weight of 150 pounds, which obtained under the previous contract. The new paper is of a cream color, more satisfactory than the blue tint which it supersedes. With the new paper the ink used in printing the No. 4 1-cent domestic single card was changed to red, the cards so altered being first placed on sale August 10, 1911. The No. 6 1-cent domestic reply card is now being printed in green ink on the cream-colored paper, and was placed on sale October 27, 1911.

A new international postal card, designated No. 7, in place of the "E" 2-cent, is now being issued, havng been placed on sale October 27, 1911. It is described as follows:

"No. 7, 2-cent.—The size of the card is 3¼ by 5½ inches. The paper is of cream color, and the design is printed in red ink. A portrait of Gen. U. S. Grant, looking to the right, is used as the subject of the stamp. The portrait appears within a frame, the inner lines of which form an ellipse, while the outer lines are rectangular with inwardly curving corners. Above the portrait and following the curve of the ellipse are the words 'U. S. Postal Card,' and below it is the name 'Grant' in a curved ribbon. The denomination is expressed in words and numerals in the lower portion of the frame. To the left of the stamp, in a single line of plain Gothic capitals, is the inscription, 'This side of card is for address only.' In the upper left corner of the card appears the following inscription in English and French: 'Universal Postal Union, Union Postale Universelle, United States of America, Etats-Unis d'Amerique.'"

The No. 5 1-cent card, 3 by 5 inches, described in the last annual report of this office, was first placed on sale January 1, 1911.

OUR PICTORIAL REBUS.

A reader protests that some of the designs found in our last rebus are not pictured in Scott's 1911 catalog. While it may be true that some of these designs are not so illustrated, it must be remembered that this is to be a "stamp" hunt and not a "catalog" hunt. We would urge interested parties to send in their lists of answers, even though incomplete, as it is very evident that our last rebus is a difficult proposition.

Edited by BERTRAM W. H. POOLE, Box 231, Altadena, Calif.

We propose to insert upon this page matter that will be of interest to the boy collector. Some two thousand boys are now on our mailing list and it is our desire to come closely in contact with them in such a manner as will be most helpful. Any information desired will be cheerfully rendered through these columns. Do not submit stamps for examination.

MADAGASCAR.

The French Colonial Issues.

In 1904 a set of distinctive design was provided for Madagascar and Dependencies in place of the hackneyed tablet type. The central portion of the design shows a palm tree with a sacred bull in the foreground at left, and a lemur at the right. The name appears in a tablet at base, "Postes" is at top, numerals of value in the upper left hand corner and the monogram "R. F." in the upper right hand angle. These letters are, of course, a contraction for "Republique Francaise". The values and colors are as follows:—

5c green.
10c scarlet.
15c carmine.
20c orange.
25c blue.
30c vermilion.
40c grey.
50c yellow-brown.
75c orange yellow.
1fr deep green.

The 1c and 2c are known imperforate, the 2fr exists doubly printed, and the 1c is known printed on bluish paper. Normally the stamps were printed on a fairly thick paper and perforated 11½. The design was the same for all values. The bull shown so prominently in the design is a male member of a species of humped cattle closely related to the zebu of India. It is a domesticated animal and like its Indian relative it is used as a beast of burden. Indeed, to the Malagasy people this animal is as important and useful as the horse is to an Arab. The other animal shown on these stamps—the lemur—is typical of the fauna of the island. Lemurs, which are closely related to the monkey family, are very plentiful in Madagascar. There are numerous species the general characteristics of all being the thick, furry skin, fox-like face, and long bushy tail. The lemur is about the size of a cat, and not unlike that feline in general appearance, and owing to this fact it is usually known as the "Madagascar cat" among sea-faring men. They live entirely in trees and as a rule, large numbers live together.

During a period extending from February until August, 1904, numerous provisionals were issued at Diego Suarez, Vohemar, Antalaha and other places in the colony. Owing to an alleged shortage of stamps—apparently before the set mentioned above arrived—certain stamps of the 1896 type and some of the obsolete labels of Diego Suarez were divided vertically and each portion, when on a letter, was handstamped with words signifying such shortage. Some of the handstamps known read "Affranchissement Exceptionnel faute de Timbres" (Postage paid; exceptional shortage of stamps), "Affranchi ainsi faute figurine" (Postage paid thus; low values scarce), "Affranchissement special faute de figurines" (Postage paid; special, low values scarce), etc. Gibbons catalogue says all these provisionals are entirely speculative, Scott ignores them altogether, while Kohl's new catalogue gives an extensive list of varieties. Though possibly absolutely speculative and unnecessary, they cannot be ignored altogether by the specialist.

Kay, 18 Melrose Gardens, London, W., Eng.

In 1906, Madagascar, in common with many other French possessions, was provided with a new value, 35c, but this was not in the type of the others but in the old tablet type of 1896. This stamp was printed in black on yellow paper and has the same perforation as other stamps of the same design, viz., 14x13½.

In 1907, the post office at Sambawa ran short of 10c stamps and the postal authorities there allowed the 20c label to be bisected and each half used in payment of the 10c rate. The stamps were not overprinted in any manner and as there was apparently plenty of other low values available, this proceedure was as ridiculous as it was unnecessary.

In 1908, Madagascar was supplied with an entirely new series. All are of similar design and all are bi-colored. The labels are of large upright rectangular shape, the central picture showing the usual method of transport in the island. It will be noticed an European traveller is depicted seated in a chair balanced on long poles which are carried by natives. The same plate for this portion of the design was used for all denominations. The frame is inscribed "Madagascar et Dependences" at base, "Postes" at top, in the centre, with "R" at left and "F" at right. The side columns are filled with conventional ornamentation. The value "1c" etc., is shown in large numerals on a square space insert in the lower left-hand corner of the centrepiece. This formed part of frame design and a separate plate for this portion was required for each value. The stamps were printed on unwatermarked paper and perforated 13½x14. The values and colors were as follows:—

1c violet and olive.
2c red and olive.
4c olive and pale brown.
5c green and olive.
10c pink and purple brown.
20c orange and brown.
25c blue and black.
30c yellow brown and black.
35c dull red "
40c chocolate "
75c pink "
1fr yellow brown and olive.
2fr blue "
5fr violet and chocolate.

The centre is in the second color named in each case.

The above completes the postage stamps proper issued to date but in addition there are two sets of Postage due labels which merit attention. The first of these was issued in 1897 and was of a provisional nature. The 5c blue, 10c brown, 20c yellow, 30c rose, 40c mauve, 50c violet, and 1fr green stamps of the general issue for the French Colonies were overprinted "Madagascar et Dependences" in three lines. The overprint was in blue on the 20c, 30c and 50c denominations and in red on the others. All were imperf.

No other set of postage due stamps was issued until 1908 when a series of distinctive design made its appearance. These stamps are oblong in shape and show as a centrepiece a view of the Governor's Palace. Above this, on a semi-circular scroll are the words, "Chiffre taxe à percevoir"; across the base is the name of the colony; at the top is "Postes"; in the upper left hand corner the value is shown; and a corresponding tablet in the upper right hand corner are the letters "R.F.". The values and colors are:—

4c pale violet.
5c green.
10c carmine.
20c olive.
40c brown on toned paper.
50c olive brown on azure paper.

AUSTRALIA AND PHILATELIC CONGRESSES.

It is a striking evidence of the rapid spread of modern ideas that the Philatelic Congress which has but recently taken root in this country should have already followed suit in Australia. The future success of the movement in Great Britain seems now assured as the venue has been fixed for four years ahead, owing to the offer of the Royal Philatelic Society to undertake the function in 1914, an offer that seems to have met with universal approval. We trust that a similar happy fate may be in store for the future Congresses of Australia, but it must be remembered that the distances that separated the several delegates are vastly different from those in the "Old Country," and it may well be that a biennial or triennial meeting should suffice. It is idle to deny that the philatelic activity or enthusiasm of the Australians in the past for their own stamps has not equalled that of collectors in this country. During the past decade there has, however, been a great and marked increase of what we may term patriotic Philately in Australia, duly testified to by the recent Congress and the contents of the Exhibition. The existence and vitality of the philatelic societies of the several States of the Commonwealth and New Zealand bear eloquent testimony to the nascent spirit of Australian Philately, and we hope yet to see that Australian philatelic literature will be worthily upheld by its own collectors and writers. Mr. A. F. Basset Hull has set a brilliant example, and others, as Mr. A. T. Bate and Mr. Courtenay Smith, are able workers in this field.

If we may deduct a moral from a perusal of the proceedings of the Australian Congress—judging from a not inconsiderable personal experience of these functions—it would be that the subjects introduced for discussion at Sydney were too numerous to admit of adequate discussion, and that three sessions instead of seven with one practical point to be discussed at each meeting would be more likely conducive to have a good result.

Among the subjects discussed by the Sydney Congress, ending like the others in an inconclusive termination, was the compilation of an Australian Catalogue. The opinion was expressed and supported that each State of the Commonwealth should prepare a list of its own stamps, a resolution being carried to this effect. It remains to be seen if this will fructify; nor was it stated if such catalogues were to be priced. There can be no doubt that these lists would be of much value if properly carried out by the right men in each society. There is much to be done in the proper grouping and pricing of the Australian issues of the last twenty years, and the scientific classification of all varieties into specialist and generalist varieties would be of the greatest service to both classes of Australian stamp collectors.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

PHILATELY AS A WORLD-WIDE HOBBY.

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.

Most of the best things in this world have had small beginnings and to this rule philately is certainly no exception. Started in a very small and unobtrusive manner little more than half a century ago our hobby now has its adherents in every part of the globe where civilised man has penetrated. Of the early history of philately we have only the scantiest knowledge—less, indeed, than we have of the history of the early Egyptians—but it seems probable there were collectors almost as soon as there were stamps.

As shown in previous numbers of the WEEKLY attempts to form Societies—the outward and visible sign of progress in any pursuit—were made by enthusiastic pioneers in Paris, New York, and London, in the order named, in the sixties. While these attempts were unsuccessful so far as Paris and New York were concerned the Society formed in London in 1869 has survived until the present time growing in prestige and importance as the years have passed. By 1870 catalogues were in existence, magazines were published, and numerous dealers were actively engaged in the more important world cities so that philately as a popular hobby was fairly launched. Though there was a temporary setback in the 'eighties its popularity has since increased to such an extent that philately now stands unrivalled and pre-eminent as the hobby for the multitude. It counts among its votaries men and women in every walk of life—kings, princes, statesmen, merchants, sailors, soldiers, lawyers, journalists, in fact men of every trade and profession vie with each other in the friendly rivalry of the pursuit.

As a school boy's hobby it counts its devotees by the thousand. During the last decade there are probably few, even among the veriest philistines, who have not collected stamps at some time or other during boyhood's days. Though with a large number of boys collecting stamps it is almost on a par with keeping rabbits or catching the measles, many retain their interest and after years of discretion are reached these seldom, if ever, quite lose touch with the pursuit. Indeed, there is more than a word of truth in the saying "Once a collector, always a collector" and even those with the most limited circle of philatelic acquaintances know of cases where stamps have been given up only to be returned to with renewed zest a few months, or perhaps a few years, later.

Every nation has its stamp collectors and even the outposts of civilisation furnish their quota of philatelic enthusiasts. Writing some years ago the late Mr. E. J. Nankivell remarked "If any one of the Antarctic expeditions were to reach the goal of its ambition, and were to celebrate the event there and then by an issue of postage stamps, a collector would certainly be in attendance, and would probably endeavour to buy up the whole issue on the spot". Probably he little thought that this playful prophecy would be realised and yet the history of the King Edward VII stamps issued in connection with Sir Ernest Shackleton's expedition provides an almost literal fulfilment!

A brief perusal of the new edition of the Stamp Collectors' Annual gives much food for thought regarding the internationality of our hobby. There are few European nations but what have at least one well-known Society. Even downtrodden and harrassed Finland has its "Helsingfors Frimarkssamloreforening". In Asia, India has a flourishing and important society, China has two clubs while there are plenty of collectors in Borneo, Siam, Japan, etc., and even the unprogressive kingdom of Korea is credited with having active collectors. Africa has numerous societies in Cape Colony, Natal, Transvaal, the Orange River Colony, Rhodesia, etc., while in the north Algeria and Egypt have flourishing clubs. Australia, as might naturally be expected from its numerous and handsome old stamps, has thousands of collectors as evidenced by the number of highly successful clubs now in existence.

Turning to the new world we find the United States makes an imposing show. The American Philatelic Society itself, with its vast membership, would be no mean achievement, but in addition to this there are at least fifty other well-known societies and probably scores of others of lesser importance. This is, of course, as it should be but perhaps a better estimation of the widespread nature of philately's hold may be gleaned from the fact that there are Societies of some standing in Ecuador, Dominican Republic, Cuba, Colombia, Uruguay, Brazil, Argentine and Chili.

But extensive though this published list of the philatelic societies of the world is, it only touches the fringe of the subject. Besides these there are hundreds of other smaller societies, local coteries of perhaps anything from three to a dozen collectors. These are imbued with the same enthusiasm and the same love of stamps as their more widely known and perhaps more fortunately placed brethren.

Stamp collectors abound everywhere and there is certainly no other hobby that can claim such universality. Usually the fact that one is a stamp collector is sufficient introduction to a fellow philatelist so that the philatelic traveller need never feel a "stranger in a strange land". Again to quote the late Mr. Nankivell "International jealousies are forgotten, and even the barriers of race, and creed, and politics, in the pleasant freemasonry of philatelic friendships".

In every country, in every town, almost in every village stamp enthusiasts are to be found. What is there in philately that gives it such world-wide popularity? Perhaps its greatest charm of all is its adaptability. It is not a hobby for the wealthy only, such as the accumulation of old masters, but is for each and everyone of us. Each individual can plan his collection to suit his pocket and on the lines laid down can collect just what he likes. The intelligent collector of small means can form a collection equally as interesting, if not so valuable, as that formed by a wealthy individual and he will certainly obtain as much pleasure from it. Dollars do not make the best philatelists or always the best collections. The man of limited means but rich in philatelic acumen is at least on equal terms with the wealthy plutocrat whose knowledge of stamps is hardly as great as his love of them. But adaptability alone would not make it a hobby of universal popularity. Where then are its fascinations To the busy professional man it serves as a real recreation—a pastime of such interest that the cares of business are forgotten, the tired brain is rested without being bored, while it makes time pass pleasantly and profitably without further taxing an already overburdened energy. Its value as a recreation for the busy man is amply proved by the number of captains of industry, successful lawyers, and overworked journalists who are among its keenest votaries. For the man of leisure it affords a stimulating occupation— an occupation that demands time and trouble, for really fine specialised collections are not built up by money alone. The items that really matter have to be hunted for while the spice of competition with a "rival" collector only adds to the interest. To the studious it offers unlimited scope for research for of no stamps, even those most extensively studied, can it be said that the "last word" has been written. To the old it is a pleasant relaxation, sociable, and a hobby that brings them into contact with the young on common ground. To the boy it is a hobby full of entrancing delights. Think of the stirring events depicted on many of the treasures in his album. If he is a lover of animals, and what real boy is not, he will find in his album a fair sized menagerie; ships and boats of all sorts from the primitive native contrivance used in Papua to the up-to-date liner shown on the 10c Pan-American stamp; portrait of heroes who have led their troops to victory; explorers; monuments erected to the memory of great men of bygone days; public buildings; people of every clime; flags; maps; the gods of ancient Greece; in fact, the varied designs are alone sufficiently interesting to make stamps desirable objects to collect. Postage stamps—old bits of paper as they were contemptuously termed by the scoffers years ago—are rich in memories of history and mythology; they show the progress of the arts and sciences; they link the present with the past; they tell of the things that have been; they mark the progress of mankind; they indicate the growth of empires and the federation of states; they tell of the rise and fall of dynasties; they record the wonderful inventions of modern times; they bear testimony to the civilisation of other decades; they bear honor to great statesmen and national heroes; they record the work of great explorers; and, lastly, they are part and parcel of that greatest of all the wonders of civilisation—the modern postal system, with its marvellous organisation that makes communication between the remotest corners of the world a matter of the utmost simplicity to the individual.

Certainly every stamp-issuing country has its collectors and followers of the hobby abound even where the collection of stamps is attended with a certain amount of inconvenience. In India, for example, philately is very flourishing, notwithstanding the difficulty of preserving stamps from injury by moisture or the ravages of insects. Even in tropical countries, where the intense heat makes the handling of unused stamps anything but an easy matter collectors will be found in plenty.

Time was when stamp collectors were ridiculed and the idea that stamps could have any value was considered a matter for jest. Nowadays, all is

Fletcher, Chm., of the Public Service Committee, of that flourishing city, Aberdeen, So. Dak., writes us on January 16, 1912, the following letter:

"H. S. POWELL STAMP CO., Storm Lake, Iowa, Gentlemen:—I certainly take pleasure in recommending your 4000 variety packet-collection. The one I purchased at $75.00 was fully as good as represented and contained a considerable number of scarce and rare stamps. When I was a boy I had a good sized collection. I remounted it in a new album recently and as none of the stamps were gathered less than thirty years ago I found it to be quite valuable and to contain many rare specimens.

I bought your packet-collection to make my collection up to date and found it admirably suited to my purpose. The stamps were all in good condition. The sets were carefully mounted and arranged in chronological order and the countries in alphabetical order so that with the aid of a catalogue I had no difficulty in placing the stamps although I had paid no attention to philately for many years. Your 4000 variety packet is a fine collection in itself and well worth the price you ask. Yours very truly, C. C. FLETCHER."

This Collection is Mounted in an Album with Imported Peelable Hinges (not pasted in with mucilage to save expense)—ready to transfer to any collection.

The Reason Why This Offer is Made to You:—On May 15th, the Very Rev. R. Stollenwerk overseer of our assembling rooms, sails for Europe for a four month tour. We have 50 of these 4000 packet-collections made up and have stock for hundreds of them. We have decided to sell them at the very low price of $50.00 each to turn them into ready cash. And that is doing a great deal considering that they are First Quality Packet-Collections.

changed, and even the non-collector recognises that stamps have a monetary value and he respects them accordingly. In fact the non-collector generally has a very exaggerated notion of the value of any stamps he may happen to possess. At the present time the philatelist is a factor Governments have to reckon with. Some pay him the compliment of unwelcome attention by issuing stamps solely for the benefits accruing from their sale to collectors. His anxiety to procure unused specimens of Official stamps where their sale to the public was prohibited, led to the abandonment of these special labels in Great Britain and Natal. Prominent philatelists have been invited, of late years, to assist in the work of selecting suitable designs for new issues of stamps, and time and again stamp collectors have rendered good service by detecting and reporting counterfeits that had deceived the postal authorities themselves.

Stamp collecting is "the king of hobbies, and the hobby of kings". Truly, when we consider its scope for pleasure, for profit, as an intellectual and social pursuit, as a real recreation and pastime for all sorts and conditions of men, its world-wide popularity as a hobby is hardly to be wondered at!

LONDON STAMP EXHIBITION, '12.

By FRED. J. MELVILLE.

The recent successes of American philatelists at Exhibitions in Vienna, Turin and Australia have opened the way for keener competition by Americans at all future International Exhibitions, and it is confidently expected that the United States will establish new records in the number of medals and high awards they will secure at the London Exhibition, which is to be held under the auspices of the Junior Philatelic Society in October next.

The preparations for this great Exhibition are now well under way, and from the advance announcements of the plans it appears that the Juniors are endeavouring to establish a new record as regards their own Exhibitions, which have been so highly successful in the past. They have secured the largest and finest Exhibition Hall of its kind in London, one which an eminent British trade Journal describes as the finest Exhibition Hall in the three kingdoms. It is the Royal Horticultural Hall, situated right in the heart of Westminster beneath the shadow of Big Ben. In the large main hall, where the bulk of the Exhibits will be shewn, there is an area of 13,000 square feet, and on the first floor there are two smaller halls and a suite of rooms, all of which have been acquired by the Exhibition Executive.

A complete novelty will be the devoting of one of the spacious annexes of the main hall on the ground floor to an Exhibition of working machinery, which will be engaged in the production of postage stamps throughout the entire period the Exhibition is open.

Another entire novelty at any International Philatelic Exhibition will be directed towards the securing of the comfort of those whose business and interest it is to spend much time at the Exhibition. One of the annexes will be utilised as a commodious and luxurious drawing room, where one can meet one's philatelic friends and converse in comfort, and it is the desire of the Executive to give visitors all the conveniences within the Exhibition of a completely and luxuriously furnished Club. The Exhibition will be opened on Monday, Oct. 14th, remaining open the complete week, until night on Saturday the 19th, and several days have been allowed for the setting up of the Exhibition during the week preceding the show.

It will thus be seen that the preparations for the great London Exhibition of the present year are on a scale well worthy of the enterprising Junior Philatelic Society, and have been planned with a view to securing ample accommodation for an attendance over 60 per cent. in excess of that of the last Exhibition held by this Society, and it is confidently anticipated that 50,000 people will visit the Exhibition during the week, thus bringing together the largest concourse of persons interested in Philately ever assembled under one roof.

The prospectus of the Exhibition is expected to be ready in February and I am glad to be able to extend this early invitation to the numerous friends and supporters of the Society in the United States to commence putting their collections in order with a view to shewing them in London in October. I also offer the most cordial welcome to any philatelist from the United States who will plan his vacation so that he can visit London in that month. Each visitor from the United States will have an exceptional opportunity of seeing all the great collections centred in one place, on a scale which has not been possible hitherto.

The Junior Philatelic Society has much to congratulate itself upon, in the interest and support extended to it by collectors in the United States, and I and my colleagues are deeply sensible of the honour and confidence which we have gained amongst the philatelists of the great Republic, and look forward with confident anticipation to receiving many Exhibits, and welcoming many visitors from the United States in October next.

I shall be very glad to hear from any collector desirous of showing his collection or of visiting the Exhibition, as early as possible, and have already opened a register for the names and addresses of all those who desire to be furnished with prospectuses, tickets, and all information connected with the Exhibition as it is printed and issued.

The address of the Hon. Secretary of the Exhibition is Herbert F. Johnson, 44 Fleet St., E. C., and I shall be pleased to answer enquiries personally, so far as is possible, if addressed to me, Fred. J. Melville, 14 Sudbourne Rd., Brixton, S. W.

TRENTON PHILATELIC EXHIBITION.

A Very Creditable Display by the Trenton Society.

(We give this week a detailed story of the very enterprizing effort of the Trenton Philatelic Society to dignify philately by an exhibition of the stamp treasures belonging to its members. Last week Mr. Alvah G. Clark told us something about the exhibition. He did not tell us all, indeed his modesty forbade the bestowal of the credit that properly belongs to the exhibition committee. Mr. Clark was chairman of the committee and the exhibition was a good one. We quote from the Trenton Times.—Ed.)

What is really the first public exhibition of the Trenton Philatelic Society is being conducted at the School of Industrial Arts, West State and Willow Streets. The exhibit is of postage and revenue stamps of this and foreign countries. It is being held in the art gallery of the school and is open from 2 to 5 o'clock each afternoon and from 7.30 to 9.30 each evening.

This is the fourth anniversary of the Trenton Society, but previous exhibits have been small ones, confined to store windows or to the homes of members.

The reasons for holding this exhibition at the Art School are given by Frank Forrest Frederick, director of the school, who writes an article in the current number of the Wickercheoke Philatelist, the organ of the Trenton stamp collectors, a unique publication edited and published by Theodore G. Kitchen. Mr. Frederick writes:

ART REFLECTS CULTURE.

"The culture of a race is reflected in its art. This has always been true. From the remains of ancient architecture, sculpture and painting we can reconstruct the civilization of the past. We have, in many European countries what is known as 'official art'—that is governmental direction of the fine arts. In one sense there is an official art in every civilized nation—namely the art of its coinage and of its stamps.

"It is very interesting to note that the higher a nation stands in culture the better is its coinage and stamps.

"In the United States the technical side of engraving and printing has always received much attention and our postage stamps and paper money is perfectly executed though often poor from the art standpoint. Sculpture has always been neglected among us and our coinage is very poor. The recent revival of interest in sculpture is seen in attempts to improve our coinage—the Lincoln cent comparing favorably with any coin minted anywhere. Our postage stamps have kept pace with our feeling for good art as can easily be seen by comparing the issues of today with those of past years.

"Because it is true that the stamps of a nation reflect its artistic taste, it seems appropriate that a school devoted to the cultivation and elevation of art should open its doors and provide an exhibition place for a society devoted to stamps in order that a comparison may be made between our stamps and those of other nations to the end that our taste in this matter may be educated to know the best which is a long step towards securing the best."

MR. CLARK'S COLLECTION.

Another Art School man who is greatly interested in stamps and who is one of the leading exhibitors in this display is Alvah G. Clark, secretary of the school. Mr. Clark began collecting stamps when he was 12 years old and has been at it ever since—a period of eighteen years. He collected postage stamps as a school boy and collected revenue stamps during the Spanish-American War, when, as a drug clerk, he saw them on patent medicine bottles. Later, as a traveling representative of Murray, Griffith & Messler, of this city, and still later as assistant sergeant-at-arms of the New Jersey courts, he had other opportunities for continuing his hobby. Mr. Clark is one of the charter members of the Trenton Philatelic Society, and was its first vice president. He was afterwards secretary and is now treasurer of the Society. He was also one of the starters of the Trenton Junior Philatelic Society and devoted much of his time instructing the boys of this city in the study of philately.

In his position as secretary of Trenton's Art School he has had a good opportunity for observing and bettering his talent for drawing. He is adept with the crow-quill pen and ink, as seal of the Trenton Philatelic Society (an illustration of his work) well shows. He also originated the name, thought out and executed the design used by The Stamp Album. Not alone is Mr. Clark "at home" with pen and ink, as some of the illustrated pages (in color) in various stamp albums, are of the highest order.

Mr. Clark's exhibit includes a complete set of United States postage stamps from 1890 to date, U. S. part perforates and mailing machine and postal

EDITORIAL.

Union—The question of the amalgamation of the national philatelic organizations, broached in our columns by Mr. Kjellstedt, has evoked some interesting comment. Out of the opinions that have been received there is not one that does not commend the proposal although the endorsement in each instance is not an unqualified one. It is our belief that two national organizations, one, the American Philatelic Society, for adults, and the other for younger collectors would suffice, particularly as it would not be expected that purely specialistic societies such as the Revenue, Envelope and Literature, lose their identity and make common cause. A juvenile society let us call it for the sake of distinction, has its place, if not as a a section of the American Philatelic Society, then as a separate organization. Twenty-five years ago, or so, the American Philatelic Society and the Philatelic Sons of America covered the country so thoroughly as really to make other organizations unnecessary. If the streams of philatelic strength be not diverted from the main body, the healthy expansion that would result would be a point of pride for all members. The concentration of effort on one society will conserve the energy that now is so scattered as almost to be wasted. We think that the existence of a number of societies for the young collector is an indication of youthful philatelic activity and ambition. If these societies were united, the results certainly would be more substantial and impressive.

Their Own—Theoretically, the graduate from the junior society would join the organization for the older collectors. While the American Philatelic Society with a junior section would seem to be an ideal condition, yet the advantages of a society for the younger collectors in which they are supreme and work out their own destiny must be considered. They would have a keen interest in their own work and should feel their responsibility; and leaders capable of intelligently guiding their course would forge to the front. The special societies could continue on their way unhampered as they are off the main roads. More local and fewer national philatelic societies is a good slogan for the reformers who, if they achieve results, will benefit philately.

Officials—In some cities the fifty-cent and one-dollar values of the official postal savings bank stamps have been offered in used condition in some quantity. Singles and blocks of these high denominations have been seen and the explanation that was given for their appearance was that they were used for sending supplies to the postal savings offices. When once these shipments are made the necessity for heavy postage will be infrequent, comparatively. In this connection, the information has been received that following its policy of economical administration in the department, the postoffice will send equipment of the postal savings offices by express or freight when it is possible to effect a saving by adopting this course. We notice the advertisements of several stamp dealers in a paper devoted to the interests of postmasters offering to buy the stamps at ten cents for the one-cent; twenty cents for the fifty-cent and ten cents for the dollar stamp.

Calm Collectors—The newspapers are telling of the developments in the wars throughout the world and the dove of peace perches disconsolately on the palace of the Hague peace tribunal. The fortunes of the Turks and Italians are closely followed and what seems to be the wildest of dreams has come true—the Chinese revolutionists have asked the powers to recognize the Republic of China. In Ecuador and Paraguay, fierce fighting has been attended with heavy mortality but from present reports the government forces have the ascendancy. The time was when the political turmoil and war's alarms that disturb the world to-day would have furnished a pretext for infinite philatelic speculation and collectors would eagerly anticipate changes with attendant possibilities of new stamps. Now, when new issues are the accepted order of the day, philatelists almost are immune from sensation of the kind. We have told before, how the great dramatist, Sardou, included in the cast of Famille Benoiton, in 1865, "a broker of eight years of age who got the best of his little comrades by buying up all the stamps of the Confederate States of America which were on the market to sell again an hour later when a dispatch announced that the Federals were the vanquishers." As a historian says that incident has "no common sense from a philatelic point of view" but it shows that the Little Stamp Bourse of Paris early attracted general attention.

Hussey Issue—We have seen a civil war token issued in 1863 by Hussey of New York who is known to philatelists through the issue of local stamps, 1854 to 1882. On the obverse of the copper "cent" is central design of horseman; above, Time is Money, and below, "1863. Exigency." Reverse: "Hussey's Special Message Post, 50 William St., New York."

A Twist Somewhere—Just too late for recalling, the item was published last week relative to the departure from Corinto of the steamer with the Nicaraguan stamps on board without leaving the new issue in the country. Even before the paragraph appeared in print the new Waterlow stamps up to the 25 centavos had been received in this country. It remains to be seen what explanation will be given by our correspondent for the presence of the stamps, in view of his assurance that it would be some time before the issue would be available in Nicaragua, under the circumstances.

They May Come—In the report of the postmaster-general, we find the following reference to the use of the official Postal Savings stamps as proving how well they perform their functions of regulating the franking system in their special province; and the point is made that it would be good business policy to have official stamps for the other departments. We quote: "The desirability of the plan has been demonstrated by its application to the Postal Savings System. Every letter and package mailed in conducting the business of the system has been required to carry postage sufficient for its weight and class. Thus it has been possible to ascertain the exact amount expended by the Government for postage in this new branch of the Postal Service. A similar opportunity to determine the proper postage charges against other branches of the Government ought to be afforded.

By granting the desired authority, Congress can aid in a substantial way the efforts of the Department to render still more accurate its system of accounting. The importance of such a reform is apparent when it is understood that the annual cost of carrying franked mail reaches into the millions."

DREW'S NEW YORK SALE.

B. L. Drew & Co. will hold their 241st sale at the Collectors' Club, N. Y. City, Tuesday evening February 6. This sale is of a very high order, in that five hundred gems have been selected from a very large collection, the property of James English of New Haven, Conn.

The impression has been conveyed in some quarters that the English collection is the property of B. L. Drew & Co. but this is not true and the firm disclaims ownership of a single stamp in the entire collection.

The beautifully printed catalog shows a very interesting line of offers and collectors desiring to inspect the contents of the sale may do so at the firm's Boston office Feb. 1, 2 and 3 and at the Astor House, N. Y. City, Feb. 5 and 6.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—We have A. R. Butler to thank for the Britt report from which we made copious extracts in last week's issue. A favor such as this is greatly appreciated.

—A parcel post convention has been concluded between United States and Curacao and has already gone into effect.

—P. M. Allen of Binghampton, N. Y., submits a couple of clippings from local papers. One states that the new 1912 series will be available Feb. 1. The other clipping states that the color of the new registration stamp is to be changed from blue, because of its close resemblance in color of the 15-cent stamp.

—Warner McLaughlin, 220 W. 87 St., N. Y. City, would like to know the location of C. Harris, formerly of Laporte, Ind., and L. B. Holden, formerly of Marblehead, Mass.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from Albert F. Ritter (2), Alvah G. Clark (2).

—J. Emory Renoll, Hanover, Pa., would like to know the present whereabouts of Leonard L. Rodkey formerly of Brookville, Pa. Dealers take note.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from P. K. Parker, Edward Howard, Jos. L. Weber, Guy Johnston.

—N. J. Cadorette of Fitchburg, Mass., has just been re-elected to the city government for his fourth consecutive term. Remitting the amount of his subscription, he writes, "I am not collecting much now but cannot get along without the WEEKLY."

—An esteemed subscriber is desirous of securing Nos. 6, 9 and 12 of the WEEKLY for 1911. If any subscriber can favor us with this trio of back numbers we shall be pleased to acknowledge the same in our columns. Our office supply is exhausted.

—You cannot order happiness and have it sent down on the delivery. Happiness is rooted in right living and generous impulses, and is cultivated by being interested in the work of your own hands and mind. The more absorbed you are in congenial work the happier you are. That is why a man with a hobby always has such a good time.

TRENTON EXHIBITION.

savings stamps, the latter the latest in government stamps; together with Spanish War revenue stamps, as well as old time match, medicine and tobacco stamps. This collection shows changes which the United States had to make to conform with the universal postal code. It also shows that the U. S. was less pressed for revenue during the Spanish-American War than it was in the Civil War. In the Civil War a 25-cent medicine carried a two-cent stamp, while in the Spanish War the stamp on such a bottle cost only five-eighths of a cent.

YOUNG FREDERICK'S EXHIBIT.

Another collection identified with the art school is that of John H. Frederick, a son of Director Frederick. Master Frederick exhibits stamps of Great Britain and the British colonies, including the "King's Heads."

Stamps from Canada and the Cape of Good Hope, also British possessions, are shown by C. H. Gibbs, a motorman on a trolley car, who finds time in addition to collecting stamps and working to serve as secretary for the philatelic society and also for the carmen's union.

E. A. Andrews, a letter carrier, is exhibiting U. S. Revenue stamps and stamps from the Netherlands. The cards containing the latter are ornamented with Netherland sketches by Mr. Clark, including the famous tulip bed scenes.

Other exhibits include: Match and medicine stamps by J. E. Leikman; Guatemala and Nicaragua stamps, Jacob J. Groth, a Roebling attache; foreign revenue and original covers, the latter dating back almost to the first United States stamp in 1847, by William G. Fitzcharles, merchant; picture stamps and "error" stamps from various countries, Lawyer Edmund S. Jamieson.

Mr. Kitchin, the Philatelic editor, said he hadn't much to show so he took around a hundred stamps from a hundred different countries, all nicely arranged and framed.

William B. Housel, of the Trenton Trust Company, shows foreign revenue stamps. In looking over Mr. Housel's collection the other day a visitor asked: "What's the use of collecting all these bits of paper?"

"Just as much use," said an 80-year-old man from Beverly, who was present, "as in making a two-century run in a day on a bicycle. It's a hobby that takes a man's mind away from business cares and gives it a change and a rest."

The State House figures in some of the most interesting collections shown. Senator Ernest R. Ackerman, of Union County, a stamp collector of world renown, shows a specialized Canal Zone display which won a silver medal at the Vienna Exposition in 1911. Former State Architect George E. Poole shows Chile, Siam and other foreign stamps. E. B. Sterling, another State House expert, displays lock seals (reconstructed plates) and tax paids (special tax), while M. H. Potts, a Chancery office clerk, displays stamps from Denmark and the United States.

ACKERMAN'S COLLECTION.

Former Senator Ackerman's collection is contained in two volumes and is practically complete in all minor varieties. There are more than twenty full sheets of stamps, each mounted in two sections. All varieties are carefully noted in neat lettering. The whole collection is handsomely mounted. Mr. Sterling who is a stamp expert, has given the following description of Ackerman collections:

OUR NEW WHOLESALE LIST IS NOW READY

It is the largest and most comprehensive issued and contains more quotations than any other.

Collectors need not apply for it as it is intended strictly for the trade, but we shall be pleased to send it to any dealers who will write for it and enclose any printed matter to show they are in the trade.

Our Weekly Trade Circular

Is published every Monday and contains quotations for all new issues and special bargains which we are enabled to offer from time to time.

This List is sent free on payment of the postage only, 60c per annum.

WHITFIELD KING & CO.
IPSWICH, ENGLAND

"The collection is strong in used stamps. Many varieties, especially of the different 5-cent printings are unknown, except used. Of the first issue of 2-cent stamps (only 25 sheets of which were issued), five blocks are shown, including one with Canal Zone inverted on all stamps.

"The United States stamps with 'Canal Zone' printed in them for use in the Zone, shown in the collection, are strong in plate numbers (strips of three, or blocks), in fact the best in this respect.

"The 1-cent green stamp is shown in four sheets, representing the four printings. The 2-cent rose variety with the 'L' of the word 'Canal' printed sideways, a great rarity is shown in a block. The complicated 5-cent stamps are well represented in the various settings on the several Panama printings, including four full sheets. Some of these printings are scarcely known, except used.

"The variety with 'Canal Zone' double is shown unused. The variety 'Zone' antique on the five-cent bright rose carmine overprint, appears unused and used, in either way extremely rare. There are a dozen copies of the rare eight-cent on third Panama issue, of which only four sheets were ever printed of the eight-cent variety with red-brown surcharge, there is an entire sheet of the fifth setting, showing the rare variety of antique type. Of this variety only about eight sheets were printed.

"The block of four of the ten-cent variety with 'Panama' surcharged double is extremely rare. The portrait issues shown give the numerous shades and rare varieties in blocks.

The Ackerman collection, if displayed in frames in its entirety, would fill the art gallery completely.

Former State Architect Poole has collected fifty-two pages from the two Ackerman albums, which are mounted in sixteen frames for exhibition. The balance of the collection is in the posession of Mr. Sterling, and is open to the inspection of all stamp collectors who attend the exhibit from a distance.

Mr. Poole's stamps from Chile are complete, containing every variety issued from 1853 to date, most in both used and unused conditions; a great many used pairs and some blocks of four and six stamps. The Siam collection is nearly complete in both unused and used conditions and includes many of the scarce surcharges and errors. They have mostly been obtained by exchanging with collectors in Siam, giving them scarce varieties of the United States.

Mr. Sterling's two frames containing four complete reconstructed sheets of United States Internal Revenue lock seals in ultramarine and brown, showing plate numbers 1 to 54 inclusive on each sheet, and series in red on each sheet, with consecutive control numbers. Mr. Sterling also shows four frames of very large stamps known as "tax paids," special tax, which are very showy and attractive and represent various sums from $3.60 to $500, that the manufacturers and dealers in liquor and tobacco pay yearly to the United States government to carry on their business.

COLUMBIAN STAMP CO., Arlington, Mass.

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Any information regarding new issues will be gratefully received and acknowledged. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, 17 Addison St., Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed, stamped envelope. We cannot give applicants the addresses of our correspondents. Correspondence regarding precancelled stamps must be sent to FRANK B. ELDREDGE, Attleboro, Mass., when due credit will be given in this department.

UNITED STATES.—L. Harald Kjellstedt writes: "Observing the plate numbers reported in the WEEKLY of Jan. 13, I am surprised to see that the reporter makes no reference to the 'A' which precedes the number on the Registry plates. At least, I suppose it is found on all the plates as so far, I have only seen A5720. As the explanation has been published that the 'A' is only used on the plates for the coiled stamps, its presence on the Registry plates will necessitate additional explanations. I have picked up the following 'A' plate numbers at Scranton recently, 1 cent—5566, 5572, 5573; 2c—5557, 5561 and 5667. I understand that 5557 was the first 'A' plate made."

We have received a number of communications regarding the varieties of the 2c Columbian stamp. As a matter of fact, as Miss Amy L. Swift pointed out in No. 1016, all these varieties were noted and mentioned while the stamps were still current, with the possible exception of the "shifted die" variety mentioned by Gen. Chas. A. Coolidge in the following letter:

"About a month ago I called the attention of the editor of the Philatelic Gazette, to the fact that there was a line and dot variety in the 2c Columbian, your type III; also single and double caps over the figures 2, to which he replied that he had received innumerable communications regarding varieties of that stamp and didn't care to publish the discoveries. Since then, however, Geo. Rice of Detroit and myself, have run across shifted die copies of the 2c Columbia. When the right verticle lines are distinctly doubled, I think this fact is so important that it ought to be recorded so that other collectors may be on the look out for specimens and preserve them, for it certainly is a rarity in any of the regular U. S. Stamps as far as I know."

Specimens of this shifted die variety have also been shown us by J. R. Belleville, Carl Moll, Peter Hylen and Arthur Barger. The latter says he has examined a large number of 2c Columbians and has found only three copies, with this newly discovered variety.

In this connection, our readers will be interested in the following from a recent number of the Philatelic Gazette:

"Since publishing and illustrating the plate variety of the 2c Columbian adhesive stamp in The Gazette of December 1, we have received several communications from readers claiming that there are many other plate varieties. This is true. There is no United States stamp but what will be found many plate varieties if each stamp is examined critically with a magnifying glass. H. Harenburg, of Paterson, N. J., showed us 20 plate varieties of the 2c Columbian adhesive, which he picked out of 18,000 used copies. This certainly shows patience as well as perseverance. Many of these, however, were not plate varieties, but evidently caused by defective inking." At George R. Tuttle's auction sale on December 30, a mint block of the 2c Columbian with the plate variety with broken line, brought $2.80.

The Philatelic Gazette says that the George Washington and Martha Washington reply card has been issued in a new color.

It was recently stated in Ewen's Weekly Stamp News that the 50 cents and $1.00 Postal Savings stamps had been issued with the new single lined watermark. Mr. J. E. Ralph, the director of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, writes to the Philatelic Gazette as follows, which disposes of the error in regard to the new watermark:

"I am in receipt of your letter of the 5th instant in which you state that you have seen the announcement in print that the 50-cent and $1.00 official United States Postal Savings stamps have appeared on paper showing the watermark in single-lined letters and requesting me to advise you whether or not the above named stamps have appeared with the new watermark.

"In reply I beg to state that the only official United States Postal Savings Bank stamps that have been printed by this Bureau were 3,000 sheets of 50-cent and 2,820 sheets of $1.00 stamps, all printed on what is denominated as the double-lined watermarked paper, none of these stamps having been printed on the new single-lined watermarked paper."

Daniel J. Kaib, reports Minneapolis, Minn., 8c 1911, normal, and Baltimore, Md., 6c 1911, normal, Gothic caps, between double lines; and Maitland Milliken says: The stamps I have are the current 4c brown and 10c yellow, overprinted with "Pueblo, Colo." in rather long capitals; but as both fail to send specimen stamps, Mr. Eldredge cannot properly chronicle them.

CANADA.—The New England Stamp Co. has shown us the 5c and 10c values of the new King George set. They were informed that the 7c and 20c values were to have been placed on sale at Ottawa Jan. 22. Like the 1c and 2c values the colors of the new stamps are much deeper than the previous issue, while the paper appears whiter—at least the plates are wiped cleaner in printing.

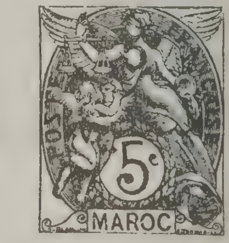
FRANCE.—Offices in Morocco.—We find that there are two varieties of the surcharge on the stamps chronicled in Nos. 1095 and 1096, the difference being in the native inscription,—the two words "Centimos" and "franc" of course requiring different characters. We also find that the postage due stamps of 1908-10 mentioned in No. 1096 as having received the new surcharge, were really the stamps fo "Recouvrements," which Scott's does not recognize.

We present herewith an illustration of the new surcharged stamp recently chronicled in this department.



GERMANY.—The Imperial Postal authorities have inaugurated a new idea in connection with the printing of the ordinary stamps of the empire. This consists of an advertisement which appears in one of the places usually occupied by a stamp. It is suggested that these are to be found in stamp books, but as to this we are not able to state definitely. Gust. G. Volger sends us a cover having both the 5pf and 10pf, with accompanying advertisements, these being all we have yet seen.

GREAT BRITAIN.—Fred J. Melville has shown us the re-engraved 1d King George stamp,—or possibly it would better be called a retouched die. The principal differences are in the beard and moustache of the King, which are now distinguishable as such, while the King's left eye is no longer a smudge of color, and in the lion, whose exposed side is now shaded all over. The stamp is improved, but is still vastly inferior to the beautiful series just started in Canada. Ewen's Weekly says the ½d also shows improvement in the printing of the portrait of the King.

NICARAGUA.—Hermann Focke sends us six values of the pretty new set printed for Nicaragua by the Waterlows of London, and placed on sale Jan. 1. The stamps are of smaller size than the last issue, a trifle larger than the current United States stamps, and are well printed, as usual with the output of the Waterlows. The design represents a standing figure of a woman, holding a flag in her right hand and an olive branch in her left. The captious critic may say that the figure is out of perspective, the flag and the olive branch being too large for the size of the woman, but the general effect is pleasing. The figures of value appear in small ovals or circles in each of the corners, with "Republica de—Nicaragua," in two slightly curved lines at the top. "Correos 1911" is printed at either side of the central opening, reading up on the left and down on the right. At the bottom, "Centavos" is placed between the figures of value. The stamps are printed on white, unwatermarked paper, and all that we have seen have been printed in a single color, except the 5c, which has the centre in black, the colors of the frame and the centre running together, as in the new Rhodesia stamps. Apparently the other values are printed at one impression, though this is not certain, though the figure is accurately placed on all values seen, except the 5c, on which it is shifted to the left and upward. Mr. Focke is informed that there is a 25c value, also, but we are unable to chronicle it. It is stated that the benevolent person, who advanced the money to the Nicaraguan Government to buy these stamps, was allowed to retain two values of the new issue, and the query at once arises as to which values are to be thus withheld. Possibly the 3c is one of them?

Mr. Focke also sends us two new provisionals from Nicaragua, the 2c railroad stamps, surcharged "Timbre Fiscal—Vale 5 ctvs." in red and "Timbre Fiscal—Vale 5 cents" in black, having received the additional surcharge of "Correo—Vale—5 cts—1911" in red on the face of the stamp. Mr. Focke asks "How long will it be before we are treated to another flood of surcharges?" and the answer is easy.

5c Prussian blue and black.

SALVADOR.—The E. B. Cookson Co. has shown us a provisional envelope of the 1903 type, the old values being obliterated by large figures in black, and the date "1911," in small figures on the base of the monument.

SWEDEN.—With the vagaries of watermark, some of which have already been noted, Sweden is qualifying for an advanced standing among the countries presenting a long list of varieties for the consideration of philatelists. Through the courtesy of the New England Stamp Co. we have been privileged to examine a complete set of the adhesive and official stamps of the Kingdom on sale in the principal post office of the realm, January 1. The list with watermarks is as follows:

Adhesives—
Watermarked crown, 1, 2, 4, 5, and 10 ore; 1kr.
Watermarked wavy lines, 2 and 4 ore.
No watermark, 5, 10, 15, 20, 25, 30 and 35 ore.

Official Stamps—
Watermarked crown, 1, 2, 4, 5, 8, 10, 15, 20, 25, 30 and 50 ore; 5kr.
Watermarked lines, 10 and 35 ore.

WITH THE BOY PHILATELIST.

Edited by BERTRAM W. H. POOLE, Box 231, Altadena, Calif.

We propose to insert upon this page matter that will be of interest to the boy collector. Some two thousand boys are now on our mailing list and it is our desire to come closely in contact with them in such a manner as will be most helpful. Any information desired will be cheerfully rendered through these columns. Do not submit stamps for examination.

THE CROWN A WATERMARK OF AUSTRALIA.

Although the Australian Commonwealth has been an accomplished fact for eleven years, the permanent set of stamps for use throughout the several states forming this union has not yet materialised. Unification has, since 1905, been effected to the small extent of employing a watermark consisting of a Crown over the letter "A" but even of this device there are three distinct varieties. The paper supplied to the Government printing establishment of Sydney, New South Wales, shows a small Crown over a single-lined "A"; that used at Melbourne, Victoria, has a large Crown over a double-lined "A"; while the paper employed at the printing office at Adelaide, South Australia, shows a Large Crown over a single-lined "A". These watermarks, therefore, are the distinguishing marks of the stamps printed at these several establishments except in the case of certain New South Wales stamps with the Melbourne watermark. These stamps were printed in Sydney on paper borrowed from Victoria.

As a further step towards unification it has now been decreed that in future one type of watermark only shall be used, viz., that of South Australia with a large Royal Crown over a single-lined "A". Pending the issue of the Commonwealth stamps proper, therefore new varieties of watermark may be looked for on the stamps of Victoria, New South Wales, Queensland, Western Australia, and Tasmania.

The above notes refer to the stamps of ordinary size, but in addition, it will be remembered, the large stamps of Queensland and New South Wales show distinctive varieties of the Crown A watermark. These also will give place to the South Australian type.

THE 2c UNITED STATES STAMP OF 1863.

A correspondent tells me he has a copy of the 2c stamp of 1863, with portrait of Andrew Jackson, which is pen-cancelled "June 27 1861", and he asks whether this is an error in the date of the cancellation or not. Most assuredly it is and my correspondent may rest perfectly satisfied that this stamp was not issued until 1863. In fact, it was not until March 3rd, 1863, that the Act of Congress was passed making this 2c stamp necessary. By the provisions of this Act, carriers fees were abolished and the prepaid rate for drop letters was fixed at 2 cents. As no stamp of this denomination was included in the then current series one had to be issued and this new label was placed in circulation on July 1st, 1863.

A CORRECTION.

Mr. H. C. Barr sends the following interesting information regarding a reply to a correspondent in the WEEKLY for December 23rd: "In your reply to L. C. S. (Rushford) you state that revenue stamps found on a small photograph were probably placed there by a collector. I take it for granted that L. C. S. has found some revenue stamps on the back of an old photograph and wonders why they were placed there. For some time after our civil war photographs were taxed the same as playing cards, and, while I have never seen any official or philatelic mention of their use, I have taken many of them from old photographs. In fact, in my youthful days, I never visited at a strange house where I did not at once look up the old family photograph album, and under the pretence of looking at the photographs, examine the backs for revenue stamps. A request for these would generally be granted, with the result of my securing, at times, quite valuable specimens."

BRITISH "CUT-OUTS."

Mr. Armin D. Schultz writes as follows:—"Lately I received a letter from England, upon which a cut-square stamp paid postage. It was a one penny carmine on white, King's head, and was simply pasted on the letter. Is this generally allowed in Great Britain and does any other country allow it?" Yes, stamps impressed on envelopes, postcards, telegraph forms, wrappers and letter cards may all be cut out and used as adhesive stamps in Great Britain. They were made available for use in this manner by virtue of a Warrant issued by the Postmaster-General on December 7th, 1904 the regulation coming into force on January 1st, 1905. Previous to this, anyone unfortunate enough to spoil any stamped stationery had to take the envelope, etc., to Somerset House to recover its value. To obviate the time and trouble wasted in this manner the honest, simple plan of allowing the stamps to be cut out and used as adhesives was brought into force. Stamps cut from Registration envelopes may likewise be cut out and used in payment of the registration fee on insured letters or parcels. The same system obtains in the British Colony of Malta but whether it is allowed anywhere else or not I cannot say.

SHORT REPLIES.

F. R. H. (Wichita, Kans.)—Pre-cancelled stamps are, I believe, not obliterated, but Mr. Kidder will be able to give you more information on this subject than I can.

A. E. S. (Loomis).—You will find an answer to your query regarding the 2c stamp of 1863 above. I am sorry I can give you no information regarding auction prices.

F. J. P., Jr., (Richmond).—Yes, Whitfield King's catalogue contains illustrations of United States stamps.

S. N. S. (Castile, N. Y.).—All the Chilean stamps of the 1910 series are printed in two colors, hence, as two operations are necessary, the absolutely correct centering of the vignette is not always possible. The varieties you mention are simply due to the central design being a little out of position and their philatelic interest and importance is, therefore, nil.

E. R. S. (Wilmington).—Your 5c Honduras stamp of 1898 printed in purple instead of blue is an error of color. It is quite common, however, being priced in the 1912 Gibbons' catalogue at 25c.

J. B. C. (Shobonier, Ill.).—The "surcharge" shown on your Indian stamps is only a private mark affixed by some firm or other to prevent the pilfering of its stamps by employees. Stamps marked in this manner correspond with those punctured with firms' initials and the varieties are of no philatelic interest. (2) The envelope stamps you refer to were issued in 1861 and 1864 respectively. They are Scott's numbers 1330 and 1350. (3) You will find a list of the Nevada State Revenue stamps in Kenyon's list of U. S. State Revenues. I am sorry I do not know where this book may be obtained at present.

The 262nd (regular) meeting of the Society, being the Annual Meeting, was held at the Club Room this evening at 8 o'clock. Pres. Wylie occupied the chair and 48 members and friends were present.

Annual reports were presented from the President, Secretary, Treasurer, Supt. of Sales, Supt. of the Bourse, Library, Expert, and Entertainment Committees. Mr. Fowle made a report of progress for the Committee on Anniversary Meeting in February.

The resignations of Nos. 213, 277, 283, 364 and 410 were presented and accepted.

The following were elected to membership: No. 553, Alex. H. Godfrey; No. 554, George Story Chapman.

A motion that all magazines received by the Society be delivered at the Club Room was lost.

Further nominations for the Library Com. were made, viz.: I. W. Risdon and F. W. Stiles.

The Entertainment provided was an exhibition of the "philatelic side-lines" collected by our fellow member, Mr. John W. Prevost of Springfield, Mass. These included all manner of "Tax-paids," for beer, spirits, cigars, cigarettes, tobacco, oleomargarine, denatured alcohol, opium, etc.; "tin-foils," cotton "tags," lock seals, hydrometer labels, Customs' stamps, etc.; and a fine collection of State Revenues, not only of the earlier period, but those at present in use in many of the States of the Union. The showing was a magnificent one, and taken in connection with the remarks and explanations of the owner made a most entertaining and instructive evening's entertainment for the large gathering. A hearty vote of thanks was passed to Mr. Prevost.

RESUME OF THE YEAR.

BY WILLARD O. WYLIE, PRESIDENT BOSTON PHILATELIC SOCIETY.

(As the official journal of the Boston Philatelic Society it is the custom of the WEEKLY to print some of the annual reports. The following has been submitted by Secretary Howes and will no doubt be followed by others.—Ed.)

As I bring to you this my final message as president of the Boston Philatelic Society, I want to express my appreciation of the honor that has been conferred upon me. To have been your president during two years of the Society's history will be treasured as the greatest philatelic honor that has ever been accorded me. We have truly been favored in being able to obtain the splendid services of such men as Lombard, Howes, Green, Rothfuchs, and others whom you have honored in the past. We may feel equally sure that rich as we are in membership material we may look forward to a leadership in the future that shall be fully as capable and devoted as that which we have had in the days gone by.

Society Retrospect.—From the report of the secretary we shall be able to glean the particulars of our achievements during the past year. It may be true that we have not made the numerical increase that may be desired. There is a well-grounded feeling that a local society needs local members who can participate in club room advantages. Members residing at a distance are unable to enter into the enjoyment of membership privileges, resulting too frequently in the presentation of resignations. What the Boston Philatelic Society needs is a propaganda that shall interest the more serious collectors who reside within reaching distance of our society meetings. There are hundreds of collectors in eastern Massachusetts who should not only be invited but urged to join our Society, and I recommend that a standing committee be appointed to serve during the coming year, this committee to take steps to carry this plan into effect.

Financial.—Our treasurer, Mr. Smith, will make us acquainted with our financial condition and we shall be brought face to face with the fact that care must be taken in the matter of appropriations during the coming year. It is oftentimes a much easier matter to vote appropriations than it is to oppose them, but our membership should appreciate our financial condition and refuse to allow sentiment to rule them where hard common sense is needed. We have a fine club room with advantages that are being more and more appreciated by the society members and any surplus funds with which we may be blessed may well be devoted to increasing its conveniences.

A New Membership List.—We are in need of a revised printed membership list. It has been several years since a supply was printed and so many changes and additions have been made in the list as to make the expense of printing a new one justifiable. I recommend that a new membership list be prepared and printed, keeping the item of expense as low as possible.

Entertainment.—We have been especially favored during the past year with an entertainment committee that has done its very best to make the meetings interesting. We owe particularly a debt of gratitude to Mr. Barker who has been instant in season and out of season in providing attractive and educational features. During the coming year a little different plan will be tried than in the past and two members are to be selected at each meeting to provide the entertainment for the meeting three months in advance. It is expected that this plan will arouse a competitive feature that will add materially to the interest in the monthly meetings.

From the National Standpoint.—Our national organization, the American Philatelic Society, held its annual meeting at Chicago in August. Mr. F. R. Cornwall of St. Louis was elected president and Mr. W. H. Barnum of Cleveland was re-elected secretary. The Philadelphia Stamp News was selected as the official journal of the society. The 1912 convention-seat will be Springfield, Mass., and its nearness will no

4c COLUMBIAN VARIETIES.

G. A. Hunt calls our attention to certain varieties that may be found in the 4c Columbian stamp. We will attempt a brief description of the same:—

Type 1, normal. The ornaments projecting into the ground back of the numeral 4 in the upper right and left hand corners are identical or nearly so.

Type 2. The ornaments projecting into the back ground of the upper right hand numeral have four divisions instead of three.

Type 3. This, the rarest type, has a double quadrefoil ornament projecting into the background of the right hand numeral 4.

Both of these varieties are very pronounced and yet they are both due no doubt to defective printing from uncleaned plates. The above sketch is not drawn exactly to scale but will suffice to identify both varieties.

It may be added that the third variety may be found on stamps both with and without the four divisioned ornament illustrated as type 2.

doubt result in a large attendance of our Boston society membership. The fraternal relationship that has always existed between the Springfield and Boston societies will no doubt find its expression in a large attendance from the eastern part of the state.

American Philatelic Journalism.—At the present time we have three weekly stamp papers, MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS, the Philadelphia Stamp News and Redfield's Weekly. During the year MEKEEL'S WEEKLY has pursued the even tenor of its way and Jan. 1 entered in upon its twenty-sixth volume. The Philadelphia Stamp News is a paper of much promise and deserves every good word that may be spoken of it, together with increased patronage. It cannot be said that 1911 has brought increased prosperity to Redfield's Weekly, judging from its decreased size.

We have several promising monthlies, two in particular, the Stamp Journal and Everybody's Philatelist, being especially deserving of mention. There are several other amateur philatelic monthlies that may blossom in the near future into more pretentious advocates of philately.

The Philatelic Gazette, issued semimonthly and making a specialty of the treatment of U. S. and colonial issues, is published by a company with which Mr. Bartels, an esteemed member of our Society, is prominently connected. The paper has been well received and is a notable addition to the ranks of philatelic journalism.

1911 Exhibitions.—Three great stamp exhibitions stand out prominently as we review the year's work:—Vienna, Chicago and Sydney, while minor exhibitions have been held at Turin, Georgetown and other philatelic centres. The exhibit at Vienna was a very notable one and particularly so because of the high honors obtained by American collectors, and especially members of our own society. Mr. Bartels represented the B. P. S. at this exhibition.

The Chicago exhibition was held in connection with the convention of the A. P. S. and marked the completion of the 25th year of its organization. This exhibition reflected great credit upon its promoters and received a great deal of attention at the hands of the foreign press. It should have received more attention here in our own country. At Sydney Messrs. Pack and Crocker upheld the dignity of American philately and both were accorded gold medals as a result of their entries. The movement to inaugurate a great international exhibition to be held in New York in 1913 is taking on shape and as a society we should co-operate enthusiastically in making the same a success. A competent committee has been selected to take charge of the same.

It should be recorded also that in 1915 San Francisco will hold a great exhibition. Mr. Crocker in person made us acquainted with this fact upon the occasion of his visit to this city and we then pledged our hearty co-operation to the success of the movement.

Philatelic Societies.—There is an actual need for the local society. There is also a work for a national organization. At the present time we are confronted by two propositions. One seeks to amalgamate certain of our national junior societies into the one organization, and the movement should have the hearty support of their membership. Indeed, we are satisfied that the American Philatelic Society might well fill the need, with a junior branch rendering unnecessary any other national stamp society.

Mr. Paul Mason in Everybody's Philatelist advocates an Academy of American Philately an advanced grade as it were in which membership would be possible through special service in the ranks of philately. The idea is a praiseworthy one, though in this connection I should insist that it would be well to make it a branch of the national society. We shall do well to make the A. P. S. the organized channel for service so far as the general welfare of American philately is concerned.

The Year's Stamps.—The postal savings stamps have been very much in the public eye so far as American collectors are concerned. The new registry stamp has made its appearance and we are assured that an entirely new set will soon be forthcoming. The year 1912 will no doubt see some recognition paid to aviation by the P. O. Dept.

Crossing the line we find that on the New Year Canada issued two values of the new King George set. These values are to remain on sale for a month and then withdrawn until the King Edward stamps are disposed of. The handsome set issued by Newfoundland known as the Royal Portrait Gallery was received with open arms.

Beyond the Atlantic we find in Great Britain quite a little excitement in connection with the engraving and perforating of its stamps. Two King George values have appeared and the English press and people generally were unable to find words with which to express their dissatisfaction.

Portugal has led us a merry chase with its "Republica" issues and the specialist in this country has had sufficient to keep him and his pocketbook busy.

I do not think it necessary to take your time in any further consideration of the stamp issues of the past year.

In Conclusion.—Thanking you for the honor that you have twice conferred upon me by electing me president I now return the responsibility connected with it to you, and trust that my successor may be able to do far more than I have done to advance the interests of the Society.

Very truly yours,
WILLARD O. WYLIE.

LOS ANGELES AEROPLANE MAIL.

By ARTHUR W. LINE.

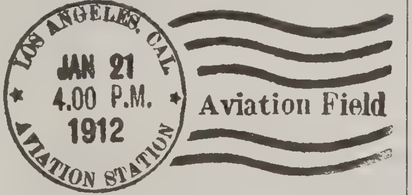
(We are under obligations to Mr. Line for the latest details in connection with the aviation meet at Los Angeles and the aeroplane mail service there installed. The story of the service will be read with interest. The postmark used will be illustrated and a description of the same will be unnecessary. The WEEKLY acknowledges courtesies rendered by J. F. Heartwell, and our old friend, C. F. Rothfuchs.—Ed.)

This afternoon (Sunday, Jan. 21) the second day of the meet, I went down to the Aviation Field at Dominguez, about 18 miles south of Los Angeles, to see the Aeroplanes, and of course spent a good part of the time at the "Aviation Field Station," Los Angeles, Cal., post office.

The Office was housed in a small tent with a counter fixed up one end. The equipment consisted of a table, two chairs, some boxes, a glue pot, blotters, pens, ink, cash box containing stamps, carriers' mail bag, mail pouches.

One cent and two cent stamps, Special delivery stamps, one cent "red" postcards, and two cent stamped envelopes were on sale. I bought the last four postal cards in stock some time before the first mail of the day left at about 2.30 p. m.

A small crowd was around the office all the afternoon and mail was handed in at rate of probably six pieces every minute. The great bulk of the mail was postal cards, view postcards and one cent third class pieces. The latter were panoramic views of the grounds mailed in tube form, light but bulky.



There were two clerks busy most of the time, selling stamps, etc., and cancelling mail. This latter operation was a very slow process, as the clerk took great care to place a solid and clean impression on each piece, even to the tubes.

A Special Delivery messenger boy was in attendance to carry the mail from the office to the waiting aviator in front of the thousands of spectators in the grand stand, where it was placed in a convenient receptacle on the aeroplane. The aviator, sworn in as a mail carrier, then flew to Compton, Cal., post office, about four miles north where he dropped the pouch to the waiting postmaster below, who sent it by rail to Los Angeles. This is probably one of the few cases where mail from a city substation to Head Office is handled via a country post office several miles away.

As there are so many aeroplanes and aviators at the field it is probable that the eighteen consecutive trips will be made without the slightest hitch, which will be a much better record than the recent English London to Windsor service.

If I can get any further information from the press or from observation about the air route mail service will send it along with least possible delay.

I will later try to obtain figures as to the quantity of mail handled by aeroplane during the entire meet.

In my last letter I offered to mail at the Aviation Field any mail sent to me under cover and stamped and addressed ready for mailing. I stated you could print this offer if you thought it proper.

Now at this writing I don't know whether you printed this, but if you did I fear that it will be so late that some letters might reach me too late to mail, as the last mail closes at 4.00 p. m., Sunday, January 28, 1912. It is quite possible, however, that the meet will be extended a few days, as it has before. In any case I will keep myself posted and will arrange with my mail carrier to get all mail for me up to the last minute.

I enclose clipping from the San Francisco Examiner of January 21, the mail service receiving considerable attention at the hands of the press:—

"Manager Ferris introduced many innovations yesterday, one of the best being the mail-carrying job. This fell to Glenn Martin, the Santa Ana aviator, who has come up from the novice class in the last year to the ultra-professional class. Postals and letters were collected on the ground, taken to the aviation post office, stamped, placed in a bag and given into Martin's hands.

"All the details up to the act of transportation were arranged by Postmaster Harrison. Martin's assignment was to carry the mail to the nearest post office, which is Compton, and this task he executed faithfully and so expeditiously that he was back in the field from the seven-mile flight in little more than ten minutes.

"The matter of delivering mail is still a crude performance, naturally, and the lack of facilities compelled the pioneer in the sky route to drop the bag on the likeliest spot in the nearby town. Fortunately it fell clear of any head or any other sensitive obstruction and was picked up as per schedule."

OUR REVIEW.

We have before us the Year Book of the United States Revenue Society, it being the fifth annual of its kind. The annual convention is reported in full, the total membership being given as 139. The book contains a list of society members, showing a representative body of American philatelists.

The Postage Stamps of Soudan—by D. B. Armstrong is the first of a series of handbooks to be issued by Bright & Son, London, Eng. The book is well printed and illustrated. In addition to the regular issues the service stamps are given special attention. One chapter is devoted to postmarks and postal curios. We note also a list of Soudan post offices in operation January 1, 1911. Mr. Howes calls our attention to the fact that Mr. Armstrong has made the very common mistake of making "S. G." represent "Service Gouvernmental". Its real meaning is "Soudan Government". The publishers of the WEEKLY can supply the book for 20c, postpaid.

The Stamp Year.—This book styles itself "an annual digest of postal and philatelic information". It is all that surely. One marvels at the mass of information to be found between the covers of this very meritorious work. Mr. Melville is the editor and like everything else emanating from his pen, bears the mark of originality and genius. We cannot do justice to the book, embracing as it does such a wide variety of contents. The best review we can give the book is to urge every subscriber to send 25c to W. H. Peckitt, 47 Strand, London, Eng., when it will be their privilege and delight to delve deep into information contained in its more than two hundred pages. There are many full page illustrations of stamps and stamp men, and we are pleased to note that it is intended to make the book an annual production.

EDITORIAL.

Searching—There are evidences at hand that the descriptions of the minor varieties of the two-cent Columbian have stimulated research work with other United States stamps as the subjects. We wager that in many a philatelic home in city and country, the light burns brightly these evenings while the intent philatelist bends to the task of scrutinizing his duplicates for minor variations in design. For instance, if an aggregate of the time spent by collectors in searching for caps on the two-cent of 1890, since the date of the discovery of the varieties to the present time could be computed, it would be found that years had been given to the search. At least, the position of the collectors who from force of habit, rather than because of any enthusiasm, kept his bundles of used two-cent Columbians despite auction prices of a cent or two a hundred for the stamps is vindicated. He has material at his elbow with which to take a pleasant excursion bent on discovery of the minor type differences already listed and possibly, of others that are not known.

Another—Mr. Ignaz Stauffer, Carnegie, Pa., in sending a right cap "2" variety of the two-cent Columbian for inspection encloses a highly interesting minor variety of the frame at right that must be added to the list of existing variations. Mr. Stauffer has found a variety with a double line at the right. The heavy "cut-off" line at the extreme right of the stamp normally—vide issue of Jan. 13th, 1912, page 13—is fortified by a comparatively thin extra line just beyond it. The second line is not the result of a split in the heavy line or of any mechanical accident but is clear-cut and deeply defined. This variety which perhaps has not been listed heretofore is the most interesting of all in some respects.

A Good One—A minor variety of worthy aspect in the one-cent blue, 1861 has been discovered by Mr. F. E. Farnham of Chicago. In this case, the variation is a palpable one and is of visible importance, so to say. On the edge of the arabesque at the border of the left of the stamp, on a line with "U" of U. S., in the normal stamp is a little arrow-head like ornament. This detail of engraving balances the small scroll on the right side of the stamp, opposite the "e" of Postage. In the ordinary stamp, the arrow-head is fitted against the border and no line radiates from it. On the variety a well sustained line shoots from the ornament and describes an arc that intersects the right foot or spur of the "1" in the upper left corner and proceeds through the ornamentation to join the oval frame-line several millimeters away. The line seems to be too pronounced to be accounted for as an accidental scratch of the "graver" and by no means is it a line of color carried by a hair or wisp of waste. It is on the die of one of the stamps of a certain plate and it would be interesting to hear of the existence of another specimen showing this variety.

Curious—Mr. T. E. Flick, Galveston, calls attention to a specimen of the 12-cent, 1870-71, on which he notes "a line about ⅛ millimeters below the design clear across the stamp. This line does not stop at the corners of the design but goes straight on. It can not be a guide-line as it is too close to the stamp." This question of guide-line is somewhat puzzling in this case and while we are not prepared to say that Mr. Flick has not found a real variety, yet it is known from observation of the guide-lines and dots on the 1869 and the next issues that there is some variability of the lines in relation to the position of the stamps. However, the fact that the line on Mr. Flick's specimen almost touches the design makes the stamp of unusual interest and if there are any speculations as to the presence of the line other than on the score of guide-lines, they would be welcome.

High Jump—A bit of memorabilia is in the possession of a collector who shows the two-cent green U. S. revenue stamp, civil war period, orange on green paper, on the original receipt, with a postmark of the Merchants' Despatch Company, New York, covering the stamp. The item is on the original slip of an auction sale held in New York City in 1886 by the renowned Joseph J. Casey, whose name will bring to the minds of the old-timers many recollections. Moreover, the lot was a part of the collection of George B. Mason of New Jersey, whose name almost stood with that of E. B. Sterling as a student of United States revenues in the eighties. It should be added that the stamp in question was bought for ten cents at the sale and that it now catalogues at fifteen dollars "off the cover". The original envelope in which the stamp was forwarded to the buyer by Mr. Casey is shown as well.

Proposed Tax—Mr. R. McP. Cabeen, Chicago, calls attention to the following news item which indicates the possibility of the issue of new revenue stamps. Incidentally, it may be mentioned that Mr. Cabeen was the winner of first prize in the contest for cover design of Klein's auction catalogue. Some weeks ago, Representative Sisson of Mississippi introduced a bill imposing heavy tax upon all deadly weapons and cartridges made and sold in this country. One of the provisions of the bill follows as of interest to philatelists: "Internal revenue stamps prepared by the secretary of the treasury shall be attached to each weapon and box of cartridges by the manufacturer or dealer and canceled when offered for sale, the cancellation showing the date and initials of the cancelor." Philatelists are not "gun-toters"; they would not pay the tax but would collect the stamps.

Official Journals—An officer of one of the stamp societies says that the American Philatelic Society with a junior division or the A. P. S. and a separate society designed especially for junior collectors, together with a few organizations whose membership is of specialists in different lines is enough for all practical purposes. He agrees with what was said last week in this column. He adds that for every society there is an official journal and he thinks that publishers are prone to multiply societies for their own satisfaction, even if no thought of profit attends their service as official "organs". More local and fewer national societies would maintain the balance as at present and the chance of being named as official journal would not suffer.

You Need It—Our friends are having good words for our first booklet publication, Cook Islands, by Bertram W. H. Poole, and published at twenty-five cents a copy. If one has no philatelic library, a start could be made with Cook Islands; and it will be a requisite for those libraries that are established.

IPSWICH, ENGLAND

PROPOSED SOCIETY CONSOLIDATION.

By H. S. POWELL.

Some Reasons Why the M. P. A. and the S. P. A. Should be Amalgamated.

1. Both societies cater for the same class of collectors and "In Union there is Strength".

2. United there would be but little more expense for the whole then it now takes to run each association.

3. It would save many from remitting dues twice. There being many dealers and collectors that are members of both societies.

4. One Year Book would take the place of two. It could be made better and then save a nice lot of money. Save on postage, etc.

5. There would be a surplus of cash-on-hand and that could be used toward giving all members "real benefits".

6. Compensation could be given the secretary. I can say that it is work and am not going to run again. I would like to see the secretary-treasurer paid in part for his time.

Benefits That Would be Effected by Amalgamation.

1. Medals could be presented to members either contributing to philatelic literature of the year or exhibiting portions of their collections at the annual convention.

2. I would favor the incorporation of the United societies * * * * with the charter power to confer the degree—"Fellow of the American Academy of Philately". Let a limited number of degrees of this sort be conferred each year by the Board of Directors of the National Philatelic Union.

3. The union will take the field in America that the Junior Philatelic Society of London does in England.

Suggestions That Will Save Friction.

1. A special mail election shall be called by the Presidents of both of the societies.

2. The convention shall be at Harrisburg, Pa.

3. Neither L. Harald Kjellstedt, the President of the S. P. A., nor myself (H. S. Powell), the secretary-treasurer of the S. P. A., will run for re-election as neither of us have the time to devote to filling these offices right.

4. Before the convention, each association nominates its ticket and the two tickets will be combined, the candidates receiving a majority of votes cast by the two memberships combined, being elected.

5. When this is accomplished the other work necessary will be done by committees or by appointed branch societies in different cities, but I want to urge the convention to make the entrance fee 50c and the yearly dues 60c. Compensation to the Secretary-Treasurer. Cash offers from philatelic publications for exclusive right to official reports, etc., should be invited by journals able to serve the society efficiently and regularly.

6. The M. P. A. constitution which was lately brought up-to-date would be used as the basis for the new constitution which would be revised by a committee and passed upon by the Board of Vice Presidents or Directors, as they may be called, of the society.

By uniting the M. P. A. and the S. P. A. new interest would be awakened among the membership. Things would be done right. Members will be shown real benefits and will never regret the amalgamation. The bigger men are behind this movement and will see to it that this society grows to be one of the largest and best.

As the officers of both associations are working for amalgamation and have been in favor of the combine for years it is an assured fact that the new society will live and prosper from the start.

There are no grounds for any reasons against the amalgamation. All the philatelic press is for it. Only persons holding offices which would show them personal gain would be against the movement and I don't think that there is any such person in these associations.

Two great benefits are the sales and exchange departments. Mr. Roemer of the Southern Philatelic Association has built of the best department known in any society. He is a man of mature years and a philatelic expert, in every sense of the word. As he is not a dealer would suggest that every member of both associations give him their support as it is well to have the right man in this important office. He has proven trustworthy for many years and one must be so, as most members trust that officer with valuable selections.

Mr. Hollenbach is a man all respect and who is there who would make a better President for the National Philatelic Union? And for Secretary-Treasurer I would suggest Mr. Webb.

It is very important that we get real men in the offices for the first year and for that matter for all succeeding years. Give this your support.

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Any information regarding new issues will be gratefully received and acknowledged. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, 17 Addison St., Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed, stamped envelope. We cannot give applicants the addresses of our correspondents. Correspondence regarding precancelled stamps must be sent to FRANK B. ELDREDGE, Attleboro, Mass., when due credit will be given in this department.

UNITED STATES.—The New England Stamp Co. is officially informed that the new stamps will be on sale February 1, and that they will be issued to the various postoffices as the requisitions come, and the exhaustion of the stocks of the old stamps necessitate. The Official Guide says that the 1c and 2c values of the new set will have portrait of Washington, the present 3c, 4c, 5c and 6c values will not be changed and the 8c, 10c, 15c, 50c and $1 values will have portrait of Franklin. The colors of the higher values will be as follows: 8c, olive; 10c, dark yellow; 15c, gray; 50c, lavender; $1, dark purple brown. The most notable change in colors will be in the 15c value. The new stamps will probably be on sale at some offices before this is printed.

The New England Stamp Co. also calls our attention to a change in the current watermark, which has been adopted by the Department without any announcement being officially made. The new watermark is like the first 1911 watermark, except that the letters are taller and broader, and the lines are stronger. This third watermark ought to be much easier to distinguish than the second, and it would appear to be a difficult matter to get any of the stamps without any portion of the watermark showing, something which often happened with the second design. It is suggested that the stamps with the second watermark are likely to be scarce, relatively speaking, as the innovation came without much notice being taken of it, and possibly dealers and collectors were caught napping. The values of the current set issued with the second watermark were from 1c to 15c, except the 13c. The 50c and $1 were in heavy stock and no new printings were necessary, while the early suppression of the 13c value prevented printing a new supply of that value. As the new stamps are now being printed, it is not probable that the 50c and $1 values will ever be found with anything except the first (1895) watermark.

Have you anything to buy, sell or exchange? This column only 20c per line.

The following have been reported to Mr. Eldredge, but have not been placed, owing to lack of specimens:

E. J. Post reports the following precancels that were created by reason of the ruling of the Postmaster General at Christmas time:

Bristol, Tenn., 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6c, normal, catacornered and lengthwise, no bars.

C. H. Palmer reports having the 3c and 10c, 1909, Greenfield, Mass., and the 4c, 5c and 15c of Northampton, Mass.

Robert Weber reports the following:

Stamford, Conn., 5c and 10c, 1911.
Waterbury, Conn., 10c 1911.

Westbrook, Me., 10c 1911.
Pawtucket, R. I., 1c, 2c, 4c 1911, cancelled with P. O. stamp.

The Precancel Editor has received a letter from a correspondent, saying that the Paris, Ky., precancels which were chronicled in No. 1092 are all fakes.

We have been fairly swamped with communications regarding the varieties of the 2c Columbian since the publication of the article and accompanying illustrations in No. 1098. Supplementing his previous note regarding the shifted die variety, Gen. C. A. Coolidge reports having found the shifted die on stamps with both types I and II of Mr. Hunt's illustrations. Elmer Toepelmann has also shown us type II, with the shifted die, also.

J. M. C. Milano reports (and illustrates) finding 11 varieties with the broken line at the right, though after looking through 1018 copies has been unable to find Mr. Hunt's type III exactly. Mr. Milano reports that out of 1018 copies he found 167 of type II and five of type IV.

W. H. Peckitt's New Wholesale List for Dealers containing prices for a number of better class stamps not usually sold wholesale, sent post free upon receipt of business card or heading. 47 Strand, London, W. C. [08

Earl Whiting reports and illustrates 10 types in addition to the four noted by Mr. Hunt, including the double line variety, first reported by Gen. Coolidge. Mr. Whiting elaborates an ingenious theory as to the way these line varieties occurred, which we have not space to reproduce here.

Burt McCann also submits several stamps with colorless spots in the oval surrounding the "2", both right and left. When these colorless spots are curved in form and fit closely to the top of the "2", it forms what is called the capped variety. It does not have the distinct shape of the capped varieties of the 2c of 1890.

In his search for broken lines W. O. Thiede has had better luck than most of his competitors. Not only has he found the main types of the broken line at the right, but also he shows specimens with broken lines also at the left and at the bottom.

All of the above gives strength to the opinion that there are but two varieties worthy of especial note. These are Mr. Hunt's type II and the shifted die variety. The New England Stamp Co. has shown us unused specimens of the type II variety, and have a whole sheet of the same, showing that it was a defect in the transfer roll, and not in the plate. The others appear to be defects in the plate, and none of them appear to have been due to any defect in the original die.

ARGENTINE.—Whitfield King & Co. report having seen the 2c value of the new "Sower" type, but as we have not yet seen the stamp, cannot say whether it was printed in this country or by the Argentine National Printing Office.

Adhesive.

2c purple brown.

Mr. Schachne has shown us the latest letter card which is identical with the San Martin card except the stamp, which is of the new "Sower" type.

Letter Card.

5c carmine on yellowish.

AUSTRIA.—Offices in the Levant.—All values of the Postage Due stamps for the Levant from ¼pi to 30pi have now appeared in dark green, according to Maury's Collectionneur.

AZORES.—The whole of the Vasco da Gama series for Azores has received similar overprints and surcharges to those already described under Portugal, with the word "Acores" added to the converted Postage Dues.

Brunei. — Maury's Collectionneur chronicles a change of colors in two of the higher values of the 1907 set.

Adhesives.

30c orange and violet.
$1 carmine and black on blue.

Canada.—The New England Stamp Co. has shown us the 7c and 20c values, in the new type already illustrated. The colors of the new stamps like the four varieties previously chronicled are darker than the previous set.

Adhesives.

7c olive bistre.
20c dark olive green.

Costa Rica.—Whitfield King & Co. have shown us another provisional stamp from this Republic, made by surcharging the 25c value of the current Telegraph series, in the same way as noted on the 10c in No. 1096. The new surcharge is in black and reads "Correos—Un Centavo".

Provisional Adhesive.

Surcharged in black on Telegraph stamp.
"Un Centavo" on 25c violet.

William L. Aldrich has shown us two more provisionals from Costa Rica, the higher values of the Telegraph set being brought into use this time. The "Un Centavo" on 10c and 25c having previously been chronicled. The form of the surcharge is the same as previously noted, though the colors are changed.

Provisional Adhesives.

Surcharged on Telegraph stamps.
"Un Centavo" on 50c red violet; surcharge green.
"Un Centavo" on 1 colon brown; surcharge red.

Great Britain. — Arthur W. Line sends us an interesting communication regarding the recently issued perforation varieties of Great Britain, and incidentally remarks that he is ashamed of his native land on account of its recent philatelic history. He lists those he has seen, as follows:

Edward VII—
  ½d green, 14x14.
  1d red, 14x14, 14½x14, 15x14.
  2½d ultramarine, 14½x14½.
  4d orange, 15x14, 15x14½.
George V—
  ½d green, 15x14.
  1d red, 14½x14½, 15x14.

The specimens of the King George stamps submitted by Mr. Line are all of the original type. A correspondent, "E. F.", sends a specimen of the re-engraved 1d stamp, and we find this is perforated 15x14, and presumably this is to be the permanent perforation, if anything can be considered permanent in the present chaotic condition of the stamp division of the British Postoffice Department.

Cuba.—We understand that the colors of the 8c stamp have been changed.

Adhesive.

8c olive green and black.

India. — Bhopal. — Gibbons Monthly says there are two types of the "Service" overprint on the current stamps. The ½a, 1a and 2a have been found with both types, but thus far the 4a has been seen with only the larger, heavier type.

Macao.—Mr. Schachne has the current cards and letter cards with the "Republica" surcharge, as below:

Post Cards.

1a orange.
1x1a orange.
1½a pale brown.
1½x1½a pale brown.
4a red.
4x4a red.

Letter Cards.

2a green.
4a red.
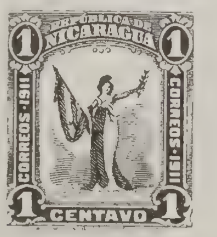
10a blue.

Nicaragua.—Mr. Focke's information was correct as to there being more values in the new set than the six originally shown us. He has now shown us the 25c and 35c values, the former being in the same design as the lower denominations, which we illustrate, though printed in two colors like the 5c. The 35c is in an entirely different design, being a horizontal oblong, though of the same size as the others. The centre shows us the familiar range of mountain peaks, the first being surmounted by the liberty cap. The C. E. Hussman Co. have also shown us the 25c in used form.



Adhesives.

25c yellow green and black.
35c blue green and red brown.

Portugal.—Whitfield King & Co. report the Madeira 80 on 150r Vasco da Gama surcharged "Republica," issued for use in Portugal. All the Portuguese Vasco da Gama stamps are now obsolete.

Sweden.—Mr. Schachne shows us the new 5 ore card dated June, 1911, which is notable from the fact that it is the first card bearing a stamp showing the King's face issued by this country in the 39 years it has used postal cards.

The King's face is in a circle, above which is a crown,—sprays of leaves are at each side—"Sverige" in a curve below. Numerals of value in each upper corner. "Brefkort" in upper center with stamp at right and arms at left. The four address lines are short, leaving a blank space below the arms for correspondence.

Post Card.

5 ore green on white; no frame.

Mr. Schachne has also shown us the letter card (dated 711) with the King's face stamp and arms as noted for the 5 ore card. The card and perforations are as the previous issue, but the instructions on the three margins are omitted.

Letter Card.

10 ore carmine on blue.

Timor.—Mr. Schachne has the post cards and letter cards of this Colony, also, surcharged "Republica".

Post Cards.

1a orange.
1x1a orange.
2a green.
2x2a green.
4a red.
4x4a red.

Letter Cards.

3a green.
3x3a green.
5a red.
5x5a red.
10a blue.

Uruguay.—Mr. Schachne has sent us a new letter card changed in form by the addition of a flap and being perforated only at the sides (Senf F F) colored pale pink outside and white inside. "Republica O. del Uruguay" in curve above "Tarjeta Epestolar" for headlines. The stamp shows a seated female with a locomotive factory etc. in the distance. Value near lower right corner.

Letter Cards.

3c brown on pale pink; 140x86 mm.

AN EXPLANATION.

Two weeks ago we published an article dealing with the varieties on the Hudson-Fulton Plate No. 5394. The particulars were furnished us by Clarke & Robb, the article reaching us just as we were going to press with our issue of Jan. 20. While the article apparently covered ground previously occupied by the Weekly, we could not readily locate the facts desired so published the article with an introductory statement.

Charles R. Morris freshens our memory in the matter and states that the facts given in the article are taken verbatim from a circular issued by him, and that he is the correspondent to whom reference is made. Mr. Morris states that he loaned the firm of Clark & Robb his last circular, not, however for publication, and that the with-holding of his name under the guise of a "correspondent" was clearly a breach of confidence.

We make this explanation in order to to do justice to our old-time correspondent, Mr. Morris, whose work as Washington correspondent of the Weekly will be remembered by a large circle of our readers.

"STAMPS HARD TO GET."

Catalog Value $2.00 and Under.

A correspondent suggests that an article dealing with hard-to-get stamps would be appreciated by our readers. We invite contributions to a symposium, suggesting that it be confined to stamps that catalog $2.00 and under. We shall hope to have a sufficient number of entries to make a worthy contribution to our columns.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—J. F. Heartwell of Long Beach, Cal., sends in his renewal by way of the mail route from the Los Angeles International Aviation Meet. We quote from Mr. Heartwell's letter:—"You have many renewals of subscription, but this one may be unique in that the cover in which it is enclosed starts on its way by 'U. S. Aerial Post', notice of which you gave your readers in the issue of Jan. 20".

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from M. S. Karlitsky, F. C. DePuy, Hugo Kuenstler (5), Adolph Klingenstein, W. H. Bruce, H. A. Benner (3), Herman W. Boers, Robt. J. McKinney.

—The Hartford Courant of Jan. 16 contained a lengthy write-up of Henry A. Chapman, who will be remembered by many of our readers as an old time collector and philatelic publisher. The article deals with Mr. Chapman's fifty years of work on the Courant and the changes in city and newspaper during the half century.

—The Canadian Philatelist has been sold to the New Yorker of Westfield, N. J., and not to a Chicago paper as indicated recently in these columns.

—M. Ohlmann of N. Y. City has earned the gratitude of several dealers by compelling Welsh to settle with interested parties. Anyone desiring the address of J. Norwood Peterson can locate him at Peggs, Okla., where he is superintendent of schools.

—Before purchasing any Cuban inverts make sure that you really want them, and as it is possible that all values have been printed in this manner in considerable quantities, pay for them no more than they are worth.

—The new United Philatelic Association which unites several smaller societies has chosen the following officers for the year 1912:—President, Julian Park, F. R. P. S.; Vice-Pres., Chas. A. Nast; Secretary, George H. Corbet; Treasurer, J. Russell Reed; International Secy., Rev. L. G. Dorpat; Directors, Walter A. Stryker and Walter E. Goodwin. Henry M. Wichman has been appointed Sales Superintendent and A. C. Roessler, Counterfeit Detector. Official Organ, The New Yorker.

—Adolph Klingenstein reports that German dealers indicate that the 60pf Germany is to be withdrawn soon. This stamp is not easily obtainable in used condition.

—J. Saulnier would like to know the present whereabouts of Fred Megson, formerly of Fort Frances, Ont., Canada. Following the sending of an approval selection no further communication has received any attention.

WITH THE BOY PHILATELIST.

Edited by BERTRAM W. H. POOLE, Box 231, Altadena, Calif.

We propose to insert upon this page matter that will be of interest to the boy collector. Some two thousand boys are now on our mailing list and it is our desire to come closely in contact with them in such a manner as will be most helpful. Any information desired will be cheerfully rendered through these columns. Do not submit stamps for examination.

MADAGASCAR AGAIN.

Mr. Herbert Armstrong points out that my statement that all the first type of the British Consular Mail stamps of Madagascar were overprinted with a red line is too sweeping. It should have been stated, by the way, that this overprinted line was a manuscript overprint. Though so regular it was drawn with pen and ink. My correspondent says "I have always refused to take copies with the red line treating them the same as I would stamps with the word 'cancelled' or 'specimen'. Mine are genuine beyond question".

THE WAR IN TRIPOLI.

Owing to the presence of the Italian expeditionary force in Benghazi, Tripoli, and consequent increase in the mail handled at the consular office there the specially overprinted stamps have been entirely used up. For the present the ordinary unsurcharged stamps of Italy are being used and as these are being cancelled with the special military postmark reading "Bengasi, Posta da Campo" they form interesting mementoes of the trouble between the Turkish and Italian Governments.

NEW STAMPS FOR PORTUGAL.

Although it is more than twelve months since Portugal became a Republic the postal authorities have been so busy using up old stocks by overprinting them with the word "Republica" that there has been no haste in attempting to issue a permanent set. According to latest advices the new stamps were to have been issued on New Year's Day. All values of the new set will be of the same design which is intended to typify the Republic. It consists of a three-quarter length figure of a native peasant woman, wearing the Phrygian Cap, and with the shield of Portugal upon her breast. The figure is shown holding a sickle with her right hand and with a sheaf of corn under her left arm. The design was drawn by Senor Constantino Fernandes while the dies were engraved and the stamps printed at the Lisbon mint. The new stamps mark a change of currency as well as of government. They are expressed in values designated "escudos" and "centimos". The escudo is equal to the old milreis and is divided into 100 centimos so that a centimo has the value of 10 reis.

GEORGIAN STAMPS.

The present promises to be a busy stamp issuing year for the British Empire for before its close most of the colonies will have issued stamps bearing the effigy of King George V. Newfoundland, Rhodesia and the Union of South Africa have had King George's portrait on some of their stamps for some months. Coincident with the great Coronation Durbar at Delhi the Indian Government issued a 1 anna stamp in the new type and a handsome production it is too. Canada as already reported in the WEEKLY has issued 1c and 2c stamps and these likewise are excellently designed and printed. The design for the new 1d stamps for the Union of South Africa has been chosen and we learn it shows "an excellent full face portrait of King George V surmounted by a Royal crown and flanked by sprays and mealies, encircled by a narrow band inscribed with the designation of the Union in English and Dutch. In the two upper corners are depicted a mail steamer and a mining shaft". The design was drawn by Mr. C. P. Immelmann of Paarl, Cape Colony, and it secured the first award in the recent Government competition.

The Australian Commonwealth still seems in an undecisive mood, for although a design for the 1d stamp bearing the King's portrait was chosen some time ago it is now rumoured that this is to be discarded in favor of a design more typical of Australia. In any case the stamps are not likely to be ready until July and if the laggard spirit that has so far animated the Commonwealth government continues the stamps may not appear for another year or two.

The design for the general "key-plate" from which the stamps of many of the smaller colonies—Cayman Is., St. Helena, Gambia, etc.—has been decided on and this will be somewhat similar to that adopted for the new Indian stamps so far as the portrait is concerned. Some of these may be expected within the next two months.

Barbados has adopted a design which will combine the sovereign's portrait and the old design; a 3d stamp for Jamaica is promised for March, while Georgian stamps for the Falkland Islands and Southern Nigeria are promised "early in the year".

In addition to these Great Britian itself is likely to have most of its new stamps in circulation before the end of the year and a re-engraved issue of the much maligned 1d should be on sale very soon.

SHORT REPLIES.

R. R. D. (Silver Lake, Ind.).—The Sarawak cancellation you mention is a perfectly genuine one and is the usual one met with on the 1871-75 issue. So far as I know there were no remainders but no doubt many sheets of the earlier stamps were cancelled to oblige some dealer or other. Specimens of these early stamps, except the 3c of 1869 are rare with original gum. I am afraid a complete list of the errors and varieties of surcharge would not be of sufficient general interest for reproduction on this page. You will find them all described in my book which can be obtained from the publisher, D. Field, 4 and 5 The Royal Arcade, Old Bond St., London, W. The flaw you mention on the 3c of 1870 occurred on the 77th stamp in the sheet of 100. So far as I know it only occurs on one of the printings. There were probably severals printings of the surcharge "ONE CENT" of 1892. On one sheet described in my book the distance between the words and the bar varies from 7 to 9 mm., but I have had other blocks and singles showing measurements of 5½, 6, and 6½ mm.

J. R. C. (New York.)—All the stamps of St. Helena watermarked Crown CC or CA were printed by Messrs. De La Rue & Co. So far as the line engraved stamps are concerned the original 6d plate was manufactured by Perkins, Bacon and Co. and the stamps issued from Jan., 1856 until July, 1863, (that is, those with the Star watermark,) were printed by that firm. After that date De La Rue obtained the printing contract though the original plate of the other firm continued in use. In fact this one plate formed the basis of all the stamps of this Colony printed from 1856 until 1894.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

WHEN PHILATELY WAS YOUNG.

By L. HARALD KJELLSTEDT, F. R. P. S.

Looking backwards to the time when I was a small boy in a small town in southern Sweden, I find no memories more vividly impressed than those connected with my first experience as a stamp collector. It was a German boy who got us little chaps interested, and incidentally extracted our scanty pocket allowances in return for stamps which later on were found sadly wanting in the line of genuineness. Some of those “stamps” were stamp cuts clipped from a German album and tinted with attractive colors. When this fact was discovered, the German boy met with a retribution, of physical nature, which made him renounce his evil ways. The first foreign stamp in mint condition that I ever saw, I bought from the German boy at a price which was more than double the present market value. The stamp was the 1c Argentine of 1873, which happened to find its way to our distant corner shortly after issue.

The stamps most in favor at the time were the Egypt issue of 1867, United States 1869 and the 1 franc gold of the Switzerland issue of 1862-63. The U. S. 15c 1869, although quite common was considered highly desirable and the acme of stamp beauty. Its local market value varied around 15 cents. During my whole time as a boy collector, I never saw a stamp advertisement or circular, never heard of a dealer or saw a dealer's price list. My album, a small German affair, was presented to me by my father upon his return from a trip to Berlin and Vienna. Most of my stamps were acquired through trading and most of the trading was done during sessions in school. There was an ever present element of danger in this session trading which appealed to the small boy. The stamps exchanged or purchased during school sessions had the additional sweetness of forbidden fruit. Many the times we were caught and soundly caned, and had our stock in trade confiscated. It never entered our minds that the teacher perhaps was a stamp collector himself.

On strength of a friendship between my father and the president of the local bank, I was given the privilege of searching the bank's waste paper baskets twice a week. This privilege was extended by me to two of my chums. The bank did a considerable amount of foreign business on account of the many textile industries located in and near the town. Our harvest of foreign stamps was correspondingly good. As our calls were made during banking hours, we were warned that no noisiness or loud talking would be tolerated. The waste baskets were found under the high bank desks and contained many things besides stamps, of which the discarded “chews” were particularly dreaded on account of their discoloring effect on the stamps. Our condition standard was extremely elastic but we drew the line at tobacco juice. Everything went well until one memorable day when we all three, at the same time, spied a large envelope adorned with a strip of German blue 30 groschen of 1871. None of us had it so all of us made a grab for it. Loud and angry exclamations of “quit yer shoving,” “I saw it first,” etc., were followed by a short, but decisive encounter which ended in three small boys being marched out in disgrace and told by the janitor to never come again. Comparing notes after the tragedy was all over, our greatest regret centered in the fact that the coveted envelope remained on the battlefield.

Three cornered Capes were highly thought of on account of their odd shape and changed hands at about 25c per copy. This was the highest price I knew any boy to pay for a stamp. The Swedish issues received comparatively small attention, although the 3 and 24sk banco stamps were a favorite topic for stamp talk on account of their fabulous value. I never saw a copy of either in any of our collections, but heard it mentioned that the 3sk sold around $1.25. The distance of the stamp issuing country, brilliant colors and pretty or odd designs were the factors which decided the value of a stamp, consequently, every stamp transaction was accompanied by much talk, the traders dwelling at length on the remarkable features connected with the stamps offered. The only classification we knew of was the geographical. Dates of issue, watermarks, perforations, paper varieties and colorshades were never mentioned or heard of, so ours was truly the "simple life." Nevertheless, we did not consider the perforations objectionable and there was very little trimming as far as I remember. The mounting was done with white flour paste and the stamps were put in to stay. Unused stamps with o. g. were considered very handy as they only had to be licked.

My collection contained around 1500 varieties when I parted with it. It was summer time, and the green hills became the stamping ground of miniature heroes patterned after Fenimore Cooper. Stamps were forgotten but suddenly remembered when a desirable piece of armament came on the market. My own collection succumbed to the charms of an ancient horse pistol which could be fired with much noise, but through a laborious process on account of the hammer having departed during an earlier stage of its history.

A HUNTING TOUR.

By Rev. Homer A. Flint.

The man of MEKEEL'S, he offers a tour
To such as have patience and wit to endure.
He calls himself Hunt; we suspect 'tis a pseudo
To warn of hard searching all them who do go.

See America first,—there is much to be seen:
They are 3, 8, and 10, and another's 13.

No.3—U.S. 1869, 90c. Scott No. 122.

Lincoln, the 90c, of year '69,
Has an "S" in low right hand, the likeness is fine.

Then the World's Fair we'll visit,—our eyes are agleam,
Our stomachs are empty, but the kettle's asteam
At La Rabida, an old convent restored.
It costs 30c, but so meagre's the board,

No. 15—Hayti 1904, 1c. Scott No. 96.

We can hardly believe this geographical mix,
But it's there sure enough, on Scott's 96.

No.14—Ecuador 1896, 2c, 10c or 50c. Scott Nos. 64, 66, 68.

PHILADELPHIA STAMP COMPANY,
PERCIVAL PARRISH, PRESIDENT, [02
1204 CHESTNUT STREET, PHILADELPHIA, PA.

OUR PICTORIAL STAMP REBUS.

Our last rebus was a very difficult one, so difficult in fact that only five persons sent in correct solutions. Geo. T. Edson expresses the general opinion of the contestants when he writes:—"This rebus is certainly a corker." Mr. Edson solved all but three and concludes his letter as follows:—"I have hunted high and low through all my albums and have at last given it up. I suspect that the three designs I have failed to find are concealed in some book or box, pictured on some stamp, and the all-searching eye of the artist was keener than mine."

The solution in verse by Rev. Homer A. Flint and published in this issue merits first honors and to him has been awarded the first prize, a 10c 1847 U. S. We shall also publish the entry of Frank C. Clark, Mr. Clark having been awarded the second highest honors. The following readers sent in correct solutions and the order in which their names are published shows their ranking:—

Rev. Homer A. Flint, Montpelier, Vt.
Frank C. Clark, Medford, Ore.
John C. Hunt, Bedford Hills, N. Y.
Arthur B. Paine, Brookline, Mass.
T. Russell Hungerford, Washington, D. C.

As only four prizes were offered we shall make a consolation award to Mr. Hungerford in recognition of his correct solution. The entry of Mr. Clark is published herewith in its entirety:—

(No. 1)—Costa Rica 1892, 2c yellow and is located near the center of the stamp, being between the words Correos and Telegrafos. Very neat.

(No. 2)—Portugal 1898, Vasco de Gama Issue, 10 reis, red violet being on the left side, immediately to the left of the letter "P" to the word Portugal to the arched label near top of stamp. It can also be found on the issues to the Portugal colonies, Azores, Macao, Maderia, Portuguese India, Timor. I thought I would never catch this fish.

(No. 3)—United States 1869, 90c Lincoln, black and carmine. Being the letter to the word STATES. I find also a letter somewhat similar on the 15c stamp of the same issue, but of course, as it is a solid color, it cannot be correct. "Pounds and shillin's" got a good look first.

(No. 4)—New Zealand 1898, 2 penny, rose brown, also imperf. vertically as well as perf. It is the label of value at bottom of stamp. It will be noted that the 2 pence of 1899 issue is unlike the 1898 issue, differing in its shape, being, as it were, more squatty, fat, rotund.

(No. 5)—North Borneo, 1893, 2c carmine and black, being the head engraved thereon; (also found in Hartford Fire Ins. Co. policies, Elk temples, etc.). Similar head with lined background to 1897 issue, 2c carmine and black. 1900, 2c green and black. Above notes apply of course to Labuan issues, 1894, 2c blue and black, and 1897, 2c blue and black, and 1900, 2c green and black. Of course the same stamps with surcharges British Protectorate, and as used for Postage Due stamps.

(No. 6)—Germany 1868, North German Postal District, being found on the lower part of the white band containing the words NORDDEUTSCHER POST-BEZIRK and directly over the letter "O" of the word GROSCHEN, to the 1gr value. It is also found on the ¼, ⅓, ½ and 1, 2 and 5gr values, including two shades to ¼ and 2gr values, and also to imperf. values as listed above. It beats the Dutch.

(No. 8)—United States 1893, 30c issue, Columbian, and is noted in the lower foreground. Perhaps it is an electric stove, anyway, the pot boils.

(No. 9)—Liberia 1897, 3c red and green, being the central design containing the value, the word "cents" being omitted.

(No. 11)—Belgium, Postage due stamps, issue of 1895 and 1900, of the values of 5, 10, 20, 50c and 1fr, being the end at the right side of the top label, containing the words "A PAYER". The initials stand for the name of engraver, A. Doms.

(No. 13)—United States, 1902-3 issue, 1c green, being one of the electric light lamps held by the figures on each side of the design, the lamp being of 500 watt tungsten power, at the top of the stamp and shining upon Benj. Franklin, the daddy of the juice in one respect.

(No. 14)—Ecuador 1896, 2c blue, 10c ochre and 50c violet. One might have an argument upon this drawing, as it corresponds to the curve of the ribbon on the above mentioned stamps, while the four other values have a similar ribbon.

(No. 15)—Hayti, 1904, regular issue, as defined by Scott's catalogue as Nos. 96 to 101, inclusive, and also including the surcharged stamp. The stamp is only of the 1 centime green value, not the others. The figure of value is located on the right side at the bottom of the stamp.

(No. 16)—French Colonies, 1881-86 issue as shown by Scott's cut A9, and also on such colonies as may have used the stamp, and is the bale and barrel at the right bottom corner of the stamp, with the flagstaff passing in front of same.

(No. 17)—Belgium 1884-85, 25c blue, pink, the upper scroll containing the figures of value.

Seven contestants failed of correct solutions in one design only and so difficult was the rebus that we are pleased to honor our subscribers who did such good work by placing them upon a roll of honor. The list follows:—

H. S. Johnson, M. D.
M. W. Turner
M. E. Cary
Lloyd R. Benson
Allen H. Blake, M. D.
R. H. Mason
Chas. F. Dosch, Jr.

No. 2 was without doubt the hardest proposition that the contestants had to deal with. Mr. Flint in his poetical effusion gives an indication of the difficulties one had to contend with. Messrs. Johnson and Turner failed to name this design.

No. 18 gave considerable trouble and this design was the stumbling block for Dr. Blake and Mr. Mason. A number wrote that this design seemed quite familiar yet difficult of location.

M. E. Cary and Chas. F. Dosch, Jr., failed to solve No. 3. In fact this design gave considerable trouble. The correct solution is the 90c 1869 U. S. The entry of Mr. Dosch was faulty only in that it named the 15c stamp of this same issue as the answer. Rev. L. R. Benson makes the distinction clear in his entry, when, naming the correct stamp, he also adds, "The 15c of this issue also has an S somewhat like this in the top panel, but it is not the same, being in single line with no shading."

Mr. Benson's excellent entry is marred by his failure to solve No. 1. He gives Bremen as the answer instead of Costa Rica.

Why Not Do a Little Missionary Work?

The above is a very attractive set but it is not a very costly one. We mention this because the P. O. department prohibits the padding of mailing lists in offering premiums so valuable that the paper becomes a secondary consideration. Unless a subscriber be a stamp collector he is of no value to our publication. We offer:—

EDITORIAL.

On View—The new United States stamps concerning which public expectation has been worked up to a high pitch by the philatelic press at last are on parade, although at the moment it must be admitted that only the ten-cent denomination has been seen. A single stamp does not make much of a procession but by the time that these words are printed, it is expected that the other values will have appeared. No doubt, the change in the stamps will excite the usual run of comment but the department in making it was guided by practical rather than artistic reasons, as the critical-minded will agree upon scrutinizing the stamps, we doubt not.

A. P. S. Medals—The medals have been distributed to the prize-winners at the exhibition held last August at the Chicago Art Institute, under the auspices of the American Philatelic Society. In order to avoid delay, the tokens were sent direct to the successful contestants by the chairman of the "section of medals," Mr. J. W. Scott, instead of by the directors of exhibit. The medal may best be described as satisfactory in design and workmanship, judged by all reasonable standards and all in all is a substantial, dignified tribute such as reflects creditably upon the society. In due time the reports of the directors of exhibit and the chairmen of the various sections will be available and from the documents, no doubt, it will be seen what was accomplished by those who were in charge of the inception and operation of the exhibition and how the handicaps of lack of time and at first indifference were overcome.

Good Start—It is noticed that some of the newspapers throughout the country have printed the following announcement, under date of New York, February 1st: "A committee of the Stamp Collectors' Club of this city is preparing plans for the entertainment of the international stamp collectors' convention and exhibition, to be held in New York in November, 1912. Stamps worth $5,000,000 will be exhibited. This will be the first international exhibition of stamps ever held in this country." This paragraph is an appropriate introduction to the forthcoming exhibition in New York, from the view-point of general publicity and it is understood that subsequent information will be furnished through the medium of the press. In short, a campaign has been started in the newspapers to attract public attention to the exhibition and it seems certain that New York will not be found lacking on the score of advertising through the public press. It has been remarked that the one shortcoming of the Chicago Exhibition of August 1911 was that no aggressive measures to promote newspaper notice were adopted. The omission was due chiefly to the lack of preparedness on the part of those having the management in charge; it was not until May 1st, about, that it was decided that the exhibition would be held and the advice to abandon the enterprise that came from influential quarters was rejected.

In Season—In keeping with cold weather, an avalanche of caps comes on the two-cent Columbian. Mr. E. Raas, San Francisco, reports as follows: "To complete information about the two-cent Columbian types as given in the issue dated January 13th, I wish to say that there are three types similar to those of the two-cent, 1890. In looking at over 3000 stamps, I found three stamps with cap over the right 2; two stamps with cap over the left 2; and one stamp with cap over both 2's."

Cotton Tax Marks—Chas. A. Nast of Denver has in preparation a brochure on the Brass Cotton Stamps of the Civil War period, which in all probability will be published by the United States Revenue Society. Mr. Nast has had the co-operation of Mr. Deats in his work to the extent that Mr. Deats, whose collection of the cotton marks is the best extant has sent Mr. Nast rubbings of the brass stamps. Mr. Nast recently secured a government publication containing all the circulars issued by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue from July 1863 to January 1871. Collectors throughout the country are asked to send rubbings of any of the brass cotton stamps that they may have to Mr. Nast direct or in our care; by rubbing the flat side of a lead pencil across the form, after a piece of soft paper has been placed upon it, a very good impression can be made. There are the cotton tax stamps on parchment as well as on brass.

Information Wanted—Now come Nicaragua stamps of new design engraved by Waterlow, one two, three, four, five and ten centavos, Nicaragua, central design of locomotive. The particular copies bear the postmark of New Orleans, the port of entry; and these newcomers, which must be in use concurrently with the stamps of the female figure type, just issued, may explain in some way the information furnished by a correspondent in New Orleans. The first set has received an addition of the 35 centavos, bi-colored, and of different design from the values, one to twenty-five centavos, inclusive. Soon all the circumstances of the issue of the new Nicaraguans will be known. In this connection the hope is expressed that definite and official news will be available concerning the reports of the demonetization of certain of the stamps of several of the countries that have entered into the recent administrative mergers in South Africa.

How—Following the recent inquiry to account for the use of a pair or strip of the semi-official stamps on cover, the same question could be applied to the local stamps. In the case of the old express companies that maintained routes covering different cities, the charge for transportation of letters was based usually upon the distance. For instance, the rate on a letter from one city to another could be 6¼ cents or one stamp; if the places were farther apart, 12½ cents or two stamps could have been the charge; and so on. Usually, the companies with independent routes sold their stamps, twenty for one dollar and a concession in rate was made, as indicated, if stamps were used by the sender.

Kinder Treatment—There has been something of a revival of interest in United States local stamps, which in the early days of philately in this country, were considered the most desirable of our stamps. While it is certain that these stamps will never regain the proud eminence that once was theirs, it is well that the neglect with which they have been treated latterly is being somewhat softened. The recent converts to the old locals will find many fascinations revealed as they pursue their specimens; and they will feel that the time and money spent in the quest are well invested.

ENGLISH "PENNY IN THE SLOT."

W. T. Wilson favors us with a letter under date of January 25 from which we quote the following:—

"This letter is franked by the "penny in the slot" machine which is introduced in London today, Jan. 25, for the first time. I think you will be interested in seeing a specimen."

The markings upon the envelope are three in number, the first is in red and contains within the regulation circle the following:—"London, E. C. 1d Postage Paid", while a crown in rough outline is in the lower part of the circle. This is no doubt made with the deposit of the penny in the machine. Followed by the later postmarking of the letter by the machine in black showing the time of deposit.

The letter is then taken to the post-office and a penny stamp applied, also a second postmark indicating time of receipt and cancellation of stamp. On the cover sent us by Mr. Wilson the penny stamp covers a small portion of the first postmark.

IN AN OLD ALBUM.

By LAURENCE J. HEYMAN.

By a fortunate chance I came across an elderly gentleman who once owned a stamp collection and which was lost in the 70's and recovered last year.

In the years 1865-1870, Mr. W. H. Kerr of this city lived in New York City and collected stamps. He returned to his home in Kentucky every year or so. On his visit in 1875 to his old home he had two albums, one he gave to a cousin, the other he kept.

During this visit their house burned down and Mr. Kerr supposed that his collection was lost; he returned to New York. After a few years he came again to Kentucky to stay permanently. In 1910 Mr. Kerr's son visited North Middletown, Ky., and while there was accosted by a boy who said that he was a son of the man to whom Mr. Kerr had given his collection and asked if his (Mr. C. Kerr's) father were W. H. Kerr. On being told "yes" he handed over the collection. Mr. C. Kerr brought it home to his father who kindly showed it to me.

Some idea of the value of this collection can be obtained by the fact that every stamp in the book (there are over 800 varieties) was collected prior to 1875 and the stamps are mostly British Colonials.

The collection contains tri-angular Capes, early U. S., Confederate and German States.

It is in an album made by D. Appleton of Broadway, New York and published in 1863.

The man in whose hands the collection remained for 35 years was a Kentuckian of Boone's type. He was illiterate, shy of society, but an excellent hunter and killed squirrels by "barking" them. That is, he shot a rifle ball so close to the heart that it paralyzed the squirrel, but did not draw one drop of blood nor break the skin.

It is remarkable that the collection should have been returned for in the 60's and 70's Kentucky was something of a new country and Fayette and Bourbon counties were covered with forests.

Mr. Kerr cherishes the collection very much and will never part with it.

EXPECTATIONS FOR 1912.

By NORMAN THORNTON.

The past year has been quite sufficiently prolific in new issues to satisfy the most enthusiastic novelty accumulators, but 1912 from all appearances bids fair to rival its predecessor, and already a large number of new stamps are either promised for the commencement of next month or are in prospect at a later date. To start at home, we have to expect the whole of the Georgian series, as well as the much-discussed re-engraving of the current 1d, for which we are told new and improved plates are to be made; hazarding a guess we suggest that part of this improvement will consist in filling in the body of the lion with shading, rather than in “filleting” the poor beast. No doubt the Georgian stamps of most British possessions will shortly begin to appear, and amongst the first of these will be the new St. Helena set. Canada has a new issue in preparation showing a portrait of King George in naval uniform, and these may be issued before these lines appear in print.

Amongst others in the colonial section, the State of Kedah, recently come under our protection, is to issue its own stamps, and the new stamps of the Union of South Africa may also be expected; our readers will remember that we illustrated a series of designs sent in for competition for this issue, of which the 6d value was accepted for use.

We had not supposed that any extensive further permutations of watermark or perforation would take place in the current stamps of the Australian States before they were superseded by the Commonwealth issue, but an announcement in The Australian Philatelist warns us that these issues are to have another kick allowed them before they make way:—

“It is the intention of the Federal Government to discontinue the use of the Victorian paper with the watermark double-lined A and Crown and no more stamps will be printed on this paper once the present stock is exhausted. Large stocks of the watermarked A and Crown (now used on the South Australian and current low-value Papuans) have been imported and are stocked ready for use, so that we may shortly expect the postage stamps of Victoria, Tasmania, West Australia, the 9d New South Wales and Queensland, and the Postage Dues to appear with this watermark. It is also possible, nay, very probable, that it will also be issued to the New South Wales and Queensland printing offices to print their own stamps on. The reason for the alteration is that the double-lined A and Crown paper is sent ungummed and has to be gummed locally, while the new paper is ready gummed before importation.”

If all current values in both perforations (and compounds) appear on this paper, it will add about six or eight pages to the bulk of the next Part I. Then we shall probably see the long-promised Commonwealth issue, which will also be attended by perforation varieties.

Turning to the foreign section, there will be the completion of the new Argentine Republic issue, which has just begun with two values noted in this number. Brazil is to scrap the Affonso Penna Official issue in favour of a new one bearing the portrait of the President, Marshal Hermes da Fonseca; and no doubt other South American Republics will oblige as usual; in fact, we believe that a new set for Nicaragua is in course of preparation in London destined, no doubt, to receive further attention at the hands of the Surcharging Department of that ingenious State.

The United States will be responsible for a fresh series with the values plainly marked in figures. No change is required in the 3c, 4c, 5c and 6c, and these, with the 1c and 2c, will bear the portrait of Washington, whilst the five higher values with that of Franklin will be the 8c, sage-green, 10c, deep orange, 15c, grey-black, 50c, purple, and $1, deep violet.

A series of Siamese stamps is being made in Leipzig, the home of Messrs. Giesecke and Devrient, which firm has already produced more than one issue for this kingdom. The new issue, like the last is designed by Sr. Tamagno, and will bear the head of the young King Wajirawudh.

Events in China being, so to speak, still sub judice, no certain forecast can be attempted, but one may venture to say that a new set here would not be an unlooked-for surprise.

We have seen it stated that a new set will become necessary for French Indo-China in consequence of the projected withdrawal of the current stamps; the reason given for this step is that the originals of the portraits thereon are well known locally as ladies of the “Glad-eye” persuasion, and their retention on the postage stamps is likely to have a demoralizing effect, but perhaps this is only an excuse for aiding a demoralized exchequer!

The list of European stamp-issuing States is to be enlarged, albeit but slightly, by the inclusion of the little principality of Liechtenstein; the postal agreement between this State and Austria has been terminated, and stamps with the portrait of the reigning Prince are being prepared at the Imperial Printing Works in Vienna. Something of an anomaly arises in this respect, as only denominations of 5, 10, and 25 heller are to appear, it is intended on January 1st, but for all higher values the Austrian stamps will still be current; thus we may find stamps of two different countries paying postage together on the same letter. Indeed, Liechtenstein seems to be the home of anomalous situations, for who would imagine this microscopic independent realm to be officially in a state of war with its big neighbour Prussia? Yet this is so; in the war of 1866 between Prussia and Austria it was Liechtenstein that first threw down the gauntlet to the former, and in the subsequent settling up of differences the two big combatants were so engrossed in their own importance that their representatives quite forgot to include Liechtenstein in the treaty of peace.

In consequence of the reduction of the parcels rate between Luxemburg and the German Empire, the former State will issue two new values of 45c and 62½c for short and long-distance packets of the weight of 5 kilogrammes.

The long-promised Belgian issue with the portrait of King Albert is still overdue, though they were long ago said to be in hand at the Malines printing works.

It is to be hoped that something will be done to clear up the Portuguese muddle and demonetize the provisionals that may remain; some excellent designs (reproduced in this paper). have been submitted, and there has been plenty of time to get well under way with the plate-making.

Finally, and forecasting still farther into the future, February, 1913, has been named as the month of issue for a new Russian series for the glorification of the three-hundredth anniversary of the Romanov Dynasty; the details, as published in the continental Press, are as follows:—

1kop,	Peter the Great.
2 ”	Alexander II.
3 ”	Alexander III.
4 ”	Peter the Great.
7 ”	Nicolas II (the Czar).
10 ”	Nicolas II.
14 ”	Katharine II. the Great.
15 ”	Nicolas I.
20 ”	Alexander I.
25 ”	Alexei Michailovitch.
35 ”	Paul I.
50 ”	Elizabeth Petrovna.
70 ”	Michael Fedorovitch.
1 rouble,	The Moscow Kremlin.
2 ”	Winter Palace, Petersburg.
3 ”	House of Romanov.
5 ”	Nicolas II.

The old 3r 50k, 7r, and 10r give place to three fresh denominations. The portraits have been allotted so that the later Czars appear on the values most commonly in use.—Gibbons Monthly Journal.

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Any information regarding new issues will be gratefully received and acknowledged. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, 17 Addison St., Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed, stamped envelope. We cannot give applicants the addresses of our correspondents. Correspondence regarding precancelled stamps must be sent to FRANK B. ELDREDGE, Attleboro, Mass., when due credit will be given in this department.

UNITED STATES.—Arthur W. Line sends us specimens of the current carmine post card, and also various picture cards, with a postmark reading "Los Angeles, Cal—Jan 28—1.30 P. M.—1912—Aviation Station." Each card bears a statement reading, "This piece of mail was carried by Aeroplane from Aviation Field Postal Station to nearest regular Postoffice at Compton, California."

Our correspondents continue to report the new varieties of the 2c Columbian stamps, though most of them have already been reported. Louis J. Hebel has shown us a fine specimen of the double line with the outer line very strongly marked. Frank E. Goodwin also reports the double line, and also several of the broken line sub varieties. Mr. Goodwin also reports a minor variety of the 1c Columbian. The normal type has heavy vertical shade lines under the word "States". In some stamps this shading is almost entirely missing.

R. J. Wagner sends us a current 2c stamp imperforate at top and bottom, and perforated 8 holes at the sides. We have previously chronicled the 5-hole and 7-hole varieties as reported by Mr. Wagner and Mr. Eldredge, and this adds another to the list of private perforations.

CONGO.—Mr. Schachne has shown us a provisional as well as a change in paper and impression for the regular cards. We notice a larger size for the double cards. The provisional is made from Senf No. 2 by a "10" in black (same type as on Senf No. 9) over lower part of the stamp.

COSTA RICA.—The Postal authorities in Costa Rica are certainly making up for lost time in the matter of surcharges. We have already chronicled the 10c, 20c, 50c and 1 colon Telegraph stamps surcharged "Un centavo". Several of our French contemporaries report that the 5 and 10 colones have also received the same surcharge. The two higher values were exhausted in a few hours on the same day they were placed on sale.

Now the surchargers have gone back to the earlier postage series, the 4c of 1903 and 10c of 1907 having been surcharged "Habilitado — 1911" like the other values previously noted. The surcharge on the 4c stamp is in black, while the 10c has been found with both black and red surcharges. We are indebted to Hermann Focke and William Lloyd for specimens of these latest surcharges. Mr. Focke calls attention to the fact that the surcharge on the 10c actually reads "Habillltado" instead of "Habilitado".

Lemaire's Journal says that the first value of the new permanent series has been issued, but we have no details except that the stamp bears the portrait of Christopher Columbus.

NEWFOUNDLAND. — Maxwell Krause has shown us a strip of three 15c lithographed stamps of the Guy issue, the figure "1" in upper left corner of the left hand stamp having a diagonal mark cutting off the upper part of the figure. This appears to have been caused by a defect in the stone from which the stamps were printed.

NICARAGUA.—Another surprise from Nicaragua! We are indebted to Hermann Focke for the first view of another new series of stamps from Nicaragua. This set, which is of larger size than that chronicled last month, 22x26 mm., was also printed by the Waterlows. The new stamps are for use on the Atlantic Coast, or in Bluefields and Cape Gracias. There is, however, neither surcharge nor any other sign of the stamps being good for postage on the Atlantic Coast only, aside from the fact that the size and design is entirely different from that of the stamps issued for Nicaragua proper, recently reported. The general arrangement of the frame is similar to that of the other set, the figures of value appearing in the four corners, with "Correos 1911" at the sides, with "Republica—de—Nicaragua" in three curved lines at the top and "Centavos" at the bottom. The centre shows a drawing of an old-fashioned locomotive, such apparently being still used in Nicaragua. The stamps are all printed in a single color, except the 35c value, on white unwatermarked paper, and are perforated 14.

PHILIPPINES.—H. H. Bandholtz reports that the 6c purple, 10c blue, 12c orange, 30c light blue and $1 lavender, and 20c special delivery, on paper with single line watermark, were on sale at the Manila Postoffice, Dec. 26, 1911.

PORTUGAL.—Whitfield King and Co. inform us that several more values of the Madeira Vasco da Gama stamps have been surcharged "Republica" for use in the mother country. We have already chronicled the 25c, 50c and 75c thus treated. The new values are the 2½r, 15 on 5r, 100r and 1000 on 100r. Of the 2½r only 35,000 were issued, most of which were distributed among the principal towns of Portugal, and the few that were placed on sale at the Lisbon Post Office were sold out in a few hours. Of the 15 on 5r the number issued was 55,000, and these were all sold out in four days.

Lemaire's Philatelist says that the 150r Madeira Vasco da Gama stamp has been surcharged with new value and "Republica", for use in Portugal.

SALVADOR. — Hermann Focke has shown us the 5c and 6c values of last year's set of these commemorative stamps, printed on paper with the familiar honeycomb watermark. The 12c still comes on ordinary paper, but it may also exist on the watermarked paper.

SERVIA.—William L. Aldrich and Whitfield King and Co. have shown us a new series of stamps from Servia, which we are informed are for use on newspaper, and which, moreover, are not for sale to all who apply. The design represents a woman sitting, turned three-quarters to the right, with right hand resting on a sword standing by her side. The left rests on a non-descript figure, which may have been intended to represent the arms of the country. If this were so, evidently the design was not satisfactory as all values have a small shield, surmounted by a crown, printed in black, above and upon the left hand. "Servia" appears in colorless letters, engraved directly upon the background in the upper right corner, while the value in figures and words is printed in a tablet at the bottom, extending across the design and separated from the rest of the stamp by a broad colorless line. The stamps are printed on white unwatermarked paper, and are perforated. The colors are weak, and the appearance decidedly mediocre.

Whitfield King and Co. have shown us two new values in the new set, with portrait of the King.

SPANISH GULF OF GUINEA.—According to Madrid Filatelico, a new series of stamps has been issued for this Colony. The portrait of King Alfonzo is turned to the left, instead of the right, and the inscriptions are reversed, "Terrs. BAVARIA.

By FRED MICHAEL.

Bavaria—Prince Luitpold. "Made in Germany" that the stamps proclaim before we read their letters, study their designs. No foreign artist drew those lines, mixed those colors. German art and a German portrait. Not idealized, of a man who rules and yet can share his peoples pleasures.

From Bayern and to many a Bavarian far from home these stamps will go, waking memories of the Fatherland and Prince. And so they should. It is not by chance that Washington appears so often on our own but to remind us of our country's birth, her history, and to awake in us thoughts of patriotism.

When a letter travels across the sea to one in a foreign land, the wanderer sees the bit of color first, a flag that should stir him with thoughts of country, home.

TRADE NOTE.

P. M. Wolsieffer, Chicago, will bring his city to the fore as an auction center by the dispersal of a hundred thousand dollar property. The first sale will be advertised by an edition of ten thousand catalogues which will be sent all over the world. Just how many sales the collection will make is not known precisely but all judgment will be observed and the market will not be forced in any way.

A DISCOVERY IN NEW ZEALANDS.

Charles Lathrop Pack has recently come in possession of a one shilling New Zealand (watermarked Star) 1862, which has the serrated perforation. Specialists in the early stamps of New Zealand have long thought it possible that the one shilling would be found in this condition.

Mr. Pack's specimen has been examined by both M. P. Castle and W. T. Wilson, and both agree that it is quite genuine, and a most interesting stamp, hitherto unseen by either of them.—P. J. of G. B.

NEW CHINESE STAMPS PROBABLE.

By H. A. BENNER.

We, as philatelists, may shortly expect a new issue of stamps from what shall soon be, The Republic of China.

A rough guess at the design of the new stamps, would possibly suggest, the six pointed star, the lately chosen emblem of the Revolutionists.

It is just a matter of days, until the dragon, which has always been the symbol of tyranny, idolatry, fear and superstition, and which has hitherto adorned the stamps and flag of the Celestial Empire, shall be entirely eliminated as the emblem of the yellow race, and shall have given place to the six pointed star, the emblem of light, liberty and progress.

After the recent great victories for the republicans, and now since sixteen of the nineteen provinces have fallen into the hands of the revolutionists, it is plainly seen that a republican government for China, and the end of the Manchu rule, and the "Chinese Imperial Post", is unavoidable.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—Henry V. Blackburn of 53 Miller Ave., Toronto, has been elected Secretary-Treasurer of the Canadian Philatelic Association. Congratulations to the association!

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from Herman W. Boers (2), E. Weiss, J. Blum, Arthur W. Line.

—Herman W. Boers favors us with a copy of an official circular sent out from the office of the Third Assistant Postmaster General, calling attention to the fact that some 10,000 so-called post cards are daily sent as unmailable direct from the office of deposit to the Dead Letter Office because of failure to comply with the postal provisions. The department urges manufacturers to co-operate with the department in avoiding the placing upon the market of unmailable cards. Special emphasis is laid upon cards that bear mica or tinsel ornaments.

—We are indebted to J. J. Prendergast and J. Doemich for back numbers of the WEEKLY sent us in connection with our recent request. W. A. Kain, R. M. Leland and R. J. Wagner have likewise favored us with copies.

—On account of increased professional duties and lack of time for outside correspondence, Mr. L. Harald Kjellstedt has found it necessary to tender his resignation as President of the Southern Philatelic Association.

—We wish to call attention to the fact that an error occurred in a recent Peckitt advertisement, when proofs of Solomon Island stamps were offered at 18c per set. The price should have been 9sh or $2.16. We make this explanation in justice to the firm.

We received nearly two score entries where two or more of the designs failed to be correctly answered and we are pleased to recognize their interest even though they failed to rank among the prize winners. In this list are the following: Stanley Cermack, Charles Huscher, Frederic C. De Puy, Edw. W. Bridge, O. H. Hilding, Chicago, Ill., W. O. Thiede, Edw. G. Braislin, Chas. B. Ryan, Roland A. Bryant, David D. Reid, W. H. Richards, Jr., Meredith Staub, Geo. T. Edson, Edw. Chamberlin, F. R. Lawrence, W. H. Lieber, C. H. Caldwell, Foster A. Tillotson, Paul E. Hollister, G. E. Fountain, L. G. Williams, Geo. M. Williams, Clyde P. Delancey, Chas. B. Paine, Jas. H. White, Alfred M. Ferguson, F, N. Chevalier, Donald M. Halstad, J. H. White, M. T. Roberts, Major Gilman, Laurence P. Dodge, F. W. Sutton, E. R. Cook, Chas. B. Paine, Mrs. C. C. Cochran.

In sending in his entry Frederick C. De Puy makes this comment on the 1c 1902 U. S. Scott's No. 300:—"The figure on either side the portrait of Franklin upholds an electric light bulb, in recognition of Franklin's electrical discoveries. Mr. Melville's book calls these figures "caryatides", but since they are male, the proper term is "atlantes" or "telamones".

Chas. Huscher frankly confesses that he experienced hard sledding. We quote as follows from the letter accompanying his entry:—"Got so interested in it that I could not stop. Did not find all but am sending what I did find. Hated to give up but as my time is up thought that I would send in what I have. I will be interested to know where that three legged fish is, where that AD appears and what country is responsible for having a buzz saw on its stamps branded with a figure "1". Had a very long hunt for that tea kettle. Looked a week for the horse shoe and whip among all the sporting countries that I could think of and then eventually found it in Japan."

The entry of Chas. F. Dosch, Jr., to which reference is made above is deserving of more than passing mention, as his failure to solve No. 3 hung by a slender thread. A bit of verse accompanied each solution, of which the following accompanying No. 6 is a sample:—

Also a dabbing of ink, plainly quartered and scrolled.
In mystery may be vested,
As an honest confession, we our labors unfold,
For three hours it had us bested.

In about two weeks we shall present a rebus of a little different character and one that will arouse a sharp competition. We are positive that our subscribers appreciate the stamp hunting contests that we have favored them with.

WITH THE BOY PHILATELIST.

Edited by BERTRAM W. H. POOLE, Box 231, Altadena, Calif.

We propose to insert upon this page matter that will be of interest to the boy collector. Some two thousand boys are now on our mailing list and it is our desire to come closely in contact with them in such a manner as will be most helpful. Any information desired will be cheerfully rendered through these columns. Do not submit stamps for examination.

BRITISH TELEPHONE STAMPS.

Since New Year's Day the National Telephone Co., of Great Britain, has been incorporated with the government system operated in connection with the Post Office so that the telephone system of the country is now entirely nationalised. It is literally a case of the lesser absorbing the greater for the National Telephone Co. had more subscribers, more lines, a larger staff, etc., than the government concern. Preparations for this step were, of course, made some years ago as it involves some millions of dollars capital besides an enormous increase in the staff of government employes. Though the National Telephone Co. started its operations in 1880, from the first it has only been able to carry on business under license from the Postmaster-General for telephones and telegraphs were considered his special preserves as much as the post itself.

It is not generally known even among stamp collectors that for a period of nearly seven years of its existence, the National Telephone Co. issued stamps of its own and moreover these stamps bore a portrait other than that of the Sovereign. In the course of an interesting article in the Philatelic Record for July, 1909, Mr. A. R. Bennett, M. I. E. E., who originated these interesting labels, tells why they were issued and how they were used. Under the terms of the license granted to the Company by the Postmaster-General, the general public were not allowed to use telephone offices for the purpose of calling up telephone subscribers. The call offices were for the use of subscribers only who were allowed to use them without charge on producing proof of identity. After lengthy agitation on the part of the Company the Post Office allowed the general public to use the call offices on condition that 10% of the fees charged should be handed to the government. It was for the purpose of collecting these fees and keeping a check on the sums taken that the stamps were issued. After the plan had been approved by the directors, Mr. Bennett humorously suggested that a portrait of the chairman of the Company, Colonel Robert Raynsford Jackson, would form a most appropriate device for the stamps. One of the directors took the suggestion quite seriously and undertook to obtain Col. Jackson's consent. Some time and a good deal of persuasion were necessary to overcome the Colonel's sense of modesty, but at last he gave his consent. The stamps were engraved and printed by Messrs. Maclure, Macdonald & Co. of Glasgow, there being four values altogether, viz., 1d, 3d, 6d and 1s. Subsequently a 4d stamp was issued to meet a demand for this value in connection with a new rate. The portrait was the same for all values though the borders for each were quite distinctive. The only inscriptions consisted of the name of the Company and the denotation of value. The total quantities printed were:—

3d dull red,	125,000
4d blue,	23,000
6d green,	94,000
1s brown,	61,000

Then, to quote Mr. Bennett, "Almost as soon as the stamps were on sale, some wag posted a number of letters at Whitehaven franked only with telephone stamps. Had an infernal machine gone off in St. Martin's-le-Grand the consternation of the Post Office could scarcely have been greater. It was the first that the department had heard of the new issue, and they instantly protested 'in holy anger and pious grief' against a subject presuming to put himself on an equality with the sovereign by graving his head on an adhesive stamp. Never before had such presumption been known! Of course no such idea of competing with the revered Queen Victoria had been entertained, and as the company's money had been spent on nearly half a million of the offending labels, the directors declined to recall the issue unless the Post Office could satisfy them that an illegality had been committed." After some correspondence it appeared likely that Post Office pressure might be pushed to extreme lengths and Mr. Bennett prepared an alternative design of "less traitorous complexion." This however, was never made use of for as official anger showed signs of cooling, the use of the offending labels was continued. There were periodic grumblings and enquiries as to when the new stamps would be ready until in 1891, the Postmaster-General "requested" the discontinuance of the stamps with such effect that they were immediately withdrawn from use.

These labels are, of course, chiefly of interest to specialists in the stamps of Great Britain, but they are also of considerable general interest as stamps out of the ordinary. They instituted a new class of stamps for communication purposes and the example set by this private company was later followed by several European telephone administrations. The labels are not particularly common, their average being $5.00 unused, and $1.00 used, according to the quotations given in Gibbons' catalogue.

HOGAN AND FINERTY CONSIDER THE DISPOSAL OF SOME BONES.

"Oi hear," said Finerty, as he ensconced himself in Hogan's most comfortable chair, "thot McMann has bought th' car-r-rpse. Phwat wull he do wid ut, Oi dinnaw."

"Not th' car-r-rpse, Finerty; not th' car-r-rpse, but only the skeleton," replied Hogan, after a pause. "Ut wor did, months ago, an' McMann only got th' bones."

"Oi'm a thinkin' they'll be slim pickin' if thot's th' case," said Finerty.

"No pickin' at all at all," said Hogan, "but an iligant chanct t' sharpen his teeth."

For a time there was silence, broken only by the rustle of papers and stamps as Hogan worked with an approval selection. After a while he paused, lighted his pipe, and after getting it well started, resumed:

"Ut all goes t' show, Finerty, thot narra'ness, back-boitin' an' scandal-mongherin' must be paid f'r in th' ind. Yez can't driss a loi in foine raimint an' make ut annythin' but a loi. ABOLISHING POSTAGE STAMPS.

W. H. E. WANKLYN in Scientific American.

In your issue of August 19th last, on page 169, under the heading of "Abstracts from Current Periodicals," there is a reference to "Abolishing Postage Stamps," and it is quoted that in Bavaria since February 1st, 1910, large consignments are simply stamped with a postmark at the post office, the operation being carried out by machinery. The practice of stamping in this manner has been in vogue for many years in the Dominion of New Zealand, and what is more, for the past six years the postal authorities have permitted the use of automatic stamping machines, and they are now almost indispensable in every business in the Dominion.

The machines are purchased by the user, being certified to and sealed by the department before going into use. All documents requiring stamping, such as postages, receipts, telegrams, drafts, bills of exchange, bills of lading, etc., are stamped with the necessary values by the machine. Periodical readings are taken by the Postal Department and payment made on a debit note.

The advantages to the department are the saving in the cost of manufacturing postage stamps and the clerical labor in the issue of stamps, while the advantage to the commercial man is the absolute protection against peculation by the office boy, whose opportunities while in charge of the petty cash for postages are unfortunately taken advantage of to an extent only too well known by the whole commercial world.

Stamping machine impressions are not negotiable, as in the case of postage stamps. Wrong additions in the postage book, overcharging postages, abbreviating telegrams, etc.,, can avail the office boy nothing, because he has to manufacture his postages, etc., as he requires them, and being without petty cash he is perforce kept honest.

He certainly might venture upon the sale of a few stamped envelopes, but detection is swift because each machine has a number which is recorded at the post office, and impressions are traceable to the office of origin in a few minutes.

DEFECTIVE AND REPAIRED.

By EDWIN B. HILL.

The hour of attainment of the perfection copy of a rare stamp is already passing; for the philatelic treasure with which every collector would pleasure his eyes and feed his soul is limited in issue and to a far greater extent, non-existent in the condition which has been set as dead-line in the collection.

Whither are we drifting? Shall we, the commonalty of mankind, pass by on the other side when some "tattered darling" is offered for a sum trifling compared with the cost of a perfect specimen? Shall we, who, with loving care, have picked up hither and yon our choicest gems, be barred forever from further growth of our collection in beloved countries?

Come, let us digress.

I began collecting the bits of paper more than thirty years ago, when condition was not so great a factor as it is today: the stamp was the thing, and merely to be able to say one had a copy of such or such a rarity was sufficient to give prestige to owner and collection. But with the passing of this boyish lot of stamps, pasted fully and securely in an old Opper's album, Philatelia lost an earnest and enthusiastic devotee.

The passing years saw several sporadic revivals of interest, resulting finally in the acquirement of a collection which was a pride—every stamp well-centered, lightly cancelled and the collection "written up" in an exhaustive manner. (I was surely pioneer in the demand for the perfectly centered irreproachable copy!) But the collection passed when other duties called.

The love slumbered: death was never its portion. A friendly collector fanned the embers, a few years ago, until they burst into flame. Mellowed by the passing years, chastened, perhaps, by world experience, the love glows unquenched.

The collection grew. Once more the common and the scarce stamps were garnered, together with a rarity, now and then,—all, of necessity, perfectly centered and lightly cancelled.

Then came the inevitable delay, which almost resulted in cessation of the search; for the blank spaces were numerous and the stamps necessary to fill them—the scarce and the rare—proved most elusive.

Among the stamps difficult to procure but occasionally met with are some specimens more or less damaged,—a thin spot,—perhaps a tear,—a corner missing,—a minute part of the design gone.

Among my books are some few rare and much-loved tomes, once broken of joints and damaged of occasional leaves,—scant of a leaf, too,—which have been expertly rebacked, the missing page replaced in fac-simile, and the damaged leaves repaired. But the edition's the thing, and this restored rarity is one which I may afford, where its perfect companion is attainable only by some Maecenas whose purse still boasts unexplored depths.

Among the stamps in my collection are a few rarities, picked up at a low price,—rarities which, fortunately for me, have been damaged. I would not disfigure my collection with them, in their crippled condition; but when they came back to me from the expert repairer's clinic (as German philatelists designate it), the stamps were, from my point of view, an ornament to a collection.

If the defective repaired stamp were forbidden wholly, where would be my United States 1870 issue 12 cents with grille, with a half dozen perforations clipped? My $2.00 State, lacking an essential portion, now supplied from a fellow-cripple? And my 24 cents Justice,—what may be said of its tear? Where would rest the rarest type of the 1-30th Oldenburg, 1852-5, with its close margins; a treasured 2 cents Hawaiian, 1861, on horizontally laid? What of these and other rare and semi-rare stamps among their seven or eight thousand perfect fellows?

All philatelists cannot attain perfection in their collections, but the strife for the goal may bring that which will feed the soul. The perfection copy does this,—the defective one, too, after its fashion; and the repaired stamp likewise should not be beyond the pale.

"The time has come," the walrus said,
"To speak of many things."
And so I break my lance. . . . .

In the garden of the world are many flowers. Some are perfect of their kind; others are dwarfed; still others stunted; and others, injured by careless hands, lack the perfection one loves to linger over. But all, both perfect and maimed, have the fragrance inimical of the species.

In the garden of philatelia are many stamps. Some are perfect of their kind; others are more or less defective by reason of contact with ruthless or careless hands. All teach the lesson, and mayhap bring joy into some heart,—the lingering loving caress of eyes lavished upon the perfect as upon the imperfect specimen,—so catholic are the tastes of the true stamp-lover!

THE LURE OF THE COMMON STAMP.

By Frank E. Goodwin.

Don't despise the common, the cheap, the insignficant stamps. In them a great deal of pleasure, and profit, too, can be derived. The common packets, a thousand for a quarter, may and often do contain many stamps which a student of stamps can add to his collection. No matter if one has every regularly issued stamp of the United States, one or more of these packets will bring to light something worth looking for.

Recently I purchased several of these common mixtures of United States stamps, and although I have a fairly complete collection. I found several varieties and oddities which I could add to my collection, or to trade with some serious collectors who did not possess them. Among the stamps secured in this way was a 3 cent green 1873, unperforated, with splendid margins all around. Then there was a nice lightly cancelled copy of the 1 cent blue, 1855-60, type 2, perfect except straight edge w. Two ungrilled 3 cent blue 1869 were also discovered. There were several nice copies of the 1873 three cent green on double paper, a 1 cent buff reissue of 1869, torn, but repairable.

In another lot of mixed United States examined several weeks before I found a well centered, lightly cancelled 2 cent brown 1873, part perforated vertically, with very wide margins. Another prize from this assortment was a nice unsevered pair 3 cent rose 1855-60 with outer line. In another mixture was a 2 cent lake 1890, with right cap. Your readers all know what that is worth.

From an approval book sent out by a big dealer firm I took a 24 cent lilac, 1868, with double grill. In the same book was a 2 cent brown, 1869 without grill.

Another sheet of approvals had a 2 cent war unused, supposed to be on soft paper. But it happened to be on the hard paper, and I annexed it without discovering what I had bought until I had time to place it in my collection. Then I discovered the mistake of the person who made up the sheet.

I could go on and tell further stories of "finds". But what's the use? Some readers would say I was booming the cheap packet business. My experience is that it pays to study stamps, and not to despise even the cheapest—a rare variety may be ready for the collector to play the part of Columbus, and discover something.

"STAMPS HARD TO GET."

Catalog Value $2.00 and Under.

A correspondent suggests that an article dealing with hard-to-get stamps would be appreciated by our readers. We invite contributions to a symposium, suggesting that it be confined to stamps that catalog $2.00 and under. We shall hope to have a sufficient number of entries to make a worthy contribution to our columns.

USE AND MISUSE OF THE NEW DISTINCTIVE REGISTRY STAMP.

Office of Third Asst. P. M. Gen.,
Washington, Jan. 25, 1912.

To All Postmasters:

The distinctive registry stamp of ten-cent denomination is to be used only in the prepayment of the registry fee on registered mail, domestic or foreign, and can be used for no other purpose. (See pages 5, 6 and 7 of the November, 1911, Postal Guide.)

As the new registry stamp is not available for the payment of postage, the following instructions are issued for the treatment of mail upon which the sender has improperly affixed such stamps in an attempt to prepay the postage:

When the distinctive registry stamp is not used, the amount of ordinary postage stamps on any article should first be applied to the payment of postage and the balance, if any, to the payment of the registry fee.

At Post Offices of Mailing.

Both postage and registry fee should be fully prepaid before matter is accepted for registration. Postmasters should decline to accept mail for registration bearing only distinctive registry stamps or bearing such stamps and an insufficient amount in ordinary postage stamps to fully prepay postage. Where mail intended for registration is presented at the post office for that purpose and is found to bear one or more registry stamps which the sender has improperly affixed in payment of the postage, the sender should be required to correct the error, and he may be allowed to remove from the envelope or wrapper the registry stamps used in an effort to pay postage, providing it can be done without mutilating the envelope or wrapper. If the cover is mutilated in attempting to remove the registry stamps, it will be necessary for the sender to reinclose the matter intended for registration.

When a letter or other article of the first class upon which the postage is wholly unpaid, or prepaid at less than one full rate (two cents), or any matter of other than the first class upon which the postage is not fully prepaid with ordinary postage stamps, has been registered by mistake or is found in the ordinary mail drop intended for registration, it should be held for prepayment and the sender, or, if the sender can not be promptly located, the addressee, required to supply the deficiency.

When any short-paid matter of the first class upon which one full rate of postage (two cents) has been prepaid by ordinary postage stamps is registered by mistake or found in the ordinary mail drop intended for registration, an effort should be made to collect the deficiency from the sender before dispatch; but if the sender cannot be promptly located, the article, if registered, will be rated up, the amount of the deficiency noted thereon for collection from the addressee upon delivery, and the article dispatched as registered mail. If the article has been deposited in the ordinary mail drop and the sender can not be promptly located, it should be indorsed "Not in the registered mail" and dispatched as ordinary mail.

At Post Offices of Address.

When through inadvertence an article bearing one or more of the distinctive registry stamps only reaches the office of destination, double the deficiency in postage should be collected from the addressee upon delivery and, if practicable, the envelope or wrapper obtained from the addressee and forwarded to the Third Assistant Postmaster General, Division of Registered Mails with a statement of the facts in the case.

When a registered article reaches the office of destination bearing ordinary postage stamps sufficient only to partially pay the postage, the deficiency in postage, computed at the single rate, should be collected upon delivery and the irregularity in accepting the matter for registration at the post office of mailing reported to the Department for administrative action.

Upon application therefor a refund to the senders of the excessive amount paid in registry fee by the improper use of the distinctive registry stamps will be authorized. In connection with this subject attention is directed to Sections 412, 421, amended Sections 571, 616, 618, 807 and amended Sections 809 and 873 of the Postal Laws and Regulations.

Third Asst. P. M. Gen.

AUTOMATIC FRANKING.

(Last week we called attention to the working of an automatic franking machine in England, and the Weekly Circular issued by Oswald Marsh, gives us a few additional particulars. We quote the following from this publication.—Ed.)

On January 25th an automatic franking machine was brought into use for experimental purposes at the General Post Office, London, and this, we presume, is in all probability the forerunner of a system of automatic franking, which, in New Zealand, has become so popular with large business houses, that high value postage stamps have become very much scarcer, and may eventually be dispensed with altogether. The machine tried at the G. P. O. consists of a letter box with narrow aperture, in this the letter to be franked is inserted, a penny is then placed in a slot just below and a handle at the right is turned, the letter vanishes and is not seen again by the public till the postman delivers it in the ordinary course. The machine impresses on the letter a red circular device, consisting of an outer line within which, at the top, is inscribed in a curve, "London, E. C.", below this a large 1D, then in a straight line the words "Postage Paid", and below this an imperial crown. This device falls about 1 inch from the top of the letter and 2¼ inches from the right side if the envelope is pushed as far into the opening as it will go, and at the same time as far to the left of the opening as possibe.

The general extension of the penny-in-the-slot system, which these experiments seem to indicate, would mean, not alone a great saving of labour by the Post Office, but a great convenience to the general public, especially in all places where the post offices close at 8 p. m.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—The following from A. C. Roessler is self explanatory:—"I note complaint by Mr. Saulnier against Fred Megson, Ft. Francis, Ont., Canada. I have just received payment from this party for goods sent two years ago. He was in the employ of the Harvester Trust Co. and used its stationery in requesting wholesale lots on approval. Lawyers in Minneapolis (where he then lived) were unable to collect and letters to the manager of the the company brought the same result—'Mr. Megson promises to pay at once?' I then traced him to Ft. Francis and the inspector at Winnipeg, Mr. W. W. McLeod, speedily brought Megson to terms."

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from K. Baumann, Frank E. Smith, Walter F. Slusser.

—L. G. Williams of Bradford, Pa., submits a drawing for a pictorial rebus contest and even names three prizes that he will be pleased to award in connection with a proposed contest. Our plans for the next four months in this direction are definitely fixed and we regret that we are unable to take advantage of Mr. Williams' kindness.

—George E. Beard submits a book containing a large number of 2c 1903 U. S. in varying shades of carmine. As is well known this stamp lends itself to a wonderful assortment of shades. Mr. Beard also submits some specimens of Carolina feed stamps.

—In our article on the 4c Columbian varieties, issue of Feb. 3, type 3 should have been located on left numeral 4 instead of right.

—"I wish to endorse Mr. Powell's article on the amalgamation of the M. P. A. & S. P. A. and would suggest that everything possible be done to help this project, both by the press and the societies."—J. H. Foster.

—W. H. Lieber, Milwaukee, Wis., submits for our inspection a drawing designed to give the comparative valuations of packets, ranging from 100 to 1500 varieties. His prices use as a basis the current market valuations for the 100, 1000 and 1500 variety packets. While we do not reproduce Mr. Lieber's diagram we make the following extract from his letter:—

"For some time past I have been carrying on a small stamp trade, dealing mostly in packets ranging in magnitude from 100 to 1000 varieties. In order to facilitate the uniform pricing of the packets of various size, I carefully estimated the prices of several sized packets, plotted these values on cross-section paper (as per the sample accompanying this letter) and drew a smooth curve through the points plotted. From this curve I was able to read directly the price of any sized packet within the limits of the curve, and I find this method to be a simple and efficient one for arriving at a uniform scale of prices. From the enclosed curve, the plotting points of which are average prices of packets containing 100, 1000, 1500 varieties respectively, it will be noted that the price of any sized packet containing between 0 and 1500 varieties can be read directly."

—What is the earliest postmark on the new 10c U. S.? D. G. Allen reports "Greenfield, Ill., Jan. 29, 1912."

—March 11 the Nassau Stamp Co. will hold its 29th auction sale at their offices in N. Y. City. The sale comprises an unusually fine lot of U. S. stamps including many and varied rarities.

—We acknowledge with thanks some back numbers of Mekeel's Weekly from Maitland Milliken.

SYDNEY VIEWS.

By A. F. Bassett Hull.

Some stamps were ready for issue on the date the Act came into force, but the supply was not equal to the demand. On 3rd January, 1850, Mr. Raymond reported that the average number printed daily was less than 5,000, and on the 23rd of the same month he stated that 130,000 stamps had been printed, but it was only within the preceding few days that the supply had been sufficient to meet the demand.

The 1d stamp was printed in red; the 2d in blue, and the 3d in green. The paper used was plain (unwatermarked), yellowish white wove, and the stamps were not perforated, that method of separating them not being invented until some years later.

The 2d value was the most in demand, and the plate soon became worn to such an extent that the design was fast disappearing. Jervis was employed to retouch the plate before the end of January, 1850, and in April of that year he re-engraved the plate in such a manner as to make a marked alteration in its appearance. The vertical lines in the spandrels were replaced by horizontal wavy lines, and the whole of Carmichael's fine engraving was made coarser. The plate was again partially retouched in August, 1850, and about September it was again entirely re-engraved and further re-engravings were rendered necessary in December, 1850, and April, 1851. In each of these re-engravings the general appearance of the stamps was altered so consistently that each stage is capable of reconstruction, and this work has been accomplished by philatelists.

The 1d plate was not so much used, and it was only re-engraved once. This work was also performed by Jervis, who deepened and coarsened Clayton's engraving, and added lines of shading or "clouds" in the "sky."

The 3d was least used, and the plate remained in good order during the three years it was in commission.

Several different papers were used for each value; yellowish, bluish, laid, and ribbed papers being employed.

These stamps were superseded by the issue of new designs—the 1d in December, 1851; the 2d in July, 1851; and the 3d in December, 1852.

Known popularly as the "Sydney Views," the first issue of adhesive stamps of this State are keenly sought after by collectors, the most advanced of whom endeavour to acquire complete reconstructed sheets of all values, re-engravings, and retouches, on all varieties of paper, and in all the more distinct shades of colour. Needless to say, this ambitious programme is carried out to a successful termination by few even of the wealthiest collectors.

The copper plate of the 2d was destroyed by being chopped in pieces by a hatchet. The fragments were assembled some years ago, and a photograph taken from which it was clearly seen that the philatelists who had reconstructed sheets from used specimens had correctly placed the units as originally engraved. Orders were given for the destruction of the 1d and 3d plates, but there is no record of the manner in which they were destroyed, nor were the remains ever discovered.—Australian Philatelist.

EDITORIAL.

News Is Out—Announcement has now been made of an important trade change in this country and reports that have been in circulation for a short time past have been verified by a notice in Stanley Gibbons Monthly Journal. Stanley Gibbons, Incorporated, of New York City, has been sold by the directors of Stanley Gibbons, Limited, of London, to purchasers who do not wish their names disclosed but the management of the company remains in the charge of Mr. E. B. Power. The stamps and accessories comprising the stock of the former branch of Stanley Gibbons, Limited, London, in New York City, are said to have inventoried at about $235,000, catalogue price. The privilege of retaining the name of Stanley Gibbons is granted to the buyers but it is stipulated that the word, "Limited," must not be used in connection with it. The New York firm will serve the London house as agents in this country but in no proprietary way will the two be identified.

Fair Comment — Under the head, "American Bunkum," our excellent contemporary quoted in the foregoing item, interposes a timely warning to the publicity committee of the Panama-Pacific Exhibition to temper its statements with philatelic judgment. Exception is taken to the paragraph: "The collections owned by King George of England, Queen of Netherlands, Lord Crawford, and the German, Italian, Austrian and South American Governments will be sent to San Francisco to be exhibited there." Mr. Phillips, who writes the item, says that it is very unlikely that King George will exhibit and denial is made (as it has been times before) that the Queen of the Netherlands has or ever had a stamp collection. For philatelic consumption the committee's work should be edited. Speaking of the valuation of Mr. George H. Worthington's collection at half a million dollars, Mr. Phillips says that if he could buy it at this figure and did so, he would "soon be able to retire with a fine fortune!"

Well Won — The Lindenberg medal, awarded each year for distinguished philatelic service has been conferred on Baron A. de Reuterskiold, a member of the Royal Philatelic Society, London, who was co-author with the late M. Paul Mirabaud, on the monumental work, The Postage Stamps of Switzerland. Baron de Reuterskiold's philatelic erudition is based on the broadest lines and he is a ceaseless worker for the best interests of philately. The London .Philatelist .gives a glowing appreciation of his philatelic merits and felicitates him upon achieving the great honor.

Settled — There has been some uncertainty in regard to the status of the later Transvaal issues, unused especially the V. R. I.'s, and the suspicion has been felt by collectors here and there that since the creation of the Union of South Africa, these stamps have been demonetized. The evidence to this effect was thought to be furnished by the offers of parcels or lots of the stamps at prices under face. It should be known that isolated instances of the kind do not prove the case; and even during the period of the use of the Transvaal V. R. I.'s, lots found their way to America occasionally at or under face. It was thought, and properly, at the time that this market condition was due to over-speculation. Now, through the courtesy of Mr. Henry Ades Fowler, we are enabled to submit the following excerpt from a letter dated January 23rd, 1912, from the secretary of the London office of the Union of South Africa: "With reference to your letter of the 15th December addressed to the Crown Agents, of which a copy has been forwarded to this office, I am directed to state that all the issues of stamps of the late British Colonies of South Africa are still current and it is not understood how any unused specimens of these issues can be offering for sale at less than their face value."

Enough — As explaining the use of the second or locomotive type of Nicaragua concurrently with the first engraved set, a reader says that he is told that the second set is for interior postage. From another source it is learned that the financial troubles which, it was hoped would come to an end with the successful negotiation by Nicaragua of the loan from the American capitalists, have not wholly disappeared from the surface and that some of the politicians say that it is better to combat their national poverty unaided than with the assistance of American dollars. Nicaragua is straining philatelic patience and further excesses may break it; if it would conserve its present popularity Nicaragua should give us a rest.

As It Was—Philatelic speculators do not always profit by their investments and collectors who observed the wild speculation in the U. S. Columbian issue of 1893, and its disastrous train know that conditions materialize at times, from abnormal causes, to cause staple postal securities to weaken. When the corner in the two-dollar Columbian "broke" the stamps were offered in quantity to banks and large commercial houses at a discount from face; and after such of these institutions as would buy, were stocked, the market sagged lower. A wealthy collector who bought the thirty-cent Columbian in sheets in quantity for investment for reasons that remained after his analysis held the stamps for some years only to be forced to unload them at a liberal discount. The surface has only been scratched in citing these illustrations but the point to be made is that the inherent value of the stamps entering into these transactions is not impaired permanently through any temporary demoralization.

Growth—The stamps of South America are to the fore and are basking in the warmth of popular favor. They are regaining their once pre-eminent popularity and dealers generally tell of heavy sales of the stamps. The great growth in the space allotment in the albums of to-day compared with that of those issued twenty-five years ago is indicative partly of the wonderful development of many of these countries. While speculation has had its influence in the expansion yet the actual postal progress of the countries is reflected in the stamps. There are many Americans who realize the advance made by the South American countries in the past few decades but there are more of them who do not and it is the majority who would be amazed if they could see the huge volume of mail sent from South America to this country in particular.

Boomerang—The postoffice department has issued a notice to all postmasters on the "Use and Misuse of the New Distinctive Registry Stamp"; and a perusal of the announcement shows that the stamp is proving itself something of a nuisance to the authorities. Evidently all of the postmasters do not understand the special functions of the new stamp and some of them must have accepted the registry stamp in payment of the ordinary postage, judging from the following item in the circular of instructions: "Upon application therefor, a refund to the senders of the excessive amount paid in registry fee by the improper use of the distinctive registry stamps will be authorized." As the order will be useful to the historian of the stamp, we shall try to make space for it in its entirety, elsewhere.

A SECOND EXPLANATION.

Two weeks ago the WEEKLY charged Clark & Robb with being guilty of a breach of confidence in connection with the publication of an article dealing with varieties of the Hudson-Fulton plate No. 5394. The statement was based upon a communication received from Mr. Morris the latter being unaware of the correspondence that had passed between the firm and MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

We want to exonerate the firm of Clark & Robb from knowingly wronging Mr. Morris. It is true that the manuscript of the article contained the word "correspondent" but the firm had previously written us in relation to the matter in which they gave Mr. Morris full credit for having discovered the varieties under consideration.

We publish the above in justice to Clark & Robb and the incident would have been entirely avoided had we not in the stress of office life overlooked the need of substituting in the manuscript the name of Mr. Morris for "correspondent."

FALKLAND ISLANDS

I have just purchased a nice little specialised collection of these stamps. It contains a fine array of shades and plenty of blocks of four. I have amalgamated this collection with my previous stock so now have a very fine stock book of Falklands which can be sent on approval to any reader of the WEEKLY furnishing satisfactory references. Prices will be found most moderate.

FRENCH COLONIALS

Three good stock books of these are now ready for approval. Though they contain no rarities all the medium priced stamps are strongly represented.

CHINA

I have an exceptionally good stock book of this country recently mounted which should be seen by every specialist.

THE SWEDISH ISSUES.

By L. HARALD KJELLSTEDT, F. R. P. S.

Svensk Filatelistisk Tidskrift for January contains another installment of valuable notes furnished by Harry Wennberg, Sweden's greatest dealer. Mr. Wennberg states that the supply of the new 1 ore postage stamps watermarked crown is very nearly exhausted, and 1o stamps of the old type (issue of 1892) are being used until the new stamps, watermarked wavy lines, appear. The 2o value, watermarked crown, is exhausted and has been followed by stamps watermarked wavy lines. The 5o with wmk. crown still shows great variations in price quotations. The 5o without wmk. has appeared in a very pale green color instead of the deep green of the first printings.

As I had occasion to mention in a previous number of the WEEKLY, Mr. Wennberg has by contract undertaken to handle the entire retailing of stamps at the general postoffice at Stockholm. Thus it can be seen that everything in the line of Swedish postage stamps passes through his hands. Mr. Wennberg is liberal enough to permit stamp collectors to derive benefit from his position and offers to supply any collectors who find difficulties in obtaining the new stamps with well centered stamps in singles or blocks at face value and return postage. The new official stamps cannot be furnished in unused condition.

The latest table of Swedish issues of 1910-1911 is as follows:

Postage stamps watermarked Crown.
1, 2, 4, 5, 10 ore and 1 krona.
Postage stamps without watermark (Oscar II).
20 and 25o.
Postage stamps without watermark (Gustaf V).
5, 10, 15, 20, 25, 30 and 35o.
Postage stamps wmk. wavy lines.
2 and 4o.
Official stamps wmk. Crown.
1, (2?), 4, 5, 8, 10, 15, 20, 25, 30o and 5kr.
Official stamps wmk. wavy lines.
5, 10 and 35o.
With inverted watermarks are known:
Postage: 1, 4, 5, 10o and 1kr.
Official: 5, 8, 10, 15 and 30o.

The 4o value watermarked wavy lines occurs with a very scarce variety on which the watermark runs from left to right instead of from right to left.

2c COLUMBIAN VARIETIES.

By MRS. JULIA A. B. WHITNEY.

Having read that Mr. Chambers had found in a lot of 374, 2c Columbians, one with cap over the numeral 2. I decided to carefully examine a lot of 1094, hoping for a like result. This, we are told is the rarest type and one with which every collector is familiar. As for myself, I have never seen one, and to my knowledge, no catalogue has listed it. By the aid of a glass, five stamps were selected, three with a mark over the right "2" and two, with marks over both, somewhat resembling caps, but all did not appear just alike, or so well defined as the cap of 1890, so the result seemed doubtful.

My next move was to locate, if possible, the other varieties recently announced by the philatelic press.

Dividing the stamps into groups, by the aid of the WEEKLY's illustrations, Type 1, 2 and 3—a group also was formed, of the different varieties of "breaks" in the vertical side line at the right of the stamp, which it will be observed, occurs mostly between the 5th or 6th and 11th lines, counting from the bottom. In this group of "breaks," were found Mr. Eugene Klein's variety and that of Mr. Barger's first variety, very distinct in strong lines of color.

Another variety which has not come to my notice is one with a "break" between the 3rd and 4th lines, a strong dash of color between the 5th and 6th, shading into a faintly defined line to the 11th strongly defined.

There were in the "break" zone 12 stamps not classified as varieties, save that all "breaks" were between the 6th and 11th lines, each having 2 or 3 "breaks" more or less distinct. The sources of these imperfections, are doubtless, worn plates and poor printing. Without the aid of a glass, many stamps would be taken as the normal type 1 and the 2nd type of Mr. Barger is particularly elusive.

In a very careful examination of the WEEKLY's Type 3 an interesting observation was made entirely new to me, as I have never seen any notice of it. There are two distinct types, one like the illustration, and another which called for a division of this group. The 2nd type of this group differs from Hunt's No. 3 in that the color dash is between the 4th and 5th and not between the 3rd and 5th and that the vertical shade line commences at the 11th and not the 9th horizontal line from the bottom.

WHITFIELD KING & CO.
IPSWICH, ENGLAND

RE-ENGRAVED BRITISH.

By OSWALD MARSH.

The 1d stamp with head of King George is now in issue in the re-engraved design. The body of the lion has now been shaded all over, and the background behind him has been made solid, as have also the corners above the words "Postage and Revenue." The head also appears to have been re-engraved, but owing to the blotchy appearance of the old issue it is difficult to say exactly where the difference is, the new stamps show the head up very well and the hair between the forehead and cheek is not so marked as previously. The stamps are printed in a more vermilion tint and bear the marginal Control in the usual place B11, in some cases almost touching the 'Jubilee' line, in others not so close; the bottom margins with Control may be found both perf. and imperf.

George V, ½d green.—We were indebted to Mr. Ewen for the first information regarding this stamp having been issued with Control B11, and on getting a supply we have come to the conclusion that it is also from a re-engraved die. In the case of this value only the head and the scroll between the dolphins' heads appear to have been retouched, the description of the head on the new 1d stamp applies equally to this value. The scroll now has one thick line of shading on the left side in place of two thin ones and the dolphins' heads are more shaded. So far we have only seen the B11 Control on an imperf. margin, but we have it below the centre of the stamp and in another case below the left side of the stamp.—Weekly Circular.

KLEIN'S DUPONT SALE.

We have received the catalog of the DuPont Sale, to be held Thursday, March 7, at Philadelphia by Eugene Klein Inc., and its list of contents bears out the claims that this firm has been making in regard to the value of the property offered for sale. The nearly five hundred lots are made up entirely of U. S. postage and revenue stamps and envelopes. Many great rarities are listed.

The contents of this sale will be exhibited in Boston Tuesday, Feb. 20, at the B. P. S. club room, the following day at the Collectors' Club in New York, and Feb. 23 in Washington at the office of H. F. Colman. The catalog is accompanied by a fine halftone picture of Mr. DuPont, who died June 16, 1911.

COMMUNICATION.

(We do not hold ourselves responsible for the views expressed by our readers. Our columns are always open for communications of general interest.—Ed.)

BOSTON, MASS., Feb. 9, 1912.

To the Editor:—In your Feb. 3d issue I read with interest your editorial note, headed "High Jump", on the U. S. Revenue stamp, 2c orange on green, by which I suppose was meant the first perforated issue, U. S. I. R., and not the common 3d issue 2c orange on green. I note also that the first-mentioned stamp is now catalogued at $15 "off the cover". This is very pleasing to me, for I believe I was the first collector in Boston to call attention to this rarity, for in the late 80's or early 90's I removed several from the original cover and maintained they were a distinct and rare variety, contrary to some of the "expert" dealers. I think I disposed of a part of the lot on a $2.50 basis and sold one in a B. L. Drew & Co. auction for $6. Soon after I put up one in another of his auctions and was thoroughly provoked when, by advice of the then leading stamp dealer on Summer Street, it was thrown out, without consulting me, as a "changeling". I knew the assertion was false, for nothing about their original location would have caused, or permitted, them to be "a changeling".

It is very gratifying that time and the judgment of real experts have justified my claim, for I consider that stamp one of the rare U. S. Revenues, and worthy a higher valuation than $15.

Yours truly,
HENRY F. KING, B. P. S. 27.

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Any information regarding new issues will be gratefully received and acknowledged. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, 17 Addison St., Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed, stamped envelope. We cannot give applicants the addresses of our correspondents. Correspondence regarding precancelled stamps must be sent to FRANK B. ELDREDGE, Attleboro, Mass., when due credit will be given in this department.

UNITED STATES.—As noted last week, the new 10c stamp has made its appearance, and it must be said that it is a great improvement over the previous one in both design and execution. There is more difference in the two designs than we had been led to believe, though the change in the portrait was announced long ago. The inscription at the top is still "U. S. Postage," but it is arranged in a curved line, following the shape of the oval. The figures of value in the lower corners are larger and clearer, with "Cents" between. The top of the tablet containing the word "Cents" cuts off the bottom of the oval, and the large wreaths of the laurel and ribbons have given place to smaller wreaths of oak, which reach barely to the centre of the stamp. The portrait is the same as on the current 1c stamp, but the oval is wider and the effect is consequently better. The outer frame is similar to the registration stamp, especially in the upper corners. The new stamp is watermarked single lined "U S P S" and is perforated 12.

Kendall P. Smith reports having seen the following plate numbers with the letter "A.": 2c ordinary, 5660, 5661, 5667, 5668; 10c registry, 5723.

ARGENTINE.—The Deutsche Briefmarken Zeitung states that the ½c, 1c, 2c, 10c, 20c, 24c and 50c values of the new set were issued at Buenos Ayres late in 1911. The same paper chronicles a new envelope with the stamp of the sower type, in addition to the new letter card chronicled in No. 1101.

AUSTRALIA.—The Australian Philatelist states that there is some likelihood of the discontinuance of perforated official stamps, in which case the Government departments would revert to the practice of franking.

Time is accentuating rather than relieving the difficulty of getting a typically Australian design for the new Commonwealth postage says the Melbourne Age. The Postmaster-General admits that his efforts have not yet produced exactly the right design. It is generally agreed that the new issue should not contain the King's head as its central figure. The desire appears to be to portray an Australian scene, which, while artistically pleasing, shall quietly advertise Australia wherever it goes. On Saturday, Mr. Frazer made a critical inspection of designs forwarded at his request by the Victorian Artists' Society. They are the work of Mr. Blamire Young. Mr. Young's idea is to have a bold outline of Australia, and inset, appearing on the map as if it were part of the very life of the continent, a typical Australian scene. Among a number of such scenes submitted are those of a mail coach rising above a hill, a kookaburra on the limb of a dead tree, a kangaroo among scrub, a bullock-drawn wood waggon, a swan, a magpie and a native bear. With a few changes Mr. Young's design could be made thoroughly acceptable.

BRAZIL.—The Deutsche Briefmarken Zeitung notes the issue of a new letter card for the pneumatic post.

Pneumatic Letter Card.

300r black and blue on gray; 140x90mm.

CANADA.—Douglas A. Denesha shows us specimens of the 2c King George stamp, the later printing being a decided improvement over the stamps first issued. The color is perhaps lightened a trifle, but the use of less ink has removed some of the muddy appearance.

W. A. Kain shows a copy of the 1c King George stamp, which has a pronounced break in the top of the "O" of "Postage." This is a defect in printing, and another stamp, submitted by the same gentleman, has a similar defect, though it is less pronounced.

COSTA RICA.—According to Gibbons Monthly there are two varieties of the surcharge on 1c on 10c telegraph stamps chronicled some time since. The stamps are in sheets of a hundred, and are surcharged with two different settings of fifty. The type used is the same, but the space between the lines of surcharge varies, being 9¼ mm. on the left-hand side of the sheet and 8 mm. on the right-hand side. Only 265,000 were printed, so that probably yet another makeshift will appear in a short time.

GREAT BRITAIN.—For the benefit of those of our readers who are trying to keep up with the recent issues of the stamps of Great Britain, we reproduce the following summary in chronological order of the provisional prints brought up to date. The ½d, 1d, 2½d, 3d, and 4d stamps were printed by Harrison & Sons (except the special 1d, "A 11") and the others by the stamping department at Somerset House. Our readers will of course understand that the references to "Continuous" or "Broken" lines and "control" letters and numbers refer to the marginal inscriptions of sheets.

Ewen's omits the 6d 4th shade, "rich plum," now considering it only an extreme of the 3rd shade. Of all three 6d shades, two or three degrees of inking occur. There are also probably further printings of the 1½d, 2d, 5d, 9d, and 1sh stamps, but the shades are not sufficiently defined to record. The shades of the ½d and 1d are too numerous to mention.

CHINESE EMPEROR ABDICATES.

PEKIN, Feb. 12.—After occupying the throne of China for nearly three centuries the Manchu dynasty, represented by the child-Emperor, Pu Yi, abdicated today. Three edicts were issued, the first proclaiming abdication; the second dealing with the establishment of the republic, and the third urging the maintenance of peace and approving the conditions agreed upon by the imperial premier, Yuan Shi Kai, and the Republicans.

The abdication of the Chinese throne by Pu Yi, the child Emperor, brings to an end the powerful Manchu dynasty which has reigned in China since 1644. The boy ruler has been on the throne since Nov. 14, 1908, when the Emperor Kwang Si, his uncle, died. His father, Prince Chun, was appointed regent, and was the chief figure in China for three years.

Surrounded by a large number of princes of the imperial clan and Manchu officials with reactionary ideas, the regent was brought face to face with a revolutionary movement in favor of modern reforms. He endeavored to placate both parties, but ended by causing general dissatisfaction, which led to his resignation on Dec. 6, 1911.

The promise of a constitutional government made by the Dowager Empress on her deathbed in 1908 was not fulfilled in any way until May last year. In that month an imperial edict abolished the old grand council, which together with the court, held absolute power and substituted a constitutional cabinet.

Revolutionary ideas had been spreading in the meantime and the Southern Provinces declared against the continuation of Manchu rule and broke into open revolt. After much fighting, the revolutionists proclaimed a republic at Nankin in December, and Dr. Sun Yat Sen accepted the presidency on Dec. 29.

Negotiations between the republicans and the imperialists followed and an armistice was arranged. This was not strictly observed, but the negotiations continued with the result that the Manchu rulers, seeing that China proper was almost entirely in favor of the republican idea and the outlying dependencies of Tibet, Turkestan, Mongolia and Manchuria were breaking away, decided that it was their best policy to yield to the popular demand and abdicate.

B. P. S. SECRETARY'S REPORT FOR 1911

BOSTON, MASS., Jan. 16, 1912.

Mr. President and Gentlemen:—In presenting the Secretary's Report for the year 1911, the event that looms largest in the annals is naturally the celebration of our 20th Anniversary. In fact, this occurrence dwarfs all other events into comparative insignificance, as there has been no special work other than our regular routine carried on during the year.

The society was founded on February 18, 1891, with fifty-two charter members from Boston and vicinity. From its very start it took a leading position among the Philatelic Societies of this hemisphere, if not of the world, and has nobly maintained that stand. It was therefore deemed fitting that the completion of twenty years of activity should be properly celebrated. Invitations were sent to leading philatelists here and abroad to be present, and several favored us by making special trips for the purpose, among them being Pres. Mudge and Sec. Barnum of the American Philatelic Society, Messrs. John N. Luff, H. E. Deats and Wm. C. Stone, past presidents of the national society, Mr. Chas. Lathrop Pack of Lakewood, N. J., and numerous others. Although Mr. Fred J. Melville, Pres. of the Junior Philatelic Society of London had expected to be with us, he was finally prevented.

The celebration took the form of a special meeting of the Society held in Chipman Hall, Tremont Temple, on Friday evening, February 17th, when Mr. J. N. Luff gave his stereopticon lecture on "What Philately Teaches". Messages of good will were heard from our visitors and through telegrams and letters from our sister societies. On Saturday, February 18th, an exhibition of rare stamps was held in Chipman Hall, to which the public were invited. This included Mr. Worthington's Mauritius with its "Post Office" stamps; a frame of Mr. Pickman's rarities, including a Milbury, a Brattleboro, an Annapolis, a Livingstone Confederate, a 20c St. Louis and many others; Mr. Pack's early Brazils and triangular Capes; Mr. Green's Hawaiian numerals; Mr. Mason's proofs and essays of United States envelopes; and Mr. Sawyer's Gambia. An excellent attendance was reported throughout the day.

On Saturday evening the celebration was brought to a close with a banquet at the City Club, at which 56 sat down. An excellent menu put all in proper spirit for the speeches. Mr. Green, as Toastmaster, was in his happiest mood, and the responses from Pres. Mudge of the American Philatelic Society, Pres. Bartlett of the Springfield Stamp Club, Mr. J. B. McIntyre for the Rhode Island Philatelic Society, Mr. Charles Lathrop Pack, who presented the Society with a finely mounted album of photographs of his reconstructed sheets of Diligencia and Montevideo stamps of Uruguay, and Messrs. Deats, Luff, Barnum, Stone and George L. Gilmore, our Charter Member No. 1, were all in keeping with the festive occasion. The whole celebration was a great success from every point of view and reflects great credit upon the committees in charge, to whom the Society's thanks are due.

A special souvenir in the shape of a silver watch fob, suitably inscribed, served as a memento of the occasion.

Outside of this occurrence there seems to be nothing special to report for the year's work, except that the Society appropriated $25 towards the very successful stamp exhibition of the American Philatelic Society at the Chicago convention last August.

Mr. J. M. Bartels was appointed a delegate to the 23rd German Philatelists' Day in Vienna last September, at the time of the Vienna Exhibition. It is gratifying to record that two of our members, Messrs. Pack and Bartels, carried off high honors at the Exhibition, and Messrs. Sawyer and Howes also won medals. At Chicago, those of our members who were awarded medals were Messrs. George H. Worthington, two gold and two silver; F. R. Cornwall, a gold and two silver; George L. Toppan, a gold and a bronze; Maj. F. L. Palmer, a gold; Mr. Charles Lathrop Pack, a gold; and E. F. Sawyer and Philip H. Ward, Jr., each a bronze medal.

Our membership has fallen slightly this year. It was 190 at the last report and is now 182, a loss of eight. We have raised one of our members, Mr. Fred J. Melville, to the rank of Honorary, and have elected another in the person of Mr. Charles Lathrop Pack. Thirteen other members have been admitted, ten have resigned during the year, eight were dropped for non-payment of dues, and four have died—Benjamin Lombard, Jr., R. A. Tarr, Edgar A. King and Jules Bernichon. This makes a total loss of twenty-two which is not properly offset by our gain of fourteen. The membership is divided as follows:—Honorary, 5; Resident, 112; Non-resident 65; total 182.

There have been ten regular meetings of the Society through the year, twelve informal meetings and one meeting of the Governing Board. The attendance at the regular meetings has averaged 33.5—three less than in 1910.

The Secretary's clerical duties have included writing 150 letters, sending out 992 post card notices, 22 copies of the Statutes and Library catalog, and two packages, a total of 1166 pieces of mail matter.

Respectfully submitted,
C. A. HOWES, Secretary.

WITH THE BOY PHILATELIST.

Edited by BERTRAM W. H. POOLE, Box 231, Altadena, Calif.

We propose to insert upon this page matter that will be of interest to the boy collector. Some two thousand boys are now on our mailing list and it is our desire to come closely in contact with them in such a manner as will be most helpful. Any information desired will be cheerfully rendered through these columns. Do not submit stamps for examination.

A GUATEMALAN PUZZLE.

A correspondent in referring to the difficulty of distinguishing between the lithographed stamps of the 1886 issue of Guatemala and the engraved stamps of the 1887-94 issue in the same design asks if there is any simple and reliable test by means of which the varieties can be separated. The stamps are, as my correspondent says, a "hard nut to crack" and while an experienced philatelist can perhaps easily sort out the lithographed stamps from the engraved simply by the different effects produced by these two methods of manufacture the beginner will find considerable trouble in correctly differentiating between the two issues. Speaking generally the lithographs have a flat, dull appearance, while the engraved stamps have a more "finished" look with more contrast between the light and dark portions of the design. The 50c, 75c, 100c, 150c and 200c only exist lithographed and the 6c and 5c with wide "5" only exist engraved so no difficulties are presented by these. The 1c is perhaps the hardest of the lot to place correctly and so far as I can see there are no little points of distinction that can be pointed out as infallible tests. In all the engraved ones I have seen the shading on the value tablet is complete, the horizontal lines being continuous at the base and broken at the top. In the lithographs the shading near the top of the "1" at the left is omitted or defective. For the 2c the easiest test is the distance between the base of the numeral and the lower frame line. In the case of the lithographed stamps this space measures a bare ¾ mm., while in the engraved stamps it is a full 1 mm. In the 5c I have, unfortunately, no engraved stamp to compare with the earlier emission. The 10c are quite easy to separate, for in the lithographs the figures are very close together, while in the engraved stamps there is a space of 1 mm. between the "1" and the "0". The 20c also presents no difficulties, for in the lithographed stamps the "0" of "20" touches the ornament at top of the value tablet, while in the engraved ones the "0" does not touch. The 25c is rather a hard one to place for there is no striking point of difference that I can locate. It will be found, however, that in the engraved stamps the "shell" like ornament at the top of the design is perfect in shape and fully shaded, while in the lithographs this ornament is poorly shaped and shows practically no shading at the left-hand side.

COMMANDO BRIEF STAMPS.

Another correspondent tells me he has a large oblong label containing the words "COMMANDO BRIEF—O. V. S.—FRANKO" in three lines separated by rules, and surrounded by an ornamental border, printed in black on yellow surfaced paper, perforated, and cancelled, and he wishes for some information regarding it. This label was issued by the Orange Free State Boers in October, 1899, during the South African war but whether it had any official standing or not I cannot say. It appears that among other privileges the Burghers were allowed free postage. In the case of letters posted at any of the Field Post-offices there was no difficulty for all these were obviously from Burghers fighting for their country. In the case of men on patrol duty or away from the fighting lines letters had to be franked by an officer or postage was charged. Some bright individual conceived the idea of having a label which could be attached to the soldier's letters and so save the Commandants and Field cornets the trouble of initialling every individual letter. These labels, therefore, took the place of officers' signatures and are not postage stamps but franks. Whether the labels were officially sanctioned is not clear but they were very generally recognised and specimens are known with cancellations of widely separated towns and villages in the territory then occupied by the Boers. The words "Commando Brief" mean Commando Letter, the letters "O. V. S." stand for Oranje Vrij Staat (Orange Free State), while "Franko" is the equivalent of Frank. Though they are not postage stamps they are very interesting mementoes of the war.

SHORT REPLIES.

H. K. (New York).—Your stamp is one of the many varieties found in connection with stamp vending machines and is, I believe, of no particular value.

C. J. (Cleveland).—The stamps you mention are German locals and they have practically no value at all.

G. B. C. (St. Paul).—There are numerous minor varieties in the 1863-66 stamps of Norway. As a matter of fact each value exists in four different types, though the differences are often very small. In addition the 4 skilling was printed from two plates and as there were four types on each this value alone gives eight types. These stamps, and the issues of Norway in general, were very fully written up in the Philatelic Record for the years 1897 and 1898. A description of the types of the issue to which you refer in particular will be found in an article I contributed to Volume II of the West-End Philatelist.

ONE YEAR'S STAMPS.

The Government Bureau of Engraving and Printing delivered 10,131,069,000 perfect postage stamps during the last fiscal year.

The paper required for this work amounted to 1,000,000 pounds, and to make this paper 4000 large pine trees were ground to a pulp. Had these trees been converted into lumber, 75 well-appointed bungalows could have been built. The paper itself would make an edition of 3,000,000 12-page, 7-column papers.

As the stamps were printed from intaglio-engraved plates in which the entire surface is covered with ink and wiped with a cloth that leaves the ink only in the engraved lines, the amount of ink required was 387,500 pounds. But only 10 per cent. of this was actually applied to the stamps, the balance being wiped off.

The gum on the back of the stamps is made by scientifically roasting the highest grade of tapioca starch such as is used for making pudding, and as 325,000 pounds were used, all of the inhabitants of a large city would have been given their fill of tapioca pudding for one meal with the material used.

The sheets of 100 stamps each, as sent to the Postoffices, piled upon each other would make a shaft over six miles high, and placed end to end would make a strip 15,000 miles long; and as there are 10 rows of stamps in each sheet, a strip of single stamps would be 150,000 miles long and would girdle the earth six times with something over. —Popular Science.

STRAITS SETTLEMENT—A DISCOVERY.

The year 1883 was a prolific one in the surcharges of this colony, no less than nineteen varieties being already listed. These included the 5c, blue, watermark CC and Crown "4 cents," in red script letters (S.G. 25). We have now received from Mr. W. H. Peckitt specimens of this stamp, bearing in addition a large figure "4", in red, imposed over the other red surcharge. These specimens have every appearance of being authentic. The obliterations differ—in two cases being in red, one used in conjunction with a vertically surcharged TWO CENTS on 5c (S.G. 5), and in the other the postmark being in black and clearly over the surcharge. It will be remembered that the 8c on 12c, dull purple, issued at the same time, was also surcharged with a similar large figure "8" (S.G. 72 and 73), in red, and it seems quite possible that the same reason existed for both secondary surcharges, in that the smaller one was not sufficiently distinctive. It should be mentioned that in the present instance the large figure "4" is in a vermilion shade exactly like that of the script letters beneath it, while in the case of the 8c the figure is of a somewhat deeper tone, but both are apparently from the same fount of type. With these specimens were a number of other Straits surcharges, and the source from which they came in the colony seems all in their favour. In these days one is apt to regard all surcharges with suspicion, but these specimens have been carefully examined by Mr. Peckitt, ourselves, and others, and we can see no reason to doubt their authenticity. The unsuspected existence of such an important surcharge for a period of twenty-eight years is remarkably interesting in the present discovery.—London Philatelist.

THE POSTAGE STAMPS OF NORTH BORNEO.

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.

Probably among British colonies and protectorates no country has received so many "kicks" (largely unmerited) as North Borneo with the result that at the present time it is one of the most neglected States, philatelically speaking, in the whole British Empire group. Of late years the unreasoning prejudice against Borneo's stamps seems to have died down—at any rate we have been spared those periodic outbreaks of nonsensical abuse which were at one time an all too frequent feature in the "politics" of certain British journals. Why North Borneo was, in the first place, given the character of the black sheep in the British Empire flock when there were plenty of other suitable subjects it is difficult to say. Certainly its philatelic sins have been no worse than those of many other countries and compared to some (held in the highest esteem) it is positively virtuous. It is the old, old tale "give a dog a bad name and it will stick to him". When all the cold facts are collected and examined impartially it will be found that North Borneo is philatelically cleaner, and certainly more interesting, than many other popular and much studied countries. Perhaps the fairest comparison is between the issues of North Borneo and those of Rhodesia—both territories being governed by Chartered Companies. The stamps of Rhodesia, issued under the authority of the British South Africa Company, have always been popular and few if any sneers have been cast at its stamp issuing propensities, yet, though it started to issue stamps seven years later than Borneo, it has already issued more distinct issues, including unnecessarily high values, and nearly as many provisionals. In addition at least three of these issues are still "current" in the London offices of the Company if not in the territory of Rhodesia itself.

When we get right down to what our learned professors are pleased to call the "basic principle" we find the chief sins to the discredit of Borneo are its provisionals and its postmarked-to-order stamps. So far as the latter are concerned I am in agreement with every other right minded collector as to the rubbishy nature of all cancelled-to-order stamps. But North Borneo is by no means alone in this respect for even such reputable countries as Victoria and Fiji have been guilty of the same iniquity. Compared with the majority of cancelled-to-order labels, which are as a rule sold as postally used, those of North Borneo are childishly innocent for the cancellation applied to them was of such a nature that the veriest tyro can at once identify them for what they are.

As regards provisionals in general and unnecessary provisionals in particular Borneo has certainly sinned in good company. Compared with those of Siam, the ever popular Ceylon, the Straits Settlements, etc., the provisionals of Borneo are mild. One great thing in their favor is that the whole lot (that is, the "unnecessary" ones) may be purchased for a few dollars.

But the fact that North Borneo has issued a few unnecessary provisionals and sold many of its issues cancelled-to-order does not, or should not, detract from the philatelic interest and attractiveness of its other issues. The doubtful provisionals can be ignored and the other rubbish is so easily identified that it can be dismissed without bother. At the present time few countries offer so many openings for original research as I shall endeavor to show in the following notes.

HISTORICAL.

The European history of Borneo, the third largest island in the world, begins with its discovery by Lorenzo de Gomez in 1518 and the visit of the Magellan expedition in 1521. The Portuguese first opened up commerce, and were followed by the Spaniards. In 1608 the Dutch established a residency, and in 1706 the British a "factory" at Banjermasin. Early in the 18th century both nations abandoned Borneo, but in 1816 the Dutch returned; and in the forties the founding of the independent state of Sarawak by Rajah Brooke, and the ceding of Labuan (1846) to Britain, re-established British influence. In 1881 British influence was further extended by the establishment of the British North Borneo Company.

British North Borneo, or the State of North Borneo as it was subsequently named, has an area of about 34,000 square miles with a coast line extending for over 900 miles. Its population numbers more than 200,000 and consists of Dyaks (the aborigines), Malays, Chinese and Europeans. The territory is administered by a company incorporated by Royal charter on November 1st, 1881. The company has its headquarters in London.

THE FIRST ISSUE.

Exactly a year after the incorporation of the company a stamp bearing the facial value of 2c was issued for use in its territory. The design shows the "Arms" of the Company—a shield showing a lion on a dotted ground in the top portion and a sailing vessel on a horizontally lined background in the lower and larger portion. The value "2 cents" is shown on a straight tablet at the base, "North-Postage-Borneo" appears on a scroll at top, and in columns at the sides inscriptions are shown in Malayan and Chinese characters at the left and right respectively. The stamps were manufactured by the electrotype process by Messrs. Blades, East & Blades, who are perhaps better known as bank check manufacturers than as stamp printers. From the original engraved matrix fifty electrotypes were made and these clamped together in five horizontal rows of ten formed the printing plate. This method of reduplicating a design, like lithography, frequently results in the production of minor varieties. In the case of this particular 2c stamp each electrotype has some small distinctive mark by means of which it can be distinguished from the others. These marks consist of minute colored dots, slightly misshapen letters, and small flaws and the stamp can be plated without much difficulty. This stamp, it will be noted was for postal purposes only and was simply for local use. It was printed in brown on unwatermarked paper and was perforated 12 by a single-line machine. Shortly afterwards 50c and $1 stamps were issued. These were of much larger size and were available for postal and revenue purposes. The central design in each consists of the Arms of the company with crest, supporters and motto—"Pergo et Perago" which means "I undertake and accomplish." The borders are elaborate while the name of the territory is simply given as "North Borneo" as in the case of the 2c. The stamps were also printed in sheets of fifty but whether by the electrotype process or by means of lithography is not quite clear. Some of the later issues of similar type were printed by lithography, according to an official statement, so it is very probable that these two stamps were produced by the same method. The 50c was printed in violet and the $1 in rose-red. They were on unwatermarked paper and perforated 14. To save useless repetition I might add that all the stamps issued for British North Borneo were on unwatermarked paper.

THE FIRST PROVISIONALS.

It appears that at the same time the 2c stamp was ordered 4c and 8c denominations of similar design were likewise requisitioned but as these were somewhat dilatory in reaching Borneo and 8c stamps were urgently required provisional stamps of this value were made late in 1883 by overprinting the 2c. There were two types of the surcharge one "8 cents" and the other "EIGHT CENTS" in two lines. The former was apparently the first attempt but was so indistinct that it was soon abandoned in favor of the second type. An error of the latter variety is known with the surcharge printed doubly. These provisionals were made in the capital of the territory, Sandakan, but how many were overprinted or how many were surcharged at a time are matters on which I can find no information.

THE 1884 ISSUE.

In 1884 the expected 4c and 8c labels arrived the former being printed in pink and the latter in green. These stamps like the first 2c were printed from plates composed of fifty separate electrotypes. One would imagine that in making the necessary dies for these two values it would have been a simple matter to have taken impressions from the original 2c matrix and have altered the value tablet and inscriptions in the side columns. Instead of doing so, however, entirely new dies were engraved which, though undoubtedly copied from the 2c differ from it in many particulars. Especially noticeable are differences in the length and number of the oars projecting from the small vessel. Although I have never seen entire sheets of these values a comparison of even a few single specimens will show so many tiny differences that it is hardly probable both may be plated like the earlier 2c. These two stamps are perf. 12.

THE 1886 ISSUE.

In 1886 new supplies of the 2c, 4c, and 8c sent to Borneo were perforated 14 and at the same time three new denominations—½c, 1c, and 10c—were issued. The colors of these were magenta, orange and blue respectively. These three values, like the others of corresponding design, were printed from plates composed of fifty separate electrotypes and it is highly probable all three can be plated. Here again we find that new dies were engraved, all copied from the original 2c, but all differing from each other and also from the other values in many small particulars.

THE 1886 PROVISIONALS.

Philatelically speaking 1886 was a busy year for Borneo. First of all it was decided that 3c and 5c stamps were necessary and as these values were not included in the regular set recourse was made to the printing press to meet the deficiency. Some of the 4c were surcharged "3 CENTS" and some of the 8c were reduced in value to 5c. The type used consisted of tall thick numerals with "CENTS" in heavy capitals below. A further printing of 3c provisionals being made, type of a different font was employed the "3" being thinner and farther away from "CENTS". This type is rare and it is evident that but few were printed. As stamps with both the 12 and 14 perforations were in stock at this time and, naturally, no attempt had been made to differentiate between them it so happened that sheets of both varieties were surcharged. The 5c on 8c with the 14 perforation is known with inverted surcharge. The demand for 3c and 5c stamps was apparently not so great as had been anticipated for regular stamps of these denominations were not issued until 1889.

A revision in the fiscal rates made stamps of a lower facial value than 25c necessary and as a temporary expedient some of the then current ½c and 10c stamps were overprinted with the words "and Revenue" in two lines, so that they could be used for postage or for fiscal purposes as required. These were evidently issued by way of experiment and the benefit of having one series of stamps for both purposes was so apparent that a few years later all the stamps were inscribed "postage and revenue" and the plan has continued to the present day.

THE 1886-87 ISSUE.

In 1886 the "powers that be" decided that "British North Borneo" would be a more fitting inscription for the postage stamps than merely "North Borneo" and steps were immediately taken to obtain a supply of stamps with the more correct name. The design of the small stamps, ½c to 10c inclusive, was similar to the one previously in use with "BRITISH NORTH BORNEO" on the scroll above the Arms and "POSTAGE" on a small label at the base of the shield. As a matter of fact, the original dies were requisitioned and altered to fit the needs of the new issue. The stamps were produced in the same manner as those previously mentioned—fifty casts from each of the original dies being clamped together to form the printing plates. There were two plates for each value, except the ½c and all can be plated as I was able to prove in the course of an article on this particular issue in the Monthly Journal for December, 1906, and January to April, 1907. That the original dies of 1883-86 were adapted for this issue can be proved by a careful comparison of the two sets. In the first plate of the 4c one of the 1c clichés was inadvertently included so that we find an error of color—the 1c in the color of the 4c. The error occurred on the third stamp in the second horizontal row. In the first plate of the 8c, too, there is an interesting variety, No. 37 showing the hindmost leg of the lion completely cut away. A small quantity of the ½c and 1c were perforated 12, these probably forming an early supply. The colors are the same as those of the corresponding values of the previous issue, though some time in 1887, the shade of the ½c was changed from magenta to rose.

At the same time the designs of the 50c and $1 were altered, the denotation of value in words at the top being replaced by "BRITISH". The set was also enriched by the addition of 25c and $2 stamps. These new denominations were of the same large size as the 50c and $1 and show the Arms of the Company in elaborately designed borders. These four stamps are well worthy of study for at present nothing of importance is known about them. The colors were indigo for the 25c, violet for the 50c, scarlet for the $1, and sage-green for the $2.

THE 1889-90 ISSUE.

Although the small stamps of the issue just mentioned were inscribed "Postage" only it appears that almost before they had reached Sandakan the London office of the Company received a suggestion from Borneo that all the stamps should be inscribed "Postage and Revenue" in future. Naturally the stamps already printed and despatched could hardly be recalled on the score that they were for postal use only and in any case it would have required some time to get new plates made. When, however, fresh supplies were required, steps were taken to give effect to the Postmaster's recommendation and in 1889 stamps inscribed "Postage & Revenue" made their appearance. At the same time 3c and 5c stamps were issued. These stamps form a fine field for philatelic study. It will be found, I think, that the stamps were printed from plates composed of separate electrotypes like their predecessors and also that, excepting the new 3c and 5c, the original dies were again requisitioned. It is also probable that more than one plate was used for some of the values.

New lithographic stones for the 25c, 50c, $1, and $2 stamps were made about this period the designs being redrawn in all four cases. It would be ridiculous to assert that these varieties were issued just to increase the sale of stamps to collectors for the differences between these and the stamps of 1886-87 are too small to be of interest to any but a specialist. The new 25c shows the words "BRITISH NORTH BORNEO" in taller capitals; in the 50c the "0" in each of the upper angles is square-shaped top and bottom instead of being oval; the $1 has 14 instead of 13 pearls at the sides; and on the $2 "BRITISH", measures about 11 mm. in place of 12 mm. as before.

In 1889 $5 and $10 stamps were issued, these being of a very large size. Little is known about these except that they were printed in sheets of 20. They can probably be plated and were apparently printed by means of lithography. In the first printing of the $10 an interesting error occurred, one of the stamps in the bottom row having part of the "R" omitted so that the inscription reads "TEN DOLLAPS". Either this was corrected on the stone or a new stone was made before many stamps had been printed for the variety is scarce even postmarked-to-order.

It was during the currency of this set that some evil genius suggested the postmarking-to-order game. The cancellation consisted of a number of parallel bars and was usually applied to the centre of each block of four stamps. As no cancellation of this type was ever used in Borneo itself this rubbish can be easily detected. Unused, the stamps are good and genuinely used they are scarce.

THE PROVISIONALS OF 1890-93.

During the period 1890-93 a number of provisionals were issued, but that these or any of them were strictly unnecessary would be a rash assertion to make. In 1890 there was apparently a shortage of 2c and 8c stamps and to meet temporary needs some of the 25c were surcharged "Two (or Eight) Cents" in two lines in red ink. The former value is known with inverted surcharge.

In 1891 a change in the postal rates made 6c stamps necessary and a supply of this denomination was ordered from London. Pending the arrival of these a number of 6c provisionals were created by surcharging the 8c and 10c. As there appear to have been supplies of both the "Postage" and "Postage & Revenue" stamps on hand both varieties were surcharged. The old 10c seem to have been used on purpose but the "Postage" type of the 8c was an error. Judging from the rarity of this variety not more than a single sheet can have been surcharged and this would appear to have been inadvertently included with the 1889 type and was thus overprinted purely by accident. The type of the surcharge consisted of a large "6" with "cents" below and there were at least two settings. In the first setting one stamp on the sheet had a large "s" in "cents". Another setting, found only on the 8c of the 1889 type, shows two errors. One of these has the letters misplaced so that the word reads "cetns" and the other (fourth in the bottom row) has the "c" inverted. As the errors are scarce the number of sheets printed could not have been large. Probably this setting represents a small supply printed just before the arrival of the regular 6c stamps. The 6c on 10c (1886 type) and 6c on 8c (1889 type) are both known with the surcharge inverted.

In 1892-3 1c and 8c stamps ran short. Provisional 1c stamps were made by surcharging the then current 4c stamp with "1 cent" in two lines in red. For a second supply the 5c was utilised for surcharging, this being much the commoner variety. For the 8c, some of the 25c were overprinted in a similar manner. As this provisional is scarce, but few sheets of the 25c could have been surcharged.

All the above mentioned provisionals were overprinted in Sandakan itself and supplies of most, if not all of them were sent to the London office of the Company. Some of these were cancelled-to-order in the manner then in vogue and sold with the ordinary stamps.

THE REGULAR 6C STAMP.

The regular 6c stamp replacing some of the above described provisionals, reached Borneo in 1892. It is similar in design to the other small stamps of the "Postage & Revenue" type then current and was evidently produced in a similar manner from a plate composed of fifty separate electrotypes. A new die had, of course, to be engraved though this was a fairly close copy of the 2c. The color of this stamp was lake.

Our readers are made acquainted with the fact that the Wolsieffer Sale No. 119 is to be a big one. It will be held at the Collectors' Club, N. Y. The contents of this sale will be exhibited in the various philatelic centers of the east during the week prior to the sale.

BRITISH SOLOMON ISLANDS.

F. J. Barnett, Chief Postmaster of the Solomons, who paid us a visit during the Christmas holidays, acquainted us that a new series of stamps with the portrait of King George, was now in preparation, and would be issued in due course. When spoken to regarding some "proofs" which have recently come on the market, he expressed his astonishment, and said he knew nothing about them. We may have something more to say on this subject later on. He further expressed his surprise at the reduction in the prices of the first issue in the new Gibbons' catalogue, more especially of the 5d, 6d, and 1sh denominations. He gave us the exact figures of the numbers issued of all the denominations, which we give below. He informed us that no one on the Islands had any "up their sleeve" and that all had been disposed of in the ordinary way of business at face value, neither more nor less: 45,368, ½d; 25,598, 1d; 20,641, 2d; 12,072, 2½d; 8,310, 5d; 7,853, 6d; 7,391, 1sh.—*Aust. EDITORIAL.

Very Good—The International Philatelic Exhibition, New York City, 1913, already has a foundation of ample base and those who have to do with the enterprise will be included in an exhibition company which is being incorporated. Several selections of permanent officers have been made and Mr. George H. Worthington of Cleveland will serve as president and Senator Ernest R. Ackerman, Plainfield, New Jersey, as secretary. It is needless to elaborate upon the good fortune of the sponsors of the exhibition in having the acceptances of the two gentlemen named of the important positions that they have been chosen to fill. Aside from a rare business capacity, both of the gentlemen possess a reputation that will have its moral effect in stimulating interest in the exhibition. Sub-committees will be appointed in the philatelic centers and a thorough campaign to center attention on the prospective exhibition has been instituted. It is to be recorded that subscriptions to the amount of three thousand dollars have been received by the temporary exhibition committee.

Kicked Out—A correspondent has sent for inspection a label that recalls the old days when fictitious local stamps in particular were plentiful and found their way into many collections of the times. For periods of varying time, some of the creations passed philatelic muster and were listed in catalogues but as their true character became known they were dispossessed from their comfortable berths in the regard of philatelists. For instance, an examination of the more pretentious catalogues of the period from 1865 to 1870 will show a good number of the masqueraders posing under false colors. The label under notice is the one inscribed "U. States Letter Express, Five Cents," in yellow-brown, head of Washington, central design. Labels of this and similar kind used to accumulate rapidly in the odds-and-ends box of the dealer but in this day and generation, the genus is a disappearing one.

Lincoln Stamps—As showing how a little ripple on the philatelic waters may extend to a distant shore, the following instance comes to mind in connection with the subject of bogus local stamps. Reference was made in these columns a good while ago to a label once accepted by some cataloguers of a supposed Philadelphia local, Johnson's Free P. O. Box, black on red paper, which showed an "unconventional portrait" of Lincoln, as we described it. The item reached the eyes of a collector of "Lincolniana" and he wrote for further particulars about the stamp, which he wished for his collection of Lincoln portraits. At the same time he asked for a list of all the stamps with picture of Lincoln and doubtlessly he secured them for his collection through the aid of one of our advertisers. Evidently, from a further description of the portrait on the Philadelphia label, he decided that the picture was already contained in or not necessary for his collection, as he wrote nothing further.

Pretty Proofs—Proofs of United States stamps will always appeal to a class of collectors whose fastidious instincts are nicely satisfied by the faultless impressions in question. As models of the stamps, they must be on parade in their choicest colors. The J. M. Bartels Company has issued "The Proofs of U. S. Stamps," by Edward H. Mason, Boston, a gentleman whose sustained and intelligent interest in proofs and essays has made him an authority. The check-list of Mr. Toppan issued in 1904, now has a compeer in the new little pamphlet of about forty pages in which the adhesives, exclusive of the revenue proofs, are listed and described. Proofs have a stronger philatelic flavor than essays as from the earliest times, it was suspected that essays sometimes were made for collectors. In 1866, Dr. Gray, said: "The term 'essay'—an incorrect translation of the French word essai—was originally intended to designate stamps which had been proposed to the postal authorities of any country and rejected, or not yet adopted. Of essays which really fulfil these requisites there are but a small number, the majority of the stamps known by this name being fraudulent fabrications of continental or American engravers. Those which merit the title of genuine were made either by official engravers, at the direct request of the government of the country to which they belong, or were sent in on the occasion of a general authorised competition of designs."

Size Variations—The great Columbian hunt is still on, but the Reverend Homer A. Flint, Montpelier, Vermont, pauses in the chase to bring the following circumstance to view: "Apropos of the study being devoted to the two-cent Columbian (also the one-cent), this question has come to my mind, which may not be new at all but which certainly might have to do with the study for 'variants.' Do stamps (or does stamp paper) either stretch or shrink with age? On enclosed sheet are stamps and sections illustrating what I mean. The measurements are probably only relatively exact. I have measured with gauge and compass, say, fifty two-cent Columbian and find them about equally divided between what appear to be '33x22 mil.' and '33½x21½ mil.,' measurements taken on bottom and left end respectively. On the enclosed sheet I have 'matched' two pairs, mounted a pair on covers and a pair free from paper. The difference in length is well marked, that in height not so clear in the sections as in the others. My query would be: Would paper stretch or shrink so regularly? Does this not point to more than one 'original' either in die or plate? There is a difference also, I think, in the lengths of the one-cent Columbian, though I do not find the same regularity. Possibly also in the five-cent." Our correspondent proves his case by matching up the stamps; variations of a half millimeter unmistakably are seen. The theory of shrinkage of paper to account for differences of the kind described though once presented by Major Evans, as explaining differences in size of some of the early Ceylon stamps does not seem to be a satisfying one. It has been maintained that the paper used in stamp manufacture practically is non-shrinking with age under ordinary conditions. The explanation usually given for the size differences in Columbian and other stamps is based on the contention that "as the metal from which the plates were made varied in temperature, in its fluid state, the shrinkage in cooling was not uniform, causing the variations in size." After the original die is made, "it is then hardened by heating it in a bath of cyanide of potassium;" the transfer roll of soft steel is hardened after it receives the impression of the die and finally the plate which is used in printing the stamps is hardened. In "Stamps and Stamp Collecting," Major Evans, in describing the process of line-engraving, says: "The impressions upon different rollers are not absolutelv identical in size, the hardening process varying slightly in its shrinking effect upon different pieces of steel." The cause of the plate differences in the size of the stamps of same design often is a subject of puzzling speculation to the student who has no reason to take into consideration the detail in manufacture under discussion.

FROM THE PHILIPPINES.

Theodore Siddall submits for our inspection specimens of the 6c, 10c, 30c and 1 peso with the single lined watermark. We quote from his letter as follows:—

"Here are two new ones for your chronicle from the Philippines—the 30 centavos and 1 peso, on the new single-lined-watermarked paper. I don't know where these are on sale. The only values I know to be on sale at the Manila office are the 6 centavo and the Special Delivery stamp."

JUST CHAT
I don't feel puffed up under the arms, but instead am trying to speed up our business.
I suppose you wonder why we advertise so much:—well if we stopped, we would have dead stock on our hands and would be forced to go into the undertaking business.
ANOTHER REASON:—We have got hold of the door knob of success and our flying wedge of advertising is pushing us right inside.
WHY;—In this day of razor edge competition we elbow through the crowd and give you more than you bargained for.
When some dealer with a horsey vest and a three cornered trot, tries to get you to pull the cork down again, with his big stories and questionable packets, just make up your mind that in the bushes of his statements roost some fat fabrications.
First Quality Packets Makes a Dollar Do Its Duty.
If our packets were not the best, we would have about as much chance selling it to you as running a livery stable in Venice.
It's Better to Buy Our Packets Than to Wish You Had.
Even a phonograph has to talk to sell its goods:—We put on a new Packet record every thirty days.
If the last firm's packet made you as mad as a centipede with corns, look ours over:—There's as much difference between packets as there is in hugs.
Remember,—Satisfaction Guaranteed or Your Money Cheerfully Refunded. If our packets don't suit you, we will not squeak like a sour fiddle.
We're only a couple of flies on the wheels of progress:—Send that order and help us stick on. All things decay:—even the Hum Bug.
Some firms shoot by us and sell packets by dishonest means, but they soon sound like a second hand bicycle pump and it don't take long for us to overtake them.
We're too busy to hide the money we make:—Just spending it for ammunition to hit your target once.
It must make our competitors feel like "a one-armed paper hanger with the hives" to see how experienced collectors with good judgment prefer our packets.
The man that sells you poor packets never gets a chance again. We want another chance. We don't trick anybody.
We Give Twice the Value in Our First Quality Packets Than Any Others Do, If Their Price Is Less Than Double Ours.

Rev. John Luther Kilbon, Park Congregational Church, Springfield, Mass., recommends our packets and says:—"I find that the 1500 var. lot was a profitable purchase, adding about 400 stamps to my large collection and increasing its catalog value considerably, to say nothing of what some very desirable duplicates may bring in the future."

MR. COLSON'S LITERARY STYLE.

Congratulations to Mr. Warren H. Colson on his picturesque literary style! He has just purchased the collection of Mr. W. H. Sussdorff, of New York City, and issues an enthusiastic circular letter on the subject, the engraving of which is no less beautiful than the language in which it is couched. He speaks of the name of Sussdorff as being "synonymous with the almost impossible—achieved," and after a kind of hushed-voice reference to "a horizontal pair of the twelve pence Canada, with full original gum, and sheet margin below," he perpetrates this peroration :—

"Here may be found the postal issues of all the countries of the world, gathered together in their mad babel of colour and design but brought into harmony through their common attribute—highest excellence of condition."

We must treasure up that "mad babel of colour and design" for some future article on Obock or Nicaragua!—Stamp Collectors Fortnightly.

BERMUDA NEWS.

By Benedict Prieth.

The ¼d wrapper has just been issued here in the new Ship design, color brown.

The 6d and 1sh Queen's Head have been obsolete for over a month, but for some reason best known to the authorities, the new stamps of those denominations have not yet been issued. There is a great demand here for these two values and the post office is much criticized for its tardiness in putting them on sale. Nobody seems to know whether they will be of the Queen's Head or Dock Yard designs printed in the new colors, or of the Ship type. If of either of the former, they will no doubt soon be scarce, as in all probability only a small number was printed and they will soon be superceded by stamps of the current Ship design. Very possibly early changes will also be made in the 2d, 2½d, 3d and 4d values, all of which are still of the Dock Yard design. It will pay collectors to keep their eyes on Bermuda for the next few months.

The following is a list of the adhesives and postal stationery now on sale here:

Adhesives.

¼ bicolored, Dock Yard type.
½ green, Ship type.
1d red, "
2d, bicolored, Dock Yard type.
2½d blue, " "
3d, bicolored, " "
4d, " " "

All of the above with exception of the 3d, have the multiple wmk.

Postal Stationery.

Cards—½d green, 1d red, Dock Yard.

Wrappers—¼d brown, Ship; ½d green, Dock Yard.

Registered Envelopes—2d blue, Queen's Head and Dock Yard.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—Replying to Mr. Saulnier's query in relation to Fred Megson, Maitland Milliken recounts an experience that he had with Megson as far back as 1905. Mr. Milliken finally got his stamps back, but only through the kind offices of a philatelist in Minneapolis, where Megson was then residing.

—Fred J. Melville informs us that the Paris Philatelic Exhibition has been postponed until next year, leaving to the London Exhibition to be held October 14 to 19 the entire European field for 1912.

IPSWICH, ENGLAND

HOGAN OR FINERTY.

Mekeel's Weekly of Feb. 10th, contains a reprint from Stamps, the house organ of the International Stamp Co. of De Graff, Ohio, formerly of Columbus.

We don't believe friend Hogan, whom we believe is a Columbus collector, or is he from De Graff? is very well acquainted with the early history of the Stamp Collector, which paper he chooses to believe, died because of its "narrowness, back biting, scandal mongering, etc." Our friend Hogan either don't know or has forgot that a prominent local collector, Mr. Paul Mason, was the editor of the Stamp Collector during its first year.

It never was the policy of the publication to be back-biting or to carry scandal and its expose of the two greatest frauds of the times, is anything but narrowness.

The Stamp Collector never maliciously printed anything to harm anyone, and the only really regretable feature was a small item of four or five lines, directed at a prominent Chicago collector. This item was in the first issue of the magazine and was slipped over on the publisher by the editor who felt called upon to fight the battles of a certain migratory dealer. For this, the publisher wrote an apology to Mr. Fowler.

Yes, McMann got the corpse, skeleton or what you chose to call it, but a local collector who once edited a stamp publication and the before mentioned migratory dealer tried to buy it, but either wouldn't or couldn't pay the price. Stiffs come high.

Some people seem to be fated to be with the dead ones for rumor has it that another philatelic enterprise is about to be laid out. There will be a sorry bunch of pall-bearers in this case, however, and real cause for tears for we hear that regardless of past records, some people have a little real money up on the game.

Friend Hogan says the Stamp Collector died some months before its final disposal, 'twas a lively corpse if this were true. We believe Hogan thinks Mason's retirement as editor was the end of all hopes, but such was not the case. Neither did Mr. Mason's retirement hasten the end of the publication.

We had hoped to let bygones be bygones but for Hogan's information we will say that Mr. Mason resigned because the publisher wouldn't let him turn the editorial columns into a house organ for a local stamp concern.

The real reason for the discontinuance of the Stamp Collector was lack of support in the matter of subscriptions, without a goodly number of which no magazine can hope to continue.

We say it now, regardless of consequences, that it's a real shame that a magazine conducted on the high plane on which the Stamp Collector was run, cannot get enough support from the collectors of the country to make it worth while to continue.

The Stamp Collector is not the only publication that gets up against this proposition. Not a monthly in America devoted entirely to stamp collecting has 2000 bonafide subscribers on its list.

The publisher of the Stamp Collector simply got tired of losing money on every issue of the publication; besides doing hours upon hours of hard work each month, for the great unappreciative stamp collecting public.—Linn's Way.

PICTORIAL REBUS CONTEST.

We publish herewith a different style of rebus than what we have published in the past. This will be a hunt for the names of stamp issuing localities rather than stamps themselves. We may add that the list in Scott's catalog will furnish a complete solution for the above rebus, and we trust our subscribers will enjoy the hunt afforded them. We shall not offer any prizes but will give honorary mention to the contestants insofar as the development of the contest will warrant. Begin at the top left hand corner and read horizontally to the lower right hand corner. All replies should be received by March 20.

PORTUGUESE PERMANENT SET.

The new postage stamps of the Portuguese Republic in a permanent type, which have been ready for issue for some months, but have been withheld pending the exhaustion of the stocks of the Vasco da Gama series overprinted "Republica", will be issued to the public on New Year's Day. The dies have been engraved and the stamps printed at the Lisbon Mint. The design, typifying the Republic, shows a three-quarter length figure of a native peasant woman, crowned with the Phrygian Cap, and with the shield of Portugal upon her breast. The figure grasps a sickle with her right hand and bears a sheaf of corn under her left arm. The design is the work of Senor Constantino Fernandes. The values of the new stamps will be expressed in "escudos" and "centimos" instead of in reis as at present.—London Times.

THE MAIL BAGS OF RULERS.

(Clipping from FRANK E. SMITH.)

The mail bag at the Vatican probably contains the largest number of letters that are addressed to any single person or institution. After the Pope, the Kaiser receives the greatest number, fully half being addressed to him personally.

Emperor William has never less than 7,500 letters daily, a goodly proportion of which, according to Harper's Weekly, are appeals to right wrongs about which he knows nothing and would be powerless to act if he did. Many are private diplomatic letters.

After him comes the President of the United States, who gets a daily average of 5,000 letters. The mail of the present King of England has dwindled to 2,500 letters, probably a third of the number received by his father. The mail bag of the Czar is smaller still, about 500 persons writing daily to one well known to be hedged in by officialdom.

It is said that the royal palace in Madrid gets 300 letters, addressed for the most part to King Alfonso, but a share falling to the lot of the Queen. The Italian King gets only about 200 letters daily, while the mail bag of the President of France varies greatly.

When the foreign population in Paris is most numerous his mail reaches as high an average as the American President, but in other months the average is comparatively small. It is said that the Emperor of Japan has only recently begun to be troubled in this manner, letters to him being mainly in the nature of appeals to add by swift and glorious war to the territory of the sun kingdom.

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Any information regarding new issues will be gratefully received and acknowledged. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, 17 Addison St., Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed, stamped envelope. We cannot give applicants the addresses of our correspondents. Correspondence regarding precancelled stamps must be sent to FRANK B. ELDREDGE, Attleboro, Mass., when due credit will be given in this department.

UNITED STATES.—The following precancels are reported by F. B. Eldredge:

Brooklyn, N. Y., 3c 1911, normal; type I.
Providence, R. I., 6c 1911, normal; type IV.
Rochester, N. Y., 1c 1911, normal; type II.
Foxboro, Mass., 2c 1911, normal; type I.
Cleveland, Ohio, 3c 1911, normal; type IV.
Westgrove, Pa., 4c 1911, inverted; type III.
Foxboro, Mass., 1c 1911, normal; type I.
Chicago, Ill., 2c 1911, inverted,double; type V.
Cleveland, Ohio, 2c 1911, normal; type IV.

K. Baumann says that he has the 1c, 2c and 15c values of the Montclair, N. J. precancels with the rubber stamp cancellation and the 3c, 4c, 5c, 6c, 8c and 10c values with the circle cancellation, and that he has since found the one cent with the circular cancellation and the 10c with the rubber stamp cancellation and thinks that all values must have issued with both cancellations. Can other collectors enlighten.

In No. 1102, R. J. Wagner reports the current 2c imperforate at top and bottom, and perforated 8 holes at the sides. Mr. Eldredge has just received from a large wholesale house in St. Louis, Mo., a strip of five stamps, of the above, the eight holes in groups of four, and was informed that they were used in the mail-om-eter mailing machine, but did not learn what number of the mail-om-eter it was.

Russell E. Long reports having found a broken line variety in the 10c Columbian, the right vertical line being broken for two spaces, 6 lines up from the lower corner. There are other minor differences in the same stamp, but none important enough, apparently, to constitute a distinct variety.

L. P. Miller writes as follows regarding the use of "A" in the current plate numbers:

"On page 32 of the current volume of the WEEKLY, appeared a query regarding the presence of the 'A' on plates of the new registry stamps. In reply, I beg to state that on Nov. 15, 1910, plates were put into use, of the then current 1c and 2c values giving uniform spaces between the stamps. The letter 'A' was impressed on the plates, to distinguish them from the starred and unstarred plates previously used. The 'A' plates were at first used only for printing sheets required to supply demands for part perforates and imperforates, but gradually came into general use, until now, all plates being made have the 'A' gauge, except for special delivery and book stamps."

More letters are coming to hand regarding the varieties of the Columbian stamps, J. C. Piper being the latest to report his luck. He reports having found 65 of Hunt's type II, 17 of type III and 6 of type 4, with 12,000 more stamps to be examined.

John C. Morgan calls attention to varieties of the 4c and 6c Columbians, the ornaments at the left of the right hand figures of value showing three points of leaves instead of two. Mr. Morgan shows an unused block of the 4c, showing two stamps normal and two with this variety.

Mr. Morgan also shows us a 2c envelope on white with the 1907 watermark, in which the "7" has been moved out of place, and appears above and nearly at an angle of 45 degrees with the rest of the date.

We are indebted to A. N. Caudell for information regarding the new issue of stamps, all the values of which, except the 3c, 4c, 5c and 6c, which were not changed, and the 10c, which appeared last month, were placed on sale at the Washington Postoffice Feb. 14. The values placed on sale on that date were the 1c, 2c, 8c and all values above 10c. Mr. Caudell reports having seen the 1c with plate numbers A 5805, 5828 and 5831. The new series has the plate number only, and not the Bureau imprint and number as formerly. We are also indebted to J. M. Bartels and the New England Stamp Co. for information regarding the new stamps, and for specimens of the various values. Mr. Bartels calls our attention to the fact that the new 50c and $1 values are printed on paper with the double-lined watermark. This is due to the fact that these values are printed in sheets of 200 stamps, and as there was a large stock of the paper suitable for printing these values, it was decided best to use it up before starting on the new watermark. This of course makes it extremely unlikely that any of the old 50c and $1 stamps will ever be found on either of the single lined watermarks. The 1c and 2c are in the design of the current 3c to 6c values, while all values from 8c up are in the design of the 10c, recently described, with portrait of Franklin.

Adhesives.

1c green.
2c carmine.
8c olive green.
15c gray.
50c lilac.
$1 dark brown.

The most striking difference is found in the 15c, which is a very handsome shade of gray, but one that will be prolific of shade differences like the 24c of 1862.

ARGENTINE.—Whitfield King & Co. have shown us the ½c, 1c and 30c values of the new "Sower" set. Apparently they are printed in Buenos Ayres, as all three values are very roughly perforated 13½x12½.

Adhesives.

½c violet.
1c yellow brown.

CHILE.—A correspondent informs Maury's Collectionneur that the first supply of the 3c and 15c values of the permanent set have been exhausted, and a new supply has been ordered.

COSTA RICA.—Maury's Collectionneur is informed that 285,000 telegraph stamps of the 1910 issue were surcharged "Correos—Un Centavo", there being 6 values as already noted. In addition to this, 360,778 telegraph stamps of the issue of 1907, seven values from 5c to 10 colones were overprinted "Correos—2 Centavos". Later, 806,176 25c telegraph stamps of 1910 were converted into 1c postage stamps, and 633,220 5c telegraph stamps of 1910 were converted into 5c postage stamps.

EGYPT.—Sudan.—Mr. Schachne shows us some late arrivals, all having the large (camel) stamp. The 2m has "Post Card" and an Egyptian inscription as the first headline.—"The address to be," etc., for the second and a third in Egyptian. The 4m is same plate as the 2 on 4 noted in No. 1047 or at least the upper half is. The letter envelopes are same size and cut as formerly but the headline is changed to "Letter Envelope".

Post Cards.

2m green on buff; 140x90 mm.
4m red on buff; 140x90 mm.

Letter Envelopes.

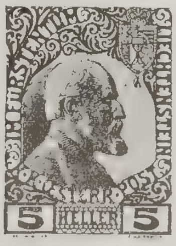
5m red on buff.
1pi ultramarine on light blue.

JAPAN.—Karl Koslowski sends us a new post card from Japan, evidently for internal use, as the only English inscriptions are the value in ovals at the sides, "1½" "Sn".

Post Card.

1½s milky blue on white.

LIECHTENSTEIN.—As announced in Nos. 1062 and 1095, the stamps for this principality have now appeared, the issue being limited to three values, as stated in No. 1095. In appearance, the new stamps resemble very closely the stamps of Austria, except that but one design is used for three values, and the portrait is that of the Prince of Liechtenstein. The portrait shows a profile, facing to the right, and is well drawn and printed. The inscription, which is similar to some of the regular Austrian values in size and printing is broken at the upper right corner to permit the Arms of the Principality to be inserted. The inscriptions are "Im Fürstentum", at the left and partly across the top, "Liechtenstein" down the right side, and "K. K Œsterr. Post" across below the portrait. The values are expressed in "Heller" with the figures of value in tablets in the lower corners, and "Heller" between. All inscriptions are in colored letters. The design measures 21½x30 mm. The stamps are printed on white unwatermarked paper, and are perforated 12½. Whitfield King & Co. have shown us the set.



Adhesives.

5h yellow green.
10h rose.
25h deep blue.

MEXICO.—William Lloyd reports that the 1p stamp of the Commemorative set has come to hand, surcharged "Oficial" in the current type of overprint.

RUSSIA.—According to the Deutsche Briefmarken Zeitung, the 20k blue and red has been issued on paper with crossed lines of varnish. The 5k and 10k envelopes of 1889 have been overprinted 3k and 7k respectively. The Russian Postoffice Department is reported to have sold to a Berlin dealer a large quantity of remainders of old issues in unused condition, though whether over or under face is not stated.

SERVIA.—Ewen's Weekly reports the issue of the higher values of both the regular postage and the newspaper stamps recently chronicled. The New England Stamp Co. has shown us the newspaper set.

WITH THE BOY PHILATELIST.

Edited by BERTRAM W. H. POOLE, Box 231, Altadena, Calif.

We propose to insert upon this page matter that will be of interest to the boy collector. Some two thousand boys are now on our mailing list and it is our desire to come closely in contact with them in such a manner as will be most helpful. Any information desired will be cheerfully rendered through these columns. Do not submit stamps for examination.

COUNTRIES FOR THE BEGINNER.

AITUTAKI.

Aitutaki is certainly an easy country for the beginner to complete for there are only six standard varieties and unused these can be purchased for less than a dollar. Even if one assiduously collects shades it would not be possible to greatly increase the number of collectible varieties and there are no errors or luxuries of that sort. Used, the higher values are certainly difficult to obtain, but even in this condition the series could probably be completed at an expenditure of about a dollar.

Aitutaki is the northernmost of the islands forming the Hervey or Cook Archipelago. With many other islands in the South Pacific Ocean it was annexed to the British Empire in October, 1900 and in the following June it was, with Rarotonga, Mangaia, Atiu, Mouke, Niue, Mitiare, Penrhyn, Manihiki, Rakahanga and a few others included in the boundaries of the Dominion of New Zealand. Though it is one of the Cook Islands and its government is administered by the Council of the Cook Islands Federation, Aitutaki has, since 1903, issued its own distinctive stamps.

The island is of little commercial or political importance and the fact that it is suronded by dangerous reefs and has no good harbour, militates against its development. It is of volcanic formation and its highest point rises to about 400 feet above sea level.

The people who inhabit the island are Polynesians and, according to their legends, their ancestors migrated from Samoa. The Samoans are said to have found a race of black people on the island with whom they intermarried. The fact that the present natives have more pronounced features, more wavy hair, and are darker skinned and more energetic than the Samoans, seems to prove that there is more than a grain of truth in this legend. The language, too, is very closely allied to that of the Samoans. At the present time the natives are civilised having adopted Christianity and Western habits. Most of them can read and write, they dress in the European style and live in stone houses grouped in townships. They are, however, gradually dwindling in numbers as is unhappily the case with the natives of most of the South Sea Islands that come into contact with European civilisation. The island produces cocoanuts, bananas, breadfruit, cotton, and tobacco, though its trade is small.

In 1903, two years after the island had come under the jurisdiction of New Zealand, a set of distinctive stamps was issued for its use. These consisted of the then current ½d, 1d, 2½d, 3d, 6d and 1s stamps of New Zealand overprinted with the name "AITUTAKI" at the top and the value in native wording below. All values are on the paper watermarked with single-lined letters "N Z" above a star, the two lowest values being perforated 14 and the others 11. The colors of the stamps and surcharges were as follows:—

1d carmine, surcharged in blue.
2½d blue, surcharged in carmine.
3d yellow-brown, surcharged in blue.
6d rose-red, surcharged in blue.
1s red, surcharged in blue.

The 1s is the only value that offers much variation in shade and this may be found in two well marked tints—brown-red and bright red.

On the ½d stamp, the value in the native language is rendered as "Ava Pene"; on the 1d it is "Tai Pene"; on the 2½d it is "Rua Pene Ma Te Ava"; on the 3d it is "Toru Pene"; on the 6d, "Ono Pene," and on the 1s, "Tai Tiringi."

The designs, which are of course those of New Zealand, are interesting. On the ½d, the centerpiece shows a view of Mount Cook. This is the culminating point of the long chain of mountains that traverse the western side of the South Island. It rises to a height of 12,549 feet, and received its name in honor of Captain Cook who visited New Zealand in 1777.

The design of the 1d is allegorical in character and commemorates the introduction of Universal Penny Postage in 1901.

The 2½d stamp shows a view of Mount Earnslaw and Lake Wakapitu. Lake Wakapitu is a curiously shaped lake situated in the South Island, while Mt. Earnslaw—one of the highest points of the Southern Alps—is about ten miles due north of the lake.

On the 3d stamp a pair of sacred huia birds are shown. The huia is an interesting member of the crow family peculiar to New Zealand. The birds are remarkable for the striking difference betwen the beaks of the two sexes. The female has a long curved bill while the male has a short stout beak. The differences are plainly shown on the birds depicted on the 3d stamp.

The 6d shows another curious bird also peculiar to New Zealand. This is the kiwi or apteryx, which is closely related to the now extinct moas of Madagascar. The wings are only rudimentary so are quite useless for flight, the feathers are hair-like in appearance, the tail is inconspicuous, and the long curved beak has the nostrils placed close to its extremity. The bird lives almost exclusively on earth worms which are located by its sense of smell hence the usefulness of the nostrils in such an unusual position.

On the 1s two birds are shown; both members of the parrot family. The bird on the right is a Kaka—a fruit eating parrot plentiful in the wooded districts of both islands. The bird on the left, with raised wings, is the Kea or sheep killing-parrot. It is carnivorous in its habits—a curious trait considering that practically all other members of the parrot family live on fruit and nuts. Its natural food is insects but it is alleged to have acquired the reprehensible habit of killing sheep. According to many eminent naturalists however this charge has never been satisfactorily proved.

NEW HEBRIDES.

The Sydney Morning Herald, 25-12-11, published a rumor from Noumea in circles which are usually well informed, that a proposal is being seriously considered by France and Great Britain for a division of the New Hebrides. The same newspaper published an editorial on the subject, from which we extract the following: "We get word of a report current in Noumea that Great Britain and France are now seriously discussing the question of the division of the New Hebrides. It is not necessary at this stage to do more than emphasize the fact that something must be done; and if subdivision is seen to be the only way out, although likely to cause a certain amount of friction and much controversy, the proposed rearrangement would be very much better than any continuance of the present condition of affairs. The Condominium is manifestly a failure. Abuses remain uncorrected, and the position so far as British interests are concerned is steadily going from bad to worse. It is a hopeful sign that both of the Powers concerned realize this, and are determined to find a way out of the dangerous impasse into which they have wandered. The special point of interest now is Australia's relation to a possible agreement. Is the Commonwealth Government being consulted? We should feel chagrined if division were made on some basis which left Great Britain with a weaker position in the New Hebrides."—Aust. Stamp Journal.

"STAMPS HARD TO GET."

Catalog Value $2.00 and Under.

A correspondent suggests that an article dealing with hard-to-get stamps would be appreciated by our readers. We invite contributions to a symposium, suggesting that it be confined to stamps that catalog $2.00 and under. We shall hope to have a sufficient number of entries to make a worthy contribution to our columns.

A REVIEW OF THE U. S. STAMPED ENVELOPES, 1903-1911.

By LOUIS G. BARRETT.

(Reprints of this article will be made uniform with the series advertised from time to time. These reprints fit into the blank album wherever needed and are supplied at 5c each. We furnish a neat binder for 30c which covers actual cost only.—Ed.)

Since 1903 the collectors of United States stamped envelopes have had but few idle moments on their hands. The large number of varieties turned out by the contractors in their well meant endeavors to keep up with the constantly increasing demand for this form of postal stationery, has made the pace fast and furious, especially for those collecting entires and paying strict attention to the differences in die, knife, color of paper and watermark.

Beginning with the above year, the first printings of the 1 and 2 cent denominations were in olive green and red respectively; the watermark being of the familiar type USPOD 1903 known to collectors as No. 14. When only 9 out of a possible 16 varieties of the 1c and only 30 out of a possible 34 varieties of the 2c had appeared, collectors were suddenly confronted with a change in color for both values, to blue-green and carmine respectively. At once there was a merry hunt for the early shades by those who had neglected to take them as they came along.

When apparently these efforts had brought a well earned rest from his labors, the collector was deluged with the now well known 143 varieties of recut dies of the 2c value, and to the present day many are still on the lookout for some of the missing ones of the collections to turn up. A fairly comprehensive collection of these recut dies alone will number over 600 specimens if size and paper only are considered, but if shades in the stamped impression also are included 1000 or more specimens will be easily attained.

A sigh of relief went up, even from the most enthusiastic with the announcement of a new issue in 1907 although the award of the contract to a new and untried firm, apparently boded no good. These gloomy misgivings were only too soon realized. The first printings of the two cent value were in brown-red, and in the short period in which this color was used three distinct dies were used known as A, A-2, and B; of which A2 is quite scarce in that color, being found only on Size 5. It is known on all of the four colors of paper for that size, but the blue and buff are well worth looking for. The watermark for this series was similar to that for 1903, the substitution of a 7 for the 3 in the date being the principal difference; it however is found in two distinct forms, known as watermarks No. 15 and 15B respectively. The 1c, 4c, and 5c values appeared each with two distinct dies, in use at the same time, for which in the case of the two higher values at least, no good explanation has ever been given. Up to this point, not including the numerous minor varieties of paper or defective printing, 16 straight varieties (the complete schedule number) of the 1c Die A were issued; similarly 10 out of a possible 16 have been found of Die B. Of the 2c dies; Die A appeared on the full schedule number of 34, Die A2 only on 4 and Die B has 11 varieties out of a possible 34 to its credit. The 4c Die A shows 5 of a possible 6 varieties, while Die B has the entire 6 accounted for. Die A of the 5c only was found in 2 combinations, while Die B has the full schedule of 4.

With the above 92 collectible major varieties to attend to, further confusion was caused by a sudden change in color of the 2 cent value to carmine, and the appearance of a fourth die for this value, known as Die C, which together with the three earlier ones were used promiscuously in the carmine printing as in the brown-red. In addition, the purchase of some remaining stock of the 1903 paper by the contractors, and its use, still further complicated this series; finally to cap the climax, there appeared 3 recut 1c dies known as Die C, and 13 recut 2c dies known as Die D.

Some 1894 manila paper was also used for the 1 and 2c values where called for as such by the schedule, and two old knives were resurrected. And further, a series of open-end envelopes (now soon to be discontinued) was issued with the 1c value impressed, different dies being used as came handiest apparently. An immense number of albinos (one can nearly fill the complete schedule of sizes and papers with these), mis-strikes and other freak varieties of printing or folding accompanied the legitimate varieties, so that a collection of this 1907 series alone, if specialized, soon assumes vast proportions.

Taking straight varieties, however, beginning with the change in color of the 2c to carmine and including the different watermarked papers used and the old reissued knives, gives collectors the following numbers to add to their holdings:—2c Die A; 34: with 1903 wmk.; 10: with 1894 wmk.; 1: Die A2; 26 with 1903 wmk.; 2: Die B; 5: Die C; 18: with 1903 wmk.; 1: a total of 97 for the 2c alone.

In the 1c Die A, 4 varieties are added with the 1894 wmk.; and 5 with the 1903 wmk., while the open-end varieties of 1910, add 13 more to the list. The 1c Die C with its varieties add 7, and the varieties of the 2c Die D add 54 to the already long list, totaling 272 major varieties for the issue of 1907.

About the middle of 1911 a renewal of the contract for the next four years' supplies was made with the same contractors of the 1907 series; and living up to their reputation with that issue, they are now flooding us with new varieties. To start with, the contractors, apparently without the consent or knowledge of the P. O. Department, had paper manufactured with the date of the former watermark simply changed to read 1911. This is known as wmk. 16, and is only found on the first quality (white or amber) papers; the second quality (blue or buff) being manufactured by another concern. The contractors were allowed to use it up, however, pending the preparation of paper bearing an approved watermark, which shortly appeared having the date 1911 in a line below the letters USSE, being very similar in form to that adopted for the adhesive stamps of the current series. This new wmk. is called No. 17. Dies A, B and C of the 1c value and A, A2, and C of the 2c have been used so far; while recently an entirely new knife has been used for both values on Sizes 5, 11 and 13 only, as this shape could be manufactured more cheaply than the old knife for those sizes.

Unless convenience should dictate its further use on the remaining sizes of the schedule, it will probably only be used on the two mentioned, as the price quoted on the other sizes was the same either way. The “décolleté” cut allows of the readier removal of the contents of an envelope, and it would seem to be an improvement sufficiently important to be extended to all sizes. However, the possibilities, then of a collector of entires of this current series is something as follows:—

(a) 1c DIE A, WMK. 16 (USPOD 1911) with old knife:

Size 2, white and amber,	2
“ 3, “ “	2
“ 5, “ “	2
“ 11, “ only,	1

(b) 1c DIE A, WMK. 16 (USPOD 1911) with new knife:

(c) 1c DIE A, WMK. 17 (USSE 1911) with old knife:

The above 12 groups give a grand total of a possible 111 varieties in combinations of die, wmk., knife, size and paper; divided equally into 37 varieties for each of the three 1c dies.

In the 2c value the list is even longer, as the schedule calls for a greater range in sizes than for the 1c. It will total up about as follows:—

(m) 2c DIE A; WMK. 16; old knife:

Size 1, white only,	1

(w) 2c DIE C; WMK. 17; old knife: Same as under (o)	34
(x) 2c DIE C; WMK. 17; new knife: Same as under (p),	8

The above 12 groups (“m” to “x” inclusive) give a grand total of a possible 201 varieties in combinations of die, wmk., knife, size and paper, divided equally into 67 varieties for each of the three 2c dies.

At the present writing (Feb. 19, 1912) only the 5c, Size 5, Die A on white of the 4c or 5c values has been reported on either of the 1911 wmk. papers or with new knife, and owing to the relatively small use made of these values, it will probably be well along in the four years' period, if at all, before any further change is noticed in these values. In that event the possibility of any of the USPOD 1911 paper (wmk. 16) being used for other values is quite remote; but if any future printings should be required the USSE 1911 paper would undoubtedly be the one used. The new knife, applying only to Sizes 5 and 13 would not affect the 4c value at all, appearing as it does only on Sizes 7, 8, 9 and would only therefore be used with Size 5 of the 5c.

However, if by any chance, others have been printed on wmk. 16 paper, to be later succeeded by the wmk. 17 type, here are the possible varieties for collectors to be on the watch for, and some may be found, too:—

(y) 4c; DIE A; WMK. 16; old knife:

(cc) 5c DIE A; WMK. 16; old knife:

(dd) 5c DIE A; WMK. 16; new knife: Size 5, white and amber,	2
(ee) 5c DIE A, WMK. 17; old knife: Same as under (cc),	4
(ff) 5c DIE A; WMK. 17; new knife: Same as under (dd),	2
(gg) 5c DIE B, WMK. 16; old knife: Same as under (cc),	4
(hh) 5c DIE B, WMK. 16; new knife: Same as under (dd),	2
(ii) 5c DIE B; WMK. 17; old knife: Same as under (cc),	4
(jj) 5c DIE B; WMK. 17; new knife: Same as under (dd),	2

The above 12 groups (“y” to “jj” inclusive) show a grand total of a possible 48 varieties in combinations of die, wmk., knife, size and paper, divided equally between the two values.

A recapitulation of the three issues of 1903, 1907 and 1911, gives the following result:

1903 including “recuts”,	736 varieties
1907,	272 “
1911,	360 “
Grand total.	1368 collectible
varieties, or omitting the 1903 recut 2c dies,	635
leaves	733 major var.

While this latter total seems large, and in reality is unnecessarily so, it should not deter anyone from attempting the task of collecting them, even if the pocket-book has to be considered, for allowing, say an average cost of five cents a variety at the time of issue, the total amount expended by a careful searcher at the various postoffices and in following up varieties used by business houses is only a little over $36. Spread this total over the 12 years covered by these three issues and the amount per year, $3, appears trivial in proportion to the pleasure obtained from their gathering. In what other line can so much be obtained for so slight an outlay? And there is always the incentive of a “find” of some hitherto unchronicled variety to keep the enthusiasm at a white heat. Call it the “lure of the unknown” or what you will, a fifteen minutes' talk with a collector of U. S. entires will convince one that this fascinating branch of philately is one well worth following, and the novice of today will become the enthusiast of tomorrow.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—From a note just at hand from Theodore Siddall we extract the following:—"Here is another one for your Chronicle, the 12 centavos on white paper with the new single-lined watermark. I have not got one without the O. B. surcharge yet. General Bandholtz says that there is a sufficient stock of the black 2 peso stamps to last seven or eight years at the present rate of use, so it may be a long time before the set will be completed in the new colors."

—This time it is Oakland, Cal., with an aeroplane postmark and we are indebted to Philip M. Fisher, Jr. for greetings from Oakland via the aeroplane route. The postmark and cancellation are of the regulation character, the postmark bearing the date "Feb. 17, 1912".

—C. V. Webb, Perry, O., writes us that the proposed amalgamation of national junior stamp societies "cannot be done peaceably". Mr. Webb, who is Int. Sec. of the S. P. A. says that he is opposed to the movement.

—Joseph F. Negreen, after being seven years at Nos. 26 & 28 East 23rd street, will be located at No. 8 East 23rd St., first floor after March 1st. This new building is directly opposite Madison Square Park and four doors from Broadway.

—The United Stamp Company has leased a branch store at 37 N. Dearborn St., Chicago, on the ground floor and practically on one of the busiest corners in the world. The new stand will help familiarize philately to the hurrying crowds in Chicago, as a full stock will be carried at the branch, the same as at the main office.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from Hugo Kuenstler (6), A. McKechnie, Geo. S. Dates, Jr., J. B. Childs, A. H. Keyes, F. R. Holloway, Walter F. Slusser, M. S. Karlitsky, R. E. Jessup, Albert F. Ritter, W. A. Kain.

—W. T. Wilson, Birmingham, England, sends us for review a copy of his 1912 Price List. The list is a very comprehensive one and its numerous pages are filled with bargain offers of single stamps, sets and packets. Mr. Wilson will send this list to anyone on request and a bi-monthly circular of novelties and bargains may be had regularly upon request also.

—H. Franke favors us with an aerial postmark "Oakland, Cal." The date of the aviation meet was Feb. 18.

—Concord, N. H., collectors are to form a stamp club on Saturday, March 9, at Room 34, Opera House Block. Interested parties should write M. D. Olmstead, Concord, in relation to the same.

—We have been offering the Whitfield King Catalog for a two years' renewal and the Scott catalog on a four years' renewal. Collectors who are interested in the Bright & Son catalog advertised elsewhere in this issue can obtain it by renewing for three years. Here is a catalog offer that should appeal to all. It makes no difference when your subscription expires, we will date it ahead.

—Notwithstanding our repeated assertions that in mailing the WEEKLY, no favoritism is shown our subscribers, we still receive occasional protests from quarters where the WEEKLY seems to be somewhat late in putting in an appearance. Once more we reiterate that the WEEKLY sent to any given city goes to all our subscribers in that city and if any fault is to be found it must be laid at the door of the local service.

—During the past month we have placed advertising with Spare Moments, Current Literature, Pearson's, Lippincott's, Popular Mechanics and the World Today. We believe in taking the same medicine from the advertising standpoint that we prescribe for others and there will be something doing as a result of our campaign.

—Frank C. Davis of Mohawk, N. Y., was a recent caller at the WEEKLY office.

—Monday, February 26, we received forty-eight new subscriptions to the WEEKLY. This is a record performance and is an indication of the new collecting blood that is being added to our mailing list.

—The Hussman Stamp Co. advises us that one thousand orders have been shipped for sample copy purposes. We shall issue a Recruiting Special the latter part of March and send the same to as many live names as possible. The Hussman orders have all been received during the past few months.

—The Cook Islands book advertised in the WEEKLY is meeting with a ready sale. It is handsomely printed and of permanent value. It can be obtained for 25c from this office.

—Catalogs are at hand of the Gammans Sale No. 2 and the sale of the Philadelphia Stamp Co., to be held March 22-23. This latter is the property of a New York collector and a fine line of stamps is listed.

48 NEW SUBSCRIPTIONS IN A DAY.

On Monday last the WEEKLY received a total of 48 new subscriptions a record that the office force has never seen equalled.

We have large plans for the next three months and the advertisers who are with us steadily will feel the benefit of the new collecting force that is being added to our mailing list.

NEW ZEALAND'S NEW STAMPS.

Designed by a Well Known British Artist.

A well-known British artist, H. Linley Richardson, has designed the new stamps for New Zealand, for which the dies and plates are at present being made by Messrs. Perkins, Bacon & Co. of London, by the Perkins Mill and Die process, but are for surface printing, not for the recess-plate printing for which this firm is mostly renowned. The use of the steel plate surface printing process of Messrs. Perkins, Bacon & Co. has been used on several notable occasions, and previous to the present preparation of Georgian stamps, New Zealand has had such plates for the Penny Universal, and certain of the King Edward stamps for the dominion. H. Linley Richardson, the artist, whose name is associated with the forthcoming design, is a figure and landscape painter, but is probably more widely known as a black and white artist, and it is in this class of work that his design of the New Zealand stamps is probably classed. He is a member of the Royal Society of British Artists, and received his artistic training at the Westminster School of Art and at the celebrated Julian's in Paris. He exhibited at the Royal Academy at the age of twenty-two, and is still to be numbered amongst the young artists, having been born in 1878.—Postage Stamp.

EDITORIAL.

Work Cut Out—Under date of January 27th, it was reported that Postmaster-General Hitchcock had authorized the preparation of designs and plates for proposed stamps to commemorate the Panama-Pacific fair at San Francisco in 1915. In this connection it is represented that the authorities are taking much interest in the issue and it is their wish not to disappoint the high expectations and enthusiasm of the promoters of the enterprise. It is desired to have the designs of special appeal and significance, in a broad or general sense, to Americans and no efforts will be spared to make the stamps "the most beautiful in artistic design and finish that have yet been issued by the Postoffice Department." The department shows a commendable ardor but it has a task on hand to really excel some of our handsome stamp creations of the past.

Things of Beauty—The United States 1869 set for instance, certainly was the most beautiful and unconventional that had appeared up to 1870; and to-day it sets so high a standard that it perhaps is the most popular in a philatelic sense of all our issues. When one analyzes the application of the designs of the different stamps to the service that they were calculated to perform, the combination of art and utility seems admirable. Beginning with January 1st, 1869, the United States had concluded postal conventions with great uniformity of principles and details with Great Britain and Ireland, Belgium, Switzerland, the Netherlands, the North German Union, and Italy, whereby marked reductions in the rates became effective; and, in a way, the designs of the 1869 set, illustrated the reform. The one-cent appropriately showed the founder of the service, the illustrious Franklin. The two and the three-cent, the past and the present modes of mail transportation. Double weight domestic letters brought the features of Washington on the six-cent. The ten-cent took the golden American eagle to many countries abroad; and to Belgium and the states of the North German Union on letters transmitted by regular lines of steamers plying directly between a port of the United States and one of the north of Europe. The ocean steamer on the twelve-cent carried the half-ounce letter over the green sea to Great Britain; the double letter recalled England's attention to the signing of the Declaration of Independence and if the reminder was indelicate or ungenerous, it embodied a much gentler suggestion than the "Surrender of Cornwallis," which it is said was first selected as the design, would have done. Italy and the Italian states could view with pride the Landing of Columbus on the fifteen-cent; and the same rate applied to Switzerland, Holland, Belgium, Prussia and the other North German States, Turkey, etc., as well as to other countries scattered about the world. The flag and the eagle of the American republic on the thirty-cent pointed to France's reestablishment of the republic and the overthrow of the second empire; and thirty cents was the commonest rate, quarter-ounce weight, to far-away lands, to which the red, white and blue found its way. Heavy foreign letters and weighty domestic mail were franked by the ninety-cent, with the immortal Lincoln's portrait in the color of mourning.

They Search and Find—An interesting study of the four-cent Columbian varieties has been received from Mrs. J. A. B. Whitney, Houston Heights, Texas, to which we shall be likely to refer later. She says: "There seems to be on some stamps, thinness of color, where the varieties developed, as though work of some kind had been done. There was one stamp where the right hand numeral was dressed up in a wonderful way, 'a freak.' The paper seemed too rough to take up the ink properly. It was not worn or thin,—hardly the fault of the printer." Mrs. Whitney submits a specimen that clearly shows that the foliate ornaments were changed in the manner described. Mr. Eil Fisher, Pacific Grove, California, after examining seven thousand of the two-cent Columbian and finding every variety except the double line at right type has turned his attention to the one-cent of the 1890 issue and sends seven variations in and about the numerals that must be seen to be appreciated. Mr. Fisher, who is seventy years of age, has done a remarkable task in segregating and classifying these minor variations. Mr. J. Arthur Wainwright, Morganton, North Carolina, reports some observations arrived at after his scrutiny of the two-cent Columbians, which we shall refer to, again.

What?—It has been asked what the letters, H. P., enclosed in an ellipsis, on the three-cent, 1861, signify; and also, what "Way 5" in two lines on an envelope bearing one of the little Blood locals means. We can only theorize as to the meanings. Does any reader know?

Mail-Coach Days—A reference has been found in a periodical of 1841 to the "failure of western mails" which illustrated the regulations supposed to govern the transportation of mail by stage coach at the time. It was required that the contractors convey the mail of the United States in its entirety in such a carriage as was prescribed by the postoffice department and the conveyance was to be devoted wholly to the mails of the United States except for three seats for passengers. It was stipulated, however, that the permission to carry the three passengers was abrogated if the travelers occupied space that made the exclusion of any part of the mails necessary; in other words, the three passengers could be carried only in addition to the mail matter. The carriage of persons and their baggage sometimes interferred with the taking of the whole supply of mail and this practice of displacing the mail in favor of the individuals indulged in by some stage drivers provoked strenuous objection and was made the subject of investigation by the department. However, the postmaster-general had the authority to order larger carriages of sufficient capacity to contain the entire mail and the three passengers. It was soon after this time that the transportation of mail by rail was begun.

Seventy Year Old Roast—At the time mentioned in the foregoing item, 1841, the Whigs were in power at Washington and their political opponents made capital over the failure as they called it of the Whig reform under the administration of General Harrison "Tippecanoe," particularly in postal affairs. A sarcastic example of Democratic comment is of curious interest: "Some time in the early part of the summer I happened at our city postoffice, where I saw one of the messengers belonging to the General Postoffice hand in a parcel about four feet long, carefully enveloped, tied and sealed, directed to some person in Virginia, and bearing the frank of a high dignitary of the Postoffice Department, whilome an editor of a Turf Register. The postoffice clerk observed that he thought it was too heavy to be admitted in the mail and returned it to the messenger. Now what do you think that parcel contained. I would give you a month of Sundays and you could not guess; so I will tell you. On inquiry, it was found to be a jointed fishing rod, weighing about four pounds, when extended reaching sixteen or eighteen feet. Any person curious in the history of the times, that would take the trouble to inquire at the Postoffice Department might learn more of the fishing rod and the fisherman, too."

A GREAT PACKET ENTERPRISE.

The H. S. Powell Stamp Co. of Storm Lake, Iowa, U. S. A., has secured the exclusive sales right of all stamps gathered by the Fathers of the Divine Word. This organization has a membership of over 3000 priests who are at the head of monasteries located in every stamp issuing country. For instance even in Iceland, Togo and North Borneo.

There are now over 100 tons gathered and Rev. R. Stollenwerk will sail for Europe on May 15th and make arrangements for the removal of the greater portion to the Company's works at Liebenthal, Kansas.

Hereafter all stamps will be sent direct to Liebenthal instead of different central points as heretofore.

Rev. R. Stollenwerk and Mr. Powell will decide in what manner these stamps will be distributed, upon the return of the former from Europe, in the fall.

PARCELS POST AGREED UPON.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—Democratic members of the House Committee on Postoffices and Post Roads have agreed to incorporate in the appropriation bill provisions for the establishment of a general parcels post system. They also have agreed upon a general domestic rate of 12 cents and a maximum package of 11 pounds. This is the present international parcels post rate. They would also provide for a rural parcels post, the rate to be 5 cents for one pound and 2 cents for each additional pound.

THE POSTAGE STAMPS OF NORTH BORNEO.

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.

(Concluded from last week.)

THE 1894 ISSUE.

In 1894 the territory administered by the British North Borneo Company was officially christened the "State of North Borneo". As new stamps were required the Company took advantage of the opportunity to issue a set of handsomely engraved stamps in place of the somewhat inartistic labels that had hitherto been used. Messrs. Waterlow & Sons, of London, were entrusted with the order for this new series and the stamps certainly reflect the greatest credit on that firm. The designs are typical of the territory and as the bi-colored process was employed the stamps form a set of the greatest attractiveness. The colors and values were:—

2c lake with black centre.
3c mauve with green centre.
5c vermilion with black centre.
6c brown with black centre.
8c purple with black centre.
12c blue with black centre.
18c green with black centre.
24c claret with blue centre.

It will be noted that the ½c, 4c and 10c values were discontinued while three new ones, 12c, 18c and 24c, were added to the set. The central designs are a Dyak chief, for the 1c, a "Roussa" or Malay stag for the 2c, a sage palm for the 3c, an Argus pheasant for the 5c, the Arms of the Company for the 6c, a Malay dhow for the 8c, a crocodile for the 12c, a view of Mount Kina-Balou (the highest point in the whole of Borneo) for the 18c, and the Arms of the Company, with crest, supporters, and motto for the 24c. In each case, handsome borders are supplied, these all showing the inscriptions "State of North Borneo", and "Postage & Revenue" as well as the value.

The printing contract was not entirely taken from Messrs Blades, East & Blades, for that firm continued to produce the values from 25c upwards. A new edition of all six of these had to be made, showing the new designation of the territory and these were produced by lithography according to an official statement.

THE 1895 PROVISIONALS.

In June 1895, a set of five different provisionals was issued, these all being made by surcharging the $1 stamp. The type was the same for all—extra large numerals above the word "CENTS". The values were 4c, 10c, 20c, 30c and 40c. The two first named were denominations that had been included in all sets issued down to 1894, so that there may have been a legitimate necessity for these. It is curious to note, however, that no regular 4c stamp was issued until five years later, a 10c did not appear until 1902, while regular 20c, 30c, and 40c stamps were never issued at all!

THE 1897 ISSUE.

Whoever was responsible for the designs of the pictorial stamps issued in 1894, made a grave error in omitting the inscriptions in Chinese and Malayan characters which had appeared on all the labels previously current. The Postmaster pointed out the necessity of such inscriptions as so many of the inhabitants of the territory were Chinese and Malays with little knowledge of any language but their own and in 1897, Messrs. Waterlow & Sons were instructed to prepare new plates showing the Oriental inscriptions. The "head" plates, from which the central portions of the designs were printed were used for the new issue without alteration, but the alterations necessary to the borders to make room for the extra inscriptions were so radical that these portions of the stamps bear little resemblance to the corresponding values of 1894. The colors were the same as before. In making the 18c die, the engraver made the inscription "Postage & Revenue" read "Postal Revenue" and in engraving the die for the 24c he omitted this inscription altogether. The errors were not noted for some little time, but directly they were detected, new plates had to be made for these values with the correct inscriptions.

THE 4c PROVISIONALS OF 1899.

All of the current values from 5c to $10 were requisitioned in 1899 for the purpose of making a number of totally unnecessary 4c stamps. Of the rubbishy nature of these I think there can be little doubt and they may well be ignored. The type is similar to that used for the surcharge of June, 1895, with the numeral and "cents" a little more widely spaced.

THE 1900-02 ISSUE.

In 1900 a regular 4c stamp appeared, this being engraved and printed by Waterlow's. The centerpiece depicts an Orang-outang in his native habitat. The colors chosen for this value were green and black, but as in the same year the 2c was issued in these colors to conform with Postal Union requirements the 4c had to be changed in color. The new edition of the 4c was printed with a carmine border the centre being in black as before. In 1902 10c and 16c stamps were added to the set these also being produced in the Waterlow establishment and printed in two colors. The 10c (slate-lilac with brown centre) shows a Bruang or honey bear, while on the 16c (printed in chestnut and green) a local view with railway train in the background, forms the central device.

THE "BRITISH PROTECTORATE" OVERPRINT.

The territory administered by the British North Borneo Company was placed under British protection in 1888 and as this fact was not generally known the Company decided in 1901 that for the future the stamps should all bear the words "BRITISH PROTECTORATE." All the stamps from 1c to $2 inclusive were overprinted with these words in red, blue, green, or black, according to which color showed plainest on the several denominations. All except the 10c, 16c, $1 and $2 were placed on sale on October 8th, 1901. The 10c and 16c were issued with the overprint in July, 1902, while the $1 did not appear until January, 1904. The overprint on this latter value was in red but in 1905 it was changed to black and at the same time the $2 appeared. The 10c is known with double overprint, the 25c exists with the words inverted and a tete-beche variety is known while the 6c and 8c are known without period after "Protectorate."

THE 1904-5 PROVISIONALS.

Late in 1904 or early in 1905 the unseemly tactics of 1899 were repeated and another lengthy set of "4 cents" provisionals were issued. This time the type of the overprint was changed the numeral being smaller and "cents" being in ordinary lettering. These appear to have been as speculative as they were entirely unnecessary and as there are no "extenuating circumstances" they may quite well be ignored altogether.

THE 1909 ISSUE.

A new set of stamps ranging in value from 1c to 24c appeared in 1909 these having the words "British Protectorate" as part of the designs. These handsome labels were engraved and printed by Messrs. Waterlow & Sons and they are interesting as depicting animals, birds and incidents which had not hitherto been shown on the stamps for this territory. All were printed in two colors the values being as follows:—

1c brown with black centre.
2c yellow-green, black centre.
3c lake, black centre.
4c red, black centre.
5c yellow-brown, black centre.
6c olive, black centre.
8c carmine, black centre.
10c ultramarine, black centre.
12c deep blue, black centre.
16c red-brown, black centre.
18c green, black centre.
24c violet, black centre.

On the 1c a Malayan tapir is shown. This animal is peculiar to the Malayan region and may at once be identified from all other tapirs by the curious white "sheet mark" around its body. On the 2c is shown a "traveller's tree"; on the 3c is a view of the town of Jesselton which bids fair to become one of the most important settlements in the district; on the 4c is shown the group of gentlemen present at the signing of the original concession of the territory prior to the incorporation of the Company; on the 5c is an elephant; on the 6c, a rhinoceros; while on the 8c, a native is shown in the act of ploughing, the curious native plough being drawn by a buffalo. On the remaining values other specimens of the country's fauna are shown, viz.:—a wild boar on the 10c, a parrot on the 12c, a hornbill on the 16c, a "Banteng" or wild bull on the 18c, and a cassowary on the 24c. All the stamps of this series bear the imprint of the manufacturers at the base in tiny capitals after the style beloved by the American Bank Note Co.

Either the 18c was printed in error or its inutility was discovered before many had been sold for it was soon converted into a 20c stamp by means of an overprint in red ink.

THE 1911 ISSUE.

Although, since 1894, Messrs. Waterlow and Sons had printed all the North Borneo stamps of the values from 1c to 24c inclusive the higher denominations were the work of Blades, East & Blades—the original contractors. In 1911, the contract for these values also, was awarded to the first named firm with the result that a new set of the higher values were issued. These are all uniform in size, being as large as the $1 stamps previously in use. The designs, of which there are two, show the Arms of the Company somewhat after the style of those shown on the 6c and 24c stamps of 1894. They were engraved from steel plates and, like the series of 1909 of which they really form the completion, they show the inscription "British Protectorate" and also the maker's imprint. The colors are 25c, green; 50c, steel-blue; $1, chestnut; $2, lilac; $5, lake; and $10, brick-red.

With the above the philatelic history of this territory is completed to date so far as the ordinary stamps are concerned. In addition to these there are a number of postage due stamps, all formed by converting the regular labels to this special use by means of an overprint, and three interesting postal fiscals.

(Reprints of this article will be made uniform with the series advertised from time to time. These reprints fit into the blank album wherever needed and are supplied at 5c each. We furnish a neat binder for 30c which covers actual cost only.—Ed.)

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Any information regarding new issues will be gratefully received and acknowledged. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, 17 Addison St., Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed, stamped envelope. We cannot give applicants the addresses of our correspondents. Correspondence regarding precancelled stamps must be sent to FRANK B. ELDREDGE, Attleboro, Mass., when due credit will be given in this department.

UNITED STATES.—B. D. Baker has shown us a copy of the 8c with single lined watermark, which has the appearance of being laid, the same effect which has been a bone of contention among philatelists for so long. The laid lines appear quite distinct when the paper is wet, and yet the experts say that no stamps of the United States were ever issued on genuine laid paper, the varieties previously reported being due to some defect or peculiarity in printing.

Frank B. Eldredge submits the following list of new precancels:

Akron, Ohio, 3c 1911, normal; type V.
Buffalo, N. Y., 2c 1911, normal; type IV.
Minneapolis, Minn., 2c 1911, normal; type VII.
Chicago, Ill., 1c 1911, normal, Schermack No. 3; type V.
Cincinnati, Ohio, 2c 1911, normal; type VI.

Mr. Eldredge also shows us a used copy of the new 10c stamp, the first we have seen in this condition, and C. P. Swain also favors in the same particular. Mr. Swain reports having seen plate number A 5729 on the new registry stamps, and A 5764 on the new 10c stamps.

C. P. Swain sends us a number of the 2c Columbian stamps, with various defects in printing showing the so-called caps on the figures of value, and has really got together an interesting lot, though no new varieties are contained in the specimens submitted.

Another aeroplane card has come to hand, this time from the "Aeroplane Station" at Oakland, California, a specimen card being shown us by Herman Franke.

Howard C. Buttermore reports having seen the 1c, 2c and 10c postage due stamps, on paper watermarked with small single lined letters.

AUSTRIA.—Offices in the Levant.—The postage due stamps are now being issued on thick ordinary paper, all values except the ¼pi, ½pi and 2½pi having been seen on this paper.

CANADA.—Douglas A. Denesha sends three blocks of the ½c Quebec Tercentenary stamps showing as many different shades, ranging from light to dark. Mr. Denesha says that the darkest shade, almost black, is the rarest.

DUTCH INDIES.—Ewen's Weekly notes the issue of all values from ½c to 50c, surcharged "Java" at the top instead of at the bottom.

GREAT BRITAIN.—Ewen's Weekly reports the issue of a new wrapper, with portrait of King George, the design of the stamp being the same as that of the post card previously chronicled.

Offices in the Levant.—Ewen's Weekly notes the issue of some new stationery, overprinted for use in the Levant. The wrapper has a portrait of King Edward and the registration envelope that of King George.

Wrapper.

½d green; "Levant" 13½mm long.

Registration Envelope.

1pi on 3d brown.

The latter is overprinted "Regn. fee 1 piastre," the surcharge being similar to that on the previous issue, the "1 piastre" measuring 18¼mm, and the distance between the two lines of the surcharge 16¼mm.

NORTH BORNEO.—Gibbons' Monthly chronicles the issue of the 10c, 12c, 16c and 18c values of the 1901-04 set, with "Postage Due" in surcharge.

PORTUGUESE COLONIES.—Lemaire's Journal reports that the Portuguese Government will utilize the issues of stamps, with portrait of King Manuel, which were prepared before the overthrow of the monarchy, by overprinting the word "Republica." The Colonies affected are: Angola, 10 values, 2½r to 300r; Cape Verde, 12 values, 2½r to 500r; Mozambique, 11 values, 2½r to 500r; St. Thomas, 10 values, 2½r to 300r.

RUSSIA.—Whitfield King & Co. have shown us the 5k in the 1909 type, this being the last stamp in the series to be issued. The paper varnish lines, like all the recent issues.

Adhesive.

5k claret.

SIAM.—The new stamps with portrait of King Wajirawudh, designed by M. Tamagno, are being printed in Leipsic, Germany, by Giesecke and Devrient, and will be issued shortly.

SOUTH AFRICAN UNION.—The London Times says "the design chosen for the new 1d stamp of the Union of South Africa is an exceedingly happy one, showing an excellent full face portrait of King George, surmounted by a royal crown and flanked by a spray of mealies, encircled by a narrow white band inscribed with the designation of the Union in English and Dutch. In the two upper corners of the stamp are depicted a mail steamer and a mining shaft. The design is the work of C. P. Immelmann of Paarl, Cape Colony, and secured the first prize of £10 in the Government competition."

TIBET.—Ewen's Weekly is informed that all the Chinese offices in Tibet have been abolished, consequently the stamps are now obsolete.

TRENGGANU.—L'Echo reports the issue of two high value stamps for this state, the design being the same as for the lower values, though larger.

PROPOSED BI-LINGUAL CANADIAN.

The Post Office Department at Ottawa has under consideration the issue of a bi-lingual postage stamp. In the unusual circumstances it is understood that the King's consent would have to be obtained; but as French is an official language it is not considered that its use on the stamps of the Dominion would be unfitting.

RHODE ISLAND CELEBRATES.

The 27th annual banquet of the Rhode Island Philatelic Society was held February 21 in Providence. Twenty members and friends sat down to a fine spread provided by the banquet committee, F. M. Mason.

After cigars were lighted Edw. H. Mason of Boston was introduced and the company was entertained with an exhibition of his wonderful collection of U. S. envelopes, proofs, essays and original artists' drawings. It was greatly enjoyed.

The officers for the coming year are: President, B. A. Webber, Vice-President, R. F. Chambers, Secretary, A. R. Perry, Treasurer, W. I. Cox, Exchange Manager, Geo. L. Babbitt and Librarian F. M. Mason.

ORDER STAMPS AT ONCE.

The recent upheaval of a small island off the southern coast of Trinidad caused intense excitement among the natives, who believed that the end of the world had come. This can scarcely be deemed a matter for wonder when it is recalled that the birth of the island was heralded by clouds of smoke and fire hundreds of feet high, which came from the open sea, and could be seen for a distance of at least forty miles. The first sign of anything unusual occurred Nov. 4, when a fisherman observed a small cone of strange land jutting from the sea, with water bubbling about it. In the evening came a loud report, smoke and fire, which gradually subsided. Exploration proved that the island, then some two and a half acres in extent, was in the Bay of Erin, two miles from Chatham, where, it is said, Columbus landed when he discovered Trinidad, and twelve miles from "The Serpent's Mouth," the southern entrance to the Gulf of Paria. Its highest point was about fifteen feet above the level of the sea.—Illustrated London News.

ARE YOU REJOICING?

Philatelists are rejoicing in the genesis of another stamp issuing country. On Jan. 1 the first issue of a set of postage stamps was made by the principality of Liechtenstein. This little country, which although a sovereign state, is only sixty-five square miles in area, is run under the complete influence of its big neighbor, Austria, and has hitherto contented itself with Austrian stamps. The tiny principality has now followed in the wake of its fellow so-called independent states, the Republic of San Marino and the principality of Monaco, in asserting in this way its postal "independence," and now the microscopic Republic of Andorra, lost in the wilds of the Pyrenees, on the Franco-Spanish frontier, is the only remaining European state that has not its own postage stamps.
—Chicago Tribune.

"THE WHIRLIGIG OF TIME."

J. W. SCOTT in Metropolitan Philatelist.

In the early seventies when stamp collecting first attained national prominence, it was the custom of the press to speak of it as a passing fad that would soon die out. Many of the papers, perhaps most of them, that pronounced this stern prophecy have already gone over to the great majority, and the remainder never fail to publish any items of philatelic interest that come their way, even cabling from Europe notices of important new issues, etc. Philately has not died nor have any of its branches withered. Sometimes we hear collectors say, Envelopes are dead, Post Cards are done for, No one collects South Americans, etc. If this was true of any line it would certainly apply to U. S. Locals; their pictures were eliminated from our catalogues and only a blank page left to accommodate them in our albums. Dealers sold their stocks (if they had any) at any price they could get and collectors—the wise ones—kept what they had and bought more when the opportunity offered. To-day U. S. Locals are the gems of the trade, no stocks, no chance to buy, and the leading collectors all wanting to buy. U. S. Locals with few exceptions are the rarest stamps in the world. If we leave out some of the issues of Blood, Boyd and Hussey, all are rare, possibly averaging a hundred copies now in existence while dozens are known only by a single copy. Collectors who take everything according to their means never get left. The whirligig of time will eventually make their ugly ducklings the flower of their flock. South Americans are also booked for a big advance. Th early issues of U. S. of Colombia, Uruguay, Argentine, Peru and Chili are all good. The high values of Mexico are not to be found and the same can be said of many other countries. Portugal and its colonies have always been in demand which has been greatly intensified by the late political changes and if a king should get back there is no knowing what prices the republican issues would command.

WITH THE BOY PHILATELIST.

Edited by BERTRAM W. H. POOLE, Box 231, Altadena, Calif.

We propose to insert upon this page matter that will be of interest to the boy collector. Some two thousand boys are now on our mailing list and it is our desire to come closely in contact with them in such a manner as will be most helpful. Any information desired will be cheerfully rendered through these columns. Do not submit stamps for examination.

INTERESTING RARE STAMPS.

BRITISH GUIANA, 1851, 2c BLACK ON ROSE.

Though the fortunate possessors of the really rare stamps must, of necessity, be few every true collector is interested in reading about the "unattainables" of philately. Occasionally these rarities are on view in famous collections shown at exhibitions but the vast majority of collectors have to be content to admire from afar through the medium of a catalogue illustration. Most of these rarities date from the early days of stamps and it is to their age almost as much as their rarity that their interesting history is due. Some years ago, at the request of the late Mr. E. J. Nankivell, I prepared a history of the world's rarest stamps for publication in his paper, the Postage Stamp, and as one or two readers have suggested that these articles would be of considerable interest to the beginner and general collector I propose to reprint them in these columns from time to time with any revisions and additions which may be necessary.

For our first chat we will take the 2c stamp issued in the British colony of British Guiana in 1851 (Scott's No.1). British Guiana is comparatively unimportant politically or commercially and is not a territory of great extent yet philatelically it ranks high. It can claim to have issued the rarest label known to philatelists, of which only a single copy exists, while its early issues abound in rarities making it one of the most expensive countries in which any one can specialise.

It is in the first issue of all that the stamp we are now to discuss belongs. This 2c stamp easily takes fourth place among the rarest known stamps yet it is a particularly primitive looking label and has nothing to recommend it but its rarity. Its design consists of nothing more elaborate than a crudely drawn circle in which "BRITISH" is curved at the top and "GUIANA" at the base, while across the centre is the value "2 Cents". It was printed in black on rose colored paper and its rarity may be judged from the fact that only ten specimens are known and its value is probably about $6,000. All the stamps of this first issue were of similar design and from their shape they are generally known as the "circular" stamps of British Guiana. On July 1st 1850 4c, 8c, and 12c, stamps of this type were issued, the 2c, the rarest of the series, not appearing until 1851. In an early number of the Colony's Royal Gazette, the paper in which all notices of an official character were published, an interesting notice bearing on the issue of the 2c stamp was printed. This was dated Feb. 1851, and stated that "by order of His Excellency the Governor, and upon the request of several of the merchants of Georgetown, it is proposed to establish a delivery of letters twice each day through the principal streets of this city. . . . Each letter must bear a stamp, for which 2c will be charged, or it will not be delivered, and when called for will be subject to the usual postage of 8c." A list of storekeepers, who had agreed to act as agents for the post-office in receiving these local letters, was given and March 1st was the date fixed for the inauguration of this new postal service. It seems hardly possible, however, that the 2c stamp can have been issued at so early a date for of the known specimens the only dated ones were used between August and November, 1851. This local service was evidently ahead of its time and was so little patronized that before the close of 1851 it was abandoned. The total number of 2c stamps issued and used must have been small for so few to have survived to the present day.

The stamps were set up and printed from ordinary type at the office of the Royal Gazette, Georgetown. In what sized sheets the stamps were printed is not known and at this date it is hardly likely that positive information on the point is ever likely to be acquired. It is known, however, that there were two different types for of the known copies eight are alike and the other two are of a different type. These types correspond to the types known in other values of the same series so it is probable the "plate" of one of the other denominations was adapted for the 2c by the simple expedient of altering the figures in the denotation of value. Before being sold to the public the stamps were initialled on the face by the Postmaster or one of the Post-office clerks as a precaution against counterfeiting. But little is known about these stamps and what information is available is due to the patient research of Mr. E. D. Bacon, who made a special study of the rare and interesting early issues of British Guiana.

(To be concluded.)

SHORT REPLIES.

G. E. M. (South Bend, Ind.)—The stamps you mention are revenue stamps of France, Italy, Germany, and Russia respectively and therefore they do not find a place in Scott's catalogue.

A. E. L. (Chicago)—The stamps you describe are Swedish locals of no particular value.

M. A. (Woburn, Mass.)—The difference between the United States 90c stamps of 1870-71 and 1873 is chiefly one of color and I am afraid it is impossible to adequately describe these differences in print. The color of the earlier stamp is similar to that of the 90c of 1879 if you have that stamp for comparison.

L. J. H. (Louisville, Ky.)—For some little time now advertisements have appeared in the 5pf and 10pf stamp booklets issued in Germany. These are printed in the same colors and are watermarked and perforated like the stamps themselves. The stamps in the booklets are in blocks of six, in two horizontal rows of three. At first the first "stamp" in each row was one of these advertisements but at the present time, I believe, only the first space in each block of six is occupied by advertisement matter. An interesting "sideline" collection might be made by collecting the pages from these booklets showing the various advertisements. (2) The Confederate States 10c (Scott's type A7) with outer frame line represents a distinct printing if not a separate plate. The varieties with and without line do not occur on the same plate. The strip of stamps you name in which the end one has a border line is evidently from a plate which had a border drawn around the whole block of stamps composing that plate. The "outer line" variety has lines on all four sides.

A NEW DESIGN FOR BRITISH POSTAGE STAMPS.

Artists and others, of any nationality, are invited to submit competitive designs for an ideal postage stamp for the British Isles.

The size of the stamp-designs when reduced must be approximately 22½ x18½ millimetres (22½ high, 18½ wide) i. e., the size of the current postage stamps.

The designs submitted in competition shall be adjudged by a Special Jury of philatelists and artists, with particular regard to the practical utility, as well as to the artistic merits of the proposed stamp.

For the design adjudged by the aforementioned Jury to be the first in order of merit a premium of ten guineas will be awarded to the competitor, together with the diploma of the Jubilee International Stamp Exhibition. For the second best design a premium of five guineas will be awarded.

Designs should be drawn to scale, four or eight times the size specified in the above-mentioned measurements, and should be accompanied by photographic reductions to the size required for the stamp.

Full scope is permissible for innovations, but the design must contain features characteristic of, or appropriate to, the British Isles, and must include the inscription "POSTAGE & REVENUE" and the value in figures and words "ONE PENNY" and "1d".

The submitted designs and any copyright therein, shall become the exclusive property of the Executive Committee of the Jubilee International Stamp Exhibition.

It is to be distinctly understood that the contest is organised by the aforementioned Executive Committee, who are responsible for the premiums offered, and who reserve the right to submit the premiated or other designs to postal or other authorities.

Designs will be received up to noon on August 1st, 1912, and must be addressed to the Hon. Secretary, Jubilee International Stamp Exhibition, 44 Fleet Street, London, E. C., and must be endorsed "Stamp Designs."

The competitor's name should not appear upon the drawings or photographs; these should bear only a nom de plume or private mark for purposes of identity; and accompanying the drawings, etc., there should be a sealed envelope containing the competitor's name and address together with a copy of the nom de plume or private mark. The sealed envelopes should contain no other communications as they will not be opened until the Jury has completed the adjudication of the whole of the designs sent in.

The designs sent in, or a selection of them, will be exhibited at the Royal Horticultural Hall, Westminster, during the week of the Stamp Exhibition, October 14-19, 1912.

WATERMARKS OF THE CURRENT ISSUE.

In response to a communication sent James J. Britt, Third Assistant Postmaster General, the WEEKLY has received the following information in regard to the watermarking of our stamps. We quote as follows:

"Sheets of paper upon which are printed ordinary postage stamps are 18½ inches x 20¾ inches, and contain four hundred stamps to the sheet. The watermark U S P S runs crosswise of the paper, across the 18½ inch width. The letters are so arranged from the top of the sheet that they alternate, the second line of letters not falling immediately below the first line, but in the spaces between the letters in the first and the third lines, the third line of letters falling immediately under the first line of letters, and so on throughout the sheet.

I inclose herewith a blue print showing the method of the arrangement of the watermark from which a more correct idea can be obtained than from any description of the arrangement that might be attempted.

As will be seen from the print the letters are so arranged that either a letter or a portion of a letter must appear in each stamp. However, should a sheet be defective in watermarking, it is possible that the stamps might be printed without showing any of the watermark."

WHAT THE NEW COLLECTOR SHOULD LEARN.

BY C. A. HOWES.

In the early days of stamp collecting the collector knew but little about stamps and the few dealers knew but little more. He took whatever came his way, for there were no catalogues such as we know now and few price-lists, so that his main supply was from friends and correspondents; and twice happy was he who had some one in a foreign country to send him a good selection for his album. Now all is changed. Such stamps as our friends supply us with are generally what every one can get with perfect ease and the really desirable ones must be obtained from the dealer or in the auction-room unless, as before, the collector is twice happy in having a friend or correspondent abroad who will look out for him.

Present Day Collecting.—Nowadays the recruit, be he young or old, has so much put before him that he is generally at a loss where to begin and what to do. He picks up a catalogue and finds in it not only a list of stamps in themselves, but varieties of perforation, paper, shade, watermark, imperfections or slight differences in the design and different types of surcharge. Then there are many kinds of albums from the printed one with a "space for every stamp issued" to the blank one in many volumes with removable leaves and each page supplied with a "mat." The dealers' price-lists come in with packets, sets and single stamps, and the attractions of approval sheets, and a host of periodicals, whose existence he hardly suspected, suddenly turns up. If he be quite young he will generally ignore all but the smaller albums and trust to his friends for donations of stamps to fill his blank spaces and to "swapping" with the other young collectors for obtaining varieties he lacks. But if he be older, and it is for these mainly that we are writing, he will, especially if at all serious about taking up the pursuit, be thankful for advice and help from those who have already been through the mill and can therefore give him pointers.

A General Collection.—It seems to be the opinion of most experienced collectors that the best start can be made as a general collector; that more can be obtained in knowledge, both philatelical and otherwise, that better experience will be obtained toward future plans for collecting and that the collector can "place" himself better when he finds he has reached certain limitations in his collection and desires to retrench in certain lines and branch out more in others.

Catalog and Album.—The first essential thing is a printed album containing spaces for all the main varieties that the governments of the world have issued. This will serve as the principal guide to the collection and give a better idea of the extent and progress of it than a catalogue and a blank album. The smaller printed albums will do for the boys, but nothing less than a thoroughly up-to-date one should be obtained if one is really serious in his intentions to make a good collection. A standard catalogue should also go with the album to serve as a basis of purchase and exchange and also because it contains much more information than the album generally gives. I have found it convenient to check off the stamps in the collection by placing a pencil dot beside the price, used or unused, as the case may be, thus making a handy catalogue of the collection to take with me for reference purposes.

Large Variety Packet.—Equipped with these two books, the novice has his tools and lacks only his material. To obtain this the best way is to begin with one of the large variety packets, for with many of these an excellent selection of the commoner stamps can be obtained for the most reasonable expenditure. It may be that several such packets could be selected, knowing the range of each, which would yield but few duplicates and fill in the album to the best advantage. But when the limit of usefulness in packets is reached the next step which will repay one best is the purchase of sets of stamps which are advertised by most dealers. An inspection of the album will quickly determine what sets are most desirable, and when these have been exploited the approval sheet or book is next in order. With packets and sets one has to take what comes; with approval selections one has the pick and can fill in blank spaces or replace poor specimens with better or used with unused as desired.

Care in Collecting.—But one thing right here: In any case use care in the selection of your specimens. Better a blank space than a torn or heavily canceled stamp or one with the perforations partly clipped off or otherwise damaged. In some cases of great rarities this rule will not hold good because one is glad to get some of them in any condition, but this class is small, and with the great majority of stamps, and particularly the low-priced ones, there is absolutely no necessity for any but fine specimens, and if the collector takes pride in his stamps, which means he will be careful in collecting, he will find it pays in the end. Care should also be used in removing paper from the backs of specimens before mounting them, pulling off hinges, etc., often damaging the stamp. Most stamps can be soaked, preferably in hot water, and dried on blotting paper, but a few like Russians, early Bulgarians, current United States due stamps, 1885 issue of China, recent British and British Colonial stamps having green in their coloring, and stamps printed on "chalk-surfaced" paper are affected by water and should not be immersed in it. A piece of wet blotting paper against the back until the paper is damp enough to remove is the best way to treat them. Of course, mounting is only to be done with hinges, and care should be used not to soil stamp or page when it is done.

Used or Unused.—As between used and unused stamps the collector himself is the best judge. The used are generally the cheaper, and one's pocketbook must be taken into account with most collectors. The unused are handsomer, of course, and perhaps pay better in the end as an investment, but with the true collector a stamp is no less desirable because it has a postmark on it, if it is in good condition. I have found it very satisfactory to get the lower values in sets unused where they did not cost too much, particularly if used copies were very cheap and common, and fill out the higher values with fine used specimens. When one can it is nice to have sets all unused, but it is not necessary unless one elects to collect only unused or intends to hold stamps merely for the return they will bring at some future time, and that is not true collecting.

Want Lists.—After the approval selections come the want lists, and when the collector has reached this stage his collection has obtained good proportions, and most of his blank spaces represent stamps well worth looking for. While traveling the road thus far, however, it is well to see that sets are filled up as much as possible, or at least that there are no gaps up to the values where a limit may have been set as beyond the collector's means. The present set of United States can readily be obtained through the dollar value at moderate prices, but if the collector does not care to pay quite as much as the $2 and $5 will cost him, let him see that all values are represented up to the $2. A full set looks better and is more of a pride and credit to its owner than a broken one, and oftentimes the stamp one lacks is the very one others lack, and it is a good rule then not to let up until it is found, for such generally prove to be good property. Carry these same ideas into a country. If it is any easy one to make a good showing in be sure and complete it as far as possible, but do not, while you are "learning the ropes" and making your general collection, go too far into the minor varieties listed by letters under the major varieties which are numbered in the catalogue. It is not necessary, it will cost much more, and may result in discouraging you entirely.

What to Avoid.—Avoid reprints, specimens, essays and the like while you are a general collector, though these are well enough for specializing and then often add much interest to the collection. But in regularly issued stamps I would advise the beginner to take whatever comes along until his experience and inclination can serve him as a guide in branching out on lines he finds most to his taste. The album provides spaces for and the catalogue lists all the adhesive postage, envelope and wrapper stamps. The latter should be cut square to fit the spaces provided, unless one prefers to keep them entire. Postal cards should never have the stamp cut out, for it does not comprise the whole design. Keep the whole cards if they interest you. As for locals, it would be best to fight shy of them, for there are so many reprints and counterfeits that the novice is very apt to be taken in. Most American albums have spaces for our revenue stamps and they certainly are very attractive and many very cheap. Foreign revenues and telegraph stamps are also interesting and many are as handsome as some of our own. Spaces are not provided for these in our albums, but if they strike the collector's fancy, there is no reason why he should not put them in a blank book as a side collection, and then if his interest warrants it some day he can turn his attention to them in earnest.

When to Specialize.—It is by picking up everything in this way at first that the collector finally learns what branch of our hobby appeals to him most, and finally when his collection has reached a point where it is too much of a drain upon his time and purse to keep on in the old general lines, he branches out, selecting one or more countries as his favorites and becomes a "specialist." Then he can revel in shades, types, watermarks, perforation, paper, gum, etc., as he never could before, and the experience and knowledge gained in his general collecting will stand him in good stead. But it seems to me a mistake to sell all the rest of one's collection as many do when they begin to specialize, for often the specialty is determined by the popularity of some country and when this wanes and another takes its place this special collection may be laid aside or sold and the new candidate necessitates starting all over. Better it is, if one can afford it, to keep the general collection, as a basis for one's fancies in specializing and then there is always something to fall back on when fashion changes.

Study Your Stamps.—Finally, "study your stamps," learn all you can about them, read carefully the "Hints for Collectors" at the beginning of the Standard Catalogue until you feel you have all the information therein by heart and can apply it to the specimens you come across. Learn to distinguish quickly the different types and methods of printing. Study your postmarks and obliterations, for these are often of great help in determining the status of certain stamps, and false cancelations can then be often detected. All this you will find comes easily as you progress with your collection. Then to keep up with the times, subscribe to a good stamp paper, one that has an excellent chronicle of new issues—you can do no better than MEKEEL'S WEEKLY—and you will derive knowledge, pleasure and profit from one of the most interesting and adaptable pastimes that has sprung up for many centuries.

PRECANCEL PARAGRAPHS.

By John A. Solomon.

Precancel stamps are still enjoying their great popularity, but the precancel collector is under a severe handicap by not having a catalogue.

Until recently Chicago was the only city that had precancelled the machine cut stamps. Ashland, Ohio, Fort Wayne, Ind., and Covington, Ky., have all recently used them.

Rubber roller type precancels have always been a nuisance, even when the roller is first applied the effect is none too attractive, but after some service the rubber type spreads and leaves a stretched smudgy impression, much larger in appearance than the original, giving the collector an idea he has some new distinct varieties although they really are all the same type except a little the worse for wear. Akron precancels are a notable example of this sort.

Recently I have noted the chronicle of new issues in this paper listing 1911 precancels. I cannot see any reason for this. Because the 1908 issue is appearing with a new watermark or a change of paper, is no reason why this changes precancels used on this paper into a 1911 issue, any more than if some of the 1902 series were printed on 1906 paper—Would they be classed as 1906 precancels? Precancelled stamps are already far too complicated without adding a lot of unnecessary varieties. Watermark paper and shade varieties have no place in a straight precancel collection.

Practically all commemorative issues are scarce, the Jamestown and Hudson-Fulton being no doubt the most scarce. Not over a half dozen cities issued Jamestown precancels and even fewer than this number used Hudson-Fulton precancels.

The St. Louis series was probably precancelled more than all the commemorative stamps combined. Aside from some scarce early printings, 2c Lincoln precancels and some 13c denominations can really be called precancel rarities.

Binghampton, N. Y. still continues its monthly dated precancels, the 1c and 5c only are used. Chicago is now offering so many varieties on the 1908 issue that it forms almost a collection in itself.

All varieties from 1c to 50c can now be obtained printed normal, normal double, inverted, inverted double, besides triple prints are frequently met with.

From rarities Chicago inverts have become almost as ordinary as normal prints. Chicago's big mail order houses use a tremendous amount of precancels and it is within bounds to say Chicago probably uses a quarter of the entire amount of precancels used.

Although Augusta, Maine, has used many permits and precancelled many stamps with a circular newspaper cancellation during the past few years it was not until very recently that Augusta came into the regulation precancel fold and produced a neat two line precancel, giving the full name of the city and state.

Several other Maine towns availed themselves of the use of Christmas precancels.

Cleveland is the latest of the large cities to change its precancel.

The unexpected rush of Christmas precancels came upon precancel collectors as a sort of mild shock. Although some new varieties were expected, the result far exceeded the greatest expectations. The Christmas trade produced so many new issues that precancel collectors are still finding new varieties.

Tacoma on the Pacific, Gloucester on the Atlantic, Grand Forks up north, and St. Augustine down south, exchanged their initial precancel greetings.

Although Westerly, R. I., has been credited with a precancelled stamp as far back as 1899, a call at the Westerly Post Office convinced the writer that this was without foundation. Westerly used its initial precancel during the recent Christmas season, all values from 1c to 10c were used, but contrary to reports, the 15c stamp was not precancelled. It is also doubtful if any inverts or double prints exist as all were carefully and neatly printed normal.

Pawtucket is the latest Rhode Island city to adopt the precancel method.

It can safely be said that New England is the backbone of precancelled stamps. Although many other cities throughout the country use precancels, it is doubtful if any other part of the country, of equal area, can point to as many cities employing the precancel system.

Westgrove and Warren, Pa., Brockport, N. Y., Elgin, Ill., and Tiffin, Ohio, are offering the minor variety cranks a study in spacing. All of these places have recently used a variety of spacings.

Minneapolis now claims three distinct fonts of the "Minn" type on the 1908 series. They will surely keep the precancel collector busy sorting out this trio.

Time and again precancels have proven themselves to be great time and labor savers but it was at the busy Xmas season that they shone at their brightest. Even few stamp collectors realize the good work precancels accomplish. It was the busy postal clerk who appreciated them most.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—We have received from B. Max Mehl a catalog of his auction sale to be held Wednesday, March 20, when the collection of United States coins, the property of P. H. Griffith of Los Angeles, Cal., will be offered for sale. The catalog is superbly printed and has two full page illustrations of Messrs. Griffith and Mehl. The contents of the sale constitute one of the most complete collections of United States silver coins ever offered. Coin collectors will certainly be interested in this sale. There are two full page plates illustrating some of the gems of the sale.

—J. Arthur Wainwright writing us further in connection with the double lined 2-cent Columbian gives an estimate of its worth, fixing its value at 20c.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from Mrs. J. A. Bowen (2), C. E. Thomas, C. M. Breder (5).

—Mr. Benham—"The paper tells of a woman whose dress was made of postage stamps." Mrs. Benham—"I thought postage stamps were used only on mail matter."

—Postmaster—"This letter is too heavy. You'll have to put on another stamp." Coon—"Sah, will that make it any lightah?"

EDITORIAL.

Closing Out?—Postmasters have been instructed to call attention to the issue of the "open end" stamped envelopes and to inform those of their patrons who are likely to be interested in this new style of envelope that it is in stock. From a departmental order on the subject, the following items are taken: "Postmasters are notified that the Department has available for issue a supply of 'open-end' stamped envelopes which were manufactured under the contract ended June 30, 1911. These envelopes are all plain and no special-request envelopes of the 'open-end' pattern can be supplied. The 'open-end' envelope is intended for the mailing of matter of the third class. One of the end flaps instead of the top flap remains unsealed, and the contents can be readily examined. The opening is smaller than the envelopes with the top flap unsealed, affording less chance of loss of contents in transit or of other pieces of mail matter getting caught in the opening. The 'open-end' envelope can be furnished, while the supply lasts, in the following varieties of 1-cent denomination: No. 5, white and amber; No. 6, white and manila; No. 8, white and amber; No. 13, white, amber, buff and blue. The selling prices of 'open-end' envelopes are the same as for corresponding varieties of the regular unprinted open-top pattern." Evidently, the envelope in question did not enjoy a heavy sale and judging from the use of the expression, "while they last," the issue is to be discontinued.

Add—Messrs. Bright and Son, London, England, write: "We notice that in your number of January 27th, on page 34, there is a paragraph re British 'cut-outs.' In addition to Malta, New Zealand also allows all kinds of cut-out stationery to be used as adhesives. As regards the British, we may say that in our new catalogue will be found a complete priced list of same."

Keep Track—The postal department wishes postmasters at postal savings depositary offices to keep separate statistics of official registered mail bearing only postal savings stamps, originating in their offices as testified to by the following order: "Postmasters at postal savings depositary offices will keep such statistical record of registered mail on postal savings business as will enable them at the end of the fiscal year to state separately the number of official letters and parcels registered free bearing the official postage stamps of the Postal Savings System, in addition to the other items usually required in the annual registration report."

The 1851 Variations—Charles Walcott, Natchez, Mississippi, writes in reference to two types of the ten-cent, U. S., green, type of 1851, and says that no doubt the difference was caused in the same way as in the one-cent of the same issue. It is to be said in this connection that the new catalogue will list two varieties of the ten-cent, and thus make the main types collectible in a general sense. So early as 1895, Mr. Luff in an exhaustive study of the one-cent, 1851, developed some interesting details concerning the origin of the varieties of the stamp. In accounting for the varieties of different denominations in the set, he said it was commonly supposed that the lines had been removed from the plates. He asked pertinently how they could be cut out of a plate with impressions in recess; the operation would make the lines larger and have the opposite effect to the one desired. Further, it was impractical to fill in or pound out lines engraved in a heavy steel plate of the kind. So, Mr. Luff became satisfied that a number of transfers were made and cut down, as the transfers were in relief and cutting could be resorted to on them; and from evidence that Mr. Luff submitted at the time, his belief was fortified. However, he did not maintain that no changes were made on the plates; on the contrary, he says that minor alterations doubtlessly were made on the plates. To explain why it was advisable to curtail the outside ornamentation of the stamps, Mr. Luff said that he had concluded that the presses employed at the time could accommodate plates of no larger dimensions and that the crowding was necessary in order that the required number of stamps could be placed on the plate. The student who acquires these 1851 issues in blocks a task that by no means is easy, it goes without saying, has material for engrossing study. Strips, of course, are to be esteemed, although they may not be so prolific of varieties, as on the one-cent, Mr. Luff said that he had seen large blocks each stamp in a row of which was so like its fellows as to make untenable the claim that each impression in the plate was altered. From this, a point was made that the cutting was done on the transfer roll.

Much To See—It is really remarkable to notice with what avidity our readers are studying their stamps for minor variations. Any opinion as to the unpopularity of minor varieties must be revised as not to include the stamps that are readily available for scrutiny, judging from present conditions. One beneficial effect of the close examination of stamps is the revelation to the keen-eyed of beauties or details of the obscurer parts of the design. For instance, Mrs. J. A. Bowen writes: "While studying the one-cent blue, 1861, for the trail of the arrow-like ornament discovered by Mr. F. E. Farnham and noted in a recent issue, I found on said stamps, a blue pearl or period, resting on a colorless crescent, situated above the period that follows 'S' of U. S. I have looked at my stamps many times but have never found this period until this week." Mrs. Bowen says further that with a little imagination, she can trace a head and bust like figure, verging into shadow form, in the shading in the upper left hand corner of the one-cent blue, 1870-71.

Samples—Selected from our correspondence: "Why don't you mention Nicaragua." This is sarcasm, a la B. L. T. "A chap is in fine shape to look for Columbian varieties after a stamp meeting." A remark that is lost upon innocence. "How can I tell if the local is genuine?" Referred to readers. "What is a two-cent bank check, double perforation, worth?" Five cents, more or less. "Am I too young to go into the stamp business?" No age limit. "Tell me where there is a market for current ones and twos in quantity." When we locate it. "I wish your paper was published twice a week." Once is enough for us. "Is the new catalogue out?"!!!

Up And At Them—There must be a good demand for magnifying glasses on the part of our readers who are searching so perseveringly for varieties in the Columbian issue not to mention others. During the week a number of letters have been received telling of discoveries and we shall attempt to give a summary of the variants that have been brought to our attention, in the succeeding number. The present hunt for the small varieties is being prosecuted with a vigor and enthusiasm that surely will leave nothing new for subsequent investigators, it is safe to say.

SUGGESTION FOR REGISTERED MAIL.

At a meeting of the Newark Stamp Club last week a resolution was adopted asking the Post Office Department to extend the use of the new blue registered stamp.

The United States rate for a registered letter is higher than any government in the Postal Union and the benefits are considerably less. The Postmaster General is asked to consider the suggestion of permitting mail intended for registration to be placed in a street letter box provided the registration stamp is affixed. The sender is then to receive a receipt from the local Post Office. This would be a convenience to suburban residents or for patrons mailing letters after 9 o'clock, the closing hour of the registry division.

"STAMPS HARD TO GET."

Catalog Value $2.00 and Under.

A correspondent suggests that an article dealing with hard-to-get stamps would be appreciated by our readers. We invite contributions to a symposium, suggesting that it be confined to stamps that catalog $2.00 and under. We shall hope to have a sufficient number of entries to make a worthy contribution to our columns.

Entry By J. Arthur Wainwright.

There are several stamps not high in price that I have been on the lookout for a long time but have not obtained them yet. I have not sent in "want lists" but have watched circuits and approval sheets and looked over one dealer's stock and have not found them.

The first lot is Bavaria Delivery Tax stamps, Nos. 107, 108, 110 and 112. How many others are in the same boat with me?

The next stamp I have looked in vain for is Bolivia No. 46, 100c brown rose, perforated 14½. I have seen a number of copies of the 13½ perforation but I want the 14½ perforation. This whole set comes in two perforations 14½ and 13½, and I believe that the 14½ perforations are the main colors and the 13½ the "a" colors and I want this 14½ stamp to complete my two sets. I have paid no attention to thick and thin paper in this set as I think when I find this missing stamp the paper question will be solved also.

The next stamp I looked a long time for was France No. 133, 10c red ground underfeet. The catalog price would indicate plenty but I have never seen but two and both of them are now in my collection, coming from two correspondents with whom I maintain exchange relations. I am told by a dealer friend that many collections lack this stamp and I know he has tried in many directions to get this stamp and has not been able to get it. I count myself fortunate in securing it.

AERIAL POSTMARK.

By ARTHUR T. BROWNE,
Boston Philatelic Society No. 543.

Philatelists, or stamp collectors, as we are commonly called, are very much interested in the efforts of the government in attempting to establish aerial transportation of the mail. Several trials, all of which have been successful, have been held under the sanction of Postmaster General Hitchcock. As a result, letters and postal cards bearing "Aero" postmarks and cancellatons are being eagerly sought for.

During the Franco-Prussian War, long before biplanes and monoplanes were perfected, the balloon was used as an aerial vehicle for mail carrying. These "Balloon" cancellations are very scarce and bring fancy prices from philatelic specialists. A month or so ago, a thirty centimes brown stamp of France, 1863-70, on a balloon letter, cancelled "16 Janv. 71" was offered for sale by a Philadelphia Stamp firm. This letter was sent by the 58th. balloon "Steenackers" in charge of Vibert, which landed at Hynd, Netherlands, and was an interesting relic of the Franco-Prussian War.

In November, 1910, Postmaster-General Hitchcock formally approved arrangements for the transportation of a mail pouch by Aviator McCurdy from the Steamship "Kaiserin Auguste Victoria" to New York City. The attempt was unsuccessful, because of stormy weather.

The honor of establishing the first flying postal service belongs to Great Britain. On September 9, 1911, the service was inaugurated under the auspices of the British Post Office. The points of departure and arrival were respectively the Hendon Aerodrome and Windsor Castle, the distance being somewhat under twenty miles.

Four airmen, piloting two monoplanes and two biplanes, were engaged in the work. Upwards of 100,000 postal packets constituted the first delivery. King George, who is an ardent philatelist, was so interested in the service that he gave his permission to the aerial postmen to alight on the lawn of Windsor Castle.

The first of the aviators to reach Windsor Castle from Hendon made the trip in eighteen minutes. The success of the new service, however, was not promising. The three other aviators decided that the wind was too strong for them to make a flight, so the balance of the mail was laid aside to await more propitious weather on another day.

The postmark for this service was contained in a double circle and reads, within, "First United Kingdom Aerial Post, London" with the date in the center. At the left of the cards and letters was printed "A. D. Coronation 1911, First U. K. Aerial Post By Sanction of H. M. Postmaster General" in three lines. These cards and letters with the "Aerial" cancellations were in great demand with stamp collectors across the pond. A special post card with a picture of an aeroplane soaring over Windsor Castle was sold for 6½d. Envelopes, stamped, including a sheet of note paper, cost 1sh 1d. The profits of this first aerial post were given to charity.

FULTON STAMP CO.,
102 West 42nd St., NEW YORK.

The result of the British "Flying Mail" so interested Postmaster General Hitchcock that he immediately arranged with the promoters of the International Aviation Meet which was held on the Nassau Boulevard, Long Island N. Y., September 23 to October 1, for experiments in the carrying of mail by aeroplanes.

These arrangements resulted in the establishing of a special post office on the Aviation Field. Earle F. Ovington winner of the great Boston-Nashua-Worcester - Providence - Boston aerial contest held at the Squantum Aviation Field on Labor Day, was the aviator selected to carry the mail. A circular postmark, reading "Garden City Estates, N. Y." was brought into use. The letters and postal cards were cancelled with four wide black lines. On the cards and letters, at the left, also appeared the words "Aerial Special Despatch". Mails were carried from the special post office on the aviation field to an outlying post office in Brooklyn.

Not to be outdone by the New Yorkers, the promoters of an aerial meet at St. Louis, Mo., held early in October, arranged for a special post office on the field where mail was received for transportation by aeroplanes. This resulted in the second "Aero" postmark, which was as follows: "Aeroplane Station No. 1; St. Louis, Mo., Aviation Field". The postmark was circular in shape. The postal cards and letters were cancelled with four wide black lines as was done at the New York meet. At the St. Louis meet, aviator Walter Brookins, flying a Wright biplane, carried 6,000 pieces of mail from Kinloch Field to the Fairground Park. The distance, twelve miles, was the greatest that mail had ever been carried in an aeroplane in this country. The time was also the best ever made by an aeroplane carrying mail, and the flight was the first west of the Alleghany mountains in which mail was carried. The mail was carried in two regular mail sacks. It was first stamped with the special aeroplane postmark and then strapped to Brookins' biplane. President Lambert of the St. Louis Aero club was the first to reach Brookins when he alighted and he warmly congratulated the daring young aviator, telling him that he had established a world's record for distance in carrying the United States mail in an aeroplane.

Over 25,000 spectators watched the spectacular flight of Brookins and the demand for "Aero" postmarks was so great—so great that the next day, in order to accommodate those who were seeking them, the aerial mail service was restricted to the length of the field. Stations were established at each end of the field and Brookins made many trips. At one of these stations the mail was collected every forty-five minutes.

On October 8, at St. Louis, Aviator Hugh Robinson in a hydro-aeroplane, made a spectacular flight on the Mississippi River, starting from the water five times and alighting six times. He carried mail from Missouri into Illinois. This was an experimental trip and no special "Aero" postmarks have been seen that were used at the time.

On October 21, at Rochester, N. Y., aviator Lincoln Beachey, one of the most daring of all the birdmen, gave a demonstration of mail carrying in an aeroplane, thus contributing the third United States "Aero" postmark. This postmark was also circular in shape and was as follows: "Aerial Station No. 1; Rochester, N. Y." The letters and postal cards were cancelled with four wide black lines between which were the words, Crittenden Park Station. This service was in operation but one day and, quite naturally, the postmarks are more difficult to obtain.

At Fort Smith, Ark., November 6, Aviators Lincoln Beachey and Beckwith Havens in a hydro-aeroplane gave a daring exhibition of mail carrying on land and water. This service, also, was in use but one day. Incidentally, a new variety of postmark, much different from others previously used, resulted. The postal cards and letters were cancelled with six heavy horizontal lines. At the left of this cancellation, in five horizontal lines were the words: "Aeroplane Mail Service, League Park Station, Fort Smith, Ark., Nov. 6, 1911".

The fifth "Aero" postmark came from the sunny South. At Savannah, Ga., Aviator Beckwith Havens gave an exhibition on November 25. This postmark was also different from all others. It is circular in shape and reads: "Aerial Sub Station, Athletic Park, Savannah, Ga., Nov. 25." This service, also, was in use but one day.

Aerial Postmark No. 6 also comes from the South. On December 12, Havens gave an exhibition at Columbus, Ga. The postmark was circular in shape and reads "Aerial Sub Station, Columbus, Ga. Driving Park, Dec. 12, 1911." The letters and postal cards were cancelled with eight thin lines. For the first time, colored ink was used. The color was a vivid purple. This service, also was in use but one day.

The seventh "Aero" postmark, and the latest heard of, comes from the Golden West. At Los Angeles, aviator Glenn Martin carried mail from the Los Angeles Aviation Field to the nearest regular postoffice at Compton, a distance of about four miles. Martin was one of several aviators who participated in the International Aviation Meet which was held at the Dominguez Field, January 20 to 28. The postmark used was oval in shape and read "Los Angeles, Cal., Aviation Field." In the center of the postmark were the date and time. The letters and cards were cancelled with six wavy, black lines.

Frank B. Eldredge sends us used specimens of the new 1c and 2c stamps, the only apparent differences being the addition of the figures of value on both stamps, and the placing of the portrait of Washington on the 1c. The 2c appears very little different from the previous issue.

NETHERLANDS.—The Dutch Government, according to Lemaire's Journal, has listened to the argument of those who favor a strict observance of Sunday, and has issued a little label reading, "Niet Bestelleu-op Zendag." This is printed in red on yellow, gummed and perforated and sold for two centimes per 50. When affixed to letters the command "Not to be delivered on Sunday" becomes imperative.

PHILIPPINES.—Theodore Siddall submits the 20c yellow in single lined watermark. We quote from his letter: —

"Here is another one, the 20-centavo in jaundice yellow with the new watermark. You will notice, if you look, that it is on very white paper, and that is how I spotted it. Benzine is too hard to keep here for me to do much watermark detecting with it. When there is anything of the sort to do I use gasoline, which I have, anyway, for motorcycle use and buy by the gallon."

PORTUGAL.—Lemaire's Journal says the new set of stamps, with allegorical figure has at last been issued. The values are expressed in centimos and escudos, the value of one escudo being 1000 reis. The colors are given as follows: ¼c sepia; ½c black; 1c dark green; 1½c red brown; 2c red; 2½c violet; 5c blue; 7½c bistre; 8c dark violet; 10c brick red; 15c magenta; 30c lilac; 50c green; 1 escudo, yellow. This set has been overprinted Azores in red on the ½c and in black on the other values.

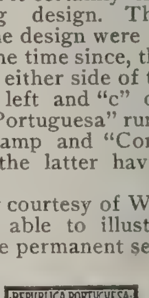
A. KRASSA,
71-73 Nassau St., NEW YORK, N. Y.

The New England Stamp Co. has shown us the new stamp as printed on a postcard, and it certainly is a handsome and striking design. The principal features of the design were shown in the WEEKLY some time since, the value being added on either side of the head, the figure on the left and "c" on the right. "Republica Portuguesa" runs across the top of the stamp and "Correio" across the bottom, the latter having a star at either end.

Later.—By courtesy of Whitfield King & Co. we are able to illustrate the new design for the permanent set.



SALVADOR.—Hermann Focke has shown us a new set of stamps, "having the pleasure," as he says, "of supplying the WEEKLY with news not yet out." The new set, which will soon be issued, consists of 10 values, all printed in two colors, on unwatermarked paper, and perf. 12. The design varies with every value, all except the 29c and 50c values being upright rectangles, the values named being horizontal oblong rectangles. Evidently the American Bank Note Co. produced the series, which is certainly much handsomer than anything recently seen in Salvador. Each value is treated in a different way, both as to centre and frame. The inscriptions read "Correos El Salvador" at the top, with the value in words at the bottom.

THE POSTAL CARD.

By MAITLAND MILLIKEN.

There are no doubt many philatelists who perhaps have never heard of, or participated in a very important but much neglected branch of philately, i. e., postal card collecting.

The first postal card that was ever issued by any government appeared on October 1st, 1869, when the monarchy of Austria had the honor of issuing the 2 kreuzer, yellow on a buff card, then other countries almost immediately followed suit, to which our illustrious republic responded with one in 1873, since which she has produced about thirty different varieties.

There is said to be a little over 4,000 varieties of postal cards which itself affords quite a large, yet inexpensive field. These are listed in separate catalogues by Scott, Bright, Senf, et al.

The advantage of the postal card is its low face value, which fact alone prevents many governments from issuing speculative and unnecessary ones for revenue purposes.

The postal card itself is made of fine texture and a great many of them are handsomely issued and of uniform sizes. The stamps are generally of the same design as the then current postage adhesives. There are single and double or reply postal cards. As shown thereon they give details of the characteristics of the issuing country.

Many of the postal cards are now obtainable as the prices are very low. The rarest is said to be worth $75. A small sum expended in these postal cards will soon bring forth a beautiful collection and you will be surprised and pleased at the easy results of this delightful branch of philately.

The letter card follows the postal card, hand in hand and are very twin-like, indeed.

The postal card is proudly represented by that staid old society, the Postal Card Society of America, founded in 1891 and which has since weathered all these years. Very few philatelic societies can boast of such a grand record as this. In its early days, Messrs. Lohmeyer, Stone, Deats, Bogert and Doeblin were among its active supporters and no doubt many of the prominent lights in philately of today are members of this worthy society.

If any collectors desire an excellent side-line to stamp collecting, they cannot make a mistake in taking up the collecting of postal and letter cards. They will soon find it very interesting and highly instructive.

CANADA'S STAMPS LIKED IN ENGLAND.

Score another triumph for Canada. The new Canadian postage stamps are meeting with decided approval in England, and at the same time the new British stamps are receiving some hard knocks. Here is what the London Daily Mail says:

"The new issue of Canadian one-cent stamps, with King George's head, is as beautiful, well-designed, and clearly printed as the first issue of English Georgian stamps is unsatisfactory. In the place of the awkwardly truncated head on the English stamp, the Canadian issue shows a bust portrait of the King in Admiral's uniform, beautifully engraved, with a light profile against a dark background. The shading is exquisitely delicate, and gives full plastic roundness to the head. The oval in which the portrait is enclosed is framed by a border of maple leaves, and the inscription "Canada Postage," in white letters on a dark ground. A crown is placed in each of the top corners, and the figure 1, dark on white ground, in the two bottom corners. Instead of the watery-faded color of our one-half pence stamps, a deep rich green is used, which shows up the sharply engraved lettering. If it is possible to improve upon the design by greater simplicity, the technical execution is beyond reproach."

The English Georgian stamp has been a great disappointment to the British public, with whom it is a sore point. They quite naturally resent the fact that a King who has been a collector himself since boyhood, and who is a known authority on stamps, and has one of the finest collections in the world, should have had so poor a one in his own kingdom. But then, in this respect, Canada's King Edward stamp was as far ahead of the English one, both as to likeness and art, as the King George would seem to be.—Clipping from Ottawa Journal.

AERIAL POSTMARKS.

At the left of the letters, in purple, was printed "This piece of mail was carried by Aeroplane from Aviation Field Postal Station to nearest regular post-office at Compton, California." There were three distinct cancellations used at this meet. Type 1 consisted of the above described postmark and the words "Aviation Field" printed in between the wavy lines of the cancellation. Type 2 was the postmark and the wavy lines cancellation with no words printed between. In Type 3, the postmark was circular and larger than the others. The postmark was printed differently than the other types reading: "Aeroplane Station, Los Angeles, Cal.," with the date and time in the center. The cancellation consisted of four wide horizontal lines. The second and third lines were broken, and in the break was printed "Dominguez Field."

Soon after the close of the Los Angeles meet, another meet was held at Oakland, Cal., and its postmark was noted in this paper only last week.

The philatelic novelty seeker should be very much interested in the latest in post cards, the "Carte-Aerienne" which comes from France. Collectors of post cards may now add to their albums cards dropped from the clouds by such of their friends as effect the flying machine. The French cards bear a printed request that the finder of the card be so kind as to take it to the nearest postoffice, whence it will be forwarded to its destination. A space is reserved for the mention of the altitude at which the message left the sender's hands and the situation, approximately, of the aeroplane at the time of the sending. A photograph of the flying machine appears on the other side of the card. Some time ago, the suggestion was made to the Minister of Posts and Telegraphs that a special stamp be issued for these aerial cards, but it is not reported that the suggestion has been met favorably.

An "Aviation" stamp is sure to come in this country. At the Los Angeles meet, they nearly got it. A few weeks before the meet a strenuous effort was made by Dick Ferris, Director General of the meet, to have a specially designed stamp issued for the meet. As it would take six weeks to make them, the idea was not successful nor was the idea of surcharging the ordinary special delivery stamp with the words "Aeroplane Delivery" accepted by the government.

There is to be another meet at the Squantum Aviation Field in June. Postmaster General Hitchcock says it takes six weeks to make a special stamp. March, April, May—three months, twelve weeks—I wonder if a little effort on the part of the Boston Philatelic Society would result in the first aviation stamp being used at the Squantum meet?

INTERESTING RARE STAMPS.

British Guiana, 1851, 2c Black on Rose.

(Concluded from last week.)

Although this rare 2c "circular" was issued in 1851 its existence was not known in Europe until 1877. In that year a Mr. Kirton found a specimen and sent it to the late Mr. T. Ridpath, of Liverpool, who sold it to Herr Phillip von Ferrary. In the following year Mr. Ridpath obtained another and better specimen which he exchanged for the one in the Ferrary collection. The first copy he re-sold to Messrs. Pemberton, Wilson & Co., who found a customer for it in Captain J. B. Cameron at the modest price of $125.

A few years later the same firm purchased the whole of Capt. Cameron's collection. and the 2c British Guiana then passed to Mr. J. Botteley for $150. In 1887 the Botteley collection was acquired by Mr. Giwelb who sold the 2c to the late Mr. Douglas Garth for $375. In 1893 Mr. Garth exchanged the stamp with Mr. W. W. Blest for some rare Europeans and two years later it went into the famous collection formed by the late Sir W. B. Avery. There it stayed until the collection was acquired by Mr. Peckitt and who is its fortunate possessor at present I cannot say. This particular specimen is cut round and bears the initials "J. B. S" (James Belton Smith)—one of the Post-office clerks.

Early in 1878, Messrs. Alfred Smith & Son, of Bath, obtained a copy of this rare stamp from Mr. N. R. McKinnon, of British Guiana, who already had the variety represented in his own collection. This copy was sold to the late Judge Philbrick for $100. When the Philbrick collection was sold in 1882 this stamp passed to the brothers Caillebotte, two famous French collectors. These gentlemen sold their collection in 1887 to Pemberton, Wilson & Co., owing to the fact that one of them married and the other considered the task of carrying on the collection too much for one. The 2c British Guiana was sold in the following year to Mr. F. de Coppet for $350. Six years later the Coppet collection came under the hammer in New York and the famous 2c Guiana sold for $1,010, the puchaser being Mr. F. W. Hunter.

In January, 1900, Mr. Hunter's collection was also sold at auction in New York and the 2c fell to Mr. Peckitt at the price of $1710. Who it passed to next I have been unable to discover. This specimen is also cut round and bears the initials "J. B. S".

Later in 1878, Mr. McKinnon found another copy of the 2c which he sent to Alfred Smith & Co. This was sold to Mr. W. E. Image for $100. Four years later the Image collection was purchased by the late Mr. T. K. Tapling, who left his entire collection to the British nation. This rarity is therefore shown at the British Museum with various other philatelic treasures. The specimen is cut round and initialled "J. B. S".

Sometime in 1878 Mr. McKinnon tired of stamps and sent his collection to Mr. Wylie Hill, of Glasgow, for disposal. The lot was sold to Mr. T. Ridpath of Liverpool for $600 and among the stamps was a 2c circular. This was the second copy handled by Mr. Ridpath and, as stated above, he exchanged it with Herr Ferrary for the specimen previously sold him. This copy is cut round and initialled "J. B. S".

From 1878 until 1889 no more of these stamps were discovered but in the latter year Mr. E. C. Luard, who had hunted in all sorts of likely and unlikely places in British Guiana for copies of the early stamps startled collectors by announcing that he had found a pair of the rare 2c. This pair was attached to a letter sheet postmarked "Demerara, Oct. 24, 1851". In 1890 Mr. Luard exhibited his Guianas at the London Philatelic Exhibition and received the award of a silver medal. Shortly afterwards he sold out to Pemberton, Wilson & Co. and that firm sold the pair of 2c to Herr von Ferrary, for about $875. The upper stamp of the pair is badly damaged, both are of the same type, and bear the same initials—"J. B. S"—as the copies previousy found.

In April, 1896, another pair was discovered by an old lady, who refused to sell it but handed it to the Rector of Christ Church, Georgetown, as an "Easter Offering". The reverend gentleman offered them for sale by auction and Mr. Luard bought them for $1005. Some time later Mr. Luard sold them to Messrs. Stanley Gibbons, Ltd., for $3000 and that firm passed them on to Mr. Henry J. Duveen, in whose notable collection they form one of the choicest items. The pair is on a letter sheet dated "Demerara, Aug. 5, 1861", and it is in much finer condition than the one found earlier. Both stamps are of the same type but they differ in type from all other known copies and also bear the initials "ET. E. D"—those of Mr. E. T. E. Dalton, the then Colonial Postmaster. The pair is cut round top and bottom, but both stamps are perfect and lighty cancelled.

In the summer of 1897 Mr. Luard discovered a third pair of 2c which he sold to Messrs. Stanley Gibbons for $3250. The pair was purchased by Mr. Carl Willadt, of Pforzheim, Germany, who later sold it to Mr. P. Kosack, of Berlin. It was next acquired by Baron Otto van Transeke-Rosoneck, a well known Russian collector. Owing to failing eyesight the Baron had to relinquish philately and his entire collection was sold to Mr. Paul Kohl. In 1900 the pair again reached the house of Gibbons and what became of it after, I do not know. This pair is on a letter sheet postmarked "Demerara, No. 25, 1861", and it has larger margins than the others. Though it is of the same type as the single copies already described, it differs from them and from Mr. Duveen's pair in being initialled "E. D. W."—E. D. Wright, one of the Post-office clerks.

All ten of these stamps known are used and as will be seen by the above history they have not passed through many hands. Should a fine copy come on the market now it would probably realise not less than $2500.

SHORT REPLIES.

E. H. B. (Allentown, Pa.).—The "e" of "Céntimos" is accented on the Costa Rican stamps because that is the correct way of spelling the word in Spanish. (2) Unless you find the shaded and unshaded date on the same value the fact of there being any difference is of no importance.

W. N. D. (St. Mary's, Pa.).—The 1908-09 stamps of the United States were not issued on unwatermarked paper. They were at first issued with the double-lined "U. S. P. S." watermark (introduced in 1895) and in December, 1910, a new type of watermark with single line letters came into use. All values except the 13c, 50c and $1 are known with this latter type of watermark. (2) Are you sure you have measured the grille correctly and that it is genuine?

THE REACTION OF ACIDS ON THE COLORS OF STAMPS.—From the Swedish.

By L. Harald Kjellstedt, F. R. P. S.

Mr. Gösta Sahlin of the Swedish Philatelic Society, has recently conducted a series of experiments along the line indicated and the interesting results were published in the January issue of Svensk Filatelistisk Tidskrift. The author points out that a considerable part of the stamp forgers' industry is based on the action of chemical reagents on the colors of postage stamps. It is comparatively easy to change violet into gray and orange into yellow, etc. In order to show the action of certain acids on colors, the author treated a number of Swedish stamps with nitric and sulphuric acids. It is not easy to give a definite statement of the action of acids on the colors of different stamps because it was shown that even stamps of the same issue underwent very differing changes. It happened, for instance, that 50 öre grey official of the old type did not change color after being treated with acids until it had been exposed to the daylight for some time. We all know that dampness will have its influence on stamp colors. The 25ö orange of the issue 1897-1903 will change to pale yellow if kept in a damp place for a few months. The same result will obtain if the stamp is treated with hydrochloric acid.

A number of colors vary in artificial light. A green stamp will always look more or less blue. According to post officials, the new 15 and 30ö official stamps look exactly alike by artificial light. Of the ordinary stamps, the new 10, 15 and 30ö values are difficult to see apart.

For the first attempt to study the resistance of the different colors, hydrochloric acid (HCL) was used. The green color offered the least resistance. Stamps of this color, of the issues of 1858, 1872, 1886, 1891 and 1911 and the official stamp of 1893, all became a beautiful bright blue in less than a minute's time.

Orange was a very uneven color. Thus the 25ö of 1897 turned a pale yellow while the 2ö official stamp of 1891 changed into a dull red yellow. The least resistance had the new 2ö of 1910. The color disappeared entirely. The purely yellow color was more stable. It was only very slightly bleached by the acid. The carmine became so dissolved that the color formed regular layers on the paper. The red color was not affected. The carmine color of least resistance was that of the official stamp of 1893.

Brown and grey are strong colors on which the acid has little influence, but the absolutely most constant was the blue. Five 12ö stamps of 1877 and five 20ö official stamps of 1891 were left for fifteen days in concentrated 94% hydrochloric acid. It had not the slightest influence on the color or the cancellation, but the paper was entirely corroded. When the container was moved the stamps fell apart from the slight shaking.

The violet color changed to grey, but to a rather dirty grey shade. This is well to know, because the 6ö of 1872, perf. 14, is easily changed. But there is a protection against forgery. A forged stamp does not show the pure, clear grey color, but a dirty greyish shade. Besides this, a stamp treated with acid will sink immediately if placed in water, while a stamp not treated thus will first float and then sink gradually. The reason a stamp sinks immediately is that the gum on the back of the paper has been removed by the acid.

Besides these experiments a number of stamps were treated with sulphuric acid ($H_2O\,SO_3$) as well as nitric acid ($H\,O\,NO_2$). In order to observe the action of the two acids, stamps of the same issue were placed in both and permitted to remain 1 or 2 minutes. The results were:

In Nitric Acid.	In Sulphuric Acid.
12o blue, 1858, unchanged.	Instantly greenish blue. After drying it had a bleached blue green shade.
5o, 1886, turned blue.	The color was only somewhat corroded.
12o, 1877, unchanged.	The coloring nearly disappeared.
5o green, 1891, changed to a pretty dark blue in 10 seconds.	The color partly disappeared.
10o carmine, changed to brick red.	The color disappeared.
20o blue, unchanged.	The color became dark green at first but became slate blue after removing from the bath.
25o orange, changed to brown from brown yellow.	Same effect.
50o grey became grey green.	The stamps first changed to brown but after removing to pale green.
1 krona carmine showed a brick red color.	The color disappeared to a great extent.
1o black was not affected in the least.	The same result.
2o orange. The color disappeared entirely.	The orange first became brown yellow, but when the acid had been rinsed off it showed a greenish blue tone.
4o violet became pale red.	The color at first changed to brown violet but after washing to pale red.
5o green had the color eaten into by the acid, but after removing it changed to dark blue.	The color became brown. After immersion in water this color immediately changed to pale green.
10o carmine turned to pale red.	The stamp at first became blood red and afterwards a rusty yellow.
25o became a dirty yellow.	Turned to brown.
35o. The color became bright red in 5 seconds and after 30 seconds brick red, which after washing turned to pale brown.	The stamp became instantly dark green and after immersion in water the color became the most beautiful blood red, which separated from the paper and formed layers. After a couple of hours the stamp became a light bluish brown.
OLD OFFICIAL	STAMPS.
2o orange. The color disappeared entirely and the paper became transparent.	The color at first turned to yellow brown and the paper became transparent. When the stamp was removed the orange color returned but changed to yellow after drying.
4o black was unchanged.	The color first became brown black and then disappeared.
5o green turned blue.	Brownish green and afterwards bleached green.
10o carmine turned to brick red, and after removing to reddish yellow.	First turned red brown and formed layers on the paper. After removing the color became reddish yellow.
20o blue was unchanged.	Dark green afterwards brown and after washing greenish blue.
30o brown. The paper became transparent, the color bleached and remained light brown after washing.	The color unchanged.
50o grey. The color was only slightly eaten into.	The color became dark brown and afterwards greenish grey. After 14 days the stamp had resumed its original color.
1 krona brown, color unchanged.	The blue as well as the brown colors turned dark brown at first. After washing both became greenish brown.
THE NEW OFFICIAL	STAMPS.
5o turned greenish blue.	First greenish brown then blue green.
10o remained unchanged.	First blood red with color dissolved, afterwards pale red.

From these results it is seen that hydrochloric acid and nitric acid in many cases have the same effects on the stamp colors. The sulphuric acid is shown to be the strongest and most destructive.

NASSAU STAMP CO., LTD.
179 Broadway, New York City

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

CAYMAN ISLANDS STAMPED STATIONERY.

By HARRY E. HUBER.

In the April 1st, 1908, number of The Caymanian, which was edited locally and printed at Kingston, Jamaica, for two years, when it discontinued publication on account of the "apathetic attitude displayed locally", there appeared :—

GOVERNMENT NOTICE No. 13.

His Excellency having assented to the establishment of an internal post:

Notice is hereby given that a regular mail will be dispatched from George Town every Tuesday morning at 8 o'clock for East End and all intermediate places, and from East End to George Town every Tuesday night.

RATES OF POSTAGE.

Letters under ½ ounce, ½d; Post Cards, ¼d; Newspapers and other printed or manuscript matter under 2 ounces, ¼d.

The postal packages will be delivered en route and collected en route, stamps being procurable at any Post Office or from the postman.

The above rates will also apply to Cayman Brac and any place in Grand Cayman served by the mail, and vice versa. Mails will be dispatched from Cayman Brac to Grand Cayman and vice versa, as often as an opportunity occurs.

The service comes into force on Tuesday, March 31st, next.

GEORGE S. S. HIRST,
Commissioner.

February 18, 1908.

The territory served by this inland post was subsequently extended to include Little Cayman, by the issuance of :—

POST OFFICE NOTICE No. 19.

In continuation of Notice No. 13 of February 18th, 1908:

Notice is hereby given that Little Cayman is included in area of "Local Post" and the rates hitherto applying to other areas will now apply to Little Cayman.

By Order,
W. G. McCAUSLAND,
Postmaster.

February 5, 1909.

From the above it will be seen that the new rates were to go into effect on March 31st, 1908. However, as no ¼d stamps were available until June 30th, 1908, it is thought rather probable that this ¼d postage rate was withheld being made effective until that date, for it is not known that any provisional means were employed during the interim to denote that postage was paid over the counter.

Post Card, ¼d.—At approximately the same time the ¼d stamp was issued, the first piece of stamped postal stationery appeared for the Islands, viz., ¼d post card, for inland postage. Notice of the issuance of this post card seemed to be rather tardy in reaching the philatelic world for it was not until September it was announced as having been seen in the mails from the Cayman Islands. But in view of the following Government Notice it is thought likely that it made its appearance at the same time as or very shortly after, the issuance of the ¼d adhesive.

GOVERNMENT NOTICE No. 27.

George Town Post Office,
Grand Cayman, B. W. I.

Notice is hereby given that farthing stamps and farthing post cards being provided solely for internal postage in the Cayman Islands Dependency, will only be sold across the counter at a Post Office in the Cayman Islands,

By Order,
G. A. PARSONS,
Postmistress.

July 10, 1908.

When the ¼d post card was first issued it, like the adhesive, was intended to be used for inter-Island use only, but later was allowed to be used for postage abroad by the additon of sufficient stamps to make up the required postage.

The stamp is in the upper right-hand corner of the card, the design being simply the oval from the ¼d adhesive, with the four triangular ornaments transforming it into a rectangular stamp omitted. To the left of the stamp appears the heading in three lines. The top line contains the words "POST CARD", separated by the Royal Arms; second line, "CAYMAN ISLANDS", and the third line, in small sans-serif capitals, consists of "The address only to be written on this side." All the printing is in chestnut brown on light buff.

The first supply sent to the Islands consisted of cards 121x75 mm., but in the supply received in December, 1909, and placed on sale at the same time as the 1d stamped stationery, the cards were 115x89 mm., and were printed in dark brown.

Newspaper Wrapper, ½d.—The next piece of stationery to be issued was the ½d wrapper.

FRENCH COLONIES

It is reported there is to be a new issue for many of the French Colonies in the near future and we have made arrangements to have them as soon as out. In the meantime how about the current issues? They will never be any cheaper and it is better to be sure than sorry. The way to be sure is to get your name on our mailing list, and let us do the worrying act for you. The way to be sorry is to try to keep track of them yourself and find later that some issues have become obsolete while you were looking for them to come out. We make no charge for the nerve stimulants necessary to one while watching for new issues, our only charge being a small per cent over cost to keep our creditors from attaching our buzz wagon.

NOTICE No. 37.

Newspaper wrappers bearing an impressed halfpenny stamp, available for postage within or without the Dependency, are now on sale at the following places:

Post Office, George Town.
Post Office, Cayman Brac.
Post Office, Bodden Town.
P. C. Watler, East End.
P. C. Lambert Foster, The Creek, Cayman Brac.

At the price of 20, for 1sh, or ¾d each.

GEORGE S. S. HIRST,
Commissioner.

June 23, 1909.

The design resembles the ¼d adhesive, but instead of the chrysanthemum appearing in the triangular ornaments, a fleur-de-lis now appears. A small star has been introduced on either side of the inscription, which has been changed from "CAYMAN ISLANDS POSTAGE" to "CAYMAN ISLANDS." Then, too, a small spray of three leaves, pointing downward, has been added to the foliage on either side of the Crown at the top. The numeral of value is, of course, changed, and "½d" in color, outlined in white, appears on a horizontally lined background.

The wrapper measures 330x121 mm., when fully extended, and the stamp together with the following information is printed in blue-green on manila paper.

"This Wrapper may only be used for Newspapers or for such documents as are allowed to be sent at the Book-rate of postage, and must not enclose any letter or communication of the nature of a letter (whether separate or otherwise). If this rule be infringed, the packet will be charged as a letter."

Envelope & Post Card, 1d.—On December 28th, 1909, there were placed on sale two more pieces of stationery,—an envelope and post card, both of the value of 1d, and being carmine in color.

NOTICE No. 6.

There are now on sale at the Post Offices of the Dependency envelopes stamped 1d at 1¼d each, or 1sh 1½d a dozen, and 1d post cards at 1¼d each, or 1sh 1½d a dozen.

GEORGE S. S. HIRST,
Commissioner.

January 4, 1910.

The envelope measures 121x94 mm., and is of thin gray-blue paper. The stamp impressed thereon is of the same design as the ½d wrapper, with the exception of change in value.

The post card, being for International use, comes in a larger size than the ¼d card, being 140x89 mm. The heading to the left of the stamp now consists of four lines. "UNION POSTALE UNIVERSELLE", followed by "CAYMAN ISLANDS (ILES CAYMAN)" on the second. On the third line appears "POST (The Royal Arms) CARD", and the lower line the same instructions regarding address as contained on the ¼d card.

Envelope, 2½d.—And now comes a 2½d stamped envelope, for foreign postage, which was issued in November, 1911. The envelope, which measures 165x94 mm., is of thin gray-blue paper, and the stamp impressed thereon is ultramarine in color.

POST OFFICE NOTICE No. 8.

The following Postal Stationery has this day been put on sale:

Envelopes stamped 2½d, price 2¾d each, or 2sh 7½d a dozen.

By Order,
A. BODDEN,
Postmaster.

Nov. 13, 1911.

The stamp while similar to that employed for the 1d stationery, contains a very important change. The inscription is changed to read "CAYMAN ISLANDS POSTAGE" in very thin letters set close together, so that the three words are now contained in the space formerly occupied by "CAYMAN ISLANDS". A small ornament differing somewhat from that on the 1d stationery appears before and after the inscription. The numeral of value is in color, outlined in white, and as before on a horizontally lined background.

It is interesting to note that for all postal stationery, with the exception of the ¼d post card, the Postal Authorities charge ¼d in excess of the face value of the stamp impressed thereon, but this charge is somewhat reduced when bought in quantity. The ¼d post card is sold at face value.

Registration labels have been introduced into the Islands within the past year. They are of the familiar British Colonial pattern, measuring 40 x 16 mm., and containing a large "R" to the left. Two sets of these labels are in use; one inscribed "GRAND CAYMAN" and the other "CAYMAN BRAC". Through an error the first book for Cayman Brac was used at George Town, Grand Cayman, "BRAC" being stroked out and "Grand" added in manuscript above "CAYMAN".

In the early part of 1911, the stock of 2½d stamps at the George Town Post Office began to run low, and as it was expected that the George V keyplate would soon be ready for the press, a requisition was accordingly sent through for a supply of 2½d stamps in the new design. However, by the first of May not only had the 2½d been exhausted, but also the ½d and 1d as well. Still expecting that the new keyplate would be ready in a short time, the Islands authorities requisitioned supplies of the ½d and 1d in the new design, planning to keep the Offices running with ¼d stamps, of which there was a large stock on hand and more ordered. Further delays occurring in London made it impossible for the new stamps to be supplied until after the first of the year, and as matters were becoming very critical in the Islands a further printing of the 1d and 2½d stamps from the Edward VII Postage & Revenue keyplate was ordered. Last advices were to the effect that no ½d stamps were to be had. This shortage of lower denomination stamps, however, affected only the Island of Grand Cayman, the Post Office at Stakes Bay, Cayman Brac, not serving so many people, was well supplied with stamps of the denominations in question.

"STAMPS HARD TO GET."

Catalog Value $2.00 and Under.

A correspondent suggests that an article dealing with hard-to-get stamps would be appreciated by our readers. We invite contributions to a symposium, suggesting that it be confined to stamps that catalog $2.00 and under. We shall hope to have a sufficient number of entries to make a worthy contribution to our columns.

"EMORY, VA." CONFEDERATE LOCAL.

By S. E. Young, M. D.

For several years I have been very deeply interested in the above rather obscure and uncataloged stamp and have often wondered why some of these found their right place in the pages of the Standard Catalog, while others, with just as good right to be placed there were year after year ignored and left to either pass into oblivion or occupy a place far beneath their genuine worth in the albums of the few who have been fortunate enough to obtain one of them.

Why should Marion, Va., Lenoir, N. C., and other like towns have their "Locals" accepted by the Cataloger, any more than Emory, Va. when the proof of the genuineness of the Emory is not lacking?

'Tis true that the catalog gives Emory credit for one variety, but studiously avoids the other and most important one.

The little sticker torn from the blank edge of the U. S. stamps then in use but no longer available for postage, with its "PAID" and 5 in circle is in the catalog all right but why not the regular rectangular "PAID 5 EMORY"?

I have the sworn statement of the Postmaster at Emory, Va., during the whole period of the war, and herewith send you a copy of same. If further proof is needed to establish the fact that Mr. Fowler was Postmaster and wrote this certificate I can certainly give it straight from living witnesses.

He says that something like 1,000 of the square stamps were printed by him and perhaps more than half of these were sold and used in the regular way to pay postage, and that as late as in the 70's he burned the remainder because the gum on them had caused them to curl.

Now if Mr. Fowler engraved this stamp on the end of a poplar stick, printed stamps from his improvised die and sold the stamps for use on mail matter sent out at that time, why should this stamp not have a place in the catalog same as other stamps that are there?

I claim that they not only belong in the catalog, but on account of the very few that can now be found, should bring a price equally as high as others of like character.

During the few years that I have been interested in the above Local I have found four copies of the "PAID" with 5 in circle, and only three of the square "PAID 5 Emory" two of the latter being on the cover, and the other one is one mentioned by Mr. Fowler as being on the Postage receipt of the Lynchburg paper.

With this letter and copy of Mr. Fowler's certificate I am sending you my copy of the stamp in question for your inspection.

MONTCLAIR, N. J., CHRISTMAS PRE-CANCELS.

By Franklin S. Smith.

In answering the inquiry of K. Baumann in the Feb. 24th issue of Mekeel's would say, that being a resident of Montclair, and a collector of precancels I kept in touch with the post-office there, and can give the following information.

The denominations from 1c to 15c were printed locally from a plate cancelling fifty stamps. The pane of 100 was separated vertically, leaving half-panes five stamps wide, and ten stamps high, and the original design was the circle 19 mm. in diameter, 1 mm. thick with the name in Celtic type conforming to the shape of the circle, a four pointed star half way between the M and N, and the R and J, and a short bar 8½x1½ mm. at the middle of the circle. Finding that two bars were necessary according to the regulations, a second short bar was added below the printed bar with a rubber stamp, 7x2½ mm. to the 10c and 15c only. It was then discovered that these were not properly cancelled, so all the stamps were printed a second time with long bars extending all across the five stamps, and tangent to the circle, hence 20 mm. apart.

In the post-office, these half panes were cut into horizontal strips of five with a heavy knife pivoted at one end, such as is used for trimming photographs and hence most all the stamps have straight edges and imperfectly divided perforations.

December 22nd the supply of 15c stamps gave out, and more were cancelled with a small rubber stamp and black cancelling ink. This consisted of the name of the city in square type, with heavy bars above and below. The Postmaster and the clerks cannot say which, nor how many of the denominations were cancelled in this manner. It would be well for all collectors having rubber-stamped cancellations to report them at once, so they can be included in the catalogue which Mr. F. L. Smith at 27 William St., N. Y. City, is preparing.

There are no inverts, doubles, nor freaks among these cancellations, either printed or rubber-stamped, and none of the stamps with circles only and lacking the bars got out.

WHAT ARE THEY WORTH?

A valued correspondent, W. I. Engle, asks us to name the market values of the postal savings bank stamps. He is interested in both watermarks and any reader who can size the matter up will perform a service for a large number of collectors who are interested in these stamps. Please forward replies as early as convenient to this office.

MR. GARDNER'S DEATH.

Appreciate Words From the Pen of Mr. C. J. Philiips.

With the greatest regret I have to report the death of an old friend, who was the finest philatelist in San Francisco. Mr. Gardner died quite suddenly on January 1st. It is only a few weeks ago that I had a long and interesting letter from him on the subject of new varieties that he had discovered in Japanese stamps.

I had known him personally for over fifteen years, and I have met but few better informed men in American stamp circles. Mr. Gardner was best known as one of the greatest specialists in the stamps of Japan. Some two years ago we sold him the marvellous collection formed by the late Mr. Moser, and he then combined this with his own great collection. He was always a great stickler for "condition" and his various collections were a pleasure to see. He will be greatly missed by philatelists in San Francisco.—Gibbons' Monthly Journal.

ALL NIGERIA ONE PROVINCE.

From the Daily Mail we learn that:—"The King has approved the appointment of Sir Walter Egerton, Governor of Southern Nigeria, to be Governor of British Guiana in succession to Sir Frederic Hodgson, retired.

Advantage will be taken of this opportunity for giving effect to the policy for amalgamating the Governments of Southern and Northern Nigeria. It is intended that Sir Frederic Lugard, Governor of Hong Kong, shall be Governor of both Southern and Northern Nigeria."

Ewen's Weekly Stamp News comments on this as follows:—"Does this mean that the separate stamps of 'Southern' and 'Northern' Nigeria will be withdrawn and that a new 'all Nigeria' issue will take their place? There have been a good many changes already in this part of the world; in quite recent times, the Oil Rivers and Niger Coast Protectorates and Lagos have ceased to be (in name)."

EDITORIAL.

Question of Future—From two sources timely data on the recommendation of Postmaster-General Hitchcock that the government purchase the telegraph companies and operate them in conjunction with the postoffice department have been gratefully received. The following are the words of the congressional enactment of June 23, 1874, providing authority for the purchase of the telegraph lines: "The United States may, for postal, military or other purposes, purchase all the telegraph lines, property and effects of any or all companies acting under the provisions of the act of July 24, 1866, entitled 'An act to aid in the construction of telegraph lines and secure to the Government the use of the same for postal, military or other purposes,' or under this title, at an appraised value, to be ascertained by five competent and disinterested persons, two of whom shall be selected by the Postmaster General of the United States, two by the company interested and one by the four so previously selected." Pursuant to the authority vested in him by this act, the postmaster-general has announced the following decision: "The rates for the transmission of Government communications by the Alaska Wireless Telegraph Company during the remainder of the fiscal year ending June 30, 1912, are fixed at fifteen cents per word, no charges being made for the dates and the names of places from which messages are sent."

Markings—Mr. Arthur E. Hobbs, North Attleboro, Mass., writes: "I was looking through a lot of letters to find the two-cent Columbian varieties, when I found the enclosed postal card mailed from Old Orchard, Maine, August 4, 1882, to my father in Salem, Mass. Besides the Old Orchard postmark, there was one other like the cut but with no Salem mark. Will any reader of the WEEKLY explain the use of this 'Carrier' mark? It is entirely new to me." This postmark, "Carrier, Aug. 5, 8 A. M." signified nothing more than delivery by letter-carrier in the city to which it was addressed. The impression was used in the seventies as a back-stamp, and for some years after. The "carrier" postmark usually was in colored ink and in consequence, conspicuous. Two additions are to be made to the list of unusual cancellations, Indianapolis, Ind., "U. S. A.," and "Free" on the two-cent claret, 1882. The Roman numerals III on the three-cent green, 1871, is out of the ordinary but the "3" is common, comparatively speaking, in all the issues, from 1851 to 1870, inclusive.

Two in One—Several of the English newspapers told some weeks ago of the appointment of Sir Walter Egerton, Governor of Southern Nigeria to the berth of Governor of British Guiana; and later, it was announced that Sir Frederic Lugard, had succeeded to the governorship of the Nigerias, both North and South. Naturally, the stamp papers are now enquiring if the two countries will be amalgamated for administrative purposes. It may be said safely that one of the districts, so to say, will cease to exist, as Oil Rivers, Lagos and Niger Coast Protectorates have done, as national entities. Further, judging from a letter from the colonial office, London, that has been shown us, the merger will be made with the effect that there will be a radical change in the postage stamps; and it would seem advisable to attend to obtaining the present stamps with as little delay as possible.

Mixed—There seems to be some hitch in connection with the distribution of the new one penny red pictorial stamp of St. Helena. A contemporary says that the postmaster at St. Helena refuses to furnish the stamps "because printed in the wrong colour," a conclusion that palpably is incorrect as the stamp, all red or rose, is in the color prescribed by the postal union regulations. Another paper quotes the postmaster as saying that the stamp in question is not on sale to the public, and thereupon remarks, "He does not state, however, who is to buy them." The assumption is that the stamps will not be allowed to circulate until the postmaster is made to see the light.

A New One—The new Liechtenstein stamps have been instrumental in gaining publicity for philately in the newspaper press. Numerous items on the subject of the new stamps appeared and the editors seemed to regard a new country in Europe to issue stamps in the way of a novelty, as it is. While Liechtenstein (or Lichtenstein) is really a newcomer to the fold of philatelic countries yet it is something of a coincidence to notice in a stamp album published in 1863, the line in the index, "Lichtenstein, see Austria." The features of the Prince of Liechtenstein, depicted on the stamps, seem to combine dignity and benignity; and the family of this reigning prince is one of the oldest in all Europe. The area of Liechtenstein is 53 square miles; and it borders on the upper Rhine between Switzerland and Vorarlberg, a district of Austria-Hungary, connected officially with the province of Tyrol, of which it forms westernmost part. The small market-town of Vadutz or Liechtenstein is the capital of the principality.

Irregular—Mrs. Hattie Mitchell of Denver, Colorado, asks an interesting question: "Is it permissible for firms using precancelled stamps to have their initials included in said precancellation? A local firm used the first precancelled stamps issued through the Denver office, and it only for three days; and then the firm was unable to obtain more stamps precanceled. Is this an innovation in precancellation that ultimately will do away with perforation for identification? One of these stamps was used on first-class mail; heretofore all I had ever seen were on third or fourth class matter." The inclusion of the firm's initials was contrary to the regulations prescribing the style of cancellation; and as the "innovation" was a violation of the postal law, it is likely that further supplies of the overprinted stamps were withheld until the case had been investigated. Early in December, the authorities allowed for some time, the use of precancelled stamps.

You Can See Them—Mr. G. A. Hunt, Woburn, Mass., has been searching for types in the one-cent blue, issue of 1890, and he has discovered some variants that will delight the heart of the minor variety enthusiast; and which to his knowledge have never been exploited before. Type I. Vertical projection or tail, running up from ball at bottom of left hand numeral. Right hand numeral normal. Type II. Same as type I but projection is on right hand numeral. Left hand numeral normal. Type III. Vertical projections on both numerals. A pair of type III shows that the peculiarity must have been on the entire sheet. These little white extensions from the heels of the numeral "1" are plainly shown on the specimens sent by Mr. Hunt for inspection; and it is our belief that the pursuit of these trifles will yield as much pleasure as is being taken in the Columbian hunt.

A GREAT PURCHASE.

Lord Crawford Disposes of Most of His Great Collection.

The daily papers have during the past week given not a little space to the exploitation of the sale of the famous Lord Crawford collection of postage stamps, though in this connection it must be stated that Lord Crawford still retains his stamps of Great Britain and United States.

For the past fifteen years this titled collector has been in the forefront of the ranks of collectors. His philatelic possessions just disposed of were arranged in eighty quarto volumes, of which about sixty contained stamps of the British colonies. The remaining twenty contained stamps of the Italian states.

Lord Crawford collected on a scientific basis, much attention being given to varieties and details, his collection of Indian stamps being of a particularly comprehensive character.

In Western Australia, New South Wales, South Australia and Transvaal the collection is exceedingly rich.

The purchaser of this great collection is the well known firm of W. H. Peckitt and no doubt represents the greatest transaction ever recorded in the stamp purchasing line. The Peckitt advertisement elsewhere in this issue gives some details of the purchase that will be read with interest and we bespeak a careful reading of the same.

We congratulate this enterprising firm upon acquiring this great collection and it will only serve to add to the prestige that the house of Peckitt has secured.

AN IMPORTANT PURCHASE.

By the announcement of J. E. Handshaw to be found elsewhere in this issue, it will be noted that this long-established and reliable dealer has just purchased a very important property that he is prepared to offer at very attractive rates. Our U. S. dealers who are in the habit of going abroad for supplies will do well to look into the contents of this purchase.

A REVIEW OF AUCTION SALES.

By C. G. FERRIS.

Sometime ago I noticed in your columns a suggestion from a subscriber that a review of the auction sales held in this country for the past seasons would be of benefit. Your correspondent was not alone in that thought, as I have been working for some time on a review of the auction sales of the seasons of 1911 and 1912 as applied to U. S. Stamps only. The compilation of a review taking in all countries was a task that I did not care to undertake, but I have attempted to write and have already made a good start on such a review dealing with the stamps of the United States.

This list will include the Post Masters' Provisionals, the Regular Adhesive Issues of the U. S. including used and unused, strips, pairs, blocks, and stamps used on the original cover; also stamped envelopes, cut squares and entires, U. S. Revenues, U. S. Proofs, Specimen Stamps, etc., in fact everything pertaining to U. S. stamps as far as my information will permit. For this purpose many of the leading auction houses of the country have kindly loaned me their priced catalogs. I hope to have this list completed and ready to issue in the early fall. The price will be made only high enough to take care of the actual expense of compilation and publication.

I am quite well aware that auction prices are constantly fluctuating but I shall make this list in such a way as to enable the collector to have a pretty clear idea of the actual values as distinguished from so called fluke values obtained by reason of peculiar conditions as for example rivalry between two collectors, an attempted corner of the market on certain stamps, etc. I believe this list will also act as an educator of collectors to values according to condition, also it will be intended to be a sort of first aid to the catalog.

As you are aware the current catalogs list but frequently do not price the rare U. S. Stamps they cannot on account of the few of each on the market, furthermore the current catalog gives the collector no idea of the value of U. S. Stamps in blocks, pairs, strips and on the cover. The list I am making will contain many U. S. priced in strips, blocks, pairs, etc., and while it is true that prices are constantly changing, this list will be of considerable assistance to the collectors of the U. S. stamps for at least several years to come.

I shall also include in this list some items of information in regard to U. S. gathered together during several years and which I believe will be of value to collectors of U. S.

A SUPPLEMENTARY WORD.

We have received the following letter from our well known correspondent L. Harald Kjellstedt: "Please find enclosed a communication from that prominent collector and owner of the finest collection of Sweden, Baron Erik Leijonhufvud, as it contains a few corrections and some additional information, it may prove of sufficient interest for publication."

An extract from the letter follows:

"In MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS for January 6, you have written some notes called 'News from Sweden.' As they contain some mistakes perhaps you will not mind my correcting them. The Swedish collection was very fine but the Sk Bco issue was not as good as one would expect, nor did the collection contain many blocks of the figure-issue 1872. The most remarkable thing was, however that a very great number of the unused Sk Bco stamps were damaged, corners missing and other defects. The magnificent block of 25 4 Sk Bco unused had come into Professor Lindström's hands in a very curious way. It was found in a put-away book in Paris some years ago and the finder sent it to a Stockholm philatelist with an inquiry if it was any good. He procured it at once for Professor Lindström and for a bargain price.

I do not believe that a second copy of the error 5 öre brown 1891 exists in private hands: I have made most extensive inquiries but no one has ever heard of the second copy: years ago it was certainly stated in some journal that two copies were in circulation, but I do not believe it until I see it. People believe such a lot of things because it has been said or printed for so many years. The number of mistaken ideas that have yet to be removed from people's minds even in the exact sciences is astonishing. How much easier to fall into mistakes in philately!

In Professor Lindström's collection were two inverted surcharges 10 on 24 used, but not a single copy unused. Your list of my purchase from the collection is not complete. I give you below, some fine stamps and blocks which you have not included.

The 12 best unused Sk Bco stamps, all values.

One used strip of 4 beautiful 3 Sk Bco.

The only existing complete set of blocks of four of the 1885 year's reprints, including the Liontypes and the 1 Riksdaler, very many with margin.

The set of imperforate reprints of the Sk Bco, 4 in each block.

One unused block of 1 Riksdaler, 4 pieces with margin perforation 13 (I had a similar block before).

One block of six of the Figure issue 5 ore, perf. 14, deep green.

One block of four of the 6 ore, perf. 14, lilac (shade).

One block of six, Officials, perforation 14, 20 ore, with margin.

One block of four, Officials, 1 krona, perf. 14.

One copy 30 ore, imperforate on postal order, issue 1877.

One copy Official, inverted surcharge, 10/24 used.

And many smaller items. You will find from this that many pieces not mentioned by you are very important stamps."

OUR REVIEW.

We have received from Wm. R. Ricketts a mimeograph copy of the first instalment of the "Philatelic Literature Bibliography Index", a work that has been compiled simultaneously with the A. P. S. Index. Mr. Ricketts states that his Index will contain references pertaining to the literature of stamp collecting as is found in the periodicals and handbooks contained in his library. It is to appear in parts of from ten to fifteen pages from time to time and the price for each part will be 10c, postage extra. The publication is made in mimeographic sheets to eliminate the heavy expense of printing. The instalment before us covers the letter "A" until well into matters pertaining to the American Philatelic Society. Interested parties can address Mr. Ricketts at Forty Fort, Pa.

The Wonderland of Stamps

By W. Dwight Burroughs
FULLY ILLUSTRATED, CLOTH 12MO.
Post Free $1.50

It has often been said that postage-stamp collecting is one of the most educational of pastimes, because of the immense amount of information about history, geography, etc., connected with it. Yet few people understand how many and how varied are the interesting things told on the pictures of stamps.

In this book a good-natured uncle with a large stamp collection tells his nephews and nieces about the veritable wonderland it discloses. He describes the birds and animals from the antelope of Rhodesia to the zebra of Madagascar, the old Greek games, bits of United States and foreign history, curious islands, small records of big wars, a miniature edition of Don Quixote, the ancient myths, thumb-nail maps, Christmas stories, ships and locomotives of all descriptions—all pictured on postage stamps of various countries.

The book is fully illustrated with reproductions of the stamps described.

THE LEAP YEAR CANCELLATION.

By HERMAN W. BOERS.

(Of course the editor is compelled to admit the soft impeachment. He does collect minor varieties especially when, as in Mr. Boers' case, they come our way with the sender's compliments. Forthwith we shall add the "Feb. 29" postmark to our collection and admit the force of Mr. Boer's contention "it is great to be crazy." —ED.)

You are a collector of stamps no doubt, and have a nice collection—I hope so! And I have no doubt you collect various minor varieties, oddities, things we don't get every day. Say, did it ever occur to you that it is only once in "4" years, you can collect a stamp with Leap Year cancellation on envelope? I am enclosing you herewith two, put them in your book with my compliments. I have them also with 1c, 4c, 6c, 8c, Reg'd, also from Canada, also with due stamps and double cancellation. Great to be crazy!

Tell the readers of MEKEEL'S to get busy and watch for them next time.

Irva Saucerman also reports the new 1c stamp used with portrait of Washington.

Edward F. Roy has shown us a copy of the 10c Columbian with large colorless spot under each "10", also the 2c Columbian, with break between 10th and 11th lines only.

Albert F. Ritter has shown us a New York 1c Permit No. 644, with 1c pasted over, and the Columbian Stamp Co. shows a New York 1c permit No. 411, with two perforated 1c stamps and a Boston 1c Permit No. 303, with 2c stamp over.

The Philatelic Gazette says that the issue of the 10c registration stamp has put a "quietus" on the project of issuing a 12c stamp.

ARGENTINE.—The Revista de la Sociedad Filatelica Argentine reports the following stationery as having been issued with the new "Sower" stamp. The envelopes are sold at a premium of 1c over the face value.

Envelopes.

5c rose.
12c blue.

Post Card.

5c rose on cream.

Wrappers.

½c rose on cream.
1c blue on cream.
2c chocolate on cream.
4c green on cream.

In No. 1103 we chronicled a 5c envelope on the authority of a German contemporary, the color being given as claret on gray and in No. 1101 Mr. Schachne reported a 5c letter card. The Philatelisten Zeitung reports a 5c blue on buff card.

BERMUDA.—Ewen's Weekly notes the issue of a new wrapper with the stamp in the "Hoy money" type, and the Schweizer Briefmarken Zeitung chronicles a new post card with similar stamp.

Post Card.

½d green.

Wrapper.

BRITISH SOMALILAND.—The 12a has been issued on chalky paper, specimens having been shown us by the New England Stamp Co.

BRUNEI.—The Schweizer Briefmarken Zeitung reports having seen "specimen" copies of some new unicolored stamps for this Colony. They are printed on multiple paper.

Adhesives.

4c claret.
5c orange.
8c ultramarine.
10c violet on yellow.

CANADA.—Frank B. Ransom has shown us specimens of the new 2c King George stamp, showing wide variation in color, one in particular being vastly different from the rich shade of the early printings.

CONGO.—The Deutsche Briefmarken Zeitung chronicles the following new cards:

Post Cards.

5c green; 128x80 mm.
5x5 green; 14 x89 mm.
10c rose on blue; 129x81 mm.

GREAT BRITAIN.—Offices in the Levant.—The New England Stamp Co. has shown us the 1d King George stamp, first design, surcharged "Levant" for use in the British offices in Turkey.

ICELAND.—We failed to note last week that the new stamps there chronicled had the embossed portrait of King Frederick VIII, instead of Sigurdsson. Beyond this, the changes from the earlier issue were trifling, except that Sigurdsson's name is engraved below his portrait, while the King Frederick stamps are without name. Whitfield King & Co. have also shown us the full set of King Frederick stamps. The two sets dove-tail together, the values from 5a to 25a overlapping, there being six values of the Sigurdsson stamps and seven values of the King Frederick issue. It was understood that these later values would comprise a pictorial set, with views of Icelandic scenery, but evidently the idea was abandoned.

MACAU.—We have been shown the full set of stamps for this Colony, surcharged "Republica", by the New England Stamp Co.

PAPUA.—Whitfield King & Co. have shown us used specimens of ½d, 1d and 2d current Papua stamps, punched "OS" for official use. These stamps are only obtainable postmarked to order.

PORTUGAL.—Whitfield King & Co. have shown us the new 5c, as illustrated last week. We are still somewhat in the dark as to whether the new monetary value is in "centimos" or "centavos." Ewen's Weekly, from which we have previously quoted, has at different times given both as correct for the lower values. The value of an escudo being the same as 1000 reis, or $1.08 in American money, it follows that the centavos (or centimos?) are worth a trifle more than an American cent.

SALVADOR.—The C. E. Hussman Stamp Co. has shown us the new Salvador set, chronicled in No. 1106.

TIMOR.—The New England Stamp Co. has shown us the full set of stamps for this Colony, surcharged "Republica."

TWO GREAT SPECIALITIES:—Rare Stamps in Fine Condition, and My Exceedingly Popular 10% New Issue Service.

CURRENT CHATTER.

By Angus McTavish.

Roessler's Stamp News, an amusing little American "house organ," says:—"It is possible the India set may be put on sale at the Dunbar. It will depict the King with the mantles of State, an altogether impressive pose."

If the weather was as muggy for the Dunbar, as it was for the Durbar, I guess H.M. would have preferred the altogether, to the mantles.

Another American paper, the Philadelphia Stamp News, has a quarter-page devoted to the advertisement of Staley Gibbs Inc. I hope Messrs. Stanley Gibbons, of London, won't follow this lead. If any of the advertisers in the P. J. G. B. fancy the abbreviated method, I am willing to submit suggestions.

How would Put & Sim do? or Vento, Bull, and Coo?

The following extract from the current number of the staid old Monthly Journal is rather interesting:—

"We have seen it stated that a new set will become necessary for French Indo-China, in consequence of the projected withdrawal of the current stamps; the reason given for this step is that the originals of the portraits thereon are well known locally as ladies of the 'Glad-eye' persuasion, and their retention on the postage stamps is likely to have a demoralizing effect."

This news ought to create quite a boom in French Colonials.

The Stamp Collectors' Fortnightly for Dec. 23rd has, as a special heading, "Stamp Collecting as a Hobby." Surely this is an original idea? I always thought it was considered jolly hard work. Possibly the S.C.F. has tracked down the survivor of the nearly extinct race of collectors. Who knows?

One of the features of the Stamp Year is a list of "Abbreviations Used in Philately." Amongst them I find that "C.O.D." means "cash on delivery." Surely Mr. Melville has mistaken the stamp, for the drapery trade. Another philatelic abbreviation is G.P.O. This means General Post Office. J.P.S. means, of course, Junior Philatelic Society. "ry", we are told, is short for railway. Stamp collectors who are venturesome enough to travel by train should remember this.

A writer in the Philatelic Gazette, writing about Mr. Charles J. Phillips, says:—

"Strictly at 1.20 he crosses the Strand and meets Messrs. Peckitt and Griebert for lunch at the Hotel Cecil."

American visitors of the future will kindly note that to be in the front row of sightseers, they must take up their places on the sidewalk before 1.15.

For the benefit of 1912 Yankee visitors, I will map out a pleasant afternoon's amusement, combined with instruction: 12.30, lunch; 12.45, British Museum and outside of Mudies Library; 12.59, quick canter down Shaftesbury Avenue; 1.15 take up position outside 391, Strand; 1.20, see the procession; 1.25, arrive outside the Hotel Metropole; 1.27, await arrival of Messrs. Guy Semple, Stuart Anderson, and Oswald Marsh, on their way to lunch; 1.45, after viewing Trafalgar Square, Burlington House, and Arcade, wait outside the Savoy, to view Messrs. Lincoln, Johnson, and Leon, on their return from lunch; 1.55, catch train at Waterloo for Windsor, view the town and Castle; 4.30, line up outside Sam Isaacs, in High Holborn, to await the arrival, for afternoon tea, of Messrs.*

Some unknown friend has sent me the following newspaper clipping. I don't know why I am the lucky recipient, as my name is not Sandy, but Angus. Possibly one of my readers can explain the mystery.

Mr. MacTavish attended a christening where the hospitality of the host knew no bounds except the several capacities of the guests. In the midst of the celebration Mr. MacTavish rose up and made the rounds of the company, bidding each a profound farewell.

"But, Sandy, mon," objected the host, "ye're not goin' yet, with the evenin' just started?"

"Nay," said the prudent MacTavish, "I'm no' goin' yet. But I'm tellin' ye good-night while I know ye all."

At any rate it should have been the rest of the guests who said good bye to the McTavish.

*McTavish is getting personal, so we have to intrude.—Ed.

AS SEEN IN THE LOCAL PAPER.

Story of the Du Pont Sale As Told in Butler, Pa., Daily.

Philadelphia, Pa., March 9.—For a small piece of colored paper, perforated, which in August, 1861, passed current for a 1-cent stamp, a philatelist paid $310 last night at the auction of the collection of postage and revenue stamps and envelopes of the late Victor Du Pont, of Wilmington.

This collection of stamps attracted collectors from all parts of the United States. Scores of dealers and collectors from Boston, New York, Chicago and other cities were present at the sale. Nearly 500 lots were put up for the bidding, which at times was extremely spirited.

The great rarity of the 1-cent stamp, which was only lightly canceled and of indigo color had attracted widespread notice. Mr. Du Pont had a collection which was the envy of less fortunate enthusiasts. The fame of his treasures brought bids from far cities, and Eugene Klein, who conducted the auction, had on one lot alone a bid of $1200, if it was necessary to obtain it.

Among the notable collectors present were John Ramsay, of Wilmington, Del.; Edward Stern, John Klemann, E. B. Power, New York; Charles H. Stone, of Cambridge, Mass.; F. E. Farnham of Chicago; H. Wesley Legg and A. W. Batchelder, Boston, Mass.; Henry Chapman, of this city, and others of lesser fame.

A 30-cent orange stamp of the period 1851-56 brought $252 at the sale. Both this specimen and the 1-cent stamp mentioned were bought by "Findlay," a discerning collector. Four stamps of the 8-cent blue paper issued in 1908, olive green in color and considered very rare on account of the few which were printed, brought $90 each. The purchaser was E. B. Power. Farnham ran the price up to this figure, and then quit when he learned that Power had an appropriation sufficient to cover his bids four times over.

A bargain was sold to "Findlay" in a $5 State stamp, dated 1873, green and black in color, which was torn slightly. This stamp is listed at $165, but only brought $120 after reaching this figure by slow degrees. A dozen collectors bid cautiously on it, and it took about ten minutes to consummate the sale.

"New England" bought a very fine $20 stamp of the same vintage, which had a faint red penmark and a pinhole as blemishes. A very rare 3-cent pink stamp of 1861 on an orange envelope in perfect condition fetched $69. The purchaser was the Nassau Stamp Company of New York.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—Mrs. Kate M. Wolsieffer, wife of Mr. P. M. Wolsieffer, Chicago, passed away on the morning of March 3rd, after a period of invalidism extending over many months. The devotion of Mr. Wolsieffer to his wife during her incapaciation has been known to his local associates; and in his loss, Mr. Wolsieffer has the deepest sympathy of a host of friends. Nine members of the Chicago Philatelic Society attended the funeral to Oak Ridge cemetery, six of whom acted as pallbearers. In the wealth of floral offerings was a beautiful tribute from Mr. F. R. Cornwall, St. Louis, President of the American Philatelic Society; Mr. H. Wesley Legg., Boston, and the Chicago philatelists likewise were represented.

—New Hampshire Stamp Club was organized Saturday, March 9, with M. D. Olmstead, Pres.; M. A. Perry, Sec.; J. B. Wilson, Treas.; K. F. Keniston, Sales-manager. Next meeting Sat., March 23 at home of J. B. Wilson, Jr.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from E. Weiss and M. S. Karlitsky.

—In the auction sale of coins to be held by Fred Michael & Brother at the rooms of the Chicago Numismatic Society on the evening of March 20th is a lot of encased postage stamps and a few other items that are worth the philatelist's eye.

The 266th (regular) meeting of the Society will be held at the Club Room on Tuesday evening, March 19th, at 7.30 o'clock.

The Entertainment Committee announce a contest following the "elimination" idea of the old-fashioned "spelling bee" on the subject of United States Postage Stamps. It is stated that all questions asked can be answered by knowledge acquired from the Scott Standard Catalog of 1911. The survivor will receive a suitable prize.

There will also be an exhibit of a portion of the celebrated Deats' collection of U. S. Revenue proofs and essays.

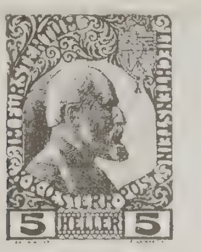
WITH THE BOY PHILATELIST.

Edited by BERTRAM W. H. POOLE, Box 231, Altadena, Calif.

We propose to insert upon this page matter that will be of interest to the boy collector. Some two thousand boys are now on our mailing list and it is our desire to come closely in contact with them in such a manner as will be most helpful. Any information desired will be cheerfully rendered through these columns. Do not submit stamps for examination.

LIECHTENSTEIN.

Liechtenstein, the very newest of stamp issuing countries, has been so modest with its initial issue that any beginner can collect the whole country complete for the matter of about 12c. The Principality of Liechtenstein is a small independent state of Europe bounded on the north and east by the Austrian province of Vorarlberg, on the west by the Rhine, and on the south by the Swiss cantons of Grisons and St. Gall. It is extremely mountainous, has an area of 65 square miles and a population of about 10,000. Most of its inhabitants are engaged in the peaceful pursuit of agriculture. The chief town is Vaduz (population 1,200) which lies 28 miles south-west of Bregens on Lake Constance. The State is practically Austrian and belongs to the Austrian customs, postal, judicial and coinage system. The present reigning family dates from the 12th century. The Prince of Liechtenstein holds extensive estates in Austria, Prussia, and Saxony. The state is governed by the Constitution of 1862, modified in 1878, 1895, and 1901, which provides for a diet of fifteen members. Officially Liechtenstein is in a state of war with Prussia. In the war of 1866 between Prussia and Austria it was Liechtenstein that first threw down the gauntlet to the former and in the subsequent settling up of the terms of peace the two big combatants were so busy adjusting their own differences that they quite forgot to include Liechtenstein in the treaty of peace. The inhabitants are fortunate in being free from taxation and they are not liable for military service.



The three stamps (5, 10, and 25 heller) which have just appeared show the portrait of the ruling Prince and are very similar to the Austrian stamps of corresponding value. They are inscribed "K. k. Oesterr. Post im Fürstentum Liechtenstein" which means "Royal Austrian Post in the Principality of Liechtenstein". The stamps would therefore appear to be a local issue of the Austrian post though they have international franking power. The stamps were designed by Professor Moser, the dies were engraved by Ferdinand Schirnboeck, and the labels were printed at the Austrian Government Printing Office and new issue importers obtain their supplies from Vienna. They are, therefore, Austrian in their origin, production, and distribution and what necessity, if any, exists for their issue remains to be explained.

CONFEDERATE STATES.

A correspondent asks me to explain the differences between Scott's types A7 and A8 of the stamps of the Confederate States. I am afraid one would have to examine these very poor illustrations for a long time without noting any differences. Even when one knows the differences they are small and it would certainly seem that the catalogue should give some note of explanation. Type A8 is generally known as the re-engraved type and in this the ornamentation in the corners is more finished and extensive. The simplest test is that in the so-called original type there is an uncolored flaw on the small lines below the portrait oval immediately above the letter "N" of "CENTS". In type A8 this flaw does not appear. There are other points of difference and it is hardly correct to call the one type a re-engraving of the other but these are matters it would take too much space to discuss here.

SHORT REPLIES.

F. J. R. (Richmond, Va.).—You will find your question regarding Mulready envelopes fully answered in the article that appeared in these columns in the WEEKLY dated Dec. 23rd last. (2) I cannot value stamps or look up wholesale quotations for common varieties.

E. J. E. (Felming, Canada).—I am afraid the differences in the 1c Cuban stamps you describe are nothing new for they are given in every catalogue but it shows you study your stamps to have so correctly described the two types. Why not invest in an up-to-date catalogue? The first type with square ends to the tablet inscribed "centavo" was issued in 1899 and is on watermarked paper while the other type was not issued until 1905. As you state it comes in a darker color and the paper is not watermarked.

G. A. F. (Boston).—The letters "F. M" overprinted on your French stamps stand for "Franchise Militaire". A certain number of these stamps are supplied free to every French soldier at stated intervals for use on their private correspondence.

H. M. C. (Pittsburg).—Your query is a "hardlyannual" or, indeed almost a "hardy monthly" which I have answered several times before in these columns I think. The letters "D. P" on the Hong Kong stamps are not an official overprint, but are simply the initials of the Daily Press, the leading newspaper in that British colony. These letters have no philatelic interest or significance at all but are simply applied to the stamps as a preventive of theft in the same manner that firms in this and other countries have their initials or private marks punched through the stamps.

M. D. (New York).—The early stamps of Hawaii are known as "missionaries" because the majority of the known specimens of these rare varieties were found on letters sent to the United States by missionaries in the islands. It is due to the fact that these letters were treasured by friends and relatives of the missionaries that these stamps exist at all. The "missionary" stamps of Uganda owe their name to a different cause. These curious labels were actually made by missionaries of the Church Missionary Society by the simple method of using an ordinary typewriter.

G. V. (Elizabeth, N. J.).—The various perforations found in connection with the pictorial stamps of Bosnia are certainly of interest to the specialist, though they are not in the same class as some other perforation varieties for the simple reason that they were concurrent—that is they were printed at the same time and so do not throw any light on the various printings that may have been made. One set is ample for a general collector.

THE GARFIELD STAMPS OF THE U. S.

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.

(Reprints of this article will be made uniform with the series advertised from time to time. These reprints fit into the blank album wherever needed and are supplied at 5c each. We furnish a neat binder for 30c which covers actual cost only.—Ed.)

James Abram Garfield was born in Ohio in 1831. In the Civil War he was promoted to the rank of major-general for bravery at Chickamauga (1863), and in the following year he took his seat in Congress. In 1880 he was nominated Republican candidate for the presidency, to which he was elected in November. He was, alas! fated to hold the office only a few months, for on July 2nd, 1881, he was shot by a madman named Guiteau, and after a lingering illness he died on September 19th.

In 1882 it was decided to honor the memory of the murdered President by placing his portrait on the 5c stamp in place of that of General Taylor. At first it was intended to print the stamp in black, as the most suitable color for the expression of the nation's mourning, but the color finally adopted was a dark brown.

The official description of the design was as follows:—

"On a rectangular-lined tablet, the greater portion of which is raised in the shape of a shield, is an elliptical medallion bearing the portrait of President Garfield. The medallion is bordered by a line of small white beads, the legend 'U. S. POSTAGE' being at the bottom of the stamps in small black block letters. The words 'FIVE' and 'CENTS' are above the legend and partly on the lower edge of the tablet, divided by a large five-pointed star, upon which is the white-faced figure '5' upon a black ground. The star is outlined with white, and the denomination words are each on lines curved downward at the ends."

Mr. John N. Luff tells us in his monumental work that "it was intended to issue this stamp on March 1st, 1882. The first delivery to the Post Office Department was made on February 7, 1882. A few of the stamps were obtained by favor and used on the 14th of that month. They were also reported in the European philatelic journals in March of that year, but according to the report of the Postmaster General and the daily newspapers, they were not put on sale until April 10, 1882."

This stamp, like the other denominations then in use, was engraved and printed by the American Bank Note Company, of New York, which firm then held the printing contract for all U. S. postage stamps. The plates consisted of 200 impressions but the sheets were divided into panes of 100 before being issued to the post offices.

Above the top border of the stamp, about 3½ mm. from the right-hand side, a small colored dot appears and about 5 mm. from the left end a smaller and less apparent dot also shows. These dots are evidently the remains of guide marks marked by the engraver to facilitate the correct balance of the various details and they should, of course, have been removed before the die was brought into use.

Numerous shades may be found ranging from a pale grayish brown to a black-brown. Mr. Luff says that the following plates were used in printing these Garfield stamps:—399, 400, 488, 489, K537, K538, K539, K540 and K541. For a long time two distinct varieties of this stamp were listed, viz:—(a) with crossed lines in the background, and (b) with horizontal lines only. It was well known that there was only one die but it was presumed the variations were due to different transfer-roll impressions. It is now understood, however, that all the plates were alike and all had the crossed lines but owing to defective printing the diagonal lines sometimes fail to show. Though perhaps not of very great philatelic interest the varieties can certainly not be altogether ignored by specialists.

Cardboard proofs of this stamp are by no means uncommon but die proofs are scarce. In 1888 a small special printing was made. The paper used for these special prints was the soft porous variety used for the ordinary stamps, but they may be recognized by the clearness of the impression, the light brownish, gray color, and the fact that they have no gum.

An official circular, dated August 15, 1887, announced among other items that the color of this 5c stamp would be changed from brown to blue and in March, 1888, the stamp was placed on sale in its new color. All the "K" plates mentioned above were used in producing supplies of the blue stamps and it is possible some of the others were also used so the specialist will do well to keep a good look out for specimens with marginal plate numbers. The superfluous dots referred to in the case of the brown 5c are, of course, also found in this new issue. This variety may be found entirely imperforate and in addition specimens on pinkish paper have been noted. Regarding this variety Mr. Luff quotes from a correspondent as follows:—"The five cents blue Garfield, on pink paper, is one of a lot of ten or fifteen, purchased at the Portland, Me., post office in 1889, by one of the local collectors. The paper appears to be too evenly colored, to be the result of an accident. Among the lot was a pair with the top margin. The color showed evenly on the margin, as on the stamps."

The color varies from a deep blue to a true indigo.

When specifications for a new stamp contract were published in 1889 sample stamps were attached to these as a guide to the bidders. The specialist, therefore, has two extra varieties to collect in this 5c Garfield, i. e., one in chocolate overprinted "SAMPLE" in red, and another in yellow-brown overprinted "SAMPLE A" in bright blue. The two variations in the lines of the background may be found in the blue stamps.

In 1890 the new series appeared and the portrait of Garfield was transferred from the 5c to the 6c denomination. This stamp, like the one previously described, provides a small peculiarity. The line of shading immediately under the top frame line is extended right across to the right-hand border. On the other values of the same series this line stops abruptly on reaching the uncolored vertical column. Only one plate, numbered "23," was used by the American Bank Note Co., in the production of these stamps. This consisted of 200 impressions though the printed sheets were sub-divided into "post office" sheets of 100 before distribution. In making the plate a dot was added 3½ mm. to the right of the impression on the transfer roll. This dot was impressed on the plate at the same time as the impression and thus served as a guide for the correct placing of the next impression. It can occasionally be traced on the stamps and when visible will be found in the ornamentation in the center of the left border.

The official description of the color was "light maroon" but it comes in a variety of shades which may be more correctly termed Claret, brown-red, brown-lake, etc. I have seen exceeding blurred specimens of this stamp—evidently printed from an imperfectly cleaned plate.

In 1894 the printing contract was awarded to the Government Bureau of Engraving and Printing and the new plates used were made from the same die as was originally employed for the 1890 issue with ornamental triangles added to the upper corners. That the same die was used is proved by the presence of the small line at top extending across the uncolored column as before. This 6c Garfield stamp was first placed on sale on July 18, 1894. Only one plate was used, this bearing the marginal number "28." This, as was the case in the 1890 series, was a plate of 200 impressions. The system of marking guide dots on the transfer rolls was employed by the Government Bureau in the same manner as before and in the case of the value we are considering the dot was 2¼ mm. distant from the transfer with the result that it cannot be distinguished on the stamps as it is covered by the lines of shading on the left. Mr. Luff mentions this stamp imperforate horizontally. As with the preceding issue, shades are fairly abundant.

Watermarked paper was introduced in 1895 and the first supplies of the 6c on this paper were placed on sale on August 31st, of that year. The following plates were used: 28, 184, 248, 373, 386 and 451 and all contained 200 impressions. The guide dots on the several transfer rolls employed were apparently uniformly spaced with the consequence that the dots never show on the stamps.

Three styles of numerals and two varieties of imprint were used for this issue. On plate 28 the imprint is in white letters on a plain rectangle with a thin frame line while the numerals are shaded and 3¼ mm. high. On plates 184 and 248 the imprint shows the frame more strongly cut and at each end of the rectangle a rosette and arrow-head ornament is added. The numerals on these plates are more ornate than those on plate 28 and they are only 2¾ mm. high though much broader. On plates 373, 386 and 451 the same style of imprint appears, though the numerals are in thin fancy figures also 2¾ mm. high.

This variety is known imperforate.

This value like the 8c of the same series, is known on the revenue paper watermarked "U. S. I. R.," the variety being an extremely rare one.

On December 31, 1898 this 6c stamp was placed on sale in a new color—purple-lake in place of the lake-brown previously used. Naturally variations are to be found but there should never be any difficulty in distinguishing between the emissions of 1894 and 1898. The plates used were 451, 922, 923, 924 and 925, all containing 200 impressions as before.

In 1902 the designs of all values were changed but Garfield's portrait still adorns the 6c stamp. It will be noted, however, that the portrait now looks to right instead of to left as in all the previous issues. Lake was again the color chosen and as in the preceding emissions it varies considerably in shade. This was the last of the Garfield stamps, for with the advent of the current series all the notabilities with the exception of Franklin were dropped in favor of a general design with portrait of Washington.—Everybody's Philatelist.

F. W. Reid has made the discovery of a copy of the 90c Interior which proves to be on soft paper. It is in used condition but is a great rarity. The stamp has been examined by Mr. Charles Lathrop Pack and his judgment is confirmed by leading New York philatelists to whom the stamp has been shown.

"STAMPS HARD TO GET."

Catalog Value $2.00 and Under.

A correspondent suggests that an article dealing with hard-to-get stamps would be appreciated by our readers. We invite contributions to a symposium, suggesting that it be confined to stamps that catalog $2.00 and under. We shall hope to have a sufficient number of entries to make a worthy contribution to our columns.

(Contributed by A. N. Caudell.)

When you write your paper on stamps hard to get you had better include Scott's U. S. No. 157b, that catalogues at a dollar, or did recently, but my dealer held me up for two fifty for one.

Worthy of mention in your hard to get article would perhaps be the 1902 one cent imperforate in large blocks. Last summer I tried various places in Philadelphia, N. Y. and Boston and the biggest block I found was one of 16 obtained from a Boston firm. Two entire sheets recently turned up here in Washington but few I think occur.

(By Forest A. Black.)

A few stamps I have found hard to get are 3c U. S. No. 136 with grille; Belgium Dues do not seem to come fast, or Belgium parcels post stamp No. 217, 15c gray and black; Chile No. 32, 30c rose carmine seems to get my goat.

I had quite a time securing Germany No. 57, 25pf yellow and black, and do not see many copies now. Also I might mention Canada No. 46, 20c vermilion.

Foreign Special Deliveries do not show up very often.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—We have received a communication from Forrest A. Black of Leominster, Mass., calling our attention to the fact that a certain firm is sending out approval selections with stamps marked much higher than catalogued prices in order to quote large discounts. Mr. Black does not name the firm and we are led to believe that some other medium than MEKEEL'S WEEKLY is being used to procure patronage. We cannot use too severe terms in condemning a practise which is very reprehensible. No better means can be devised for killing the interest of the boy in stamp collecting.

—Linn's third auction sale to be held in the rooms of the Columbus Collectors' Club April 9, will have a fine array of philatelic literature. No less than 171 lots are listed comprising complete volumes and files of many publications, bound and unbound. Many handbooks add to this variety of stamp literature. The well printed catalog is deserving of careful inspection.

—The John M. Stuart Co. sends us a communication in which they affirm that the Paris, Ky. precancels are in every way O. K.

—The Robert Haynes Stamp Co., Toledo, O., would like to know the address of Hugo Meyer. A letter sent to 603 W. 179 St., N. Y. City, is returned "Unclaimed."

EDITORIAL.

Changelings—The translation from the Swedish by Mr. Kjellstedt of an article on the reactions of acids on the colors of stamps is a contribution of value in itself and as indicating the possibilities of a subject that in all its ramifications is vast and to some degree formidable. The necessity for caution in considering color "errors" long has been felt by some students who are aware of the innumerable means for effecting changes in stamp colors. While these investigators have been aware of the importance of keeping pace with the industry of the stamp "colorists", whose motives are not always above suspicion, yet they seem to have been reluctant to essay any exhaustive and systematic tabulation of results. Perhaps the reason that the work has not been attempted on a scale adjusted to its importance and, relatively speaking, has been neglected may be charged to the almost limitless range of the subject. The analytical chemist well knows what a task it is to catalogue the reactions, many of which may be obscure and involved, to account for stamp color changes.

Much to the Subject—In 1884, G. Kauffmann had a series of articles in a German stamp paper, on changelings. Mr. Kauffmann was criticized as having adhered too closely to an encyclopedia. Later, Ferdinand Mayer, a writer who combined a chemical understanding with a philatelic appreciation, is charged with having recorded "isolated cases" only, by Dr. F. Kalckhoff, who, in 1888, contributed to Der Philatelist. a study on Chemical Counterfeits, with a table of many changes. Dr. Kalckhoff did not name, with few exceptions, the reagents by which the changes were made, but instead grouped the results only. There are organic and inorganic colors and likewise acids; and their names are legion. The animal and vegetable colors, including aniline, whose base gives many of the coal-tar dyes, are organic; while mineral colors are inorganic. The mineral colors are the more permanent and two divisions of colors are to be made in this relation; and the acids may be assigned to the two groups.

Fun to Experiment—As to the chemical reagents that are available, each one may be of many different degrees of saturation and the experiments should be made with the varying potencies. As results that showed traces of chemical treatment on the color or paper of the stamps would be rejected as carrying their own condemnation, they need not be considered as objects of philatelic interest or alarm. When fraudulent transformation of color enters into the stamp color question, the work must be done so expertly as to deceive the inexperienced at least. The paper of the stamp must not be "killed" by the fumes or solution nor must there be any crystallization whatever on the stamp. There are many fancy color creations that are made to meet a passing whim of the philatelist who has access to a chemical laboratory; and occasionally there are epidemics of this sort of amusement. The budding chemist finds that it is a fascinating operation to change the colors in the test-tubes and the philatelist applies the experimentation to stamps. The chemist of long standing who sets about seriously to conjure with colors could achieve results that could confuse and confound the casual collector.

Accidental Changes—There are passive methods by which to change colors. Bright sunlight will play tricks with some of the colors—a six cent Columbian exposed to the sun is reduced to blue; some of the reds to oranges, and so on. An atmosphere heavily charged with sulphur fumes will darken the vermilions, etc., and a chemical carried in the very cover on which a stamp pays postage may be strong enough to alter its color. Sea-water with its sodium chloride has caused greens to resolve themselves into blues; and in different mysterious ways, the original colors are attacked and succumb to the force of chemical circumstances. We do not suppose that the gravity of the question of color changes is as great as may be supposed. If much money is paid for a color variety or error it must be allowed that the purchaser knows from whom he is buying; and to-day, the philatelist has confidence in the dealer who will grant him, he believes, all reasonable protection at the time of the sale and after it, as well.

"Let the Buyer Beware"—There is an important regulation in business conduct that is embraced in the doctrine of caveat emptor—Let the buyer beware. In legal cases this warning implication is given due—and undue at times, it seems—weight. Many a defrauded victim has been dazed to find that the rule of caveat emptor has been successfully invoked by those from whom he is seeking redress. However, it is something of a shock to hear that the law in question has been used in a stamp case decision and an English judge has ruled that certain early Tasmanian and Victorian stamps which proved to be forgeries were bought at the buyer's risk, according to the warning of caveat emptor. It is needless to say that the seller was not a person, who in a public way was prominently connected with the commercial side of philately. In this country, advertising dealers, almost without exception, may be relied upon to recoup the person to whom unwittingly they may have sold a counterfeit or "misbranded" stamp; and they would not seek the convenient protection of a plausible plea of caveat emptor.

Coming Attraction—The death of the Grand Duke of Luxemburg, at the age of sixty years, which has been reported in the newspapers has revealed an interesting philatelic prospect. As no male representative was left by the Grand Duke, the rights of succession are vested in Mary Adelaide, the eldest daughter, eighteen years of age. Some years ago, her right as the successor of her father was confirmed. The portrait of the decedent appears on the stamps of the current set from ten centimes upwards and the expectation follows that the likeness of the Grand Duchess will have its place on the stamps, in due time. When the features of Queen Wilhelmina were shown on the Netherlands stamps for the first time, the philatelic poets worked themselves into a fine frenzy and sang gladsomely, even if somewhat tumultuously. It will be worth while to notice what effect the portrait of a young "queen" on the Luxemburg stamps will have on philately's singularly emotional and impressionable band of lyrists.

Something to See—Mr. H. S. Ashenhurst, Colorado Springs, Colorado, has shown us a variety of the two-cent red-brown, 1883, United States. On one stamp, there is no shading to be discerned beneath the triangular line of the panel above "two cents," while the second stamp has a solid bank of color extending about one millimeter. The varieties are equally common, we are informed, and if the one has not been listed heretofore, the minor variety enthusiasts have a variation that looms large to engage their attention.

NOTES ON NEW ISSUES.

Chinese Republic.—We have received information that all the Chinese Imperial stamps were recently withdrawn and re-issued after being overprinted with four Chinese characters signifying "Provisional Neutrality," and that new stamps would be issued when the Republic is proclaimed. As the latter event has already taken place, it is probable that a second surcharged set bearing the word "Republic" will be issued before the permanent stamp can be got ready.

Dominica.—The Postmaster informs us that the 5sh stamp has not been issued in new colours, as has been incorrectly reported in many philatelic journals.

Falkland Islands.—The stocks of 2d., 2½d and 6d stamps of the current issue are exhausted. Fresh supplies are on order from the Crown Agents, but it is possible they may be of the new Georgian type.

Gilbert and Ellice Islands.—We are officially informed that the ½d stamps of the Pandanus tree type are exhausted, and that they will be replaced by a new ½d stamp bearing the portrait of King George V, probably in May or June; we are also informed that the 5d, 6d and 1sh stamps of the King George type will be issued early this year. The 1d, 2d and 2½d King George stamps will not be issued until the same values of the Pandanus tree type are exhausted.

Servia.—The journal stamps issued a few weeks ago have been withdrawn from circulation. The number issued was very small and we have been unable to obtain any except a small number of the lower values. It is said that almost the entire issue was bought up by local speculators.

St. Helena.—A supply of penny stamps of the large pictorial design, printed all red, was sent out some time ago, but are being held back at the St. Helena Post Office. A remittance we sent out for a quantity of these new stamps has been returned to us with the information that they are not to be sold to the public. It is not stated what is to be done with them.

Tibet.—Our correspondent in this country informs us that all the Chinese Post Offices in Tibet have been closed, and that no more stamps are obtainable. They have always been difficult to procure and will no doubt be very rare. Even if the offices should be re-opened the stamps then issued would without doubt be the new Republican ones (see Chinese Republic).—Whitfield King's List.

The Wonderland of Stamps

By W. Dwight Burroughs

FULLY ILLUSTRATED, CLOTH 12MO.

Post Free $1.50

It has often been said that postage-stamp collecting is one of the most educational of pastimes, because of the immense amount of information about history, geography, etc., connected with it. Yet few people understand how many and how varied are the interesting things told on the pictures of stamps.

In this book a good-natured uncle with a large stamp collection tells his nephews and nieces about the veritable wonderland it discloses. He describes the birds and animals from the antelope of Rhodesia to the zebra of Madagascar, the old Greek games, bits of United States and foreign history, curious islands, small records of big wars, a miniature edition of Don Quixote, the ancient myths, thumb-nail maps, Christmas stories, ships and locomotives of all descriptions—all pictured on postage stamps of various countries.

The book is fully illustrated with reproductions of the stamps described.

UNCLE SAM IN A FACETIOUS MOOD.

By M. PELLEN.

When Uncle Sam woke up to the fact that Germany was doing a lively business with one-cent postal cards, he concluded to get into line, and forthwith sent out for bids on postal cards. That was in 1870-1872, and postal cards have been made by private contractors until a few months ago, when the old Government Printing Office building was fitted out as a postal card factory, and those who get a pass to go through that sanctum, and those who are content to peep through the old barred windows, can see immense rolls of blue-tinted card-board of a rather flimsy variety being churned into Uncle Sam's home-made postals bedecked with McKinley's head.

But Uncle Sam, postmaster, was after further improvements in 1870. He wanted new postage stamps, and if you have the slightest doubt that he was very particular about those stamps, haul out of the dust a certain report of that time—but no! You are on your vacation, or ought to be. Quiet your doubts by the following extracts taken from the correspondence regarding samples between J. MacDonough, Secretary of the National Bank Note Company of New York, and General W. H. H. Terrell, Second Assistant Postmaster-General, beginning October 2, 1869, and ending April 6, 1870:

"There is a very dirty bust of Lincoln in possession of an importer of claret, who declines to loan or sell it. I am, however, preparing myself for an attack on his premises and hope to capture it."

"The Jefferson . . . . is the only bust in this city. It is owned by Andrew J. Garvey, a Tammany 'very big Injun,' who has refused $200 for the privilege of a copy in plaster."

"One remark in your letter troubles me. I trust it is not your intention to retire from the Department. . . . . When we get gum that will stick and stamps that please, your office will be a comparative paradise."

To which Terrell responded that the Jefferson profile for the 10-cent stamp was condemned because "the hair on the forehead has a backwoods appearance, and the expression is un-Jeffersonian."

The next day Terrell writes that he had found in the Capitol a "glorious Jefferson" and a "splendid Hamilton," and expected to find a better Jackson. He hoped they would find Clay and Webster at Wells' "bumpological" establishment in New York. He complained: "Your Jackson is too young and not likely to be recognized. 'Old Hickory' is what we want."

MacDonough sent the only Jackson he could find, "which is identified only by superabundance of coat collar." After a few weeks of search: "The inclosed photographs, taken from Powers' bust of Andrew Jackson in the public square, Memphis, Tenn.—they face the wrong way—" provoked the following reply: "Several decidedly bad photographs of Jackson, and bill for the same have been received." "The 'Coffee' bust is the same coat-collar affair we have already engraved."

"You will notice that I have strengthened the features, reduced the size of the lower lip, and removed the drapery; the latter operation was a delicate matter, as the Lord only (who created the anatomy) knew what was likely to turn up beneath it."

Uncle Sam approved of the liberties thus taken in making over Old Hickory, and requested the firm to "trim off a portion of the hero's back hair," also "to tone down his chin a little." Nor was Lincoln to remain unmolested. "Cannot the cheek below the cheek bone," wrote Mr. Tyrrell, "be brought out a little, so that the expression will be somewhat less cadaverous and less like that of the Knight of the sorrowful Figure, Don Quixote I think the hair on top might be shortened slightly and tumbled a little, as, according to my recollection, Old Abe never, or at least very seldom, wore his hair smooth.

The postmasters assembled approved the "efforts to provide a new and more tasty series of stamps, and recommend the use of a better article of gum." Clay had evidently been renovated, for on March 21, 1870, Terrell remarks, "The Clay (12 cents) looks much better. It will do. The Lincoln (6 cents) is yet to come, with his hair properly parted."

On March 24: "The Lincoln hair, as to the parting, will do. Please look after the back hair—is it not too clumsy, or too much after the style of Webster's whisker, which you worked over and very much improved? Another point to be corrected is the shade under the jaw of Lincoln. . . . It reminds me of the makeup of some who undertake theatrical business—the foundation of their wigs don't harmonize with their complexions."

With April 6 came other troubles: "The color selected for the 24-cent stamp, new series, was a pure purple. The gummed and perforated specimen received to-day from the stamp agent . . . . looks like poke-berry juice after a hard rain."

And so it came to pass that the National Bank Note Company, having finally satisfied Uncle Sam's exquisite taste in the matter of gums, haberdashery, anatomy, color and general effect, was awarded the contract for making the new series of stamps, that is, new in 1870, and Uncle Sam patted himself on the back, and it was a quarter century before the Bureau of Printing and Engraving, one of his own plants, slyly underbid the other contractors, and began making his stamps right under his own nose.

The series which evolved from the above correspondence was as follows: 1c, Franklin after Rubricht; 2c, Jackson after Powers; 3c, Washington after Houdon; 6c, Lincoln after Volk; 7c, Stanton; 10c Jefferson after Powers' statue; 12c, Clay after Hart; 15c, Webster after Clevenger; 24c, Scott after Coffee; 30c, Hamilton after Ceraachi; 90c Commodore O. H. Perry, profile bust after Wolcott's statue at Cleveland, Ohio.—America.

The Secret of Our Packets.—How We Can Give You Guaranteed FIRST QUALITY VARIETY STAMP PACKETS AT ½ SAVING.

Best of all, these perfect packets cost no more, and in many instances less, than the cheap and trashy "imported" packets. Possibly you have envied some collector who has bought a FIRST QUALITY PACKET and have wished that you might have one of them too. But, perhaps you have imagined that such packets were too expensive for your pocket book. True, packets of the best quality are expensive when made by regular stamp dealers who has a comparatively small trade in this line, who buys his stamps in small lots and must make a big profit on every transaction. Right in New York City, for instance, there are dealers who ask twice our prices for packets of as good quality as ours, but they haven't near the value in them.

There are a number of reasons why we can make you a better packet for less money than others. In the first place, our purchases of stamps are so enormous that we get them at the very lowest cost. Our sorting and assembling rooms are so systemically organized and perfectly operated that expenses are reduced to the lowest point.

These things, and many others, all contribute to the reduction of expenses to a point where we can—and do—profitably make you a packet at a price that would be ruinous to any stamp dealer. QUALITY AND VALUE CONSIDERED.

By taking advantage of the opportunities that our packet service offers, you can get the best packets that money can buy and they will cost you no more than the ordinary, indifferently made kind of packets. The following packet offered is sure to please you.

You have promised yourself to try one of our packets sometime—why not make that sometime NOW?

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Any information regarding new issues will be gratefully received and acknowledged. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, 17 Addison St., Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed, stamped envelope. We cannot give applicants the addresses of our correspondents. Correspondence regarding precancelled stamps must be sent to FRANK B. ELDREDGE, Attleboro, Mass., when due credit will be given in this department.

UNITED STATES.—F. F. Hooker sends us specimens of the current 2c envelope, white, official size, with the stamp printed from a badly worn die. All the lines and inscriptions show much more white than normal, many of the letters like the "A" and "E" running into a white blotch, while the left "2" touches the outer colorless frame lo line at the lower corner. While interesting as showing the tremendous wear that comes from printing, it would hardly be called a legitimate variety worthy of a place in the catalogue.

F. W. Murray and F. B. Eldredge report the following new precancels:

Sedalia, Mo., 3c 1911, normal; type I.
West Grove, Pa., 4c 1911, normal; type II.
Providence, R. I., 2c 1911, normal; type IV.
Minneapolis, Minn., 5c 1911, normal; type VII.
Akron, Ohio, 2c 1911, normal; type V.
Ashland, Ohio, 1c 1911, inverted; type V.

Charles E. Fisher shows us some interesting Albinos, including the current 2c on white, old watermark, both used and unused, the former being mailed at Taunton, Mass., and also a 1c wrapper of the current type, but with the 1907 watermark.

William H. Emery has shown us a horizontal pair of 2c Columbians, with the perforations between imperfect. Several of the holes are missing and there is no mark of the needles in the vacant places.

ABYSSINIA.—Champion's Bulletin has an interesting article on the topic of the stamps of Abyssinia recently issued, surcharged, "Aff. Excep.—Faute Timb," and new value in hand writing. The article is based on the statements of a correspondent who lived in the country for more than ten years and who was in a position to ascertain the exact facts. The first of last October, the post office at Dire-Doua, the most important commercial centre, and the terminal point of first section of the railroad, which runs to Addis-Abeba was completely out of stamps of the emissions authorized by the Postal Union, that is to say, of the emission of 1908 with surcharges in piastres, and the large stamps of 1909, with values in guerches. The Courier from Addis-Abeba, who supplied the stamps to the offices of the interior, was not expected for several days, and on the other hand, it was necessary to forward the letters to Djibouti without delay. The Postmaster at Dire-Doua found remainders of sheets of the issue of 1894 (engraved by Mouchon, without surcharge, available only for the interior of Abyssinia) and in order to give currency to them in the Postal Union it was forthwith provided that a stamp bearing the legend quoted above should be placed on all the remaining stamps, about one hundred of each of the lower values and forty to fifty of each of the three higher values. The stamp surcharge was completed by addition of the respective values written in guerches. Most of the smaller values and a certain number of the others were dispersed upon the correspondence destined for Djibouti and foreign countries, both ordinary and registered letters; some of them arrived in Paris. October 5, the courier from Addis-Abeba brought to Dire-Doua a supply of the Imperial postage stamps. The provisional stamp was immediately destroyed.

BULGARIA.—Mr. Schachne sends us the current cards noted below, with a round design in red, at right end of card and covering a corner of the stamp. This has a monogram of two letters on the upper part and "1912-20-1" below. The reverse has a full page, full length picture of a young man in military garb.

Our guess in this case is that it may be the Crown Prince and that he came of age Jan. 20, '12.

Post Cards.

5sto green on yellowish green.
10sto lilac-red on light blue.

PORTUGAL.—Mr. Schachne shows us one of the permanent set for the Republic and we find the stamp is as described in No. 1101. The upper half of the card has only the single headline "Bilhete Postal" in fancy type, and the stamp, the lower half being like the 10 reis of 1910 except that "D'este" is now printed as one word without the apostrophe.

TWO GREAT SPECIALITIES:—Rare Stamps in Fine Condition, and My Exceedingly Popular 10% New Issue Service.

ADVICE FROM A VETERAN.

J. W. Scott in Metropolitan Philatelist.

To make a stamp collection two things are necessary, first to get your stamps and next to keep them so that they may be an ever present joy to yourself and an occasional pleasure to your friends. A collection of stamps however valuable if kept in a slovenly way can never be attractive to any one, in fact the more valuable the stamps the greater will be the disgust of all real philatelists. One of the greatest attractions of an album is the manner of its arrangement. A hundred dollar collection often appears more valuable than one that costs ten times the amount. Stamps should be in good condition but that does not mean that every stamp has been measured by a micrometer to insure equal margins on all sides, a stamp with a slight "skin" on the back will never impair the beauty or even value of your collection. If a valuable stamp it would not sell as high as one that is absolutely perfect, but we are not estimating money values but giving good advice to people making beautiful collections at small cost. Speculators, and there are many such, enjoy buying up certain issues or stamps to make money. Sometimes they guess correctly and double their investments in a very short time, but they also make mistakes and lose instead of making, while the genuine collector who buys everything up to a certain price is always certain to get the rarities along with the others and makes a good average profit on the entire collection when he desires to sell. The great essential is to start right, if you intend to make a general collection, fill up one country before you tackle another. If you are a fine draughtsman use a blank moveable sheet album. If you have not the time or inclination for this sort of work the printed interchangeable leaf book is the best; this can be bought page by page as required, entire countries, continents or colonies complete or sheets for new issues. When only new issues are collected a small blank book will always be attractive and if printed names are wanted they can be bought in sheets ready to gum on the page. There can be no doubt about the advantages of stamp collecting. The first stamp saw the first collector and his number has been ever on the increase. The demand is such that some small colonies pay their entire government expenses out of the sale of postage stamps and the revenue from this source is not to be despised by the largest and most powerful nations. Philatelists form a special unpaid secret service for the benefit of the various postal departments. No counterfeit of a current postage stamp could last a week without being detected and the government warned. Our own Post Office Department fully acknowledges the valuable help given by collectors and the same is probably true throughout the world. Stamp collecting is the most instructive, interesting and profitable pastime of our time. A stamp collection can be realized on at a fair value to better advantage and in quicker time than any other form of personal property. Real estate cannot for a moment be considered as a rival.

INFORMATION WANTED.

A correspondent propounds a few queries and deviating from our usual custom we have decided to submit them to our readers. Archibald Campbell, who calls himself "a boy philatelist of seventy" would like to know:—

(1) What is the value of the 1c indigo 1861 U. S., Scott's No. 55? Ditto Nos. 57 and 62.

(2) Great Britain No. 1 is catalogued at $75.00 unused and unpriced used. Was it ever postally used and if so, what is the value of a used copy?

(3) Why should the 5c New Brunswick 1860 differ so disproportionately with the rest of the issue as regards unused and used copies?

(4) What are the circumstances that cause Baden No. 25 to be priced at $5.00 when unused copies are priced at 20c?

(5) What is the scarcest of all U. S. stamps?

(6) What governments have stamp collections of their own?

For the best set of answers to the above questions received before April 15 we will give Burroughs' "Wonderland of Stamps." The editor of the Weekly, Mr. Severn, will pass upon the entries and we shall hold the right to publish such portions of the entries submitted as we may desire.

A REPUBLIC ONE MILE LONG.

The smallest republic in the world, without contradiction, observes a Paris contemporary, is that of Tavolara, a little island situated about seven and one-half miles from Sardinia. It is little more than a mile in length and has a population of fifty-five.

The sovereignty of the island was accorded in 1836 by King Charles Albert of Sardinia, father of Victor Emanuel I, first King of united Italy, to the Bartoleoni family. Up to 1882 Paul I reigned peaceably over his little island kingdom, but at his death the islanders proclaimed a republic. By the Constitution of the republic the President is elected for ten years and women exercise the franchise.—Christian Herald.

TO GUARD AGAINST SUBSTITUTION.

By W. H. Lieber.

I take the liberty of submitting herewith, a method of protecting dealers in the higher valued stamps, sent to parties on approval, against substitution of the copies submitted for sale, of inferior copies of the same stamp. I do not know whether you would deem it advisable, or of sufficient merit, to publish this information, but will leave this for you to decide.

After carefully hinging the stamps to the sheet the stamps and sheet should be placed face down upon a hard surface. By rubbing lightly over the back of the sheet while in this position, with a pencil the exact outline of the stamps pasted to the other side, will appear. A second sheet should then be pasted over the back of the first in order to prevent blurring of the outlines. By holding the entire sheet to the light a substitution of the original stamps can be easily detected.

CAUGHT.

"Good morning," said the young woman as she stepped to the window at the postoffice. "Is there a letter for me today?"

"I'll look," answered the clerk.

The young woman blushed a little and she added: "It's a business letter."

The man inside the window took up a handful of letters and looked them over hastily. Then he informed the lady that there was nothing for her; and with great disappointment depicted on her lovely features she went away from there. In five minutes she was back again—this time blushing more furiously than before.

"I—I deceived you," she stammered. "It—it wasn't a business letter I was expecting. Will you please see if there is something for me among the valentines?"

There was a young man from Mauch Chunk
Whose knowledge of stamps though such punk,
  Thought himself quite a shark,
  Tho in truth, quite a mark
On whom was unloaded Much Junk.

WITH THE BOY PHILATELIST.

Edited by BERTRAM W. H. POOLE, Box 231, Altadena, Calif.

We propose to insert upon this page matter that will be of interest to the boy collector. Some two thousand boys are now on our mailing list and it is our desire to come closely in contact with them in such a manner as will be most helpful. Any information desired will be cheerfully rendered through these columns. Do not submit stamps for examination.

GUATEMALA AGAIN.

A few weeks ago I referred to the difficulty beginners have in distinguishing between the lithographed and engraved stamps of the 1886-87 issues of Guatemala and I am glad to say that paragraph has drawn several helpful letters from several of the senior readers of the WEEKLY. Mr. E. W. Bridge writes as follows:—"I was all at sea at one time on the same lot of stamps and had some trouble in distinguishing the lithographed and engraved. At last I remembered that when I was a youngster in school I used to make impressions of money with a thin piece of tinfoil so I tried that with the stamps and had good success. Later I read in the WEEKLY that someone else recommended the same. I took the stamps and put a piece of the foil on top, then pressed my finger hard on top of both, and the result showed raised letters and figures on some and others perfectly smooth." Mr. Max Siebert writes to the same effect and kindly sent sample impressions. This seems the most practical way for the novice to differentiate between the two issues. Thin tin-foil, such as is wrapped round chocolate, cigarettes, etc. is easily procured and if pressed on the stamps as explained above the result is quite satisfactory. Where the pressure shows the raised letters and figures etc. the stamps are engraved and if the tin-foil remains smooth then the stamps are certainly lithographs.

Other correspondents point out differences in the smoke from the engine in the upper left corner of the design but these differences are small and unless one has several stamps for comparison (which the beginner usually hasn't) the test is of little practical value.

HOW TO SPECIALISE.

Of late I have received several communications asking if it is not better to specialise in the stamps of one or a few countries rather than attempt a general collection of the stamps of the whole world. In one such letter received from a youthful correspondent last week, I am also invited to explain how to specialise, which is rather a tall order. Perhaps the easiest way of answering this difficult query will be to quote from an Editorial I wrote for the West-End Philatelist some five years ago:—

"The specialist, like the poet, is born and not made. Almost from his very first acquaintance with philately, he takes that interest in minor details that ultimately results in his joining the ranks of the specialists, instead of keeping with the larger army of general collectors. There are specialists and specialists. Specialism does not consist of simply amassing a large collection—accumulation would often be a more correct term—of the stamps of some particular country, or, on the other hand, of having the issues of some countries complete, so far as the main and generally known minor varieties are concerned.

"The true specialist is the historian of philately. To his researches we are indebted for the admirable catalogues that serve to guide and instruct less enlightened collectors. He does not merely collect, he studies. And to this capacity for study he must add the logical reasoning powers of a lawyer, and the deductive ability of a trained detective. Nothing is, seemingly, too trivial to escape his notice. He studies the most minor varieties of design, shade, perforation, paper, and watermark, for all may be of distinct importance in identifying separate printings, or in throwing light on some important point in the philatelic history of a stamp. He endeavors to trace the history of each specimen from the moment the first rough drawing was made until the finished stamp was issued to a more or less admiring public. His is the task of ferreting out the names of the printers; finding out by what process the stamps were manufactured; discovering how many printings were made, and whether these differ in any manner, and if so, what are the distinguishing details, and so on. In fact, by his researches, his collection resolves itself into a carefully planned and scientific historical study of the postal issues of a country.

"Above all, the specialist must be original. He must not be content to follow beaten tracks, but must strike out a line of his own, and find things out for himself. The role of the specialist appeals only to a limited number of collectors, and, if one is born with the instincts of a specialist it is obviously best to confine one's collecting energies to the stamps of a few countries only.

"The general collector does not limit his efforts to a few issues, or the issues, of a few countries. He has the whole world before him and, according minor varieties a secondary place, he is eminently a student of designs. And what a fertile field he has to explore! There are portraits of notabilities; historical events are recorded; zoological, botanical, and geographical features are portrayed; inventions and mechanical appliances are illustrated; and quaint devices to which curious legends are attached, are shown. Thus, his album is a never-failing source of interest and amusement."

SHORT REPLIES.

A. A.—Your Guatemalan stamp is evidently a provisional fiscal one.

L. W. M.—The marks you describe are simply postmarks to indicate the amount of postage paid or to be collected and their value is small.

G. J. L.—The portrait on the 3 skilling stamp of the 1856 issue of Norway is that of King Oscar I of Sweden & Norway, who died in 1859.

B. N.—The designs of the 1897 stamps of Peru are 1c the suspension bridge at Paucartambo; 2c, the General Post Office at Lima; 5c, Portrait of President D. Nicholas de Pierola. These three stamps were issued on the last day of December, 1897 to commemorate the opening of the New Postal Buildings in Lima. I cannot say how long they were in use.

TWO TRENTON PHILATELISTS.

Thanks to the Wickecheoke Philatelist, Theodore G. Kitchin editor, we are privileged to present our readers with some salient facts in the philatelic careers of two well known Jersey collectors. Messrs. Clark and Kitchin were both active in making the recent Trenton exhibition a success, special credit being given Mr. Clark for the manner in which he handled his end of the work:—

ALVAH G. CLARK.

THEODORE G. KITCHIN.

As appears in the family record "Alvah George Clark, born Wednesday, April 11th, 1883, at ½ past 2 o'clock on a dark, cold, drizzly morn." The only information that could be added to this is, that he was born in Trenton, N. J.

Mr. Clark attended the public schools, and while in school, at the age of 12, was invited to visit and inspect the stamp collection belonging to a school chum. This was enough. He "got the habit" right there and then.

At the age of 15 years Mr. Clark left school of his own free will, and immediately went to work, taking as his own choice the profession of a druggist. As this occupation took most of his time he disposed of his stamp collection, he says: "For something like seven dollars, whether it was worth it or not."

The saying "Once a stamp collector, always a stamp collector" is almost true in his case, for, a short time afterward, Uncle Sam's decorative Spanish-American War revenue stamps, on patent medicines brought him back into the ranks of active collectors and he has been collecting ever since, specializing in the stamps of the United States and Colonies.

Mr. Clark continued in the pill rolling business for six years, and leaving, was a representative of Murray, Griffith & Messler, wholesale dry goods merchants, covering a large territory in Pennsylvania for them. He left this position to become assistant sergeant-at-arms of the New Jersey State Courts, and four years ago affiliated himself with the School of Industrial Arts of Trenton, in the capacity of secretary of the school.

Mr. Clark is one of the charter members of the Trenton Philatelic Society, and was its first vice-president. He was afterwards secretary and is now treasurer. He was also one of the starters of the Trenton Junior Philatelic Society.

In his position as secretary of Trenton's Art School he has had a good opportunity for observing and bettering his talent for drawing. He is adept with the crow-quill pen and ink, as the seal of the Trenton Philatelic Society will prove. He also originated the name, thought out and executed the design used by "The Stamp Album." Not alone is Mr. Clark "at home" with pen and ink, as some of the illustrated pages (in color) in various stamp albums, are of the highest order.

The presentation of the editor's picture in this issue was not undertaken without "due celerity contempored with cunctation," as former Governor Pennypacker, of Pennsylvania, was wont to say.

The failure of an expected cut at the "eleventh" hour boosted our courage, too. The Trenton Daily State Gazette of June 23, 1911, said:

"Theodore G. Kitchin, a former newspaper man, and for several years connected with the State Gazette * * * was elected president and manager of the Wickecheoke Corporation, a company incorporated in this state yesterday * * * *

"Mr. Kitchin, who was born in Sergeantsville, Hunterdon County, some thirty-five years ago, came to Trenton in 1900, and since that time has been engaged in newspaper, corporation and trolley business. In all, he is, or has been New Jersey director in more than 300 corporations, most of them doing business in Pennsylvania, and as a consequence possesses the distinction of being a director in more companies than any other Trenton citizen".

Aside from this, the editor has been collecting since 1888, along general lines. In the hey-day of small societies he was a member of seven or eight, and even "ran" two or three himself.

He says the one sad memory of his early collecting career is the recollection of sending a half dollar to someone in New York for a packet of "250 carefully selected foreign stamps, a fine variety, with many duplicates to trade with your friends." The "many duplicates" were a nice, uniform lot of current German 10-pfennigs, and the "fine variety" was a lightly cancelled 2½d English stamp!

The editor has been a member of the Trenton Philatelic Society since 1909, and is financial secretary.

POSTAGE STAMPS OF THE NEW REIGN.

By D. B. Armstrong.

With the advent of the new year the tide of new British Colonial stamp issues, stemmed for more than twelve months past by the difficulties encountered in securing suitable designs, will begin to flow in earnest, and will continue throughout the year. Since the overseas Possessions of the British Crown represent fully one-third of the stamp-issuing countries of the world, the fact that practically the whole of their postage stamps will undergo a change within the next twelve months is a matter of no small moment to stamp collectors.

No sooner had King George succeeded to the Throne than rumour was rife as to the philatelic changes that must necessarily follow, and it was thought that they would be given almost immediate effect. Actually, however, the delay in the present instance has been even more prolonged than in the case of the Edwardian issues; so that, with the exception of the ½d and 1d values of the Mother Country, the only stamps of King George that have been issued so far come from the widely separated Possessions of Newfoundland, South Africa, Rhodesia and India.

To Newfoundland is due the credit of having given birth to the first postage stamp of the Georgian era, which, printed in black and of the denomination 15 cents formed part of a series issued in the New Isle in August, 1910, to mark the tercentenary of its colonization. This stamp was roughly lithographed by Messrs. Whitehead, Morris and Co., of Fenchurch-street, London, and bore an unflattering full face portrait of his Majesty in naval uniform. But it was the first postage stamp of the new reign, and as such is entitled to the veneration of all philatelists. Subsequently it was re-issued printed from engraved steel plates, and has but recently passed out of issue.

The newly-founded Union of South Africa was well to the fore in the matter of new reign postage stamps; and a special 2½d stamp created in honour of the opening of the first Union Parliament on November 4, 1910, bears an excellent full face portrait of his Majesty in robes of State, set in an ornate frame incorporating the arms of the four States of the Union, designed by Mr. H. S. Wilkinson, Distributor of Stamps at Pretoria. This stamp, beautifully printed from line-engraved plates by Messrs. De La Rue, was for a short time on sale at the High Commissioner's Office in London, where some 42,000 copies were disposed of between November 4 and 19, 1910.

Next in chronological sequence comes Rhodesia, whose attractive current series bears portraits by Downey both of his Majesty the King and of Queen Mary. They are handsomely produced by Messrs. Waterlow and Sons, of London-wall, and were first brought into use on November 11, 1910, on the occasion of the visit of the Duke and Duchess of Connaught to the British South Africa Company's dominion.

No further additions to the Georgian chronicle have to be recorded until the time of the Royal Coronation on June 22, 1911, when, simultaneously with the appearance of our own much criticized stamps of King George, Newfoundland came out with yet another portrait of the King in a series comprising portraits of all the members of the British Royal Family.

INDIA AND CANADA.

The great Coronation Durbar at Delhi was appropriately selected by the Indian Government as the occasion for the issue of their new Georgian postage stamps. Only the 1 anna value in the new type has as yet been received, but the issue of the 2 and 3 annas is imminent. In design the new stamp is simple and dignified, and is a great improvement upon the current Georgian stamps of Great Britain. A central lined oval encloses an excellent profile portrait of the King-Emperor facing to the left, clad in robes of State and wearing the Collar of the Garter and the Badge of the Order of the Bath, from a design by Mr. Bertram MacKennal, A. R. A., which it is understood was originally submitted to the British postal authorities. Representations of native carving relieve the solid groundwork of the frame, whilst the denomination 1 anna in white figures upon a solid disc of colour appears immediately below the portrait. The inscriptions read "India Postage and Revenue" across the top, and "One Anna" at the foot of the stamp in uncoloured sans-serif capitals. The stamp is printed in carmine by Messrs. De La Rue. Together with supplies of the 2 and 3 anna values, it was delivered to the Indian Stamp Department at Somerset House between October 25 and November 11, being finally issued, at Delhi only, on December 1, 1911. The sale of these stamps will be temporarily suspended on the departure of their Imperial Majesties from India, to permit of the exhaustion of existing stocks in the Edwardian designs.

THE SOONER STAMP CO.
NORMAN, OKLA.

The new postage stamps of the Dominion of Canada, which are either issued or about to be issued will have for their design a likeness of King George in the uniform of an Admiral in the British Navy. The stamps have been printed by the American Bank Note Company, of Ottawa, who hold the Canadian Government stamp printing contract. Early in 1911 a uniform design for a new King George postage stamp, which was recommended for adoption by all the self-governing Dominions, was submitted to the Postmaster-General of Canada bv the Imperial authorities, but was rejected in favour of a distinctive Canadian production.

The design chosen for the new 1d stamp of the Union of South Africa is an exceedingly happy one, showing an excellent full face portrait of King George V surmounted by a Royal crown and flanked by sprays of mealies encircled by a narrow white band inscribed with the designation of the Union in English and Dutch. In the two upper corners of the stamp are depicted a mail steamer and a mining shaft. It is the work of Mr. C. P. Immelmann, of Paarl, Cape Colony, and secured the first prize of £10 in the Government competition. Not so successful is the winning design in the Australian contest, executed by Mr. H. Altmann, of St. Kilda, Victoria, presenting an unconventional likeness of his Majesty in a coloured oval frame, with a Kangaroo on the left and an emu on the right. Shields emblazoned with the arms of the six states occupy the upper spandrels, whilst the value, 1d, is denoted in uncoloured figures upon small shields in the two lower corners. According to latest reports, it appears unlikely that the new Commonwealth postage stamps will be put in circulation before July 1, 1912; and a rumour is current to the effect that the King's head will not after all find place upon them, but will be discarded in favour of a typically Australian design, on account of the unsatisfactory reproductions of the Royal features that have been submitted. It is understood that the die will be engraved in England, but that the stamps themselves will be printed in Australia.

New Zealand's new postage stamps have been designed by Mr. Bertram MacKennal, and will also bear the imprint of the King's head, printed from steel engraved plates at the Government Printing Office, Wellington, and are due to appear about June next. A single type will be employed for all values with the exception of the ½d and 1d, for which the existing surface printed designs will continue in use.

Most of the British Crown Colonies and Protectorates will avail themselves of the new general key-plate provided by the Crown Agents for the Colonies, for which purpose Mr. MacKennal's portrait of his Majesty as shown on the new Indian stamps, but with the crown suspended above the head, has been adopted, and will be used in conjunction with a new frame design resembling that of the current 7d stamp of King Edward. None of the stamps printed from this new plate may be expected before March or April, 1912, as Messrs. De La Rue, the Colonial contractors, are working under great pressure producing new postage stamp series for a large number of the self-governing Colonies. Amongst the first of the new stamps of the Crown Colonies to be issued will be those of St. Helena and the Cayman Islands.

The new postage stamps of Barbados will bear the head of the Sovereign, for the first time in twenty years. It will, however, be shown in conjunction with the device of the official seal of the Colony (Queen Victoria in a chariot drawn by sea-horses), which has figured on the postal issues of the island since 1892. Jamaica will issue a 3d stamp with the counterfeit presentment of King George in March, 1912; whilst the Falkland Islands and Southern Nigeria will also be provided with Georgian postage stamps early in the year. The King George stamps of Ceylon will include the high values of R.20, R.50, R.100, and R.500, and will be inscribed "Postage and Revenue," being available for postal, fiscal, and telegraph purposes.

At home some further additions to the Georgian series are promised for the new year in the form of 1½d, 2d, 3d and 4d stamps with the head of King George taken from a photograph specially selected by his Majesty for reproduction on the new postage stamps, whilst the 1d value is announced to appear in a re-engraved type. Before the year has run its course we may hope to see the current Edwardian designs finally displaced by those of the new reign upon all denominations of British postage stamps.

A notable feature in connexion with the impending changes in the stamp designs of the Empire is that, in view of his Majesty's extensive philatelic knowledge, practically all of the contemplated designs have been submitted for his approval.—London Times.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

A NEW ENVELOPE DIE—2c DIE E.

By L. G. BARRETT.

Marcus W. White of Worcester, Mass., has shown the WEEKLY what is apparently a new die in the 2c envelope and which will undoubtedly be designated as Die E.

The new Die E is very much like the so called Dayton Die D, as far as head is concerned, being more like the variety 3 of that die, showing the tapering front to bust, than any other. It does not, however, have the broad S's in the inscriptions, which were typical of all the Die D varieties. The front of bust tapers slightly with a rounded end opposite W of TWO whereas the Die D var. 3 had an angular end to the front of bust and pointed directly to the last stroke of W. A noticeable distinction in the new Die E is that the inner oval has been made thinner and the outer oval somewhat heavier than before, giving an entirely different appearance to the stamp as a whole.

Differences in the lettering are also noticed with perhaps the tall A with cross-bar low down, in STATES, being the most easily seen. The specimens seen have been all on size 13 white, with the watermark monogram USPOD 1911 in combination with the new low-cut knife. A good thing to look for on this same paper with the old knife, or on amber with the same watermark and either knife.

AMERICA AND THE EXHIBITION.

Active Support Promised the J. P. S. by Leading Philatelists of the U. S.

By FRED J. MELVILLE.

There has long been a strong bond of union between the philatelists of the United States and the Junior Philatelic Society. The ceaseless activities of the Society, amongst other things, have appealed strongly to our friends in the States and have gained us many adherents in the great Republic. That we appreciate the compliment, goes without saying; the measure of our appreciation of it can only be gauged by our Oliver Twist-like appeal for more.

Probably few on this side watch the progression of philatelic activities in America so closely as do the leaders of the J. P. S., and it is certain nothing has given higher pleasure to our officials than the recent blossoming out of the American collectors into exhibitors—and prize-winners—at recent exhibitions in Europe. A number of our U. S. members have been amongst the recipients of high awards at Vienna and Turin during the past year, as well as at exhibitions elsewhere. The prospect is thus opened up—and we welcome it with the utmost cordiality—that the United States will be properly and extensively represented at the Junior Philatelic Society's Exhibition in the Royal Horticultural Hall, London, next October.

In the past our Exhibitions have been of a National or of an Imperial character. But the Society itself is no longer either metropolitan or national; it has become international so that it has been generally felt that our next Exhibition must likewise be International. Before it can be international in the best sense we must have the support not only of the philatelists of our own country and of the Empire; we must have the enthusiastic support of our kin in the lands of the Stars and Stripes.

Will that support be forthcoming from America—support of stamp collecting cousins who will send us their collections for exhibit, and even more welcome to us the support of their presence during the Red Letter Week of the J. P. S.—October 14-19, 1912?

That the general conditions are favourable to the fullest possible support being extended to us by our numerous members and friends in the States I have already shewn. It will further encourage our workers on both sides of the Atlantic if I give a few notes from my letter-bag shewing how the news of the Exhibition is being received by leading philatelists in the Republic.

George H. Worthington, the owner of the greatest collection in America, writes:—"I am very much pleased to accept your kind invitation to become a member of your Committee of Honour for the Junior Philatelic Society's London Exhibition," and he adds, "it is a little early to determine as to an exhibit, but I might say my present intention is to send something over."

C. Lathrop Pack, whose exhibits at Berne, Vienna, Buenos Aires, Sydney, etc., were so greatly admired and won their owner the highest awards, writes:—"I am, of course, glad to do all I can to help on the cause of Philately, and I also feel an interest in the work which you are doing."

John N. Luff, the author of the standard history and study of the postage stamps of the United States, in writing to promise to do his best to further the interests of the Exhibition among American collectors, concludes:—"With best wishes for the success of the Exhibition—though that is guaranteed in advance by being under the auspices of the J. P. S."

L. Harald Kjellstedt, our energetic Consul-General of the J. P. S. in America, assures us of his continued active support:—"I will do what I can to enliven the interest on this side," he writes.

General C. A. Coolidge, Chairman of the Board of Vice-Presidents of the American Philatelic Society, accepts an invitation to join the Committee of Honour and sends his very cordial good wishes. "I shall wish you every success and watch with interest the reports of the proceedings and the exhibits presented."

Willard O. Wylie, an unfailing friend to the Society throughout a long period, and Managing Editor of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS, writes enthusiastically about the Exhibition's prospects and promises his active support in giving it the widest possible publicity. He adds:—"There is no question but that American entries will be forthcoming and the WEEKLY will do all in its power to secure co-operation."

These are but the first fruits of our announcement in last month's Stamp Lover and if they be an index to the support which will be promised us from America the first great step towards International success is achieved. And no doubt the next few mails from the United States will add many distinguished names to our growing list of active supporters.—Stamp Lover.

EDITORIAL.

Political—Nominations of officers to serve in the American Philatelic Society for the ensuing fiscal year have been called for by the secretary and while there are no indications at present that there will be any exciting campaign, yet no one is in a position to certify that sudden developments may not arise to give a fillip to the political situation. St. Louis very fittingly has endorsed the present efficient incumbent of the presidency, Mr. F. R. Cornwall; and Chicago likewise has named that gentleman as the head of its ticket. Mr. Cornwall has the executive as well as the "judicial temperament" and moreover he is one of the great philatelic students of the country. In this connection, it may be said that he has discovered certain schemes for plating the Sydney Views that must have an influence upon the accepted settings of the stamps; and in due time, the researches of Mr. Cornwall will be presented publicly, we take it, with the result that they will excite some sensational interest. The present secretary, Mr. W. H. Barnum, has made an ideal officer and if he will only accept the berth again, it is his. No doubt, the other officers, all of whom deserve well of the members from surface indications, will be renominated.

Keatinge & Ball—When the contract of Archer and Daly, Richmond, for furnishing the Confederate stamps expired in 1864, a contract was made with Keatinge and Ball, Columbia, South Carolina. Richmond was harrassed by the northern troops and assurances were lacking that the requirements of the Confederate postoffice department could be fulfilled. Columbia, South Carolina, boasted of a number of bank note engravers and there were paper mills in the vicinity. The following quotation from an advertisement of Keatinge and Ball, dated Nov. 15th, 1862, is of some interest in this connection: They "are prepared to furnish bank note work of unequaled merit and beauty of design and execution, combined with the best protection against alterations and counterfeiting, whether by photography or otherwise. Provided with presses of the newest and best construction, shall be happy to take orders for plates or plate printing, and trust that our attention and experience may secure us the patronage of the interests of the South and can with safety guarantee the most perfect satisfaction in regard to quality of work and fidelity in its execution. Shall at all times keep a supply of the best bank note and bond paper." At the time this advertisement was written, the fortunes of the Confederacy had a favorable aspect and patriotic expectations ran high.

Postoffice in 1807—Our attention has been directed to the following announcement that appeared in a Philadelphia daily newspaper in 1807: "Post Office, Philadelphia, 23d September, 1807. Letters for the British packet Lord Hobart, Captain Hamilton, for Falmouth, via Halifax, will be received at this office, until Tuesday, the 6th of October next, at 12 o'clock noon. N. B. The inland postage to New York must be paid." At about this date, every letter or packet brought into the United States, or carried from one port to another, in any private vessel, was charged six cents, if delivered at the post-office where the vessel arrived, and if destined to have been carried by post to another place, two cents were added to the ordinary rates of postage. The same treatment, broadly, was applied to those items of postal nature that were consigned abroad.

Long Years Ago—In 1813, the extent of the post roads, in this country, roughly, was forty thousand miles. There was the main route, which started at Robbinstown, Maine, on the northeastern extremity of the sea coast, and ended at St. Mary's, Georgia, on the southeastern extremity of the United States, whose length was 1,668 miles. A second principal road led from Washington to New Orleans, measured 1,233 miles. Lateral or cross roads intersected the main routes, where necessary, and established communication with the state capitals and every other city, town or village of any importance. The mails were transported under contracts entered into with the postmaster-general; and one hundred years ago, there were about four hundred of these contracts. Between the great towns and commercial centers, there was a daily mail; a semi-weekly mail to those state capitals which were "not commercial" and a weekly service to other places. The usual rate of mail progress was forty miles a day on the cross roads and from sixty to one hundred and twenty miles in the twenty-four hour day between the business centers, but from Philadelphia to New York, Baltimore and Washington a greater speed was attained or an average of about seven miles an hour.

Stages—The mails were carried by stage, which furnished accommodation for a limited number of passengers and baggage as well. For instance, in 1803, the United States Mail Stage left the office, No. 1 Courtlandt Street, New York City, at one o'clock in the afternoon (except on Sunday when it departed at twelve o'clock) and arrived in Philadelphia the next morning at 8 A. M. The fare was eight dollars a seat and eight pence a mile for way passengers and 150 pounds of baggage was counted the same as a passenger.

That Catalogue—The Scott Stamp and Coin Company has issued an announcement in explanation of the delay in the issue of the new edition of the catalogue. We are interested in the statement as so many demands have been made on us for information that at times we imagine that it is thought that we are responsible for the delinquency. It seems that the work of revision, so thoroughly and exactingly attempted, did not proceed at the anticipated rate of progress but now that it has been maintained through Salvador, time has been called. From this point on through to end of the edition, only prices will be changed and the new issues added; and the subject matter will remain unaltered. This process of elimination, so to say, will facilitate the publication of the book but "even this will require some time." When once the catalogue is off the press a start will be made on the unrevised part "so that it may be ready in ample time for the 1913 edition." In having intercepted so many complaints that otherwise would have wounded the tender sensibilities of the publishers, we have suffered and even the consolation that it is sweet to suffer for one's catalogue does not wholly relieve our smarts.

Telling Work—A place in the academy of the philatelic immortals, we may say in our enthusiasm, has been attained by Mr. Charles Lathrop Pack, by his brilliant achievement in original research work. The subject chosen for demonstration is the 100 reis, Brazil, 1894-97, which Mr. Pack has studied for many years. He tells of the transposition of heads in the bi-colored issue and of the use of five types of the 100, including heads borrowed from the 200, 500 and 700 reis, respectively. The results of Mr. Pack's analyses are such as to commend themselves to the stamp student and to illustrate to the average collector to what a pronounced degree the refinement of philatelic knowledge may reach. The fact that it is a common stamp that has yielded its secrets under Mr. Pack's inquiry makes his triumph all the more popular. Mr. Pack is a working philatelist indeed.

ANNUAL BANQUET OF THE C. P. S.

The annual banquet of the Chicago Philatelic Society, held on the evening of March 16th, 1912, was marked by a departure that proved to be an imposing and pleasant one. For the first time, ladies were invited to the annual celebration and so generous was the response that sixty ladies and gentlemen were in attendance. The committee having the banquet in charge, Messrs. Roterberg, Farnham, McDonald and Allin, provided a number of surprises that were well received. A bounteous floral display made the tables veritable "bowers of beauty;" and souvenirs, useful as well as ornamental were at the place of each guest. The toastmaster was Fred Michael, president of the society, who before introducing the speakers told of the spirit that actuated the members in following their pursuit so intently, at the same time not neglecting the social impulses that were calculated to sweeten philatelic associations.

C. E. Severn was delegated to welcome the visitors and E. M. Rosenthal gave an entertainment, "Why Men Leave Home," that was highly relished. His clever patter was well turned and he humorously combined philatelic suggestion with the broader interests of every-day life. The rapid-fire hits struck home and even the victims were compelled to join in the applause that Mr. Rosenthal's shots provoked.

C. J. Felsman, a talented magician performed sleight-of-hand marvels and Henry N. Mudge gave a chalk talk in which he accompanied the drawings with appropriate commentary. Henry Ades Fowler in an eloquent way dismissed the diners after an evening of unalloyed pleasure. The banquet which was served at the Hotel Bismarck was admirable in all its appointments and the menu was an excellent one. All the little details that enter into an affair of the kind were capably discharged. The music was by the Florentine orchestra.

IMPRINTS AND PLATE NUMBERS.

Thanks to A. N. Caudell of Washington, D. C., we are able to give definite information in connection with the use of letter "A," the imprint "Bureau of Engraving and Printing" and the plate numbers on the recent issues of United States stamps. Mr. Caudell asked the Bureau of Engraving and Printing for definite information and received the following in reply:—

"Just prior to Dec. 1, 1911, the plates from which stamps were printed contained the letter 'A' the imprint 'Bureau of Engraving and Printing' and the plate number on the margin.

All plates made for postage stamps after Dec. 1, 1911, and until March 7, 1912, did not have the imprint 'Bureau of Engraving and Printing' on them but did have the letter 'A' and the plate number. All plates made after March 7, 1912, will have only the plate number upon them, the letter 'A' being discontinued on that date.

Since Dec. 1, 1911, there have been 117 plates of the latter character made, of different denominations of postage stamps, principally of the 1-cent and 2-cent denominations. No tabulated record has been kept of the number of each denomination printed from these plates. To make a tabulation of the number of sheets of each denomination printed from them would require the services of at least two clerks for over thirty days.

In reply to your query as to the significance of the letter 'A' on the sheets with the plate number, I beg to say that prior to Jan. 14, 1909, all plates from which postage stamps were printed were made with uniform spaces between the stamps. After the above date the vertical spaces were graduated from narrow ones in the middle to wide ones on each side of the plate and the star was placed on the margin of the plate to indicate the above change from the uniform spaces.

On Nov. 15, 1910, another gauge was used which gives uniform spaces but wider ones than those used prior to Jan. 14, 1909, and this is known as the 'A' gauge.

The reason for the change to the graduated spaces and afterward to the uniform spaces wider than those on the plates prior to Jan. 14, '09, was to allow for the expansion and contraction of the paper, which had been wet for printing and afterward dried out so that in perforating the stamps the perforating wheels would not cut into the stamps themselves. It was believed that the change from the graduated to even but wider spaces than were originally made would effect the desired purpose better than the graduated spaces, and experience has demonstrated this to be a fact."

Commenting upon this letter Mr. Caudell states that on Jan. 16, he bought a strip of the new 10-cent with Plate Number A5784 with imprint. He writes, "The above letter is not quite clear as it says 'all plates made after Dec. 1, 1911 were without the imprint." We can reconcile the appearance of the 10-cent as indicated with the Department utterance by pointing out that the plate was no doubt made prior to Dec. 1, '11. The information contained in the above letter will be read with interest by U. S. specialists and we are grateful to Mr. Caudell for his co-operation.

Here is a very attractive set of stamps and we offer it free with a new ten weeks subscription to MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Any information regarding new issues will be gratefully received and acknowledged. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, 17 Addison St., Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed, stamped envelope. We cannot give applicants the addresses of our correspondents. Correspondence regarding precancelled stamps must be sent to FRANK B. ELDREDGE, Attleboro, Mass., when due credit will be given in this department.

UNITED STATES.—Howard C. Buttermore reports having found the current 5c postage due stamp on paper watermarked small single lined letters. The 1c, 2c, 5c and 10c values have now been reported.

George S. Chapman shows us specimens of the various minor varieties of the 2c Columbian stamps, especially those showing colorless dots and lines around the figures of value. He also shows a very fine specimen of the variety, with the double line at the right.

Frank C. Davis shows us a letter from France upon which the postage was insufficiently paid, and therefore the Postmaster of Buffalo added postage due stamps to the value of eight cents. The peculiarity of these was that they were all precancelled and in three different types.

Geo. H. Scharr sends us a specimen copy of the new 2-cent stamp with numerals in the Schermack perforations. It was used by the firm of P. Lorillard Co., Jersey City, N. J.

AZORES.—The 2½r of the Vasco de Gama has been exhausted and the postal authorities have been obliged to supply the deficiency with 5r stamps cut diagonally in halves. We are not yet able to give more definite information regarding the particular issues so used.

BAVARIA.—Mr. Schachne shows us the 10pf card with 1910 stamp but with date "11." Also a 5pf like last year's card with the March 12 stamp, but new date "12." This latter has also an eight line red imprint at upper left advertising a 1912 business exhibition under the patronage of the Prince Regent Luitpold, apparently to run from May to October.

GILBERT AND ELLIS ISLANDS.—The Australian Stamp Journal announces that stamps are in preparation of the 5d, 6d and 1sh values with portrait of King George V. They will not be ready, however, for five or six months.

NETHERLANDS.—Maury's Le Collectionneur says that the 5ct postage due stamp has appeared in a single color, and it is altogether likely that the other values will be treated in the same way.

Postage Due Adhesive.

5c ultramarine.

NEW ZEALAND.—The new series of stamps, with portrait of King George V has been ordered, and will appear in about six months.

NICARAGUA.—Hermann Focke has shown us the other values in the Goddess of Liberty set, including the 3c, which was supposed to have been cornered. All are in the type of the low values, previously chronicled and illustrated, the 35c value being the only one in a special design. The latter has been used very rarely, as about the time of its issue, the rate of postage was raised to 50c, so that there is actually no use for the 35c value. Therefore, Mr. Focke thinks, it would not be surprising if it were withdrawn, or possibly surcharged with a new value,—by the way quite a familiar practice in that country! Mr. Focke is informed that there is to be no special set for domestic postage, and the official set is not yet out, therefore the postal authorities continue to produce provisional stamps for official use. The latest novelty of this kind is the familiar 1c railroad stamp, surcharged "Timbre Fiscal—Vale 10 ctvs." on the face for revenue purposes, and on the reverse, "Vale—15cts—Correo—de 1911". This stamp has now been surcharged again on the face, "Correo oficial—Vale—50 cts.—1911." To avoid its illegitimate use as a 15c stamp, the value on the back has been obliterated by a heavy bar.

Adhesives.

3c orange brown.
15c violet.

5p black.

Frank C. Davis shows us used copies of the provisional "35cts" on 1p: yellow-brown fiscal stamp, one of which shows the spelling "Corre" instead of "Correos."

PERU.—C. E. Thomas writes as follows: "In December last we received in the regular course of business, a letter from Peru on which the postage was prepaid in the current un centavo Deficit stamps. A block of ten was used and cancelled: 'Correos del Peru—18 Nov. 1911—Paita.'

In order to be assured that these stamps were legally used to prepay postage, I wrote to the Postmaster at Paita, Peru, and have now received his reply which I translate as follows:

'In reply to your letter of the 15th of January beg to inform you that the déficit stamps used for postage were so used because the stock of postage stamps was exhausted here and in such cases, it is necessary to make use of the deficit stamps.'

I do not find any mention of these stamps being so used, in any of the catalogues, and would like to know what is the status of the deficit stamps used on this letter to prepay postage."

The above would seem to establish the the fact that these stamps were used to prepay regular postage, and therefore as worthy of a place in the catalogue as the numerous varieties of fiscal "used for postage."

PORTUGAL.—Apparently we were in error in stating that the unit of value for the new currency of the republic was "Centimos," though our statement was made on the authority of Ewen's Weekly. We note that all our foreign contemporaries are now unanimous in giving "Centavos" as the unit of value.

ST. PIERRE ET MIQUELON.—Mr. Schachne shows us the new value letter card of precisely same design as the previous issue. Name in blue, not dated.

Letter Card.

10 (c) red on rose tinted gray.

TONGA.—Mr. Schachne shows us a letter card which looks like London made, as the paper, folding, perf., size and part of type are like the blue English letter card. The stamp is same size as that on the card but has a vignette in an upright oval. "1½d" is in oblong ovals in each lower corner and "TOGA" at top. There are two simple headlines "Tonga—Letter Card." Below the lower perf. is "To open the letter card," etc. The reverse has two lines of instructions.

Unlike the card, which was evidently made for advertising, this has no sign of anything of the sort.

OUR REVIEW.

Bright's Catalog, 1912.—Published by Bright & Son, 164 Strand, London, Eng., price 70c post free. It is with pleasure that we review the 9th edition of this comprehensive catalog. Part I before us is devoted to adhesives only, Part II being given over to post cards, envelopes, wrappers, etc., (Part II is sold for 42c, the complete catalog of 1200 pages selling for $1.00 post free). We have strong words of praise for the "A. B. C." Catalog, giving as it does full information in regard to varieties of watermark, type, perforations, etc. There are nearly 7,000 illustrations in the book. The United States section is represented by some profusely illustrated pages that will delight the eye of collectors of U. S. stamps.

The feature of the two previous editions, namely a continued increase in the prices of many stamps, has been maintained in this latest edition. The publishers claim that this is justified.

That the book is thoroughly up-to-date is shown in the fact that the Chinese stamps surcharged for use in Tibet are catalogued in their proper alphabetical position. The book is tastily bound in a brown cloth and its 900 pages will prove a treasure house to serious philatelists.

Note. Send in a three years renewal of your WEEKLY subscription and this book will be mailed you post free.

THE PHILATELIC INSURGENT.

We have received Vol. I No. 1 of a publication under the above title from Portland, Ore. Its motto is "A free lance, devoted to the interests of the long-suffering collector who endures much." The editor is Archie Moonlight while the business manager and custonian of kicks is Percy Sunbeam. The subscription price is 5c per copy, payable on receipt of the same, which insures the receipt of the next number on the same terms.

We are advised that "first class kicks that are brief and to the point are always welcome, for which we will pay the compliments of the season."

We handle this initial number rather gingerly as it may land on us in an early number. The Insurgent is out for business. We make no charge for this advertisement.

A7 AND A8 CONFEDERATE STATES.

J. H. Lyons of the New England Stamp Co., kindly favors us with specimens of these two stamps and calls our attention to the fact that the difference between the two stamps may be easily noted by comparing the pair just above the neck in the two types. In A7 the hair is curled and in A8 straight. Collectors should paste this item of information where it will stick. The difference noted by Mr. Poole on page 92 may also be found on the two stamps submitted.

"Sec. 2. "Sec. 3. The Society shall pay all expenses for printing circulars, Bourse sheets, and any other items necessary for properly conducting the Bourse.

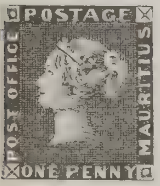
WITH THE BOY PHILATELIST.

Edited by BERTRAM W. H. POOLE, Box 231, Altadena, Calif.

We propose to insert upon this page matter that will be of interest to the boy collector. Some two thousand boys are now on our mailing list and it is our desire to come closely in contact with them in such a manner as will be most helpful. Any information desired will be cheerfully rendered through these columns. Do not submit stamps for examination.

INTERESTING RARE STAMPS.



THE POST OFFICE MAURITIUS.

Among the really rare stamps known to philatelists none are more popular than the famous 1d and 2d labels which formed the first issue for the British colony of Mauritius. These stamps are generally known as the "Post Office" Mauritius owing to the fact that they were inscribed "POST OFFICE" instead of "POST PAID" as in the case of the following issues. Though they are by no means the rarest stamps in point of numbers they can easily lay claim to being the most expensive. Their fame is almost universal and they are almost as well known to outsiders as they are to members of the philatelic fold. This is largely due to the newspaper publicity given to the magnificent unused specimen of the 2d value found in 1903 and acquired by His Majesty King George V for the record sum of $7,250.00 at public auction.

Mauritius was the first of the Colonies to follow the lead of the mother country in issuing adhesive postage stamps these two famous "Post Office" labels appearing on September 21st, 1847. Their existence was, however, not known to philatelists in Europe until 1865 and although their rarity was recognized from the first the value to which these stamps would ultimately rise was not dreamed by even the most enthusiastic collector of those times.

Some time during 1846 the postal authorities of Mauritius decided to emulate the example of Great Britain by issuing postage stamps but difficulty was found in obtaining such articles locally. Mr. J. Barnard, a watch-maker in business at Port Louis, who had some slight knowledge of engraving, was approached on the matter and on Nov. 12th he submitted an estimate from which we learn he agreed to engrave plates for producing the 1d and 2d stamps for $25 each, while his charge for printing the labels was to be $2.50 per 1000. His estimate was accepted and though the cost of printing seems high compared with the modest 18c per 1000 charged by Perkins Bacon & Co. for printing the stamps of the same colony in 1854 it was not really so when the tedious method of production is considered. The "plate" for each value contained one impression only so the stamps had to be printed one at a time! The process was so laborious that after printing the first 1000 stamps Mr. Barnard abandoned it and engraved new plates capable of printing 12 stamps at a time. These were inscribed "POST PAID."

In a letter dated September 20th, 1847 written by the Colonial Postmaster to the Colonial Secretary the stamps are stated to be "now ready for issuing" and they were placed on sale the following day. The stamps were engraved on small copper plates and it is fairly evident that the British stamps of 1840 formed the "pattern". In the center is a crude profile portrait of Queen Victoria with head to left; at the top is "POSTAGE"; at the base, the value; on the left, "POST OFFICE;" and on the right, "MAURITIUS". The upper left and lower right angles are filled with stars while the other two corners contain small crosses. The stamps were in use for a few days only and most of them were used by Lady Gomm, wife of the then Governor of the island, in sending out invitations to a ball held at Government House.

Of the thousand "Post Office" stamps originally issued, 26 have survived to the present day. Of these fourteen are the 1d and 12 are the 2d. Only two unused copies of the 1d are known while five of the 2d exist in this state including the finest specimen of the lot—the one in the famous collection of King George V.

The first known copies of the 1d and 2d were purchased by the late M. J. B. Moens in October, 1865, from a young collector of Bordeaux, France. They had previously belonged to a lady collector in the same town but she exchanged them for two Uruguay stamps preferring the latter because her Lallier album provided spaces for them, whereas the Mauritius, being unknown, had no spaces provided for them. These were sold to the late Judge Philbrick and when the latter sold his stamps in 1882 the Mauritius passed Herr Phillip von Ferrary.

In 1866, Mme. Desbois, of Bordeaux, found an unused specimen of the 2d which was sold to M. Lalanne.

In March, 1868, a used 1d was discovered by a merchant of Port Louis. In 1870 it was purchased by M. Moens who later sold it to M. A. de Rothschild. What eventually became of this one I do not know.

In 1869 a Port Louis collector had a used 2d. In 1889 this specimen was in the hands of the late M. Ch. Roussin and after changing owners several times in a few years it was acquired by the late M. Paul Mirabaud. This is the specimen Messrs. Whitfield King & Co. had on exhibition at their stall at the London Exhibition of 1890. The price asked for it was only $1000 but the collectors of that day laughed at the idea of giving such a sum for one stamp. Times have indeed changed since then!

In November, 1869, M. Moens had another 2d and in the following January he had a 1d. Both were sold to the late Dr. Legrand and he in turn disposed of them to the late M. Jules Bernichon in 1897. What has become of these two I have been unable to discover.

Late in 1869 M. Moens obtained unused copies of both values and selling them to M. Perinelle he re-purchased them a year later and they then passed into the famous Ferrary collection.

In 1870 the M. Lalanne referred to above acquired three more "Post Offices", from the same Mme. Desbois so that he was the happy possessor of both values used and unused. In 1893 the unused ones were purchased by Messrs. Stanley Gibbons Ltd. and sold by that firm to the late Sir W. B. Avery for $3,900. What has become of them since the Avery collection was dispersed by Mr. Peckitt I do not know. The used 1d and 2d were sold to M. Moens in 1896.

On Sept. 16th, 1872, M. Moens had another used 2d and this was purchased by M. A. de Rothschild.

Three years later M. Moens had an unused copy of the 2d which he sold to Herr von Ferrary. In 1886 this was exchanged by Herr von Ferrary with the late Mr. T. K. Tapling for some Indian States stamps. This specimen now reposes in the British Museum.

(To be concluded.)

Several replies and further notes re Guatemala are held over until next week.

"STAMPS HARD TO GET."

Catalog Value $2.00 and Under.

A correspondent suggests that an article dealing with hard-to-get stamps would be appreciated by our readers. We invite contributions to a symposium, suggesting that it be confined to stamps that catalog $2.00 and under. We shall hope to have a sufficient number of entries to make a worthy contribution to our columns.

(Contributed by Chas. E. Jenney.)

I think the discussion of stamps hard to get an excellent idea and Mr. Wainwright's initial entry leads me to follow.

Concerning the stamps he mentions I had no difficulty in getting Bavaria Nos. 107, 108, 110 and 112, but he evidently overlooked what I consider the scarcest of all No. 114. I have every Bavaria called for in Scott's catalogue except No. 1 and No. 114. The former evidently overruns its catalogue price in auctions for I have bid on many. The latter I have never seen offered anywhere.

In regard to his Bolivia No. 46 perforated 14½ he is perfectly correct in regarding it as hard to get. It has been on my want list for years and I have never seen a copy and begun to doubt its existence. The thin paper and the "A" shades correspond with these perf. 14½ as he supposes.

France No. 133 is scarce for a common stamp but I have lately run across several.

Now for a few of my own; to start early in the alphabet, Anjouan No. 15, a despised French Colony catalogued 15c is not to be had for love or money. Annam & Tonquin No. 8 appears to be unseen among the large stock of the world. Baden Nos. 32, 33, 34 and 37 disappeared from sight early if they were ever common, and New Zealand No. 128 seems as scarce as a great auk' egg.

(Contributed by A. N. Caudell.)

Possibly this may not come under the scope of your inquiry, but nevertheless it may prove of interest to your readers. I would like you to give the reason why some stamps of which only a few are available are not so valuable as other stamps of which twice as many or more can be located. For example, I recently purchased a strip of three 1903 2-cent flag type imperforate horizontally. As set forth in the WEEKLY a few years ago, but seventeen of these were found and they are now in four collections, two blocks of six, one strip of three and one pair. For this strip of three I paid $25.00 but a like mint strip of some equally rare stamp would bring ten times that amount. Why?

(Note.—As distance lends enchantment to the view, so Mr. Caudell will find his possession increasing rapidly in value as the years go by. This strip put in an auction sale would undoubtedly bring a good profit on the investment.—ED.)

Your suggestion of stamps "Hard-to-get" under $2.00, in my opinion, covers too great a field.

Take any country and you can place your pencil on one of these "Hard-to-get" stamps in most any issue. Amongst a few other countries I collect is Peru to the 1880 and Venezuela to the 1883 issues only, and these two countries alone can make a man "gray-headed."

I would like to see a dealer with "nerve" enough to specialize only in "Hard-to-get" stamps, under $2.00. His patrons would be "Legion."

I agree with J. A. Wainwright regarding Bavaria Delivery Tax Nos. 107, 108, 110 and 112. Bolivia No. 46, 100c brown rose perf. 14½, I am also looking for, in place of perf. 13½ I have. But I have Bolivia No. 45, 50c blue perf. 14½, that is watermarked double lined 10 or the letters IO. I had several France No. 133, 10c red ground under feet, but have only 2 copies left.

But here are a few "Hard to Get Stamps" that I am fishing for:

Belgium No. 208—15c gray postal packet. I have seen several in other collections, but so far I have failed to land one for my own.

Bolivia No. 80—20c orange and black. I have heard there was such a stamp, but dealers do not carry such in stock in fine or any used condition, but I should like to get a hold of a used copy to fill my set.

Brazil Nos. 172 and 173—100 rose and 200 blue. I need them, for that page in my album shows blank spaces. I have seen several, but I could not get them for love nor money.

Bulgaria Nos. 53 and 54—5s carmine and 15s yellow. I have heard that there were enough issued to go around, but who has all the used ones? I could take care of a few. Or Bulgaria Nos. 70, 71 and 72, the Shipka Pass issue. I have been in the market several years for a set of genuine used, but all dealers I have asked for them are just out of stock.

Chili No. 64—1p bronze green and black used. As near as I ever came to getting one of these was about two years ago when I tried to talk Major J. M. T. Partello out of one, but someone else got ahead of me. I do not know why dealers are out of stock.

Denmark No. 36—10o carmine with the small figures, which Scott gives used at $2.00 and Stanley Gibbons slightly less, is a stamp that I have seen once, but not in my album. I should like to get a good copy.

Greece Nos. 179-183 inclusive—the gold set. How many of us can show the whole set? I was several years in getting it. While both Scott and Stanley Gibbons show these stamps as being unwatermarked, I have three of this set watermarked crown and E. T.

Italy No. 39—30c brown does not seem to be so very plentiful, judging by the time it took me to get a fairly decent used copy.

Siam No. 117—14s on 12a blue. It is given in the catalogs, but I noticed when in Chicago last summer, that even specialists in this country had not seen one. Scott prices it at 20c; I would not ask my dealer friend for 50% off if he could furnish one.

Switzerland No. 87—40c gray perf. 9½, is a stamp I have a "want sign" out for. Have so far been unable to even get one on the other side of the Big Pond.

Venezuela Nos. 212 to 216 inclusive also Nos. 220 to 222 inclusive do not seem to be dealers' favorites. I wasted a good deal of time before getting them.

New Zealand No. 79—8p blue unwatermarked. I was not the only collector in Seattle looking for this stamp. I finally found one last summer, but I am looking for a better copy.

STAMP CHATTER.

By "Senex."

Pictorial stamps seem to interest almost every collector. Every copy provides a picture, which attracts the eye, and affords a subject for admiration—or criticism. And, besides this, the picture on the stamp may tell something of the scenery of the country of its origin, something perhaps of the ways and customs of the people. There are other things that give interest to stamps beside the fascination of gathering them. The collector's imagination roams freely over the wide world; vistas of palm and pine, desert and fruitful field rise up in his mind's eye. Pictures on stamps guide this imagination into desirable channels.

Another thing: A collector becomes interested in maps. There are some lovely maps now and then in the illustrated papers. I saw one the other day with the mountainous parts thrown up into relief, and I understood at once what the country was like and how the principal towns were situated.

Some stamps are missionaries. An unused 1c value comes one's way; it is attractive; the collector thinks he may as well have it. Presently he comes across a used copy of the 10c; well, he already has the 1c, therefore the two stamps join company. Then there naturally follows a desire to possess others of the set, until there finally comes a more earnest quest for the higher values. That original 1c stamp was the beginning of it all. And so may it ever be.

The 25c Venezuela, 1910, oblong pictorial, may now be met with, and should be looked out for. The official stamps of this country are nice. Of these the 25c value seems more readily found than others of the set. Some of the stamps for inland postage bear a perforation through the centre of the stamp. Is this a form of cancellation?

Recent pictorial stamps of Uruguay are attractive, the various "bulls", "winged warriors" and "man-headed horses" being in good demand. A high price has been noted for the 5c commemorative of 1911, and for the 2c and 5c pictorial of 1910. The regular issue of 1910 is getting into circulation.

Current Danish West Indies are usually nicely centred, and bear acceptable cancellations, although some of the middle values are more numerous than others.

The 5c Canal Zone, 1909, with "reading down" seems a scarcer stamp than the variety with "reading up." The three shades of the 5c, of 1906, are easily identified and look well side by side.—Stamp Collectors' Fortnightly.

OUR REVIEW.

Postage Stamps of Grenada.—By Alexander A. Sefi. Upon opening this latest handbook we are greeted with a full page plate of the Dec. 1890 1d on 2sh orange, showing a complete sheet with inverted surcharge, but this is not the only illustration of its kind. No less than five plates occupy full pages, to say nothing of illustrations of single stamps, blocks of four and watermarks scattered through the book. This contribution upon the part of Mr. Sefi, is one of permanent value to philatelic literature and is written in such a manner as to be of interest to all classes of collectors. The book is published by D. Field, uniform with the other books of the "W. E. P." series. Price 14c post free.

JOIN THE BOOSTER CLUB.

Our Booster Club consists of subscribers who are enough interested in the Weekly to introduce the paper to their friends and send in their subscriptions. All it requires as Mr. Sands pointed out two weeks ago, is to show the Weekly. The paper tells its own story.

This week Chester J. Killam, Syracuse, N. Y., joins the club by sending in four new subscriptions, one yearly and three trial subscriptions for young friends. Mr. Killam writes, "I thought I would help a little", and that is the true spirit of a booster.

GREAT AUCTION EVENT OF THE YEAR

There will be a series of sales, the number of which will be duly announced.

The long experience of Mr. Wolsieffer as a stamp auction expert will be revealed to advantage in the arrangement of the lots in these sales.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—An old and yet a new advertiser uses our columns this week with the announcement of an auction sale. We refer to Geo. R. Tuttle of N. Y. City, who takes space this week to announce the sale of the H. S. Bellinger collection of U. S. stamps.

—Roy S. Barker of Providence, R. I., and E. S. Stearns of Thomaston, Me., were recent callers at the WEEKLY office.

—The J. M. Stuart Co., Paris, Ky., reports the new 1c postal savings official envelope chronicled elsewhere in this issue.

—We have received from Linson & Stowe the catalog of their third auction sale, to be held April 6. Some 320 lots are listed.

—Charles Lathrop Pack favors us with a leaflet showing the types of the substituted heads as described in his recent article, “Brazil 100 reis, 1894-97.”

—Lewis A. Walter of Louisville, Ky., has a 4c Wilder in a rose shade instead of the vermilion in which the stamp is cataloged. Mr. Walter submits an affidavit indicating the circumstances under which this stamp was uncovered, which would clearly indicate that the stamp referred to is an error in color.

—“The new 6d and 1sh stamps Bermuda ship type, new colors, were placed on sale on March 26th.”—BENEDICT PRIETH.

—W. C. Estes writes us as follows:—“Cannot you find some one to write an essay on the 2c red of the 1898-99 issue (Scott does not list it). I bought this stamp at the Omaha Post-office, afterwards the Chief of the stamp department told me these stamps had been ordered returned on account of error in color, eventually they were all surcharged for Cuba, see Scott's Nos. 222a and 223.”

—A. N. Caudell sends us a copy of the official circular sent out from the office of the Third Assistant Postmaster General giving particulars of the 1c official postal savings stamped envelope, fully described elsewhere in this issue.

—In connection with the agitation in the stamp papers concerning the Cuban inverts, the Philadelphia Stamp News publishes a communication from the American Banknote Co. of N. Y. City. The important fact brought out by the communication is found in the implied willingness of the firm to accept these errors as emanating from them. “We can only account for these errors by the fact that the first shipment had to be made rather in a hurry.”

NEW U. S. POSTAL SAVINGS ENVELOPE.

We are indebted to Robt. J. Wagner and A. C. Usher for information in connection with a new one-cent stamped envelope that has just been issued in connection with the postal savings bank system.

The stamp is an ellipse on end in shape and has at the top in a circular line “U. S. Postal Savings” while at the bottom is “One 1 Cent”. In the center of the design are the words “Official Mail” in two lines. The color of the stamp is green and it is on amber paper. The specimen described was shown us by Mr. Usher.

From Mr. Wagner's letter we quote the following relative to the 1c stamp:—

“Every Postal Savings office in the country received, a couple of weeks ago a printed circular of notification of a change in one of the rules, and this notification came in an unsealed envelope prepaid with one of the 1c adhesives.

This mailing of the circulars will put quite a few of the 1c stamps in circulation but a very small percent. of them will be saved. In the future the only use of the 1c adhesive will be in making up the odd cents on large third and fourth class packages.

Fostoria, O., is quite a railroad center and much mail is transferred here. This enables me to see the mail which goes through this office and I can give some idea as to the relative scarcity of the various denominations.

The 1c value is of course very much the scarcer and the 2c the most common. The 10c seems to be about five times as scarce as the 2c. This value being used to pay registration charges makes them quite common. The $1.00 value is more common than the 50c, the latter value ranking next to the 1c as to scarcity.”

The Wonderland of Stamps

By W. Dwight Burroughs

FULLY ILLUSTRATED, CLOTH 12MO.

Post Free $1.50

It has often been said that postage-stamp collecting is one of the most educational of pastimes, because of the immense amount of information about history, geography, etc., connected with it. Yet few people understand how many and how varied are the interesting things told on the pictures of stamps.

In this book a good-natured uncle with a large stamp collection tells his nephews and nieces about the veritable wonderland it discloses. He describes the birds and animals from the antelope of Rhodesia to the zebra of Madagascar, the old Greek games, bits of United States and foreign history, curious islands, small records of big wars, a miniature edition of Don Quixote, the ancient myths, thumb-nail maps, Christmas stories, ships and locomotives of all descriptions—all pictured on postage stamps of various countries.

The book is fully illustrated with reproductions of the stamps described.

“I SEE BY THE PAPER that you are offering some very attractive stamps at a very reasonable price. I recently bid $1.35 at an Eastern Auction Sale, for a set that you offer for $1.00. I'm glad I didn't get it.” These are frequent occurrences.

EDITORIAL.

A New One—The following announcement from Washington by C. B. Hurrey, Acting Third Assistant Postmaster General, is of importance to stamp collectors: "Postmasters and others in the postal service are notified that a stamped envelope, embossed with an official postal savings stamp of the 1-cent denomination, has been provided for official mail matter relating to the Postal Savings System. The stamp is similar to the official 2-cent embossed stamp, except as to color and denomination. It is described as follows: The stamp is an ellipse on end; the color is green and the lettering white; in the center in plain gothic type appear the words 'Official Mail' in two horizontal lines. In the upper half of the border are the words 'U. S. Postal Savings,' and in the lower half 'One 1 Cent,' the numeral 1 being prominent."

To Those Who Wait—For some time attention has been directed to the one-cent adhesive postal savings stamp and its scarcity which has been attributed to a lack of necessity for its use. Without wishing to combat any popular conception of its present rating, we believe that it would not have been long before the stamp would have made its appearance oftener had the same conditions continued. In fact, if the parallel that existed between the quantities used postally of the war and post office departments stamped envelopes and wrappers and the adhesives of complementary values be approximated in the consumption of the one-cent adhesive and one-cent envelope, the one-cent adhesive will be a more frequent visitor as time goes on. We have been given to understand that some of the adhesive one-cent postal savings bank stamps are filtering through the hands of a postmaster here and there because of a feeling of friendship or through ignorance of the regulations. Further, where one blade of grass flourished before, two now grow; in other words, instead of using a two-cent stamp, the obliging postmaster may use two of the one-cent stamps when the addressee seems particularly anxious to obtain copies of the latter. It is just as well not to depend too trustingly upon the observance of the regulations regarding the unused postal savings stamps, by postmasters; and the "waste paper" that the postmasters are instructed to sell has its possibilities.

Half Stamps—Our attention has been called to a number of split provisionals on the original covers but as the use of the bi-sected stamps was not authorized by decree, we believe, they are varieties for the specialist's collection. It is the two centavos of the present centenary and numeral sets that comes split diagonally and vertically on regular mail matter to make with two of the two centavos, the five cent rate to this country. These covers come from important points such as Medellin, Baranquilla, etc., where the use of the provisionals must be allowed though not officially recognized or authorized, no doubt. A Spanish paper says that all the Colombian postage and telegraph stamps of the general and state issues of 1880 to 1910 in charge of the superintendent of posts have been burnt under the supervision of a committee deputized to act in that capacity. This destruction will clear the atmosphere and loan a certainty that will be welcome to the collecting of the more recent Colombian issues.

Resurrected—The Southern Philatelist which very appropriately devotes much of its space to Confederate issues speaks as follows about a mysterious ten cents red brown of the type of the five cent, local and London print of the second or small issue. It is said: "This ten cent brown is identical in lines and dots with the five cent blue, local print, except of course the change of color and from five to ten cents, and those who have examined it believe it to have been printed from the same plates or stones. Unfortunately it was not on cover when he disposed of it. It is believed also that it was printed at Columbia, S. C., by Keatinge and Ball and was intended to have been used instead of or prior to the ten cent blue. The paper is identical with some of the five cent locals. It seems to be above suspicion. So far as I have known it is an unlisted variety." This ten cent in red and a host of other fancy colors sometimes appears on the surface and causes speculations as to its character; and when the circumstances of its issue become known, it is truly to be called a hybrid. Many years ago, Mr. C. B. Corwin said that the stamps were "a lithographic transfer from the design of the 5c with the word Five erased and Ten substituted therefor, every Ten differing, while the remaining parts of each stamp agree with each other, the sheet being printed in pale blue in seven rows of ten each." There is another story in this connection, which is not so prosaic, and is to the effect that a plate of the five cent was found at the bottom of an abandoned well. The plate was revamped and reduced in size and subsequently used for printing, after the Five of each cliché or stamp die was altered to Ten by some process. It was said that the rust and corrosion had attacked some of the clichés on the edge of the plates so as to make them defective for printing purposes and so they were cut away. There are some points that favor the tale that the Ten was filled in on the typographed plate made by Messrs. De La Rue, London, and replaced by Five, in each instance. At any rate the sheets in different colors at one time were plentiful and passed from hand to hand lightly as curiosities. There did not seem to have been any effort made to market the stamps in quantity at the expense of collectors and their deceptive possibilities did not approach those of the ten-cent "Stonewall Jackson,"—another story.

Your Choice—Another stamp in the same category is an adaptation of the five-cent to a ten-cent carmine which is "enough like" the stamp described in the foregoing item "to be its twin brother," according to Mr. Corwin. In this fictitious stamp, the lettering of the Ten does not tally with that of the word Cents in the label, as the letters vary and are shorter, fatter and not in proportion. The story of the plate of the five-cents that was found as aforesaid or "captured" according to one version applies with greater force to this variety, which, likewise, is found in sheets in old stamp stocks occasionally, printed in a variety of colors.

It Follows—The news of the purchase of the collection, excepting the stamps of Great Britain and the United States of the Earl of Crawford by the firm of W. H. Peckitt, London, leaves a wake of discussion. The prominence of the distinguished seller and the enterprise of the buyer in acquiring the superb specialized lines did their part in exciting interest in the transaction. The assurance stands forth that the larger and more valuable the collection, the more favorable attention it will receive from the dealer; and a crowning consideration is that the collection of magnitude out of the ordinary is the one that exacts the highest proportional value when sold to the dealer.

Great Start—It is a source of pride to philatelists to find that four individual collectors have subscribed the highest amounts to the New York exhibition fund. Four figures are a refreshing novelty in a philatelic list of the kind; but collectors generally should know that any contribution will make a creditable showing and that the spirit in which the tender is made is appreciated as well as the amount.

A BARGAIN AT $10,000.

H. Leonard sends us the following advertisement printed in the N. Y. Herald March 17. It is specially recommended to the consideration of all bargain hunters:—

WHAT IS THE VALUE OF A STAMP?

Here is a proposition that will tax the skill of the philatelic arithmetician: "How Much is a Stamp Really Worth?" We must necessarily bar out the stamps that are held for speculation and we will fix upon 1890 as the oldest date to enter. Look over the past 22 years and see how nearly you can determine the value of any stamp. We shall be glad to publish your conclusions. Take for instance a straight issue of 400 stamps all distributed to the public and none held for speculation and write us what the stamp is worth.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

A WORD WITH THE BEGINNER.

By AL. DE LA TORRE BUENO.

There are few men in any of the civilized centres of the world who have not, at some period of their existence, collected stamps. The vast majority have done so in their boyhood days, and, as the years have rolled by, have given up this pastime for other interests of greater moment. Some have given away, lost or sold their collections; others, in whom the germ of philately has taken a stronger hold, have cherished their collections—as rare gems—and though they may take no active interest in collecting they would not part with their collections; some in this group, and these form the bulk of the serious collectors of the day, have kept up their pastime with unabated interest.

Philately appeals to all classes and conditions of men,—the rich and the poor, the strong and the weak, the young and the old, alike may revel in its pleasures. Some claim that it is a rich man's pastime, but this is a great fallacy. What other pastime will give so many hours of unalloyed pleasure through the expenditure of but a few dollars?

There are no hard and fast rules which must be followed by every collector, other than the inclinations of the individual and the limitations of his pocketbook. The man whose pocketbook is lean has merely to decide for himself along what lines he can afford to collect, and then to pitch in and enjoy the cleanest, most healthful and absorbing of pastimes. He will find that neither the richest nor the most advanced collector will look down upon him if in his chosen line he uses intelligence and gives thought and care to the selection and arrangement of his specimens.

We find the old say, "many men, many minds" well exemplified in philately. Here we find one man devoting his time, money and energy to collecting all the stamps, varieties, etc. of one country or group of countries—he is the "specialist", the highest type of collector and one who must be well supplied with the "sinews of war", for some of the varieties are very high-priced; here we have another, known as a general collector, who collects stamps from all corners of the world; here we have another man who specializes in current two cents United States, shades, perforations, cancellations, etc., stamps so cheap that he can buy hundreds for a few cents. And what hours of pleasure will he not derive from this small investment ' Here we find another man who has set a limit as to the highest denomination which he considers that he can afford to include in his collection; here is another who merely collects nineteenth century and still another who collects only twentieth century, and so ad infinitum.

There is no doubt that stamp collecting, like everything else, calls for a certain cash expenditure, but this is absolutely within one's control. One should never be carried away and try to outdo the other fellow who has more means. Let him spend his money in stamps while we beat him as to the condition of our humble specimens and the neat and artistic arrangement of our collection, making it a joy to the eye and a pride to our heart.

The buying of stamps should be done judiciously. It is not a wise thing to set your heart upon some special stamp or stamps, and then go out and buy them at whatever price the first dealer may charge. Some day you will run across the very stamps which you require and at prices which will well repay you for the waiting, or if you are very anxious to fill some blank space in your album, then go out and do some "shopping", and you will probably run across some dealer who has been able to buy cheaper than his competitors and, consequently, can afford to make a reasonable price.

A collector should subscribe to one or two stamp magazines and to as many "house organs" as possible. In this way he can not alone keep in touch with the new issues and general philatelic news, but also with the prices, and thus be able to take advantage of any bargains offered. Some may say that the stamps offered at bargain prices are the stamps which nobody wants; this may be true in some cases, but in others the low price may be due to the dealer being over-stocked or requiring some money at short notice.

One of the best methods of collecting for the tyro, is to buy as large a packet of stamps as one can afford. Both advanced collectors and specialists often buy wholesale lots. In any case the collector should restrict himself to buying only such lots as contain the stamps of the countries he is interested in. What greater pleasure can an ardent collector enjoy than to go sailing through a large sea of stamps—to find here and there some stamp which will fill a heretofore vacant space, to find some minor variety or to discover some new and unsuspected variety! Such are the pleasures and profit to be derived from the purchase of packets.

Apropos of minor varieties have you ever stopped to consider that the high prices asked by dealers for the minor varieties are due, not so much to the scarcity of the variety or to the demand for it as to the trouble and time lost in looking for it—time is money to the stamp dealers as well as to the rest of us.

Another great source of enjoyment and one which helps the individual to expand and to increase his intercourse with his fellowmen is the exchange of stamps. Through exchanges with other collectors, additions may be made to the collection. In making exchanges it is always best to do so with collectors in your own town, where you can get into personal touch with them. In this way not alone are more satisfactory arrangements made, but also is the circle of acquaintances of the collector increased.

Whenever a man puts in an exchange advertisement with the provision "send first", he shows plainly that he has no confidence in his fellowcollectors, maybe with reason, but even so, why should he be trusted when he can not trust others? He may have had unsatisfactory dealing with one or two collectors but that is no reason why he should consider or class all collectors as dishonest. Honi soit qui mal y pense. It is best never to have dealings with such a person.

Unsatisfactory dealings will occur some times, especially with foreign correspondents, but usually the ones which are satisfactory are so eminently so that they repay any loss which may have been sustained.

The collector should always classify his duplicates, not alone according to countries and issues, but also as to the actual cash cost of the stamps to him, thus he will guard against a money loss and can also tell at what price he can afford to sell and what exchange propositions are advantageous to him.

The question as to what album to use has been a source of great interest to every collector, and will continue to be to every recruit to the ranks of philately. The regular printed albums offer many disadvantages and in some cases inaccuracies—not to call them by a stronger name. Take for example a certain album printed by the publishers of a well-known catalogue—here we find that the arrangement of the dates of the issues are different from those given in the catalogue, again the names of the colors are different in the catalogue and in the album. There is no doubt that one is wrong. Which? The fact that the catalogue is revised from time to time, and also a comparison with other catalogues would seem to indicate that the catalogue is nearer right. These are but small matters when compared with the greatest drawback of all—in a very short while the album falls behind the time, new stamp issues appear for which no provision is made. This difficulty has now been overcome to a certain extent by some manufacturers who make loose leaf printed albums. This does not entirely obviate this bad feature as when new issues appear the collector has to buy blank pages and insert them after the printed ones, thus making a patchwork job out of his album. All these objectionable features disappear with the blank loose leaf album. The man who uses a blank loose leaf album can collect anything, take up any branch of collecting and specialize in any manner to suit his fancy and give full play to his artistic ideas as to the arrangement and display of his treasures—and above all his album is always up to date. Nothing equals the blank loose leaf album for exhibition purposes, for showing the stamps of any country at society meetings, and above all for displaying them to the best possible advantage.

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Any information regarding new issues will be gratefully received and acknowledged. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, 17 Addison St., Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed, stamped envelope. We cannot give applicants the addresses of our correspondents. Correspondence regarding precancelled stamps must be sent to FRANK B. ELDREDGE, Attleboro, Mass., when due credit will be given in this department.

UNITED STATES.—Evidently our readers are still interested in the hunt for varieties of the 2c Columbian, as two of our correspondents, J. Rausch and Edward W. Bridge, have just sent us specimens showing a colorless spot like a period after the left "2." Mr. Bridge has also found a period after "Cents," and Mr. Rausch has found a similar mark.

Frank B. Eldredge has shown us the new 2c stamp, with figures in the lower corners and with Shermack No. 3 perforation

Lee Tibbals calls attention to the fact that variations in the placing of the central pictures of the Pan American stamps, as regards the frames, are fairly constant in three main varieties, though the differences are not important enough to warrant their insertion in the catalogue.

The following new precancels have been reported by Elmer Topelman and John H. Wilms:—

Saginaw, Mich., 1c 1912, normal, type I.
St. Louis, Mo., 5c 1911, normal, type II.
Cleveland, Ohio, 1c 1911, normal, perf. 8½ vert. type IV.
Scranton, Pa., 2c 1912, normal, type II.
Racine, Wis., 1c 1912, normal, type VI.

Mr. Scott also sends post cards with permits, one of which, No. 38, was printed in black with no value, and changed to 1c, with the same number. He also has a card permit of the same city and number, which has been printed in pale pink, brick red, vermilion, carmine and brown.

Mr. Scott also sends a curiosity, a permit envelope, issued to one firm as No. 469, but later has this obliterated by a large black block covering one-third of the envelope, and the new permit, No. 759, printed below.

ANTIGUA.—Whitfield King & Co. have shown us the 2d, 3d and 2sh values of the current bi-colored set, on chalky multiple paper.

ARGENTINE.—Whitfield King & Co. have shown us three more values of the Sower type.

Adhesives.

2c purple brown.
4c purple.
10c dark green.

BERMUDA.—Hermann Focke has shown us the new ½d card, with stamp in the "Hog money" type, as noted in No. 1107. By the way, the type was there erroneously called "Hoy money!"

BRUNEI.—The Schweizer Briefmarken Zeitung chronicles two more values in a single color.

Adhesives.

25c violet.
50c black on green.

FRANCE.—Offices in China.—Whitfield King & Co. have shown us the 2c on 5c 8c on 20c and 40c on 1fr, large surcharge, both surcharged on the stamps of "Chine."

GILBERT AND ELLICE ISLANDS.—The Schweizer Briefmarken Zeitung reports the 5d, 6d and 1sh stamps of the Georgian series as having been seen with "specimen" overprint. They are in the Leeward Islands type, the old border being made use of. The head of King George is drawn rather smaller than that of King Edward.

GREAT BRITAIN.—Offices in the Levant.—Whitfield King & Co. have shown us the ½d and 1d stamps of Great Britain, reengraved type, surcharged "Levant" for use in the British offices in Turkey. The stamps of the first type with this surcharge were in use only a short time, and already the philatelic sharps are saying that they are likely to be scarce.

INDIA.—W. T. Wilson has shown us the new 3p slate as chronicled in No. 1106, and also the 1a overprinted for official use. The familiar "On H. M. S." has disappeared, and in its place is printed "Service" in a square gothic letter, somewhat smaller than the word "Service" on the 1885 stamps of Patiala.

JAMAICA.—J. A. Galbraith has shown us a used copy of the new 3d stamp issued in Jamaica the first week in March. It is printed on ordinary multiple paper. Hermann Focke also sends us an unused copy of this stamp.

Adhesive.

3d violet on yellow.

LUXEMBURG.—Die Post reports a new provisional from the Duchy, which is certainly unique among surcharged stamps.

Provisional Adhesive.

62½c on 87½c gray blue.

NICARAGUA.—Hermann Focke sends us seven more values of the Locomotive type, chronicled in No. 1102. This completes the series for Atlantic Coast.

Adhesives.

15c violet.
20c indigo.
25c dark olive green and black.
50c olive green.
1p orange brown.
2p brown.
5p blue green.

SAN MARINO.—Borek's Neuheiten Preisliste states that the 10 lire postage due stamp is shortly to be withdrawn from use.

SWEDEN.—The Svensk Filatelistisk Tidskrift states that the following quantities of the current official stamps were printed with the Crown watermark:

1 ore black, 2,807,900; 4 ore light lilac, 1,423,900; 5 ore green, 2,716,000; 8 ore red violet, 2,833,100; 10 ore carmine, 2,827,000; 15 ore red brown, 2,680,400; 20 ore blue, 1,450,200; 25 ore orange, 1,418,700; 30 ore brown, 1,307,200; 5kr brown on yellow, 958,000.

TURKEY.—As announced sometime since a new series of stamps is in preparation for the Ottoman Empire upon which a view of the Central Post Office of Constantinople will replace the familiar signature of the Sultan. Maury's Le Collectionneur says that the series will comprise the following values: regular postage, 5, 10 & 20 paras, 1, 2, 2½, 5, 10, 25 & 50 piastres; postage due, 1 & 2 piastres; newspaper stamps, 5, 10, & 20 paras, 1, 2 & 5 piastres. A Turkish correspondent says that the 5 paras postage stamp has already been printed and possibly may have been issued before this.

THE RAREST OF SILVER DOLLARS.

Clipping from Jno. F. Hinson.

A United States silver pattern dollar, dated 1776, which was exhibited at Chicago at the convention of the American Numismatic Association brought to the immediate attention of both the general public and collectors a silver piece which for rarity, value and historical worth completely eclipses the celebrated 1804 dollar, or indeed any other coin in the United States series, says the New York Sun. Even in some respects it is more interesting than the excessively rare and valuable silver pattern dollar or "mark" of 1783, proposed by Robert Morris, the "Financier of the Revolution."

This coin, which is known as the Continental Currency dollar, is owned by H. O. Granberg at Oshkosh, Wis., and represents unquestionably the very first metallic issue to bear the stamp of the United States, or United Colonies, as the confederation was originally known. The Continental dollar preceded by nine years the issue of the first regularly authorized cent of 1787—the Fugio or Franklin cent—and the issue, of the latter coin no doubt was largely influenced by this first dollar, for it bore its principal features of design.

The Continental Currency dollar is about the size of an ordinary silver dollar and contains 378 grains of silver. On the obverse the principal design is a sun shining on a sundial, with the word "Fugio" to the left. Below the dial is the motto "Mind Your Business," a saying attributed to Franklin. This central design is enclosed by two circles, while around the border in large letters is the inscription "Continental Currency 1776." On the reverse is a circle of thirteen links, each of which bears the name of one of the thirteen colonies. In the center is a radiation, which encloses a double circle, in which are the words "American Congress. We Are One."

No definite information as to where the Continental currency dollar was made can now be obtained. But it is thought to have been produced by one of the engravers of Birmingham, England, in which city were made many of the coins that were circulated in this country during Colonial days and the most of which are now highly valued by collectors.

The design of the dollar was evidently suggested by the devices of the first Continental currency paper issues. On the obverse of one of these notes was a representation of a sun as a human face shining upon a dial, with the word "Fugio". Just above was a representation of the moon, also as a face. The latter, however, found no place in the design of the silver dollar. Underneath the dial was the motto "Mind Your Business." The reverse design of the note showed almost the identical design borne by the Continental dollar and seems to have been embodied intact.

Several varieties of these Continental dollars are now known, and not only were there various designs showing trifling differences but they occur in different metals, silver, brass and white metal. The rarest of the series, the one owned by Mr. Granberg, shows marked differences from some of the others. Underneath the dial and above the motto is inscribed in small letters "E G Fecit." "E G" are supposed to have been the initials of the engraver of the dies.

From what can be learned there are only two specimens of the above dollar known in silver, the one owned by Mr. Granberg and another said to be in the collection of an Eastern historical society. The variety is also rare and held at a premium. The one in brass is much rarer than that in white metal.

The next rarest of the Continental currency dollar is of similar design to that mentioned above, but the engraver in cutting the dies made an error in spelling "currency" with but one "r". A similar specimen, showing this error, and the only one known in the metal, was formerly in the collection of John G. Mills of Albany, whose collection was sold in 1904. The coin at that time brought $500. Since that time the values of Colonial coins particularly, have risen enormously and that dollar would now bring a very much higher figure if offered for sale.

The design showing the error was also struck in brass and white metal. It has been stated by experts that only five are known in brass. One of these, also offered at the Mills sale, brought $27, which would be largely advanced if sold today. The same variety in white metal brought $18 at the Mills sale.

There must have been a considerable issue of coins of this design in white metal, judging by the number of dies that were made, as evidenced by the known specimens. One design, with the error in the spelling of "currency," shows a comma under the letter "n." It was struck in brass from recut dies. But two such specimens are known, and the last record of sale of one, the Parmelee sale of 1890, held in this city, was $26. Even the commonest of the white metal specimens are held at a premium of several dollars.

The only contemporary mention of these pieces is given in Crosby's "Early Coins of America" and was taken from Watson's "Chemical Essays" (Dublin, 1791), in reference to coins of this design struck in tin.

Said he: "The Congress in America had recourse to the same expedient (evidently discussing the striking of pewter coins); they coined several pieces of about an inch and a half in diameter and of 240 grains in weight, on one side of which was inscribed in a circular ring near the edge "Continental Currency, 1776," and within the ring a rising sun with "Fugio" at the side of it shining upon a dial, under which was "Mind Your Business." On the reverse was thirteen small circles, on each of which was inscribed the name of some one of the thirteen states; on another ring within these was inscribed "American Congress" and in the central space "We Are One." I have been particular in the mention of this piece of money because, like the leaden money which was struck at Vienna when that city was besieged by the Turks in 1529, it will soon become a great curiosity. I estimated the weight of a cubic foot of this continental currency; it was equal to 7,440 ounces. This exceeds the weight of our best sort of pewter and falls short of our worst. I conjecture that the metal of the Continental currency consisted of twelve parts tin and one of lead."

The reverse design of the Continental dollar was also used in conjunction with a very rare medal issued in 1783 in commemoration of the final arrangement for peace between England and America. The obverse of this medal showed Britannia seated facing to the left. By her side is a shield with the crosses of St. George and St. Andrew. In her left hand is a spear and her right is extended to an Indian queen, who is advancing with a bow in her right hand and quiver behind her back. Between them flies a dove with an olive branch. In the distance is a view of London, in which appear St. Paul's Cathedral and the Monument. It is said that there are only two known specimens of this medal, one of which, formerly owned by Dr. Charles Clay of Manchester, England, was sold in New York in 1871 for $31. It is not known where the piece is now located. The design was struck only in tin.

THE STAMPLESS SOUTH POLE.

The South Pole has been polished off the rapidly diminishing list of places the white man has not trod. Amazing it is that out of the several expeditions going at one and the same time with the same object in view, but one has probably made the conquest of the hitherto elusive Pole, and that one is the only one which hadn't a special philatelic department. Captain Scott may have got to the Pole—we hope he has—but the present evidence is that Captain Amundsen got there. Captain Scott carried his little bunch of overprinted, New Zealand stamps, Dr. Mawson, of the Australian Expedition, carried a special postmark with a penguin as central device and Lieutenant Filchner, of the German Antarctic Expedition, had a special label—as philatelically attractive looking as a British Guiana of the '52 kind—shewing the whaling ship "Deutschland." Yet Amundsen, sans philatelic fancy, reached the Pole. Perhaps Norway will make it up to the intrepid Captain by placing his portrait on a stamp of his native country in celebration of his great exploit.—Postage Stamp.

THE WONDERLAND OF STAMPS.

(Price of this book is $1.50 post free. It can be obtained at the office of the WEEKLY.)

Entertainment and instruction are blended in "The Wonderland of Stamps," by W. Dwight Burroughs. It is a veritable fairy book, woven in the wonderland of the actual, presenting little thumb-nail sketches of history, mythology and natural history in language which a child can readily comprehend.

The volume contains reproductions of 200 stamps, from all over the world, and representing all the phases of its growth since stamps were first devised. A good-natured uncle, with a large collection of stamps, explains them, with a running commentary on the events commemorated for the benefit of his nephews and nieces, but the grown-up who dips into the volume is certain to read it to the end.

Those who have regarded stamp collecting merely as a fad will find that they have taken only a superficial view of the subject, and that the dry bones may be invested with an abiding charm. The stamps issued in commemoration of the various expositions are full of history lessons; the birds and the beasts which various countries have used on their stamps constitute a valuable lesson in natural history and geography, while the discourse on rare stamps gives an insight into the surprising value of stamps.

Mr. Burroughs' delicate humor and his deft touch in the difficult field of child stories have long been recognized. To the work just issued he has given the most exhaustive research and painstaking care. It comes to supply a distinct need, and should be in demand not only from the enthusiastic stamp collector, but from the general public, including the children of a larger growth. Mr. Burroughs is a newspaper man in Baltimore.

INTERESTING RARE STAMPS.

The "Post Office" Mauritius.

(Concluded from last week.)

When Major E. B. Evans was in Port Louis in 1878 he purchased a collection of stamps from a professor of music which contained a specimen of the 1d on entire envelope. In 1884 Major Evans sold this stamp to the late Mr. Tapling and this is now in the National collection at the British Museum.

Mr. Marcel Pouget, of Bordeaux, obtained a used specimen of the 1d in January, 1897 and sold it to M. Kirchner. The latter gentleman sold it three years later but to whom and where this specimen now rests I cannot say.

In 1898 a niece of M. E. Duvivier was destroying a number of old papers and found among them an envelope, addressed to her uncle, containing an invitation to Lady Gomm's ball. This was franked with a 1d "Post Office" and it was purchased in March by Mr. Peckitt at "the highest price ever paid for a single stamp." It was sold to an English collector soon after Mr. Peckitt acquired it.

In November of the same year Mr. Peckitt purchased two more of these famous stamps—both 1d ones. They were both on the same letter sheet and this was found in an Indian bazaar at Bombay by Mr. Howard. The price this gentleman asked for them was $12,500.00 but the figure he actually received was not made public. Mr. Vernon Roberts, of Manchester, was the purchaser of these and he held them until 1906 when they were again in Mr. Peckitt's hands for sale. They were shown at the Philatelic Exhibition held in London in that year and naturally attracted a good deal of attention. They were then or soon afterwards, acquired by Mr. G. H. Worthington, the famous Cleveland collector, and now form one of the finest pieces in his wonderful collection.

Having mentioned to some friends her good luck in finding a 1d "Post Office" Mauritius among her Uncle's papers, Mlle. Duvivier induced some friends to make a careful search through some letters as it was known that a relative of the family had been invited to the Gomm ball. The search resulted in the discovery of another 1d and this was acquired by M. Th. Lemaire. Soon afterwards Mr. Peckitt had it and he sold it to Mr. H. J. Duveen in whose magnificent collection it still remains.

In 1899 another 2d "Post Office" was found in Mauritius but what became of this specimen I have been unable to discover. In February, 1903, M. Th. Lemaire purchased an envelope, on which were both values, at a price "closely approaching $7,500.00" but what became of these I do not know. In the same year another "pair" was discovered but what happened to these does not appear to have been made public.

The last specimen to be discovered is, curiously enough, the finest of all the known copies. Mr. J. Bonar, a Hampstead gentleman, happened to turn up an old collection made as a school-boy and among a lot of very common stamps he found a superb unused specimen of the 2d "Post Office." This was placed in the hands of Messrs. Puttick & Simpson and was sold at their auction on January 13th, 1904. The purchaser was His Majesty King George V (then Prince of Wales) and the price paid for it was the record one of $7,250.00. It now forms the choicest item in His Majesty's collection.

GUATEMALA ONCE MORE.

Mr. A. H. Weber takes me to task for not giving a better explanation of the differences between the lithographed and engraved stamps of Guatemala which have already formed the subject of frequent paragraphs in these columns. Mr. Weber tells me that all the lithographs were printed from one stone the numerals of value being added as needed, consequently the position of the numerals is no test at all for they may be found almost anywhere in the value tablet. He further writes "The true distinction lies in the shade lines at the top of the stamps. They are uniform in the lithographed stamps while in the engraved the top four lines at the left and the top six lines at the right are twice as thick as those below them. This is a clear, sharp distinction good for all values." We have, therefore, worked round in a complete circle for it was this very test that my original correspondent found unreliable, so far as he, personally, was concerned at any rate. I have not sufficient of these stamps by me at the moment to state whether this test is sufficiently marked to serve as a guide to the inexperienced collector but in any case the practical method of pressing tin-foil on the stamps as described in a recent number of the Weekly can always be relied on.

VERTICALLY AND HORIZONTALLY LAID PAPER.

A correspondent naively asks, "What are the lines in vertically and horizontally laid paper vertical and horizontal to?" In the case of stamps on vertically laid paper the laid lines are upright extending from top to bottom of the stamps. In horizontally laid paper the laid lines run across the stamps from side to side. The same distinction holds good in the case of envelopes the lines being vertical or horizontal in relation to the stamp when looked at in its normal position with the design upright.

SHORT REPLIES.

G. K. (Xenia, O.)—The Mauritius stamp you describe is Scott's number 47. The word cancelled was applied to the remainders of these stamps at a much later date than the original "HALFPENNY" surcharge. The value of these "Cancelled" is only 2c.

K. R. (Boston)—To make a list of stamps issued without gum would take considerable time and then would be of interest to such a small proportion of readers that the task would hardly be worth while.

F. B. (Elmina)—You will find full information regarding new U. S. A. stamps or proposed new stamps in the New Issue columns of the Weekly.

M. H., Jr. (Manchester, N. H.)—There are numerous varieties of the kind you mention in the 3c stamps of 1851. Dr. Carroll Chase wrote an interesting book some little time ago dealing solely with this one stamp and its many varieties.

THE STAMPS OF SWAZIELAND.

Nearly everybody is acquainted with the circumstances under which the control of Swazieland fell to the South African Republic, and it will therefore be needless for me to enlarge on its early history. In 1889 it became necessary to have an issue of stamps exclusively for this territory, and they were provided by overprinting the word "Swazieland" over the then current issue of the stamps of the South African Republic.

The first issue therefore was surcharged on the Transvaal 1885, all but the 2d, for which the stamp of the year 1887 was used (the 1885 brown 2d having been already replaced by the olive 2d of 1887). The surcharge, which was in black, was printed on the following stamps:—

½d, grey, on Transvaal of 1885.
1d, carmine, on do., do.
2d, olive, on Transvaal of 1887.
6d, blue, on Transvaal of 1885.
1s, green, on do., do.
2s 6d, yellow, on do., do.
5s, slate, on do., do.
10s, brown, on do., do.

As has been generally the case in South African surcharges, the printer is responsible for several vagaries, which I shall endeavour to enumerate as far as possible, and as far as they have come or been brought under my notice. We shall call them varieties, for such they undoubtedly are, and at the conclusion of my paper I will give a short resume of the dates of issue and the quantities issued. It would, of course, be an utter impossibility to estimate with any exactness the number of some of the varieties, but I will try and give you a fair idea and leave you to judge for yourselves whether or not most of them should not be classed with the proverbial "R. R. R."

I will not include in my list of varieties minor things, like broken or mutilated letters, the overprint too high or too low, too much on one side or the other, but only touch upon the properly acknowledged varieties.

The ½d, 2d and 5s.—These we find with the overprint inverted, as well as with a final "d" in "Swazieland" omitted, in other words, overprinted "Swazielan."

The 1s appears only with the inverted overprint.

The 6d and 10s stamps were lucky enough to escape any of the foregoing irregularities.

As far as I have been able to ascertain, and it is pretty near correct if not altogether so, the numbers of the aforementioned varieties issued were as follows:—

5s Inverted Overprint:—One sheet of 60 stamps only. As the overprint without the final "d" appears but once in every sheet, the stamp of this value with the inverted overprint "Swazielan" must be a unique specimen.

5s, "Swazieland" inverted, 59.
5s, "Swazielan" inverted, 1.

1s, Inverted Overprint. Of this value there were at least five sheets of 60 each that received overprint inverted.

1s, "Swazieland" inverted, 300.

Of the ½d and 2d with inverted overprints I have been unable to arrive at the number definitely, but it is safe to presume that there were more of these values than of the 1s. In my opinion there must have been at least eight or ten sheets of 60 each of the 2d stamp, and perhaps a few sheets more of the ½d.

In 1892 the surcharge on the ½d stamp was changed from black to red. This variety appears with the surcharge inverted, and also with double surcharge.

The variety without final "d" does not exist in the red overprint.

The quantities issued were as follows:

On or about the 18th October, 1889—
½d, 1d, 2d, 6d and 1s, 30,000 each
On or about the 21st Oct., 1890
2s 6d, 1800
5s, 600
10s, 300

In August, 1891, somewhere about the middle of that month, a further 1,800 5s stamps were overprinted, bringing the number of this value up to 2,400 in all. In 1892 it became necessary to issue a further supply of ½d stamps, and 18,000 were surcharged, this time in red. The reason for the change of colour in the overprint is not quite apparent to me, although it was presumably on account of the black not showing sufficiently on the pearl-grey stamp. To sum up, therefore:—

½d	30,000	1d	30,000	2d	30,000
6d	30,000	1sh	30,000	2sh 6d	1,800
5sh	2,400	10sh	300

All surcharged "Swazieland," in black.
½d 18,000 surcharged in red.

These stamps were withdrawn in 1893, from which period the ordinary stamps of the Transvaal were used. Owing, no doubt, to the simplicity of the surcharge, and the enhanced value as compared with the original stamps used for the purpose, this little family has drawn the attention of forgers, but as, in the event of this paper proving interesting, I may be called upon again, I consider it wise to keep a little up my sleeve, and thank you all for the attention given me.—South African Philatelist.

NASSAU STAMP CO., LTD.

A STUDY IN LINES.

By FRANK E. GOODWIN.

St. Louis, Mo., Mar. 19, 1912.

To the Editor:—

Just to stimulate, perhaps, the study of stamps in the same manner that the hunt for Columbian varieties has, I am enclosing a list of varieties in the 3 cent 1857-60, which might start someone going.

I claim no discoveries, because these have probably been noted by experts. Be that as it may, most collectors of U. S. have but two or three of these stamps in their collections, and call it complete.

In re Columbians, I have the 1 cent shifted die right and left. Have pairs showing one with shifted die, and the other without.

Have the 4 cent Columbian with cap on slanting line of "4" at right and capped on both "4s".

Have the 8 cent Columbian without cap over figure 9, N. W. The normal type has a distinct cap of white over that figure.

The 5 cent Jamestown has upper right corner of shield broken, with white line running across diagonally from N. W. to S. E.

Yours very truly.
FRANK E. GOODWIN.

The hunt for minor varieties, real and imaginary, seems to have reawakened interest in stamps. It is well. No one should sneer at the discoveries (?) in the Columbian field. Anything which will move collectors to deep study of their stamps, whether it be to find spots caused by improper wiping of the plates, or a slip of the sheet in printing, certainly will give philately an impetus which should be encouraged, rather than laughed down.

The student of stamps who does not care to go quite as far as Dr. Chase in an effort to reconstruct a plate, or who fails when he tries to separate the different varieties of the common three cent red of 1857 according to the chart of Tiffany, can find a considerable field for study in the die varieties of that old, familiar stamp. One can easily collect a couple of dozen distinct varieties of the aforesaid Three Cent Red of Eighteen Fifty-Seven-Sixty without subjecting himself to a visit to an oculist afterwards.

Not counting the line-splitting measurements, nor the presence or absence of guide dots, the writer has mounted 33 of these stamps, each one of which has some distinguishing feature from any other. Those so far charted, according to my own way, without reference to any book or other assistance, are:

1—Two parallel vertical lines extending entire length of stamp at right, only.
3—Two lines, same as above, at left, only.
4—Two lines, same as above, but single line at right touches engraving.
5—Single line both sides—line touches engraving entire length at right.
6—Same, except single line touches engraving entire length at left.
7—Same, except single line touches engraving entire length both right and left.
8—Single line, joins losenge N. W.—normal space at right.
10—Single line at right has doubly wide space between it and engraving.
11—All lines are entirely removed along right side of stamp.
12—Vertical outer lines extend at top and bottom to meet joining stamps.
13—Outer lines extend at top; cut off at bottom on line with engraving.
14—Outer lines extend at bottom; cut off at top on line with engraving.
15—Outer line is cut off at N. E. corner only.
16—Outer line is cut off at N. W. corner only.
17—Outer line is cut off at S. E. corner only.
18—Outer line is cut off at S. W. corner only.
20—Single line has been almost entirely removed at right and left, showing faint trace.
21—Two lines, inner line extends half way down from top, at right.
23—Single line is broken at left, just below level with chin.
24—Single line bends inward at S. W. rosette.
25—Single line is heavy and shades at S. W. rosette.
26—A trace of outer line runs about one-third of way down at N. W.
27—A distinct dash crosses rosette horizontally at S. E.

31—Line just below rosette at N. E. broken and new start made with engraving tool.

32—A faint inner line almost touches outer line at right.

33—Single line at right is very fine and broken in several places.

There are likely other varieties, which the writer has not found. He would be glad to hear that there are others—real, collectable line or die varieties. As these stamps cost but little it might be interesting and add to the size of the collection, if not the value, by digging out as many of them as possible. They certainly make a handsome page when neatly mounted.

PLEASURES OF STAMP COLLECTING.

A Short Essay Written Many Years Ago in Which A New Word Is Coined.—Find the Word.

By A. N. CAUDELL.

From the time of Noah who was preeminent as an animal collector, it seems to have been the inclination of a vast number of people to gather up objects of some description. This collecting fever attacks nearly all at some period of their lives and the objects sought by the various cranks are as varied as March weather. It is a peculiar fact that an enthusiast in one branch of collecting often fails to see anything rational in the avocation of the hobbyist in a different field. Thus the autograph crank may consider the stamp collector an idiot while the collector of eggs ceases his labor of plundering birds' nests to gaze in derision at the bug hunter dashing by in mad pursuit of an active grasshopper or alluring butterfly. Thus what is desirable by one may be uninteresting to another. In an old coin the numismatist sees wonders where another may see only so much metal. The archaeologist goes into ecstasies of delight over an ancient specimen of barbarian skill while an unsympathetic brother stands by in undisguised amazement and, mayhaps, disgust. Thus none but the collector himself, whatever his specialty, can fully understand the pleasure derived from the accession of a new and desirable addition to his collection.

All collectors can well be placed into one of two divisions, namely: collectors of natural objects, as animals, birds, insects, fossils, oars, plants etc. and collectors of things made by man, as bric-a-brac, books, stamps, coins, autographs etc. Of these two classes of objects collected the first is of undoubted superiority, as a piece of sand stone can teach more lessons than can the stamp collectors choicest specimen while there is more to be learned from a buzzing mosquito than from the autograph of any defunct nabob that ever wrote his name. It is not the aim of this essay to compare the merits of the various phases of collecting but to consider briefly the subject of stamp collecting.

The hobby of collecting stamps, or more properly and scientifically speaking, philately, is of comparatively recent origin. This fact is evident when we remember that stamps came into general use scarely more than fifty years ago, the exact date of their general introduction into our postal service being 1847. Since the initiative issue of 1847, consisting of a five and a ten cent value, we have had many others, some varying from their successors in minor points only and others with essential differences.

As stamps grew into numbers from hundreds to thousands the collector appeared. Where he came from I do not know but come he did and there are now thousands of these philunatics scattered throughout the whole civilized world. No nation is exempt from the species. The craze has spread to the four corners of the globe and affects some of the most illustrious of its inhabitants. The army of stamp collectors includes members of almost all professions, doctors, lawyers, bankers, professors and even kings being represented in its ranks. Truly the little stamp has much attraction for great minds.

Stamp enthusiasts claim perpetuity for philately and some demand its recognition as a science. As to perpetuating the craze it certainly appears as if our philatelic friends are to achieve success for it is now an institution of a goodly number of years standing and the transactions in the field amount to many thousands of dollars per year.

The price of stamps is like the temper of some women, always on the rise. Stamps which might have been bought for a few pennies five or ten years ago now command prices many times greater. The scarcity of stamps regulate their value for, like all objects of traffic, they are controlled by the universal law of supply and demand. It is not always the oldest stamp that commands the highest price but the one of which the fewest number is available. Many of the rarer stamps are far beyond the means of the ordinary collector, some being valued at several thousand dollars. There are many wealthy collectors who buy such stamps as these but the success of the stamp merchant is not dependent upon such customers as these. It is rather to the thousands of medium collectors that the dealer looks to for support and to keep the interest of such up to the buying point the philatelic periodicals of the land are kept well supplied with such literature as enthuses the reader with the collective fever. It is said, and truly so, that stamp collecting is of material aid in the study of language, history and geography. Some say that stamp collecting is an inexpensive hobby but this is not wholly true as I well know from personal experience. It outrivals chewing gum and cigarettes in taking pin money from the purses of boys and girls but nickles and dimes judiciously expended for stamps are not lost but comprise an investment often more remunerative than a like amount deposited in a savings bank.

Being amusing and instructive and, when pursued with judgment, remunerative, philately is a clean healthful hobby and one to be recommended to all.

IMPRINTS AND PLATE NUMBERS.

Jan. 14, 1909—Commencing with this date all plates were made with graduated vertical spaces. Previously narrow in the middle the spaces were graduated wider to the sides and besides the bureau imprint and plate number a star was placed on the margin of the plate to indicate the change from uniform spacing.

Nov. 15, 1910—The graduated spaces were changed to the wide spacings, all uniform, and the "A" was added.

Dec. 1, 1911—Only "A" and the plate number were inserted on the plates. Imprint omitted.

Mar. 7, 1912—Letter "A" discontinued and plate number only to be used in future.

☞This is the story in a nutshell.

PERCIVAL PARRISH, PRESIDENT,

U. S. PART PERFORATE COILS.

Van Dyk MacBride sends us the following check list of U. S. part perforates, indicating these varieties as being in his possession, or creditably reported:—

1908 issue—part perf. 12—old wmk.
1c perf. endwise and sidewise.
2c perf. endwise and sidewise.
3c perf. sidewise.
4c perf. endwise and sidewise.
5c perf. endwise and sidewise.
10c perf. sidewise.

1910 issue—part perf. 12—new wmk.
1c perf. endwise and sidewise.
2c perf. endwise and sidewise.

1910 issue—part perf. 8½—new wmk.
1c perf. endwise and sidewise.
2c perf. endwise and sidewise.
3c perf. sidewise.
5c perf. endwise and sidewise.

Mr. MacBride in the above list names a 4c perforated endwise not found in the official list furnished by the P. O. authorities and published in MEKEEL'S WEEKLY two weeks ago. This is rather interesting and further information will no doubt soon be available.

Our correspondent further informs us that the 3c, given as perforated sidewise in the list referred to March 30, is found perforated endwise in the 1910 issue, perf. 12. Mr. MacBride has not seen this value but is assured that it has been reported in the philatelic press. We are glad to publish the above check list and shall be glad to have corrections or additions sent in.

LITTLE SCRAPS OF PAPER.

By CHAS. CARLSON.

Reading of The World Wide Hobby my mind runs back to boyhood days in school, where sorrow and hardship were unknown. If you could get a cabbage head for your rabbits, a few cents in your pocket for some old books, when the regular book-auction day was due, and some old postage stamps for your trading business, you would not worry, if the moon ran against the sun; or if some comet-star would sweep mother earth with its tail. You were happy. But years have passed. Some time when the dark clouds are covering your sunshine, you hunt up the old scraps of paper, as some people call them. You take a look at them and you are day-dreaming of childhood. The Deerslayer, The Last of the Mohicans. The Indians are coming, put your hands against the belt, to find out if the scalping knife and the lasso are at the proper place. "Where did you get them Hamburg and Thurn and Taxis?" "I traded for some Heligoland and Saxony. I bought a three cornered Cape of Good Hope and a one penny Natal this morning." "Oh, get out! You are no millionaire." "Mother give me some money this morning, because I promised to not use any more of her clothsline for a lasso. The old lady who keeps the milking goats, has been complaining to mother about the roping in by the young Indians. But say! I got something new. Columbus landing in America, a Locomotive and a Steamboat. They are fine pictures, better looking than New Foundland or Egypt. It will take some coin to buy any of them." Huh! an Indian struck me in the head with a tomahawk. No! It was a German at Metz, who hit me in the neck with a wet, sloppy snowball. I woke up. The dark clouds had disappeared and the sun was shining. Queer little pieces of paper. Some are attractive and good-looking. But some have the symptoms of old age and in the most cases are too homely to look at, but like old wine they improve with age. Whether a person has a philatelic education or not, it matters very little, the stamps are a good study in history and geography. If you are not color-blind, they are also splendid instructors in color and shades, so even without their high prices, they are very good little scraps of paper.

EDITORIAL.

That Waste Paper—The use of the term, "waste paper" in connection with a little homily on the one-cent postal savings bank stamp last week has excited some inquiry; and a word of explanation becomes necessary. Section 357 of the postal laws and regulations reads: "Postmasters must carefully preserve all waste paper which included dead and unclaimed domestic printed matter, facing slips that have been used, and all other useless paper and all twine waste, including remnants of twine unfit for use. As much as possible should be realized from this waste matter, and when practicable it should be sold before the expiration of the quarter and the proceeds accounted for as postal funds. Sales should be made in the neighborhood of the post-office if possible. Waste paper and twine cannot be sent free in the mails to a purchaser and mail bags must not be used to store or carry it away." Under the waste paper definition, we did not wish to include the used postal savings stamps and say that it was obligatory for the postmaster to turn over to the postal funds any proceeds from the sale of such stamps. We do not know what opinion the postoffice department would have on the question if it were called to the attention of the officers; and it may be wholly within the rights of the postmaster to sell the stamps that come to the office on official business for the benefit of their personal accounts.

To Good Use—Coincidentally with the foregoing item, an order has been issued from Washington amending a paragraph of the section that has been quoted, and it is as follows: "Undeliverable printed matter, such as picture cards, newspapers, magazines, and other periodical publications falling within the term 'waste paper,' for which no sale can be effected, may, if suitable for the purpose be delivered by postmasters, on application therefor, to the proper local municipal authorities for distribution to hospitals, asylums, or other charitable or reformatory institutions." We trust that any undelivered copies of our great moral sheet will be distributed to reformatory institutions as we know that highly correctional results will follow.

A Question of Rider—From the Philatelic Gazette, we learn that Mr. John A. Klemann has had the good fortune to secure "the original black pencil sketch of the 2 cent 1869 series—the pony express rider." A cut of this item of postal memorabilia is given by our contemporary and shows an enlarged picture that seems to be faithful in all of its details to the central design of the two-cent, 1869. However, the description, "pony express rider" does not exactly apply to the horseman on the stamp in question which represented the regular postal rider of the times. In a collection of pony express rider portraits gathered from different sources, there is none that is the prototype of the design on the two-cent stamp of the 1869 issue and the "little sacks of the pony rider" differed from the regulation government mailbag standards. While on this subject, we may as well insert the oath taken by the pony express riders, a copy of which was sent to us by a reader some time ago: "I,———, do hereby swear, before the Great and Living God, that during my engagement and while I am in the employ of Russell, Majors and Waddle, I will under no circumstances, use profane language, that I will drink no intoxicating liquors, that I will not quarrel or fight with any other employe of the firm and that, in every respect, I will conduct myself honestly, be faithful to my duties and so direct all my actions as to win the confidence of all my employers. So help me God."

Shades and Lines—Mr. Guy West Wilson, West Raleigh, N. C., shows a one-cent stamped envelope, current issue, in olive green, "instead of the brighter shade formerly used." He says that he has the new color on all the papers but blue. An examination of early examples of this envelope issue yields some in the shade illustrated by our correspondent and it is to be questioned whether the shade differences are intentional or other than those that mark the working out of different batches of inks. Mr. Wilson also specifies three varieties in the Columbian two-cent that have not been listed; verily, their name is legion. We must call a halt, at least temporarily, on the Columbian varieties, which have descended on us in overwhelming numbers. Nearly every reader has been his own Columbus; and before we have the hardihood to list any more, we shall have to have a parley with our printers, who say they are becoming nervous wrecks from wrestling with the exciting details of Columbian copy.

Discoverer Discovered—Dr. H. A. Davis, Denver, publisher of the Vest Pocket Philatelist, has written as follows: "Noting your editorial in the WEEKLY under date of March 23rd, relative to a variety of the two-cent brown of 1883, recalls to mind my two column description of this variety in No. 98 of the Stamp Journal, February, 1908. . . I have written to Mr. Ashenhurst relative to the same and have sent him a copy of the number in question." We thank Dr. Davis and are pleased to attribute the discovery to him. A reader has directed attention to the same variety in the 2-cent green, 1887, which, naturally could be expected as the latter stamp was printed from the plates of the red brown stamp.

Shop Talk—A dealer had just bought an ordinary collection that contained a few good United States and a customer looking over the pages saw a thirty-cent, 1861, catalogued at 75 cents. "How much?" he asked pointing to the stamp. "One dollar,—it catalogues 75 cents," said the dealer. "Is it a rare variety?" questioned the surprised collector. "Exceedingly," answered the dealer, "it's a used copy, perfect in coloring, centering and cancellation. Catalogue is too cheap for it but I have good average copies in stock at half catalogue. I would have paid catalogue for the stamp which I expect to put in my 'beauty book.' Condition counts, you see." "Yes," said the collector, "it counts like a circulation manager or the candidate who estimates his majority before election."

Joys Forever—When interrogated as to what his "beauty book" was the dealer aforesaid said that when absolute perfection was embodied in a used stamp of the better grade, exclusive of rarities, that ordinarily came rather poorly, he could not hope to sell it at an adequate price. Consequently, he enjoyed putting it in a book among other exemplars of the maximum of perfection in used specimens, with the expectation that some day a champion of condition would come along and pay prices that would make those quoted in the catalogue farcical, indeed. We suspect this dealer to be a real stamp lover, as many of the dealers are, and that he takes this exclusive course because he loves perfect stamps and hates to see them go from his possession.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from Herman W. Boers, (3), A. P. S. No. 3553; Edward Ebbels.

—G. A. Hunt sends us some specimens of chemical changelings and the results are certainly very interesting. It is a well-known fact that reds, greens and blues are easily changed by the action of acids and the recent article by Mr. Kjellstedt has no doubt resulted in considerable experimenting along this line. Mr. Hunt adds, "The 2c blue Navy can easily be changed to green. Fortunately however, no matter how good a changeling is made, there is one simple re-agent that will restore it to its original color."

The Most Satisfactory

method of purchasing stamps is from approval selections when the specimens can be examined at leisure. I make a specialty of approval books arranged by countries. Each book contains the stamps of a single country, used and unused being shown as well as pairs and blocks of four when occasion warrants their inclusion. Frequently from three to eight copies of a variety are shown so that the discriminating collector finds ample choice. They have delighted scores of particular general collectors and enthusiastic specialists so why not write for the book of your favorite country? You will be more than pleased with the fine selection sent. First class references are essential from collectors not known to me.

CURRENT CHATTER.

By ANGUS MCTAVISH.

Congratulations to Mr. W. H. Peckitt who has purchased the major portion of Lord Crawford's world-famous collection. This only proves what a half-page advertisement in the P. J. G. B. will do.

Saith the March number of one of America's most amusing stamp papers: "Angus McTavish writes an interesting letter each month for one of England's best journals. Wit and humor are Angus' chief materials and he weaves them skilfully into all stamp news of the day."

The above refers to me and the P. J. G. B. What America thinks to-day, Manchester thought several years ago, Eh what?

The February 1st number of the Philatelic Gazette, says:—

"We know of one prominent firm who has trained its employees to hinge stamps in such a manner as to allow transferring half-a-dozen times without requiring the renewing of a hinge."

In Holles Street, London, they keep a staff consisting of two Generals, four Majors, twelve Sergeants, and a battalion of commissionaires purposely to train new arrivals destined to work in the approval departments. If, after three months' tongue drill they are unable satisfactorily to mount the small half penny South Australians and Victorians they are allowed a trial in section eight of the commemorative approval branch of the business.

Continuing the subject the P. G. says:—"Just as little as possible of the back should be covered, as any portion of the original gum, once covered by a hinge, is practically lost for ever.

It was ever thus.

The Stamp Journal, U. S. A., is reponsible for the following:—"Readers have not been at all backward about renewding their subscriptions—our list of inluiquents is much smaller this year than in previous years."

A very eloquent way of putting it, but surely a small pocket dictionary should be given as a premium.

The Stampster of Olathe, Kansas is an amusing little stamp paper. Its editor evidently has his likes and dislikes. He says:—"Generally speaking, the surcharge is another freak that merits excoriation. What do you think of Nicaragua? Biff! This indulgent old gentleman is going to tell you what he thinks of Nicaragua. Last Monday he took a garden rake and cleaned the Banana Republic out of his album and gave the whole bunch to his little grandson to paste on the bulldog's back!"

The McTavish, also Biffs, but whose bulldog? Buster Brown's?

The same versatile scribe refers to the obsolescent U. S. A. series of 1908! I hope this isn't the result of Bertram having gone to live in California!

A year or so ago I commenced storing up my P. J. G. B.'s with the idea one day, when I felt strong enough, of reading Mr. P. L. Pemberton's series of articles on the stamps of Greece. The months slip past, and Mr. Pemberton's paper grows more and more like Tennyson's Brook. In the meantime I am studying the 1878 edition of the late Edward L. Pemberton's Handbook which says, apropos Greece.

"Remarks.—No attempt has been made to divide the shades; they are very marked, but innumerable."

Pemberton père seems to have got there in three lines.

The following are a couple of extracts from an American auction catalogue:—

"13.—Further, the question of gum on an unused stamp, or a straight edge or an off centered copy, should not be called 'damaged.' We do not so consider it. Many stamps are better off and safer to handle and keep if they have no gum, others never had gum. Straight edges which are from the outside stamps of the sheets were so issued as were also such stamps as are not perfectly centered.

"14.—Again, a weak place described in the catalogue does not affect the face or front of a stamp and cannot be generally noted unless the stamp is held up to the light, and if it is not a badly skinned stamp it is considered a good copy and frequently is of magnificent appearance."

13.—The stamp may be better off without gum, but the owner won't be.

14.—To obviate this difficulty either do not hold the stamps up to the light—or else always arrange your stamps in the sanctity of a dark coal cellar.—Phil. Journal Gt. Britain.

SELKIRK'S CENTENNIAL POSTMARK.

We have received from Edward Ebbels and J. W. Longnecker specimens of a new stamp cancellation for Winnipeg, Canada. Mr. Ebbels sends us a clipping from the Winnipeg Free Press giving the particulars.

The cancellation is oblong rectangular in shape and encloses the following in four lines: —"Selkirk Centennial, Winnipeg, July 10-20, 1912."

The centennial referred to will be in connection with the Canadian Industrial Exhibition. The cancelling stamp was put into use on Saturday, March 29.

SUPREME

We have acquired the superb

20th Century Collection of D. Pick, New York City

which may be described as perfection. The stamps include almost everything in the issues of this century and high values abound. For instance, The Pound values of Sierra Leone, Victoria, Western Australia, Transvaal, Rhodesia, Southern Nigeria, etc., are there and Papua, British New Guinea, Gilbert & Ellice, New Hebrides Condominium, etc., are practically complete.

An excellent opportunity is given collectors to fill in their countries, twentieth century, in a condition beyond criticism.

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Any information regarding new issues will be gratefully received and acknowledged. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, 17 Addison St., Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed, stamped envelope. We cannot give applicants the addresses of our correspondents. Correspondence regarding precancelled stamps must be sent to FRANK B. ELDREDGE, Attleboro, Mass., when due credit will be given in this department.

UNITED STATES.—We are indebted to William L. Aldrich & Co., Arthur Barger, Thomas Hyatt and Henry C. Buland for specimens of the new Postal Savings official envelope and information regarding the same. The stamp is similar to those previously chronicled, and is printed in very dark green on oriental buff paper, watermarked "USSE—1911" in the current type for ordinary envelopes. The envelopes we have seen are in the official size.

Arthur Barger reports having the 1c violet postal savings stamp on paper watermarked single line letters.

Thomas Hyatt reports having seen the following Postal Savings official envelopes: Size 7, 1c green on amber, 1911 watermark; size 7, 2c red on white, both 1907 and 1911 watermarks; size 8, 2c red on white, both 1907 and 1911 watermarks.

Donald H. Graham sends us specimens of the 1c blue of 1895 and 1c green of 1908, which have the right line of the right triangle broken, similar to that reported by W. O. Thiede in No. 1101. Mr. Graham also sends a permit No. 143, 6c, of Sacramento, Cal., which has been changed to No. 155, the new frame and the lines obliterating the old one being printed with a rubber stamp. Mr. Graham reports the 4c envelope with the 1911 watermark.

Nathan Cobe has shown us the new 2c stamp, with figures in the lower corners, imperforate.

AUSTRIA.—We are indebted to Lawrence Wheeler for a specimen of compound envelope or wrapper from Austria, the 5h and 10h Jubilee stamps of 1908 having been printed upon the same piece. The particular specimen at hand has been used as a label upon a book sent to the Principal of the High School at Princeton, Indiana, so that we cannot say surely whether the original document was an envelope, a wrapper or simply a label.

BERMUDA.—Benedict Prieth shows us the new 2½d ultramarine in the "Hog Money" type, which was issued March 26. It is certainly a beautiful stamp.

A correspondent writes to Ewen's Weekly, as follows:— "The bicoloured farthing stamp is sold out at the local post offices and none can be had anywhere. If the new unicoloured issue is not quickly forthcoming, it is possible that a bisected ½d stamp may be used provisionally, as there is a great demand here for the farthing value.

"No 6d and 1sh values have been on sale here for months, and nobody seems to know when the new issue will be forthcoming. There has been some talk of provisionals, as there is a large demand for the high denominations for the payment of postage on large parcels of Easter Lily bulbs etc., which often amounts to 4 or 5 shillings.

"Will the next issue of 6d and 1sh be Queen's head or dockyard design in the new colours, or will it be in the Ship type? This is a question nobody here seems able to answer. If the new stamps are of the Queen's Head or dockyard type, they will undoubtedly soon be scarce, as they will be quickly superseded by the stamps of the Ship design. It is rumoured here that the stocks of 2d, 2½d, 3d and 4d are running short, and no doubt their places will soon be taken by Ship type stamps in the new colours. The 3d is the only one of these which has not yet appeared on multiple paper."

COLOMBIA.—The Colombian government has opened a competition for the designs for a new series of stamps, which are to be engraved on steel and upon which will appear the portraits of Caldas, Narino, Santander, Bolivar, Sucre, Ricuarte, Cordoba and Camilo Torres.

DENMARK.—A correspondent in Copenhagen has notified the New England Stamp Co. that by a fire in the state printing office all the stamps in process and the machines have been destroyed. The Postal authorities, however, will prepare as soon as possible, new provisional stamps, surcharged 4 on 8 ore, 15 on 24 ore, 35 on 16 ore and 35 on 20 ore, of the stamps of 1873, and 35 on 32 ore official. Other provisionals will be prepared of the 5, 10, 15, 20 and 35 ore values. Some of these provisional values are likely to become rare, and possibly may be sold in a few days after being placed on sale.

We are also indebted to Henry Koch for the above information.

We reproduce from Ewen's Weekly the following translation of an article upon stamp matters in Denmark, which supplements the information given above:

"From the 1st April there will be issued to the public postage stamps of 35 ore, but in consequence of different causes, amongst others the fire which took place in January in H. H. Thile's Printing Establishment, where the postage stamps are produced, it would have been fraught with difficulties to get ready a sufficiently large stock of the new stamps, which will be produced in the same type as the current stamps with His Majesty the King's portrait, and the Postmaster-General has therefore allowed his stock of remainders of the 16 and 20 ore public issue and 32 ore service stamps of the 1875 issue to be overprinted 35 ore as public stamps. The surcharged stamps will be placed on sale in the Post Offices on 1st April and only after the stock of these stamps is used up, will 35 ore stamps with His Majesty the King's portrait appear.

"Also one's attention is drawn to the surcharging of the 8 ore stamps of 1875 and 24 ore stamps of 1901 respectively to 4 and 15 ore. The overprinting will be carried out in the same manner as in 1904, when an edition of the same stamps was surcharged with the same values.

"Further the Directorate of the General Post Office intends in the course of April to sell by public auction the official remainders of stamps of the skilling values and of the 5 ore stamps of 1879 together with a small quantity of the 8, 16 and 20 ore stamps of the 1875 issue, of which stamps the bulk of the remainders are being surcharged, as announced above, respectively 4 and 35 ore."

KING EDWARD VII ENVELOPE, WRAPPER AND POST-CARD STAMPS OF GREAT BRITAIN.

By Lionel W. Crouch.

Issue of 1911.—On the 31st December, 1910, the contract with Messrs. Thomas De La Rue & Co. for supplying postage stamps, envelopes, wrappers, and post-cards expired, and was not renewed. Messrs. McCorquodale & Co., who had printed the registration envelopes since their inception in 1877, secured the stationery contract as from the 1st January, 1911.

Although designs for the new Georgian stamps were then under consideration, the new contractors proceeded to manufacture envelopes stamped with the dies bearing the bust of the late King Edward VII. The first deliveries were made to the Post Office authorities some time in February, 1911, and collectors were all agog to notice any characteristic by which the McCorquodale prints could be distinguished from those by De La Rue.

It has since transpired that Messrs. McCorquodale & Co. have not made use, for the post office envelopes, of the same dies as Messrs. De La Rue, viz., those bearing the letters B.R. (Bunhill Row) on the base of the bust. No doubt it was seen that it would be an anomaly that dies purporting on their face to be for use in Bunhill Row should be used by the new contractors at their works at Wolverton, Bucks, or perhaps the authorities wished to make use of the several dies which had been prepared for, but which had not been brought into, use at Somerset House for stamping private stationery. Whatever may have been the reason, towards the end of March post-office envelopes were discovered stamped with numbered dies. The 1d die 80 was first discovered, followed by die 85. Late in April the ½d die 75 made its appearance on post-office envelopes, struck in a deeper, though still pale, shade of green than any of the De La Rue printings. These are all that have been reported up to the time of writing, and it should be noted that none of the above dies have ever been known to have been employed for stamping private stationery at Somerset House.

B. Registration Envelope Stamps.

Issue of 1902.—With the issue of the Edwardian registration envelopes an innovation was introduced, consisting of a stamp combining the registration fee and a single postage rate. Theretofore registration envelopes had been stamped with a 2d embossed stamp representing the registration fee only, adhesive stamps having to be affixed to denote payment of the ordinary postal charges. The new envelopes were stamped with a 3d embossed stamp inscribed REGISTRATION TWO PENCE and POSTAGE ONE PENNY; they were issued early in February, 1902, and were announced by the following official notice:—

"No. 1.

"REGISTERED LETTER-ENVELOPES.

"Introduction of a combined Registration and Postage Medallion.

"It has been decided to substitute for the present medallion (value 2d) on Registered Letter-Envelopes a Brown Medallion (value 3d), denoting a registration fee of 2d and postage 1d.

"The price of the new Envelopes of all sizes will consequently be 1d per envelope more than the price of the old ones, and will be as follows:—

Size.	Price.
	Per Single Envelope.	Per Packet of Twelve.
F 5¼ by 3¼,	3¼d	3s 3d
G 6 by 3¾,	3½d	3s 4d
H 8 by 5,	3¾d	3s 9d
H2 9 by 4,	3¾d	3s 9d
K 11½ by 6,	4d	4s 0d

"When the new envelopes are used, no adhesive stamps will as a rule be necessary, but in cases where a registration or Insurance Fee of more than 2d is paid, or the postage is more than 1d, adhesive stamps should be placed on the envelope immediately to the left of the Medallion. The new envelopes will be on sale at all Post Offices in the course of the next few weeks.

"By Command of the Postmaster General.

"General Post Office,
"21st January, 1902."

The Forty-Eighth Report of the Postmaster-General on the Post Office, dated July 29th, 1902, makes the following reference to these new stamps:

"STAMPS.

"Registered Letter Envelopes.—Another change has been made by substituting a brown medallion, value 3d, to cover the registration fee 2d, and postage 1d, in place of the former blue medallion which covered the registration fee only."

The registration envelopes have, for many years past, been printed by Messrs. McCorquodale & Co., Ltd., and this firm still holds the contract. Also the public cannot have stationery stamped with these dies at Somerset House, as in the case of the ordinary envelope stamps. The design shews a colourless embossed bust of King Edward VII to left within a double-lined circle which contains a crown at top and is inscribed REGISTRATION TWO PENCE at left and POSTAGE ONE PENNY at right; a small ornament separates these two inscriptions at the bottom; the diameter of the outer circle measures 21½ mm. This stamp was struck in brown, varying slightly in depths of tone.

Twenty-four dies were prepared, all of which shewed the die-number on the base of the bust. Dies 1 to 18 inclusive have been brought into use. The dates of registration of the dies were as follows:—

Dies 1 to 12, January 13th, 1902.
Dies 13 to 24, October 7th, 1904.

The first delivery by the printers was made on January 20th, 1902.

C. Wrapper Stamps.

Issue of 1902.—The stamps printed upon the wrappers for printed matter do not call for such extended treatment as the envelope stamps, partly owing to the existence of only two denominations, and partly because there is no means on the stamps themselves of ascertaining from what particular plate they were printed. For, unlike the envelope and registration envelope stamps, the stamps now under consideration were not embossed and struck from the working die, but were printed typographically from plates in a similar manner to the adhesive stamps of this country.

The two values, ½d and 1d, are both in different designs. The ½d is upright, rectangular, with rounded corners, and shews the King's head to left on a solid circular background surmounted by a crown; curved tablets above and below are inscribed POSTAGE and HALFPENNY respectively in coloured capitals; the design measures 19 by 30 mm. The 1d also shows the King's head to left, but on a solid oval ground, surrounded by a narrow coloured band containing a colourless zig-zag pattern which is broken at top by an ornamental tablet containing a crown; outside this again is a colourless band, the lower part of which is inscribed POSTAGE ONE PENNY in coloured sans-serif capitals, the space between the inscription and the crown being filled in with conventional foliage; the design measures 29 mm. in height and 25½ mm. in width. The colour of the ½d is dark green, and that of the 1d is carmine.

These stamps were printed by Messrs. De La Rue & Co. until December 31st, 1910, when their contract expired, and were, as we have said, printed from typographic plates in sheets of 14. Several plates were also in use at Somerset House for printing private stationery, vaccination certificates and various Government papers. The Somerset House impressions may be recognised by the shades and by the paper; in the De La Rue printings on post office wrappers the colours vary very little, and the paper is always buff, while the Somerset House ½d varies considerably in shade, and the 1d from red to orange-red, and the paper may be any colour, frequently white.

The ½d was registered on November 20th, 1901, and was issued in January, 1902, the first delivery having been made by the printers on December 3rd, 1901. The 1d was registered on January 22nd, 1902, and issued in February, 1902; the first delivery of this denomination was made on January 25th, 1902.

The public can purchase ½d wrappers in uncut sheets of 14 in not less a quantity than a quarter ream of 120 sheets, on giving two or three days' notice.

The amendment to the Statutes concerning the Bourse will come up for action.

The applications of Messrs. Paul Schwank, William E. Field and William C. Polk will be acted upon.

This is to be a Recruiting Meeting and a large attendance of members and friends is urged. A portion of the entertainment will be a competition for the best arrangement of a set of from 10 to 15 stamps of any country, sheets for which may be obtained from the Committee, or a page from the member's album may be entered. An auction for the benefit of the Recruiting Com. will follow, the stamps to be donated for the purpose, and they should be stamps or lots likely to bring about 50c.

"STAMPS HARD TO GET."

Catalog Value $2.00 and Under.

A correspondent suggests that an article dealing with hard-to-get stamps would be appreciated by our readers. We invite contributions to a symposium, suggesting that it be confined to stamps that catalog $2.00 and under. We shall hope to have a sufficient number of entries to make a worthy contribution to our columns.

WITH THE BOY PHILATELIST.

Edited by BERTRAM W. H. POOLE, Box 231, Altadena, Calif.

We propose to insert upon this page matter that will be of interest to the boy collector. Some two thousand boys are now on our mailing list and it is our desire to come closely in contact with them in such a manner as will be most helpful. Any information desired will be cheerfully rendered through these columns. Do not submit stamps for examination.

INVERTED WATERMARKS.

A correspondent writes, "Why are inverted watermarks not catalogued?" If we were of a flippant turn of mind we might reply "Because the mind of the catalogue publisher or compiler is a curious thing full of kinks, warps, holes, and inconsistencies." Seriousness, however, being our long suite we will endeavor to reply in a fitting manner—the more so as the same correspondent bombards us with the further query "Are these varieties not as collectible as inverted surcharges and other errors?"

We will start to answer these queries in a roundabout manner by asserting once more, even at the risk of being accused of vain repetition, that philately is essentially a hobby in which the individual can and should please himself on the subject of what he collects. Consistency has to give way to personal whims and foibles and in a stamp collection or stamp catalogue, fashion, popular and individual prejudice, all contribute their influence in the formation of the one and the compilation of the other. With regard to catalogues in particular the fact must not be lost sight of that they are the price lists of some firm or other, and this fact largely accounts for the almost uncanny inconsistency these meritorious publications have managed to achieve.

Some collectors detest perforation varieties, others look upon varieties of watermark as an unmitigated nuisance, some delight in shades, and others find the greatest pleasure in vagaries of surcharge, flaws, and minor varieties generally. Nearly every collector has some pet fancy or prejudice and because some philatelists condemn certain stamps or varieties it does not follow that every one else does likewise. Catalogues carry these preferences to even greater length depending perhaps on the popularity of certain stamps, stock on hand, or "business" inducements instead of purely philatelic ones. All catalogues seem to be agreed on one point—and that is the exclusion of varieties of inverted watermarks. This is all the more remarkable when we observe that both Scott and Gibbons differentiate between the Crown A watermark of Papua placed sideways and upright and the latter also sub-divides the rosette watermark of the same country into "horizontal" and "vertical" varieties (upright and sideways). Oh! consistency thy name is certainly not Scott or Gibbons! But we must not get sidetracked into a dissertation on catalogue inconsistencies or, like the brook, we should run on forever—or, at any rate, until the editorial blue pencil checked us.

Our correspondent invites comparison between inverted watermarks and surcharges. In surcharging stamps the printer has to examine each sheet to see that it is right way up but in printing stamps we doubt if any extraordinary precautions are taken to see that the watermarked devices are right way up in relation to the design. Thus inverted watermarks are more or less irresponsible varieties while inverted surcharges are the result of negligence.

On the other hand the scarcity of inverted watermarks in the stamps of certain countries seems to point to a reasonable amount of care being taken as to the manner in which the watermarked sheets are fed into the printing presses. Thus stamps with inverted watermarks in these countries are errors and as such are certainly worthy the attention of the specialist. In other countries, however, no care whatever is taken as regards the way the paper is placed on the machines. New South Wales forms an excellent example for here inverted watermarks are as common as those right way up. Then, too, in the case of stamps issued in book form inverted watermarks are of no particular interest for the manner in which the plates are constructed results in half the stamps having the watermark wrong way up. Again in the case of stamps like some of those of Grenada in which every alternate row of stamps was inverted on the plates it follows that the philatelic interest attaching to inverted watermarks is slender in the extreme.

A. KRASSA,

71-73 Nassau St., NEW YORK, N. Y.

There is no doubt that some stamps with inverted watermarks are of a considerable degree of rarity and it is equally incontestable that, in some cases, the position of the watermark affects the market value of a specimen. The catalogue value of the first 1d stamp of Great Britain in used condition is 20c yet varieties with inverted watermark have sold for as much as $2.50.

AN INTERESTING STAMP.

While many of the first stamps (Number ones as a friend aptly calls them) of some countries are rarities but few collectors can hope to possess, others are, fortunately, within the means of every collector. One of the most interesting of these is the first stamp issued in Norway—a stamp which though issued nearly sixty years ago is still procurable in nice used condition for about 15c. This stamp is remarkable as being one of the few which has no name on it to indicate the country of origin and it is also one of the limited class forming a complete issue in itself. The decree authorising the issue of this 4 skilling label was passed on September 29th, 1854, and the stamp was placed on sale on January 1st, 1855. It was only intended for domestic use, which fact probably accounts for the absence of name. The design consists of a lion rampant, holding an axe, on a ground of vertical lines within a shield. This is surmounted by a crown, the whole being on a horizontally lined circle. Above is "FRIMAERKE" and below is "4 SKILLING," these inscriptions being in white characters on solid color. Small conventional ornaments in the corners complete the design. The stamp was designed by a mechanic of Christiania, named Zarbell, and he also engraved the die. The stamps were printed by lithography by Wulfsburg. Minor varieties may be found and there is a well marked error worth looking for in which the lion has a double foot on the right hind leg. The stamps were printed in sheets of 200 arranged in 20 rows of 10. The shade enthusiast will find quite a number of well defined shades and as the paper was hand made varieties of different thickness may be found. The stamps were imperforate and though each is watermarked with a lion and axe the watermark is not always easy to distinguish.

SHORT REPLIES.

Mrs. C. F. B. (Berkeley).—The stamp you describe is a local—a German one I believe—of no particular value I am afraid.

E. G. B. (New Bedford, Mass.).—The bisected provisional you mention is by no means uncommon. Cannot say what it is worth. (2) I do not know of any firm that will buy postal cards.

MOISANT & LECLAIRE

KANKAKEE, ILL.

King Edward VII Envelope, Wrapper, and Post-Card Stamps of Gt. Britain.

Issue of 1904.—The colour of the ½d wrapper stamp was changed from dark green to pale green late in 1904, in conformity with other stamps of the same denomination. This stamp in the new colour was registered on September 13th, 1904, and was issued late in December, 1904.

The details of manufacture are necessarily the same as in the case of the dark green ½d, but in the Somerset House impressions of this stamp still greater variations of shade are to be found.

"Stamford Mercury" Obliteration.—Before leaving the wrapper stamps, we consider we shall not be out of order if we refer briefly to the peculiar obliteration, or pre-cancellation, employed on wrappers enclosing copies of the Stamford Mercury sent through the post. In 1870, on the establishment of the newspaper and book post, this paper together with the Times took advantage of the provision allowing the postage on newspapers, under certain conditions, to be prepaid by means of stamps impressed on the paper itself. From 1878, however, the Stamford Mercury abandoned the use of their special stamp, but adopted a special obliteration which was applied to the postage stamps on the wrapers, whether adhesive or impressed, before the papers left their offices. This cancellation consisted of a small obliteration containing the number allotted to Stamford, 742, enclosed in a circle with the word STAMFORD below, and with an outer scroll containing the name of the newspaper, STAMFORD MERCURY. This obliteration, of course, may be found on both the King Edward ½d wrapper stamps.

D. Post-Card Stamps.

Issue of 1902.—As in the case of the wrapper stamps, the post card stamps consist of only two values, namely, ½d and 1d and were printed typographically from plates, and not embossed.

The design of the ½d is rectangular, and shews the King's portrait to left on a solid octagonal ground surmounted by a cross; solid tablets on either side are inscribed POSTAGE, on the left reading upwards, and on the right reading downwards; a straight solid tablet at bottom is inscribed HALFPENNY. The stamp measures 18½ by 22½ mm. The colour is dark green.

The 1d is very similar to the ½d in design, except that the King's head is on a hexagonal, instead of an octagonal ground, and the inscriptions are in colour on white instead of vice versa; also there is an ornament on the outside of the stamp at top, bottom and sides. The colour is a rose-carmine.

Messrs. De La Rue & Co. were also responsible for the production of these stamps until the end of their contract, December 31st, 1910, but in like manner as the wrapper stamps, plates of the ½d at any rate were used at Somerset House for stamping private cards. These stamps were printed in sheets of 42, and the ½d could be supplied to the public in uncut sheets in not less a quantity than a quarter ream of 120 sheets. It should be noted that the 1d was also used for stamping letter-cards, and therefore may be obtained on thin, blue card.

Numerous plates were constructed, especially for the ½d, owing to the various changes in the size and quality of the card. The first registration of the ½d took place on November 20th, 1901, and of the 1d on December 23rd, 1901. Both values were issued in January, 1902. The dates of the first delivery by the printers were December 2nd, 1901, in the case of the ½d, and January 2nd, 1902, in the case of the 1d.

Issue of 1904.—In December, 1904, the ½d post-card stamp made its appearance in pale green instead of in dark green, having been registered in the former colour on September 13th, 1904.

The details of manufacture are of course the same as in the case of the last issue.—Stamp Lover.

WHY I COLLECT USED STAMPS.

By C. J. T. UTERMARK.

(Paper read before Seattle Philatelic Club March 13, 1912.)

Primarily, perhaps because canceled stamps are cheaper as a rule and more plentiful and easier to acquire. When starting collecting as a little boy at school, about all we had and could get were used stamps, which were mostly acquired via the waste basket route. At times when we managed to get a hold of some pennies, we bought stamps from one of the many small dealers, and always trying to get as many as possible for the money, we invariably bought packets. As we could not buy packets at a postoffice, and the dealers who had our patronage did not deal in uncanceled stamps, it very seldom happened that an unused stamp found its way into our hands. We had heard from some wise ones amongst us and from some grown-ups, that stamps were counterfeited, and we naturally thought that a stamp that had been canceled or was stuck on to something or had no gum on the back, must of course have been used on letters and therefore, could not have been counterfeited (we have learned better since). A stamp that was new and showed bright colors and shiny gum on the back was not to be trusted, and in our humble opinion was a bad stamp. We had no catalog nor had ever heard of such an instrument and knew nothing of the value of a stamp, except what we could make the other fellow believe. Of course, one's stamps were always better and if you could make the other boys give you three or two stamps to your one, that much the better, if not, stamp for stamp was just as good, as long as we got one we did not have. This trading and saving in used stamps when a boy, has perhaps more to do with my collecting canceled or used stamps than anything else. And is this not the way most collectors make their beginning? Very few start collecting after they are grown up, and no boys ever do start collecting unused stamps.

It was not the intention of the different postal administrations to make postage stamps for sale to collectors, for there were no collectors when the first stamps made their appearance. (Postage stamp collectors or Philatelists developed later on as by-products.) But a postage was made to be put on a letter or parcel to show that a certain amount of money had been paid by the sender of the letter or parcel to a Government, who for that amount paid, undertook to deliver said letter or parcel to the party addressed. Therefore I hold that a postage stamp that has actually been used, really served the purpose it was created for, while an unused postage stamp has done no duty whatever, and is nothing more nor less than a printed piece of paper that derives its value solely from the fact that it was sold, or supposed to have been sold by a Government for a specified amount. This, I think is the real reason I collect used stamps only.

Since becoming a real live collector, my requirements of what should constitute a canceled stamp have changed somewhat. There used to be a time when any canceled stamps would do, but now I want them in perfect condition, and lightly and finely canceled, by which I mean a cancellation, that while it should show plainly the place it came from and the date, still it should be canceled in such manner as not to obliterate any part of the design or give the stamp a dirty appearance. And is it really so easy to get postage stamps in such fine used condition? For instance, anyone can purchase at a postoffice a nice, clean set of the current U. S. stamps, or from most any dealer, but how many of us can show a finely used set, or how many dealers can furnish same in such used condition that one need not be ashamed to put them into a good album. In order to get nice used stamps that come up to my requirements I am always on the lookout for nicer copies than I have in my collection, and I think that this continually looking for nicer copies keeps up the interest in collecting stamps, and makes the collector himself more familiar with what he has in his collection. While a collector of unused stamps simply buys them out of the postoffice, from a dealer, or gets them through the many new issue services, and when he gets them, puts them into his album, and promptly forgets about them. And have you ever noticed how happy a collector of used stamps is when he gets a fine used copy, even of the most common variety, and how willing he is to show everybody how nice it really is. Of course, everybody knows what the unused stamp looks like.

And is it always true that a used stamp is cheaper than the unused? So far as the first issues of most of the old stamp issuing countries are concerned, yes, for even in unused condition some stamps are far and few between, but such stamps are only for rich collectors that know not what to do with their money, not for general collectors with limited means. And as to the common run of stamps, these are of course cheaper, but when it comes to harder-to-get stamps, this is not always so. Take for instance the higher values of our U. S. stamps. I can still go to the postoffice and purchase a 1902 issue $2.00 blue, for exactly $2.00, but unless I can find one, what person or dealer will sell me a finely used copy of the same stamp for that amount. I will gladly trade even. I am more than willing to trade even with the $ values of our Columbian issue, which unused I can purchase for about face value and even less, while for a finely used copy even a Diogenes may hunt for with a modern searchlight almost in vain. There are many other instances where the used stamps are at least even in price with the unused. Many of the German Colonials, French Colonials, Portuguese Colonials, and also British Colonials bring as good prices used as unused.

There are many instances where the used stamps are harder to get and higher priced than the unused, some of the issues of Porto Rico, Cuba, Philippines for instance, also genuine cancellations on stamps of Labuan, North Borneo, Hamburg, etc. A few British Colonials are not to be despised in used condition, as the provisional issues of Orange Free State, Transvaal, New Hebrides Condominiums, Gilbert-Ellice Islands, etc.

Of course a collector of used stamps has to contend with forged cancellations, as on stamps of Hamburg, Heligoland, Switzerland, Roman States, Provisional British Colonials, Japan, and others, but as these are mostly on high priced stamps, such stamps need not be purchased or acquired unless passed upon by an expert. We also have canceled-to-order stamps, like Labuan, North Borneo, Victoria, etc.; or canceled remainder stamps, like St. Helena; or fiscally canceled stamps, but all of these are very easy to tell, and should not be purchased or collected unknowingly.

I also believe that if we would collect used stamps only, it would do away with a lot of new issues, that are absolutely unnecessary and uncalled for, from countries that have them manufactured and put on the market to derive revenue from collectors only. The Seebeck's of Nicaragua, Salvador, etc., are a good example.

Canceled stamps may also at times help us in detecting forged surcharges. The other day in going through my collection I find that I have a fine used copy of Porto Rico 1898 provisional issue 3c ultramarine, surcharged Habilitado, which in at least two catalogs is priced at $4.00. According to all information I have these provisionals were not in use before 1898. Upon inspecting this stamp closely, I find that the cancellation shows the date "1896", which would leave no doubt as to the character of the surcharge. (As I only paid the magnificent sum of 4c, my loss is not very great.)

There is also a very interesting byway open to the collector of used stamps, that is entirely denied the collector of unused stamps, namely the collecting of postmarks. For instance one may try and collect stamps of a country, showing a cancellation from every city or town of that particular country. I understand that there are several collectors in the United States that are doing this with the stamps of the U. S. In my own collection I have several stamps showing cancellations from States when they were still territories. One might also include in this the Pre-cancels of the different countries that make use of them.

Another interesting side line for the collector of used stamps, is the collecting of stamps of a country that were used in foreign lands. For instance, United States stamps used in China, Japan, the Philippines, Cuba or Porto Rico. Or the stamps of Great Britain used in their colonies before these colonies had their own stamps. Or the stamps of Queensland used in Papua or British New Guinea, before the latter had their own stamps. There are also the stamps of Chili used in Peru during the war. And there are other cases of this kind.

We also have fiscal stamps of countries that have done postal duty, which can only be collected by the collector of used stamps. For instance, Jamaica, Hong Kong, Victoria, and other British Colonies have such stamps, not to forget Great Britain itself.

The foregoing I think you will find some good reasons why I prefer collecting used stamps. But now just a little word of warning to the "Perfection Copy" Crank. Do not pass up a harder-to-get stamp because the cancellation does not quite come up to your standard, but take it, and it can be replaced with one that does come up to your requirements later on, otherwise you may find that you will have a good many blank spaces in your album, as I have already found out to my sorrow. As I have mentioned before, it is very easy to get most stamps in fine unused condition, but you will find it mighty hard to get some of them in fine used condition, it at all.

LITTLE KNOWN ERROR OF BELGIUM.

Under the above title, a correspondent of L'Annonce Timbrologique gives the following account of a supposed 40c of 1861 on blued paper:—

"This stamp is very rare, and but few copies are to be met with. It was formerly only to be obtained from Moens. This is all the information that we have been able to collect relating to it:—It was evidently the result of an error of the paper; a blued sheet must have been put by mistake among the other sheets and so passed through the press. At that period, 1861, things were not looked into so closely, and the superintendence of the workshops was not so careful as at the present day. There was only a single sheet of these stamps, three hundred copies. This sheet was sent to Brussels, and Mr. J. B. Moens, having heard of this error, went at once to the Post Office and took what remained on sale, about half a sheet, which accounts for his having been the only person who possessed the stamp. Of used copies but very few are known. Unused have also become rare, and blocks are veritable objects for research; we know of a very fine one in a collection at Brussels."

Are these last few words the key to the whole story? Curiously enough, M. Moens, who was not likely to have forgotten so interesting a discovery, did not include this error in his catalogues of 1877 and later (we have no earlier edition at hand to refer to), and says not a word about it in his book on The Stamps of Belgium, published in 1880, and we think it may safely be affirmed that he never possessed anything of the kind.—Gibbons' Monthly Journal.

J. W. SCOTT ON "EXPERIMENTALS."

Many collectors appear to be obsessed with the idea that an experimental stamp is something wonderful and of great value, especially if any particular variety of experimental stamps should be regularly catalogued. As a matter of fact the making of postage stamps, like all other important manufactures, is one continual succession of experiments. Our stock shows hundreds of examples, but of course not one-hundredth part of all that have been made. If those in authority order some stamps to be printed on paper either a trifle thicker or thinner than that in use the stamps so printed are "experimental," whereas if the paper varies through the carelessness of the manufacturer the stamp must lose its magic title. The double paper stamps experimented with in 1873 and catalogued as varieties are certainly more important than the rag paper lot of 1909, yet we do not find any great rush to obtain specimens. The "cog wheel" stamp of '73 is very interesting but in very little demand. The fugitive color 2c of '63 is very rare but never inquired for. And so on through countless varieties which occasionally find their way into the collections of specialists where they properly belong, while they are entirely out of place in an ordinary collection. Many of the blue rag paper stamps are undoubtedly rare, but as soon as the excitement dies out prices will drop because the market for all experimental stamps is extremely limited.—Metropolitan Philatelist..

JOIN THE BOOSTER CLUB.

George S. Chapman has been initiated into the Booster Club. Here is how it came about according to letter received from Floyd S. Wininger:—

"Enclosed find 25c for six months subscription to your paper. George S. Chapman sent me a copy of the WEEKLY and I like it so well that I am sending in my subscription. He is O. K." Mr. Chapman is indeed O. K. and we admit him to the Booster Club trusting he will soon take the second degree. Have you joined yet?

COMMUNICATIONS.

(We do not hold ourselves responsible for the views expressed by our readers. Our columns are always open for communications of general interest.—Ed.)

FRESNO, CAL., April 8, '12.

To the Editor:

Referring to recent notes about Confederate States A7 and A8 in the WEEKLY, I find that I have separated them by an entirely different method than either Mr. Poole or Mr. Lyons, and I have extreme difficulty in following out Mr. Lyon's method. Take the cheek bone line in A7; it continues upward across the eye to the bridge of the nose and to the outline of the face. In A8 this does not extend upward to the eye at all, but continues downward in a curve paralleling the chin and giving a peculiar double-faced, until it ends in a wrinkle of the neck, back of the beard.

Mr. H. Wesley Legg, whose knowledge of stamps is never-failing, informs me that Bavaria No. 114, about which I inquired in the March 30th issue, is one of the world's rarities and that the last copy recorded sold brought $2,000.00, which easily accounts for its being on my want list. Its rarity is also confirmed by the New England Stamp Co.

Would it be of interest to your readers to know where to secure the list of Belgium cancellation numbers? I aminformed that this list appeared in Le Philateliste Francaise No. 71 et seq.

CHARLES E. JENNEY.

CLEVELAND, O., April 13, '12.

To the Editor:

Is there a stamp collector living, who does not grow indignant every time he comes to handle United States issues, because of the slovenly work done in perforating? Each of our stamps is a thing of beauty, if it be well centered, but how difficult it is to obtain fine copies. If I wish a high denomination of a new issue, and the clerk at the post-office window is a grouch, as often occurs, how am I to obtain it? I do not wish to risk buying a $1.00 or $2.00 stamp without examining it, for the chances are long that the perforating machine has butchered it.

If several thousand of the several thousand readers of the WEEKLY would simultaneously address a letter of protest to the Postmaster General, against this evil, pointing out how the beauty of our stamps are marred, and asking him to use his efforts to obtain better perforation, I believe we would get results. All in favor please say Aye!

OLD TIMER.

VALUE OF POSTAL SAVINGS STAMPS.

We have received from W. I. Mitchell, M. D. and Van Dyk MacBride replies to a question printed in the WEEKLY some three weeks ago relating to the value of postal savings bank stamps. We quote herewith the prices fixed by Mr. MacBride as being justified by the comparative scarcity of these stamps, condition being given proper consideration:—

Old, double line wmk.
2c black (common),	$ .05
50c deep green (scarce),	.75
$1 blue (fairly scarce),	.35
New, single line wmk.
1c violet (rarest of all),	1.00
2c black (common),	.05
10c red (plentiful),	.15

TETE-BECHE GREAT BRITAIN.

Franz Saip of N. Y. City has shown us a vertical strip of four of the 1 penny King George Die 1, the two middle stamps being tete beche and the outside stamps uniform in arrangement with their mates. We do not remember of this having been chronicled in either the English or American philatelic press and besides being an interesting novelty, they will no doubt prove a great rarity.

Mr. Saip informs us that the strip was obtained from a slot machine.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—R. J. Hummel sends us a clipping giving us the particulars of an aerial mail service between New Orleans and Baton Rouge. The aviator was George Mestach. We can find no indication that any special postmark was made for the occasion, though a thirty-two pound pouch of mail was delivered by Mestach to the Postmaster at Baton Rouge. A return trip to New Orleans is upon the schedule, but delayed by injuries to the machine while effecting a landing.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from Frederic C. De Puy (3), Jas. J. Prendergast, S. M. Edwards, C. Emig, Jr., R. J. Hummel (2).

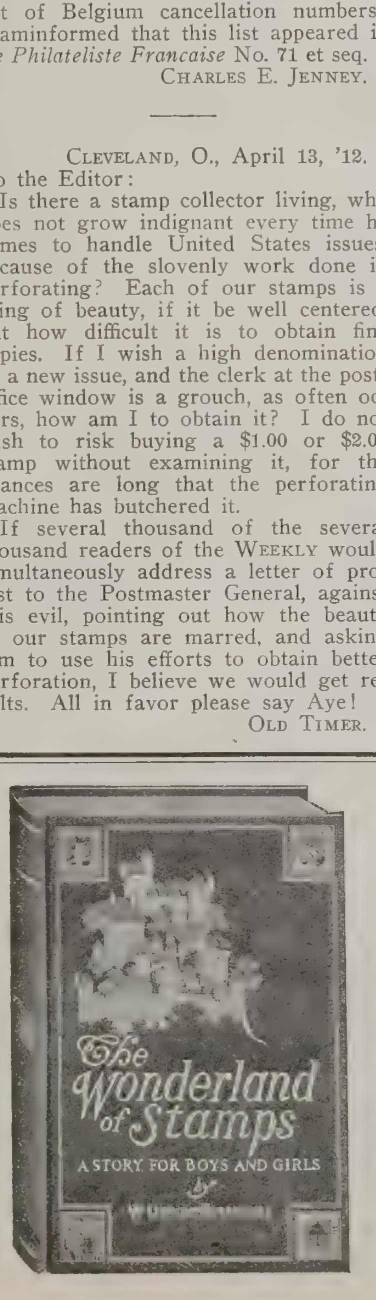
—Bright & Son have purchased the very fine collection of entire post cards, envelopes, wrappers, etc., formed by the late B. W. Warhurst. There are 12,000 pieces in the collection in addition to a large number of duplicates.

—The E. B. Cookson Co. of Rochester, N. Y., has disposed of its business to L. Lawrence Albright of the same city, who will continue the business under the firm name of the L. L. Albright Co. Mr. Cookson informs us that he is going into the South American mail order business. He pays this tribute to our publication:—"I want to say that the WEEKLY was the biggest pulling power for business that we had." Mr. Albright of the new company, whose advertisement will be found in this issue, will make a specialty of South and Central American stamps and promises our readers a prompt report upon the new stamps as they appear.

—We acknowledge with thanks the receipt of a silk handkerchief from Harry Caden that should strongly appeal to philatelists. On the border is printed in colors stamps of representative countries accompanied by postmarks, the whole effect being not only original but pleasing.

—We will make it "credibly" not "creditably" in order to keep peace with the purists.

—We have received the initial number of the monthly Newark Philatelist, E. W. Foss, publisher, 217 Summer Ave., Newark, N. J. A sample copy will no doubt be available for a 1c stamp.



The Wonderland of Stamps

By W. Dwight Burroughs

FULLY ILLUSTRATED, CLOTH 12MO.

Post Free $1.50

It has often been said that postage-stamp collecting is one of the most educational of pastimes, because of the immense amount of information about history, geography, etc., connected with it. Yet few people understand how many and how varied are the interesting things told on the pictures of stamps.

In this book a good-natured uncle with a large stamp collection tells his nephews and nieces about the veritable wonderland it discloses. He describes the birds and animals from the antelope of Rhodesia to the zebra of Madagascar, the old Greek games, bits of United States and foreign history, curious islands, small records of big wars, a miniature edition of Don Quixote, the ancient myths, thumb-nail maps, Christmas stories, ships and locomotives of all descriptions—all pictured on postage stamps of various countries.

The book is fully illustrated with reproductions of the stamps described.

TO OUR 1100 NEW SUBSCRIBERS.

During the past four months we have added no less than 1,100 new subscribers to our subscription list. It has been brought about by a persistent advertising campaign and the use of many high priced mediums. The purchasing power of our subscription list was never greater than at the present time. It is the policy of the WEEKLY to discontinue sending the paper immediately upon expiration of subscription, declining even to take advantage of the department regulation permitting the sending of the paper one year after expiration. We have no subscriber now on our books whose subscription is more than three months in arrears.

To the small army of new subscribers we extend a hearty word of greeting. Stamp collecting will be found an interesting, pleasurable and financially profitable pastime. We are in business to make the pastime possess all the good qualities referred to. If there is anything you need to know, MEKEEL'S WEEKLY can give you the desired information.

The beginner will find Mr. Poole a ready friend in connection with any information that may be desired. His department is for the beginner and he has carte blanche to go over the same ground as frequently as he may deem necessary. Messrs. Severn and Kidder in their respective departments will gladly render any assistance that lies in their power, to the end that the many new readers of the WEEKLY may find the hobby one of delight.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

EDITORIAL.

Going—We have been informed by competent authority that the one-cent adhesive, official postal savings stamp has been discontinued. In the official notice nothing was said to give this understanding as the statement merely was that "a stamped one-cent envelope had been provided." No doubt, any stock of the one-cent adhesive on hand will be used but it will not be long before this stamp, about which no little interest has centered, will be obsolete.

Heed—To the credit of a Washington dealer, it is to be said that he refused to purchase certain unused official postal savings stamps that were offered him. Later, when he sought information at the department about the status of these unused stamps in their philatelic relation, he was told that the postal officers did not recognize the right of possession of these stamps unused by persons unattached to the active service of the department. Further, it was maintained that the unused stamps in charge of an outsider would be construed as furnishing prima facie evidence that they were held illegally; and that the department arrogated to itself the privilege of confiscating any such stamps should it be deemed advisable to enforce this reservation.

New—According to a newspaper special from Paris, France has adopted the system of naming the hours from midnight to midnight, from 1 to 24, thus dispensing with the somewhat confusing terms of "a. m." and "p. m." It had been found that a test of the new arrangement had worked with satisfaction in the telegraph department and so, beginning with June 1, the reform will be extended to the postal service. The new postmarks will be something of a novelty to collectors; and "23" for instance, will be eleven o'clock at night. It is said that the Canadian Pacific railway has used this system in its service across the continent for some years.

Rich—In commenting upon the sale of certain of the collections of the Earl of Crawford to Mr. W. H. Peckitt, the London Philatelist says that the health of the distinguished philatelist "has unfortunately latterly left much to be desired" and that in consequence, it would have been injudicious for him to have attempted the "transfering and writing up" of the vast number of stamps sold. Let us wonder; the collection "of Italy alone" contained twenty volumes.

Funded—Dr. J. M. Holt advocates the idea of an endowed philatelic journal and the fact that he submits his own paper for preferment does not weaken the force of his suggestion as we are convinced that the good doctor's motives are impersonal and actuated by an unselfish devotion to philately. In brief, the plan is that a fund be collected of sufficient size to yield an interest return of some appreciable amount. While the principal would be held intact, the interest would be available for expenditure on the publication; and a yearly sum for distribution would ensure the perpetuity of the paper. The novelty of Dr. Holt's proposal is such as to compel attention; and the sponsor says that at his death he would bequeathe his paper with one or two hundred dollars to the trustees or custodians of the fund. The trustees would be selected according to their reputation and reliability and would have to be of a character to enjoy the full confidence of the philatelic public. The administrators of the fund would be a board of three or more trustees who could "be provided by the contemplated American Academy of Philately, or by the 'Fellows' of the A. P. S. if such a group be created in lieu of an 'Academy'." Dr. Holt's scheme is altruistic enough but it is one so original and creditable to the proposer as applied to philately that it is worthy of attention. An endowed philatelic journal of course would not be a subsidized one; on the contrary, the great advantage carried by the endowment would lay in the assurance that the paper could be independent and that it would not be necessary to balance any financial considerations.

Continuity—From the foregoing paragraph it must not be inferred that Dr. Holt intends to do other than continue to publish his paper. Indeed, he is positive on this score but like many another man who feels a pride in his handiwork or creations, he wishes his work to live after him. Hence, the connection of the endowment plan with Everybody's Philatelist. We do not know how responsive the influential or affluent philatelist would be to the call; and while he might not regard the question a visionary one, yet it is likely that he would proceed with a deliberation that would harry the souls of the philatelic Utopians. We shall be curious to know whether Dr. Holt receives any tangible encouragement of his idea; we trust that he does and that it grows to solid proportions. In this place, the pious hope is expressed that any transfer of the Doctor's paper to a trusteeship be long deferred and that the Doctor himself will live to become a marvel of philatelic longevity.

Field—If there is any philatelist with an itch for writing and a non-collapsible purse who wishes to indulge his own satisfaction and at the same time add to the gayety of the philatelic nation, let him print and publish a personal "organ." The one essential of the paper would have to be fairness if the paper would gain the regard of the philatelic populace but striking this key-note, the paper could speak plainly and pointedly on the topics of the day and other subjects that would attract the mind of the publisher. He could run the paper to suit himself and not his readers and he should dispense with advertising columns altogether. While he would pay for his fun it would be worth the cost. That unique and mysterious home-made publication, Stampic America, a sort of individual periodical of play and protest which stirred up so much curiosity a dozen years ago, or so, was something on this order; and we are willing to wager that the projector of the enterprise was amply repaid in chuckles for the dollars that he expended.

Profit—Once there was a man who loved stamps more than he loved money. He did not haggle about prices any more than a man who was shrewd enough to make lots of money in business should. As a liberal buyer he was beloved of dealers and many a fancy item for which there was but a restricted market in those days was forwarded to him by expectant dealers who were careful not to cheapen the stamps by the prices. Many of these stamps stuck. In time, the meteor dimmed and the stamp-lover aforesaid needed money; and he got it from his stamps. The semi-standard occasionals of decades ago had developed into staple rarities of to-day. The rather full prices that he paid were so much fatter when he sold as to be almost unrecognizable. There are two morals to this little recital; the first is that no one can tell what the future of philately will yield and the second is that the man who buys with no thought of speculation is the one who sometimes reaps the richest rewards.

Catalog Value $2.00 and Under.

A correspondent suggests that an article dealing with hard-to-get stamps would be appreciated by our readers. We invite contributions to a symposium, suggesting that it be confined to stamps that catalog $2.00 and under. We shall hope to have a sufficient number of entries to make a worthy contribution to our columns.

(Contributed by Chas. G. Brown, Jr.)

I have been noticing with much interest the articles published in this column. May I contribute the 6c 1882 U. S. Scott's No. 208a? One will have quite a hunt before he comes upon a respectable copy of this stamp. The common condition in which this stamp is found is a heavy cancellation combined with poor centering.

(Contributed by Frederic C. De Puy.)

I would like to mention Peru No. 304. The rest of the set are hard enough, but that one seems to be the limit. Some other cheap ones that I can't get hold of, are:—Angra 29, 30, 31; Fernando Po 20; Hungary 141 and 143; India 14 and 24; Japan 6 and 7; Martinique 6, 20, 21; Mexican Postage Dues; New Caledonia 11, 35; New Zealand 352.

As for Bavaria No. 114, mentioned by Mr. Jenney, the Yvert & Tellier catalog says that only six copies were ever used; so it is hardly in the "Under $2" class. According to the same catalog Bolivia '94, 100c is cheaper (unused) on thin than on thick paper. I have a copy of it.

(Contributed by Edw. Sauers.)

No. 20, Bulgaria 5s on 30s blue and fawn, cat. $1.00. No. 55, Persia 50c buff, orange and black, cat. 50c. No. 1, Poland 10k blue and rose, cat. $2.00. No. 3009a U. S. Pro. 2½c lake, imperf. hor.

The No. 3009a U. S. is not priced in Scott's but were sold several years ago at 75c to $1.00 a pair. This is a very hard stamp to get as there were just 200 pairs issued.

(Contributed by Alfred C. Haven, Jr.)

Any collector should be happy, if he can get the 1902 Grecian set, with the initials A M in the upper corners, complete. The stamps of this issue are not rarities by any means, as the five lepta only catalogs at five cents and the two drachma, the highest value, is only priced at one dollar. One hardly ever sees these stamps advertised by a dealer and few collectors have any of them in their albums.

The higher values of the 1906 set of Tunis are very low priced in the catalog, but very difficult to obtain. They are beautiful, artistic stamps, showing old ruins and an ancient Carthaginian galley, but are not seen very often.

The 1899 issue of Crete is by no means common and would make quite a nice addition to a collection. They are cataloged very low, only at eight cents, 12 cents, 15 cents, etc., with nothing higher than 15c.

There are many other cheap stamps that are very hard to get, such as the 1906 New Zealand (catalog numbers 122 to 125).

DIAMOND CUT DIAMOND.

A subscriber, A. P. S. No. 3553, sends us a clipping from an English paper printed in China dealing with the local problem in the matter of exchange of money. We quote the clipping in its entirety:—

This assuredly is a country where anomalies abound. For instance the other day, I happened to want a ten-cent stamp at the British Post Office, but was surprised to hear the man in charge of the stamp sale tell me that a Hongkong ten-cent piece was not worth its face value for the purchase of a Hongkong stamp and that I had to give him a couple of coppers more; and in support of his statement he showed me a typed notice, posted up in front of him and signed by the postmaster, notifying the public that Hongkong subsidiary coins would be accepted at the market price of the day only.

Thinking this to be a "squeeze" on the part of the compradore, I asked the man to give me a ten-cent stamp and the change for one dollar I tendered him at the rate he quoted. At first he flatly refused, but when I insisted he very grudgingly gave me back five twenty-cent pieces, six coppers and some cash; and as the exchange of the day was one hundred and eleven cents, I actually got my ten-cent stamp for slightly over four coppers.

Can any of your readers tell me whether the subsidiary coinage of Hongkong has depreciated in value of late or, if not, whether a Hongkong ten-cent stamp is worth twenty per cent. more than its face value when sold by a branch of the issuing office?

We have been for long accustomed to paradoxical situations in this part of the world, but we have yet to learn that such an institution as a British Post Office could be accused of indulging in their creation.

Used Stamps by Weight

Since our advertisements of the above have appeared in MEKEEL'S WEEKLY, we have sold large quantities of these stamps in 10 pound bags to American dealers, many of whom have sent us repeat orders, showing that they are satisfied. The mixture is superior to any others at the price, contains a great number of countries but no U. S. A., Canada or Great Britian. We send a bag containing 10 pounds weight securely packed and postage paid to any address in U. S. A. on receipt of a money order for $3.75.

THE CRAWFORD COLLECTIONS.

Lord Crawford has parted with a large proportion of his celebrated collections of stamps. This announcement will be doubtless received alike with general surprise and regret, but we believe that the latter feeling may well be restricted to the knowledge that we shall no longer have the advantages—so freely conceded by the owner—of inspection of and access to the many treasures embraced in the collections that have now been disposed of. We have full confidence that this step does not in any way weaken the Earl of Crawford's interest in philately, to which it has been for so many years of the greatest benefit, and that the active interest in everything connected with the pursuit displayed by the president of the Royal Philatelic Society will continue entirely unabated. Lord Crawford still remains the holder of three colossal collections—Great Britain, the United States of America, and philatelic literature, the ownership of any one of which would render the possessor famous in the philatelic world. It may well be that Lord Crawford, whose health has unfortunately latterly left much to be desired, has felt unequal to the task of transferring and writing up (more suo) the vast number of stamps that he has now disposed of. It should also be remembered that Lord Crawford is a man of many attainments—nihil tetigit quod non ornavit—and his leisure has for a considerable period been fully occupied with a Herculean task in the world of letters. It can therefore be well imagined that the president of the Royal Philatelic Society feels, under all these circumstances, well justified in restraining his labours within the limits of the three vast collections that he still retains.

The collections now disposed of are so vast—that of Italy alone containing twenty volumes—that the total sum paid must inevitably surpass any amount ever paid for a single philatelic transaction. To W. H. Peckitt has fallen the privilege of making this record purchase—the more remarkable as we have reason to believe that the entire amount was a cash transaction. Mr. Peckitt has already acquired a very prominent position in the stamp world as the purchaser of the Avery and other famous collections, but by this record transaction he undoubtedly stands in the very forefront of all the dealers of the two hemispheres. By the purchase of the "Crawford Collection" in addition to the holding of an extremely valuable and extensive stock, Mr. Peckitt to-day indubitably holds the most valuable stock of stamps of any dealer in the world. This high position has not been achieved without the evidence of sterling merits and desert, and Mr. Peckitt's numerous friends will assuredly join with ourselves in heartily congratulating him upon the renown that he has achieved in the purchase of the Earl of Crawford's remarkable collections.—London Philatelist.

OUR PICTORIAL REBUS CONTEST.

This contest proved even more difficult than the previous one, for the reason that several members were capable of two or more solutions, all of which were equally correct. Mr. Hunt, however, had placed in our hands in advance a list of his answers and numbers 1, 10, 15 and 18 proved stumbling blocks to the contestants.

While the solutions to the rebus as given by Mr. Hunt are arbitrary in nature, the contestants were no doubt aware that this feature could not be avoided. A summary of the contest will no doubt be of general interest.

The correct list of answers follows:—

1	Gabon	2	Greece	3	Chile
4	Malta	5	Italy	6	Saxony
7	Greenwood	8	Campeche	9	Turkey
10	Iceland	11	Valona	12	Salonica
13	San Marino	14	Parma	15	Baden
16	Charleston	17	Hayti	18	Benin

First honors are accorded to A. B. Paine, who sent in an absolutely correct list with the exception of No. 10. His entry named Stellaland in place of Iceland.

Second honors are awarded to Frank C. Clark. It will be noted that Numbers 14 and 15 are answered incorrectly, but nevertheless the entry possesses so much merit that we publish it herewith in its entirety.

(1) I can hear the Kids say, GAB ON Mister, we don't mind.

(2) Nothing but GREECE.

(3) 20 below zero and it's CHILE.

(4) A bucket of Suds and, MALTA.

(5) Oh you tall E, ah there ITALY.

(6) Flour, Gold Medal, Sacks, Y, Oh yes, Sacksony. Saxony.

(7) Easy. Greenwood. Lots of it in Oregon.

(8) Peach. Can peach, no, yes Campeche.

(9) Thanksgiving time, but not for TURKEY.

(10) It looks like the North Pole or at least Iceland.

(11) VA. Topsy turvy letters and a Lon(e) A, makes VALONA.

(12) Toot toot. Sal on a car, SALONICA.

(13) Fine view of the Ocean, Sand from the ocean O, San Marin O.

(14) I wonder where our son John is today? He is making Strait Settlements in SUNGEI UJONG. Soon he will be Wenden his way homeward and will be Indore.

(15) Poor fellow. He is Dedeagh than a door nail. He must have Scinde. The place might also be called Lynchburg.

(16) My advice is for Chas. to move to Southern Oregon where he will not be bothered with coal bills. CHARLESTON.

(17) Mr. Hunt will have to do better for Woburn in the next game; as it is it must be HAY TI.

(18) I guess we have all been there, I do not blame the old man for being ANGRA. He has BENIN.

We give third place to B. M. Randall, who, however, answered No. 15 by giving Hungary in place of Baden. The solution was weakened in his replies to numbers 1 and 18, where Samoa and Angra were respectively named as alternatives for Gabon and Benin.

James J. Prendergast is awarded fourth place. He is entitled to the honor of a complete answer but it is also weakened by his solutions to Nos. 1, 15 and 18. On No. 1 he gave Gabon and Bhore, No. 15 Pahang, Cordova, Baden and Shanghai, No. 18 Angra, Benin and Newfoundland. Mr. Prendergast cannot be ranked higher for the reason that the end of the rebus was to select the countries presented by the author of the rebus, and this is defeated by sending in alternative answers.

The entry of Rev. L. R. Benson was a very meritorious one. A very nearly complete list was received from E. P. Morehouse who informs us that he is a stamp collector "seventy-nine years young." The entry of Iska Duval submitted in verse possessed considerable merit, but not sufficient for us to be warranted in printing the same.

In addition to the list of leading contestants as given above entries were also received from the following named collectors: Chas. Huscher, Elbert B. Charman, Walter R. French, Dr. H. S. Johnson, Mrs. J. A. Bowen, M. W. Turner, Anna A. Doolittle, Miss M. E. Cary, Jos. Wood, Chas. R. Trowbridge, Chas. E. Fisher, Major Gilman, T. R. Hungerford, David D. Reid, O. D. Challans, S. W. Shepard, Geo. D. Pettit, Fred L. Koepf, Jas. Lewis Howe, Jr., Frank Kocher, G. H. Dickinson, Irva Saucerman, D. E. Lantz, Philip Michels, Rev. L. R. Benson, H. T. Willcox, Iska Duval and E. P. Morehouse.

SELLS STAMPS THEN REPENTS.

Budapest Collector Sorry He Parted with $175,000 Collection.

BUDAPEST, Mar. 25.—Robert Holitscher an amateur stamp collector, recently sold his collection to a dealer for $175,000. He began collecting eight years ago to amuse his little son, but soon became an enthusiastic philatelist, and in a few years had invested heavily in his hobby. The collection contains some very rare specimens. The group of Spanish stamps alone is estimated to be worth $35,000.

Holitscher is believed to have made a profit of $50,000 on the transaction, whilst the purchaser, Bela Szekula, expects to make as much more. Szekula began collecting when fourteen, and two years later, with only 50 shillings in his pocket went out to Madagascar to collect rare Colonial stamps. In a few years he became one of the largest wholesale stamp dealers in the world. The late owner is said to have repented of having parted with his precious stamps and has offered to buy them back at an advance of 10 per cent.—N. Y. Tribune.

AUSTRALIA.—Mr. Schachne has received an additional assortment of the cards and several varieties of the letter cards noticed in No. 1094. The only new feature on the cards is that these have the portraits of the Queen and the Prince of Wales and some changes in the shades of color. One of these is a brown instead of yellow-brown.

The letter cards (and cards) have the same very ordinary stamps as on the previous lot. The two headlines are "Commonwealth of Australia—Letter Card" with three lines of instructions below and the reverse shows on each some local scenery in a large oval. Perf. IV.

CHINA.—A subscriber who signs himself A. P. S. No. 3553 sends us definite word that the current issue is being surcharged "Provisional Govt." and that the same will appear some time in April. This provisional issue should prove a very interesting one.

FRANCE.—Mr. Schachne shows us the Paris Pneumatic letter card of 30c with the instructions on the reverse in smaller type and an increased number of stations. There are the same number of lines (17) as before but the first sentence now is in three lines instead of four. No change on front side.

HONDURAS.—Champion's Bulletin chronicles the issue of a stamp, printed to commemorate the accession to the Presidency of the Republic of Gen. Manuel Bonilla, which took place February 1, 1912. Only 3,000 copies of the stamp were printed, and it was in circulation one day only, and then only in the city of Tegucigalpa. It was lithographed and perforated 11½.

1c vermilion.

JAPAN.—The Illustrated Briefmarken Zeitung announces that 3s carmine of 1906 has been surcharged with the word "Gundji" in Chinese characters, for the use of Army and Navy in the field. Two of these stamps are issued each month to the soldiers and sailors actually on service in China and Corea.

KEDAH.—This Malay state, which was ceded to Great Britain by Siam, at the same time as Kelantan and Trengganu, is to have a set of stamps shortly. In fact, it is reported that they are being printed in London, and will soon be issued.

LUXEMBURG.—Whitfield King & Co. have now shown us the 62½c on 87½c chronicled in No. 1110. The surcharge is in red, in condensed Antique type 3 mm. tall, and running horizontally across the stamp just under the Grand Duke's chin.

NEW ZEALAND.—A 1d stamp, with portrait of King George is being prepared. The design which seems likely to be accepted, shows the oval containing the King's head is supported by a symbolic figure of Zealandia and a Maori chief.

PORTUGAL.—Whitfield King & Co. have shown us another value of the new series.

Adhesive.

2½c violet.

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.—W. H. Peckitt and Whitfield King & Co. send us the 4c, palm type, in a new shade and on chalky multiple paper.

TASMANIA.—W. H. Peckitt has shown us the 2d pictorial stamp, watermarked Crown A, and perforated 11.

WITH THE BOY PHILATELIST.

Edited by BERTRAM W. H. POOLE, Box 231, Altadena, Calif.

We propose to insert upon this page matter that will be of interest to the boy collector. Some two thousand boys are now on our mailing list and it is our desire to come closely in contact with them in such a manner as will be most helpful. Any information desired will be cheerfully rendered through these columns. Do not submit stamps for examination.

THE REAL BEGINNER.

My mail this week brings me a letter that is a distinct departure from the usual run of my correspondence. As a rule the questions I am invited to reply to are those dealing with difficulties that confront the reader who has had a certain amount of collecting experience but the letter I have just received is from a tyro whose interest in stamps has been aroused by the receipt of a sample copy of the WEEKLY. True, the germ of philately was there, though dormant for many years, and the receipt of a stray copy of the WEEKLY has fanned the spark into what I hope will become a sturdy flame. My correspondent writes:—"Several years ago, while a child, my brother interested me in the collecting of stamps. It took my fancy more for the novelty of seeking for new ones continually, and the placing of each stamp with its country. So that now I have in the neighbourhood of 1000 different stamps. I have practically forgotten my collection until recently I chanced to receive a sample copy of your paper. But it is exactly like reading a foreign paper to me, for I know nothing about this work, and it is all too deep for me. So I am taking the liberty of writing to enquire what is the object of making such a collection other than the novelty of it? How is one to know what stamps you still need for each country; also what is meant by such terms as cut-squares, 1f on 1f claret, and olive green, etc. What book is best, and where obtained, that you would advise me to buy as a beginner that would be large enough and have enough illustrations to enable me to place my stamps correctly. I have a cheap book which would accommodate 2500, but it is far too small. How would you advise me to start a collection and then continue it?"

Now though most of the points raised in this letter are matters regarding which the man or boy who is not already a collector desires information many of them deal with phases of our hobby on which most collectors who are in the "beginner" class desire enlightenment. As a matter of fact most of these queries have already been answered on this page but as new subscribers are being added to the WEEKLY at the rate of about a hundred a week a little repetition will probably be welcomed by a large proportion of my readers.

First of all we will refer to the "object" of making a collection. This question might well be answered by asking, "What is the object of anything?" The man without a hobby of some sort is to be pitied and in these days is quite a rarity. We are most of us hobbyists and with the ever increasing pressure of living we might almost say that the object of a hobby is to preserve one's sanity. Among hobbies in general we claim for stamp-collecting—with very good reason, too,—that it is the most popular pastime in the world. It is an intellectual amusement; one that trains the powers of observation to a high degree; one that develops habits of accuracy and neatness; and one that is a true recreation inasmuch as it gives welcome relief to the over-active brain, taxed with business cares, and stimulates the sluggish brain that is usually not occupied enough. But this phase of the subject was treated at some length in my article, "Philately as a World-wide Hobby", in the WEEKLY for January 27th last. As this appeared so recently readers who are interested can obtain a copy of the WEEKLY containing same by remitting 5c to the publishers.

The next requisite is a catalogue and probably Scott's will prove the best for our enquirer as it follows a strictly alphabetical arrangement. This can be obtained from practically any dealer advertising in this journal. With the catalogue the identification of one's stamps is an easy matter after a little practice. In this volume, too, quite a number of definitions of philatelic terms are given together with much other useful general information under the heading of, "Hints to collectors".

The next important point concerns a suitable album. This is a difficult matter on which to give advice as so much depends on the individual. As a rule it is wise not to be too ambitious and to start with a small simple album. This answers very well while the beginner is feeling his way learning to know stamps and how to measure perforations, detect watermarks, etc. But if the beginner must have an illustrated album to start with the best and most simple is Gibbons' "Ideal". This provides spaces for the main varieties only, all perforation varieties, etc., being omitted as well as Official and postage due stamps. The arrangement is alphabetical and as illustrations of every different stamp design are shown in correct chronological order it is a simple matter to place any stamp in its proper position. The book is in one volume and sells for about $4.00. There are more complex albums but none so suitable for the general collector. But the best plan is for the collector to call on the nearest dealer and inspect the different makes of albums kept in stock.

As I have had many other letters lately asking questions dealing with what I may perhaps call "elementary" philatelic matters I propose during the next few weeks running a series of articles covering much old ground, but which will, I hope, prove helpful to our many new readers.

SHORT REPLIES.

B. J.—The stamp you describe bearing the inscription "Holkar State Postage" belongs to the Indian State of Indore. You will find it in both Scott's and Gibbons' catalogues under the general heading of India.

C. F. M.—The figure on the 2s 6d stamp of Malta is, I believe, not intended to represent Britannia but is emblematical of the Island of Malta.

H. L. S.—Your stamps are (1) a German local (2) an Austrian fiscal (3) Bulgaria, and (4) Montenegro.

G. F.—The differences in the designs of the Cuban stamps of 1899 and 1905 were due to a change of manufacturers. The printing contract was originally held by the Bureau of Engraving and Printing and then fell to the American Bank Note Co. The latter had the dies of the 1c, 2c, 5c and 10c stamps slightly altered so that their work could be distinguished from that of the former contractors. But they are also easily recognisable from the fact that they are printed on unwatermarked paper.

NOTES ON NEW ISSUES.

Cayman Islands.—Our correspondent at this place advises us that the ½d King Edward stamps are completely exhausted and that no more will be issued, as the new King George stamps are expected to arrive shortly.

Chinese Republic.—In our last issue we chronicled the issue of the current Chinese stamps overprinted with four Chinese characters signifying "Provisional Neutrality," but a few days after the lists were printed we received advice that although a certain quantity of the stamps were so overprinted they were recalled before the date appointed for their issue, as the Republican leaders objected to the words "Provisional Neutrality" and preferred to have the existing stamps remain in use until a permanent Republican set could be prepared. In the case of Foochow, however, this notice was too late, as when it arrived the stamps had been on sale for three days. Immediately on receipt of the notice the sale was stopped, and the remainder of the surcharged stamps on hand returned to headquarters as directed. We understand that the values of the surcharged stamps put on sale at Foochow were those of 3c, 7c, $1, $2 and $5, and that the overprint was in one line in red. At the moment of going to press we have received a letter from our Chinese correspondent, to whom we are indebted for much information on this subject, informing us that on the date of his letter, March 14th, an official notice was sent out to the effect that all Chinese stamps are to be surcharged with four Chinese characters signifying "Chinese Republic," and that these stamps will be put on sale the first week in April.

Denmark.—A correspondent at Copenhagen informs us that at a great fire which occurred at the State printing establishment, the reserve stocks of the current Danish stamps were destroyed together with the plates from which they were printed, as well as the printing machines, and that in consequence the Danish Government, to meet the emergency, is obliged to create a number of provisional stamps. Particulars of these have been sent us, but we will defer giving the full details until we have received a supply. It is understood that a number of stamps of old issues will be overprinted for current use.

Gold Coast.—Several philatelic journals have announced the issue of the 5s, 10s and £1 stamps of the King Edward type in new colours, and on the strength of this we sent a large remittance to the Colony for these stamps. This remittance has been returned to us with the information that the stamps have not been issued, and it is not known when they will be placed on sale.

Italy.—We are advised that all stamps bearing the overprint of "ALBANIA" and "TRIPOLI-DI-BARBERIA" have been withdrawn from circulation; the 1c, 5c, 25c, 50c and 1 lira Tripoli stamps have been completely exhausted, the other denominations are still on sale as long as the stock lasts. The Commemorative stamps issued last year are also now unobtainable.

Portugal.—When the new permanent stamps were issued, our agent at Lisbon advised us that the values were in centimos, but he now writes us that his previous information was incorrect, and that the values are in centavos. There are 100 centavos to the escudo, which is exactly equivalent to 1000 reis.—Whitfield King's Novelty List.

BERMUDA NOTES.

By BENEDICT PRIETH.

In my Bermuda Notes which you published in a recent issue, I spoke of impending changes in the ¼d, 2d, 2½d, 3d, 4d, 6d and 1s stamps, of this colony, and incidentally advised collectors that it would pay them to keep their eyes on Bermuda. A part of my prophecy materialized more quickly than I had imagined, and before my notes had appeared in print, the ¼d violet and black, Dockyard type, became obsolete. For some reason, however, the new issue was not put on sale until Monday, March 18th, on which date it was obtainable at most of the post offices, as was also the new issue of the 2½d.

The new 6d and 1s has been issued in the ship type and were placed on sale March 26. There was some talk of issuing provisional 6d and 1s stamps, as these values have been obsolete for more than three months and there is a great demand for them here. Under the Parcels Post agreement with England, parcels requiring 3 shillings postage may be sent, and the numerous shippers of Easter lilies, bulbs, etc., naturally were indignant at having to paste so many stamps of low denominations on their packages.

In this instance I think a provisional issue would have been not only justifiable, but positively necessary, but no doubt the tremendous hue and cry which is invariably raised by the philatelic press whenever a British colony finds it necessary to surcharge any of its stamps, deterred the local authorities from taking a step which the situation imperatively demanded. But the wiseacres of the philatelic press always seem to think that they know so much more about these things than the people on the spot, and in this they remind me of individuals one often sees at ball games, who although seated way out on the bleachers somewhere, always know more than the umpire.

When you consider that three steamers come to Bermuda from New York every week and that there is regular direct communication with London, and that nevertheless a shortage of stamps will happen now and then, is it any wonder that small isolated places like the Cayman Islands for instance, where there is very little and very irregular communication with the outside world, is it any wonder, I say, that such places should run short of stamps occasionally?

But I am digressing and will now return to my original subject. As I said before, the new ¼d and 2½d stamps have been issued and the 6d and 1s have appeared as I write these notes. I have been informed that the stocks of the other denominations in the Dockyard design, viz: 2d, 3d and 4d, are running short and all these will no doubt soon be superseded by the new issue. The 4d is not much used here as a general thing, and I believe there was only one printing and a small one at that. The recent shortage of 6d and 1s stamps has brought the 4d into more general use, and no doubt the supply is pretty nearly exhausted. The 3d Dockyard type, still appears with the Single CA watermark, and I believe it is the only British colonial stamp that does so. Am I right in this surmise? This stamp was issued about 10 years ago and is used quite frequently, as it prepays postage and registration to England and the colonies. It is possible that the 3d may appear on multiple paper before the new issue is out, and if it does, then I would advise collectors to lose no time in securing a copy, as unquestionably the supply will be very small. There is no reason why this stamp, if it is ever issued, should not eventually become as scarce as the 6d B. C. A. multiple wmk., which is now quoted at about $3.00. The ½d post card was issued in the ship type a little while ago. This card was chronicled in Ewen's Weekly about six weeks ago, but I know positively that it had not been issued at that time.

JUBILEE OF PHILATELY 1862-1912.

By D. B. ARMSTRONG.

The present year marks the jubilee of the science of philately, a very different thing from the mere unintelligent accumulation of postage labels. Philately represents the development upon intellectual lines of the less pretentious pastime of stamp collecting. It stands for the study not only of the stamps themselves but of the various processes involved in their production, and incidentally of the postal systems of the countries of their origin. The philatelist, in short, aspires to reconstruct in minute detail the entire history of a nation's postal issues.

Although stamp collecting had been recognized for some years as a harmless form of amusement for the younger generation, it was not until the early sixties that it began to engage the serious attention of "children of larger growth." About 1862, however, movement was set on foot by a small but earnest coterie of Parisian enthusiasts for the application of scientific methods to the collection and study of postage stamps, which gradually spread to England and other countries where the new hobby had attained popularity. At this period the number of serious adult collectors was small; and, like all other pioneers, they came in for a good deal of ridicule, though the status of the men who openly associated themselves with the hobby should have been a sufficient guarantee of its value. The favourite rendezvous for the English philatelic students of those days was an upper room in the London Rectory of All Hallows, Staining, where on Saturday afternoons were wont to foregather at the invitation of the Rev. F. J. Stainforth, the perpetual curate (himself one of the most zealous of early English collectors), such philatelic notabilities as the late Sir Daniel Cooper (first Speaker of the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales), Mr. (afterwards Judge) Philbrick, Mr. Hughes-Hughes, Dr. Viner (one of the earliest philatelic writers), Mr. Mount Brown, and the celebrated E. L. Pemberton, the greatest philatelic student of his day. Out of these informal gatherings arose the Philatelic Society, London (now the Royal Philatelic Society), which held its inaugural meeting at 93, Great Russell-street on Saturday, April 10th, 1869, with Sir Daniel Cooper for its first president. Two previous attempts at forming philatelic societies had been made, one in Paris in 1865, and the other in New York in 1867; but both had proved abortive, so that the London society may be regarded as the first of its kind. To-day philatelic societies are to be found in almost every civilized country, and at the last congress of British philatelists over forty societies were represented.

Already (in 1862) a stamp trade had sprung up, the firm of J. B. Moens of Brussels having been in existence for over ten years. One of the first postage stamp dealers in Paris was Mme. Nicholas, at whose shop in the Rue Taitbout the leading Parisian collectors of the day used to meet. In England the stamp trade was represented at that time by some half-a-dozen firms, of whom the well-known houses of Gibons, Pemberton, Lincoln, and Smith still survive. Open-air stamp exchanges flourished in those days in the Tuileries Gardens in Paris and in Birchin-lane, London, where animated scenes took place, with much noisy buying, selling, and exchanging of stamps. Frequently the traffic was stopped by this al-fresco stamp mart, and on several occasions it was raided by the police and the participants charged with obstruction. A motley crowd of schoolboys, men of all ages and classes, ladies of fashion, and children attended this stamp bourse, and it is recorded that on one occasion a member of the Ministry was observed in the throng. The English stamp exchange died out after a time; but an open-air stamp bourse is still held in the Champs Elysées.

Meanwhile scientific stamp collecting was making steady progress, and the tendency for collecors to study their stamps was becoming more and more common. A further impetus was given to the new mode of collecting by the invention in 1866 by Dr. Legrand, doyen of French philately, of the perforation gauge which has since been universally adopted by philatelists. In the previous year the hobby had reached its baptism in the term philately, coined by M. Herpin, another eminent Parisian collector. The year 1862 witnessed the beginnings of what has proved the most extensive literature with which any collecting pursuit has been endowed. In April, 1862, the first English stamp catalogue was produced—a small volume bearing the title "Aids to Stamp Collectors," compiled by a young Brighton artist, Mr. Frederick Booty, and published by Messrs. H. and C. Treacher, of that town. In the following month there appeared the famous "Catalogue of British, Colonial, and Foreign Stamps," prepared by Mr. Mount Brown with the assistance of Dr. Viner, and based on the then extensive collection of Mr. Stainforth. Towards the end of the same year a third English stamp catalogue was issued by the eminent scientist and naturalist, Dr. Gray, of the British Museum. Across the Channel the catalogues of Oscar Berger-Levrault and Alfred Potiquet had reached their second edition, and were followed early in 1862 by those of Moens, Laplante, and Valette. A pirated edition of Mount Brown's catalogue, appearing in Philadelphia in the same year under title of "The Stamp Collector's Manual," was the first philatelic publication in the United States. The earliest planned Stamp Album was also issued in that year by Justin Lallier, of which there were several editions in both English and French.

The periodical literature of the hobby started with the publication on December 15, 1862, of the Monthly Advertiser, the first English periodical devoted entirely to stamp collecting. It was followed in February, 1863, by the Stamp Collector's Magazine, greatest of all the early English stamp journals, which was edited by Dr. C. W. Viner and published by Messrs. Stafford Smith and Smith, of Bath, price 4d. At the same time there was issued from the Brussels house of Moens the first number of Le Timbre-Poste, the leading Continental philatelic paper of the last century. Some idea of the extent of philatelic literature since that date may be gleaned from the fact that the catalogue of the philatelic library of Lord Crawford, recently published, occupies 923 pages large folio.

The jubilee of philately will be appropriately celebrated by British philatelists by an International Stamp Exhibition, on an extensive scale to be held in London from October 14 to 19, 1912, under the auspices of the Junior Philatelic Society. It is worthy of note that the name of one of the early pioneers of British philately, Mr. Mount Brown, figures prominently on the Jubilee Exhibition Roll of Honour.—London Times.

UP THEY GO.

CHICAGO, Mar. 31, 1912

TO THE EDITOR:—

While working in the C. P. S. library the other day I chanced upon a copy of Sterling's U. S. Catalogue for 1887. Curiosity led me to compare some of the prices with those of the present day Scott prices, and I was astonished at the great increase in twenty-four years' time. I enclose a copy of some notes I made, and trust that it will benefit the readers of the WEEKLY.

If you will notice, the prices of two or three items have dropped considerably. I included only the items which had gone up the most, nearly all of those listed have doubled, but the inclosed have increased the most. I call particular attention to the 10 cent 1870-71 grilled, unused.

I am curious to know whether or not Mr. Sterling could supply all of the items listed and at the prices listed. This list was published before my time, so I know little about the author. It is a well-known fact that Scott, Stanley Gibbons, etc. cannot supply everything that they list, nor do they pretend to. Perhaps some of your readers can enlighten me.

A 30 cent 1869 inverted center would have been cheap at $50.00 even twenty-four years ago.

I note that the August issue was unlisted and unmentioned in the catalogue at that time.

A. WM. BLOSS.

(NOTE.—E. B. Sterling, Trenton, New Jersey, who compiled the catalogue named by Mr. Bloss was the most advanced specialist-dealer in the stamps of the United States of the decade 1880 to 1890. Mr. Sterling's prices were rather higher than those that prevailed at the time on the curb; and it is safe to assume that he could supply the stamps at the prices quoted in his catalogue. There were no secret marks, no August 1861 and no special printings in those happy days.—EDITOR.)

BRITISH CONGRESS LABEL.

A souvenir stamp has been issued in connexion with the fourth annual Philatelic Congress of Great Britain, which meets this year at Margate on May 1 to 4. The design of the stamp is triangular, showing in the centre an upright figure of Britannia, whilst the arms of Great Britain, Margate, and Kent appear in the three corners. It is handsomely produced in taille-douce engraving by Messrs. Perkins, Bacon and Co., and printed in six different colours, the central design in each instance being in black. The Congress is honoured by the patronage of Lord Crawford (President of the Royal Philatelic Society) and will be attended by delegates from more than 40 philatelic societies in all parts of the kingdom, who will join in the discussion of a variety of matters affecting the welfare of the science. This year the Congress will be held under the auspices of the Isle of Thanet Philatelic Society, the chairman being A. Leon Adutt, F. R. P. S. L., and the hon. secretary D. B. Armstrong.

COMMUNICATION.

(We do not hold ourselves responsible for the views expressed by our readers. Our columns are always open for communications of general interest.—Ed.)

ST. LOUIS, MO., April 20, '12.

TO THE EDITOR:

Regarding the paragraph on page 122, second column, about the 1 cent blue of 1895 and 1 cent green of 1898, would say that this broken line at right of right triangle exists in two forms. One is broken about middle way of the line, while another is broken at the bottom of the line, the latter being the widest break, and showing more horizontal lines running through without line crossing, than the former.

These two varieties exist in both the blue and the green. In the green issue I have another variety, showing the lines of both triangles, right and left, broken. Have these in pairs, showing the same breaks, which proves that it occurred in more than one stamp on the plate.

Another variety of U. S. which I have not yet seen chronicled is the Two Cent Hudson-Fulton, with the "O" in the word "Two" so broken that it looks like a "Figure 8" laid on its side. It is a very peculiar variety to describe, but one never forgotten when once seen. It looks like a variety in the plate, rather than to a defect in printing.

Have a vertical strip of three 1 cent blue 1851, "recut" or type four, in which the bottom line of the top stamp was never first removed, and consequently never was recut. All other lines at top and bottom were recut. This is a distinct plate variety, and probably rather rare.

Have added two more to my list of line varieties, shown in your issue of April 13. Number 34, as I term it, has strong traces of the outer line at bottom, it not being clearly removed, but partly.

No. 35 has two guide dots—one in each corner of top of stamp.

TO OUR MANY PATRONS.

This number of the WEEKLY will be one of unusual interest to both buyer and seller. It gives our new subscribers an idea not only of the commercial standing of philately, but of the worldwide interest that is taken in our hobby.

Advertisers are admitted to our columns only after we have been assured of their reliability, and the many new subscribers that we have added to our mailing list during the past three months need have no hesitancy in opening business relations with any advertiser in our paper.

We are adding new subscribers to our mailing list every week and all are urged to take advantage of the various departments that our paper offers.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

EDITORIAL.

No Time Lost—The postoffice department rose to the emergency caused by the loss of the Titanic with prompt and effective measures. Almost as soon as the news of the disaster was confirmed, the postmasters in the large cities received a telegram notifying them that the S. S. Lapland, instead of the Titanic would convey the mails that were to have been carried by the Titanic which was scheduled to sail on its return trip from New York on April 20th. The Lapland will leave on that date. It is probable that in the immense volume of mail that was transported on the Titanic there were letters destined for Philatelists in America but let us hope that any loss of the kind has been relatively small.

Special P. O. D. Order—The celerity with which the postal officers moved to bring order out of the chaotic conditions is exemplified by the following special order issued from Washington so early as April 18th:

"Among the millions of pieces of mail matter carried on the lost S. S. Titanic, there were doubtless thousands of dollars' worth of international money orders, together with descriptive lists of such orders. It is assumed that many of the remitters of those orders will communicate with the payees in this country concerning them, and that these payees, in turn, will take up the matter through their respective postmasters.

It is the earnest desire of the Department that in all such cases postmasters give careful attention to the inquiries made and promptly report the facts to the Third Assistant Postmaster General (Division of Money Orders), to the end that every effort may be made to insure early payment to the intended beneficiaries.

JAMES J. BRITT,
Third Asst. P. M. Gen."

Milwaukee Exhibit—The indications are that a successful stamp exhibition was held by the Milwaukee Philatelic Society, April 19th, 20th and 21st, 1912, at the Milwaukee Public Museum, third floor. The catalogue shows that the exhibition was limited to members of the society and that there were fourteen entrants, whose contributions fairly cover the stamps of the world, particularly in the older issues. Particulars of the displays have been promised for our next number. We are certain that this exhibition will have a stimulating effect on philately in Milwaukee, a city singularly rich in philatelic possibilities.

Value of a Hobby—At a meeting of the Catholic Woman's League in Chicago, the advisability of cultivating a hobby was the subject of a spirited debate. One speaker said: "The day of the hobby is gone. Riding of hobby horses that used to keep women peaceable and contented is a thing of the past, for to-day, women are neither peaceable nor contented. In the days of hobbies no one expected us to be consistent but to-day, we take everything seriously. In the old days we had stamp books and charm strings with wonderful buttons," etc. Another speaker maintained that the women of to-day regard hobbies as having a place in the art of living as important as ever before. She quoted: "An eminent physician has said that every nation, every people, every person should have a hobby in which to take delight. This, he says, is conducive to long life." The humble husband who wishes to keep his wife home o' nights should know that philately is the best lode-stone. He could use the eminent doctor's advice as a slogan: For a long and happy life use philately.

Rates and Distances—When the 1847 issue was in use, a correspondent writes, the postal rates were "for a letter not exceeding half an ounce in weight, sent not exceeding 300 miles," five cents, and "sent over 300 miles," ten cents. Who estimated the distances?—presumably the postmaster but how was he to know, unless he were a walking geography? and anyway, geographies did not have this specific information. This reader raises an interesting point that does not seem to have received attention heretofore. Tables of distances from Washington to the capital or largest town of each state were provided; and they showed as well the distance from each capital or largest town to each of the others. These compilations were published at Washington and were copied into various books of reference of the period as well. For instance, one of the tables marks the distance from Washington to Boston as 436 miles; from Boston to New Orleans as 1696 miles. The table with its cross-references covered the United States as it existed postally at that time and made approximation of distance a comparatively simple calculation.

And Again—Recently, we made mention of a philatelic case in England involving the sale of certain counterfeits of early Tasmania and Victoria, wherein it was ruled by the magistrate that the stamps, ostensibly genuine but in reality forgeries were bought at the purchaser's risk. In referring to the instance, it was remarked that the legal axiom, let the buyer beware, seemed to have been invoked in its extremity. However, all judges are not of the same mind, even in England where justice is dispensed so sternly, yet fairly. The Daily Mail of London, tells of the suit of a stamp dealer against a defendant for alleged breach of warranty. The dealer charged that in buying a stamp for thirty-one dollars or thereabouts, the seller guaranteed its genuineness but the stamp later was discovered to be a "specimen" with a faked postmark or a hybrid variety of little or no value. The judge found for the plaintiff to the amount of five pounds and costs and said "if a man was absurd enough to take upon himself the warranty of a thing when he knew nothing about it he must take the consequences." We shall not start a subscription fund to reimburse the poor dealer with the pound and more that he has lost; he can place the deficit against experience.

How Not To Do—In all reports of transactions that reflect the shady or sinister side of philatey, the paramount moral is that the collector should buy from recognized and reputable dealers from whom redress can readily be had if a mistake has been made by them. The best insurance of satisfaction, financial and otherwise, is to be had by patronizing such dealers and one may rest assured that these dealers can offer bargains with the same degree of enterprise as the non-advertising sort. It is a fallacy to suppose that the dealers who make a real business of stamps are not in the best position to cater in prices and goods to the collector; and occasionally, the collector has an experience that drives home this statement.

They Are Sane—Opportune of an item in this column two weeks ago: "You say that you hope that postmasters will give uncalled-for copies of your paper to reformatory institutions as you 'know that highly correctional results will follow.' I give my WEEKLIES (and general publications) to the insane asylum here; and I am told that some of the inmates prefer your paper to any other. Do great minds run in the same channel?"

4-CENT U. S. COILED ENDWISE.

Some weeks ago we published the official list of U. S. part-perforates, the information being supplied by the office of the Third Assistant Postmaster General. The 4-cent was listed as having been issued coiled sidewise only. A correspondent amended the list by adding this stamp coiled endwise and the following letter from James J. Britt, Third Assistant Postmaster General, definitely establishes the existence of the 4-cent imperforate both endwise and sidewise:—

"In reply to your letter of April 5th, you are advised that record is found of the issuance of perforated 4c postage stamps coiled endwise, and the list contained in the Department's letter of March 21st should be amended accordingly."

PAYS $3,500 FOR $5 COIN.

Half Eagle Minted in 1815—Only Three Others in Existence.

(Clipping from J. Dolmich.)

FT. WORTH, April 9.—H. O. Granberg, a wealthy mining broker of Oshkosh, Wis., today paid $3,500 for a five dollar gold piece of the United States minted in 1815. The coin was purchased from Max Mehl of this city, a numismatist. This coin in 1906 was sold for $1,000 and a year later was sold at a Philadelphia auction to Mehl for $2,000. There are only three other 1815 five dollar gold pieces in existence. One is owned by V. Brand, a rich Chicago brewer; another by John C. Clapp, a millionaire of Washington, D. C., while the fourth is in the United States Treasury.

It is said that the price paid for the half eagle is the next highest price ever paid for a coin, the highest price being $3,600, paid for an 1804 United States dollar by a New York jewelry firm.

Granberg left for Wisconsin with a grip filled with several hundred thousand dollars' worth of rare coins.—N. Y. World.

Catalog Value $2.00 and Under.

A correspondent suggests that an article dealing with hard-to-get stamps would be appreciated by our readers. We invite contributions to a symposium, suggesting that it be confined to stamps that catalog $2.00 and under. We shall hope to have a sufficient number of entries to make a worthy contribution to our columns.

Try to obtain unused or used copies of the 4 milesimos or 4 centavos 1898 Spanish Cuba, Porto Rico or Philippines to fill out your sets and see how long it will take you—unless you purchase the whole sets at auction. Also endeavor to get authentic copies of the Maximelion Mexican 1866, lithographed or engraved, and tussle with the problem.

But in our own U. S. the brown Garfield of 1882 in its various shades will keep you on a still hunt for some little time, especially if you desire the imprint, while even the 5c of the St. Louis and Jamestown issues are stamps that are not to be picked up with plate numbers every day.

The 2c Canada 1859 or 1c unused of 1868 in good condition seem to be very “hard to get” except in large auction lots.

“One of the Symposium.”

(Contributed by W. R. Harrison.)

My collection is made up almost exclusively of unused British Colonials, and amongst these stamps I find many which come under the above classification. In a review of my album, the stamp which seems to head my list is Western Australia No. 80, the 5d 1902-3 issue wmk. V and crown and cataloging $1.50 by Scott 1911.

I sought this stamp without success for about two years, having purchased the set, all but the 5d and £1 at auction about that long ago. During this time I only recall seeing one or two listed in auctions which a generous bid did not bring, and requests of dealers were also fruitless. Finally a short time ago, I picked up one from a want list sent to an Eastern dealer—a superb mint copy perf. 12½ at $1.25. The same dealer furnished me with a splendid unused copy of Barbados No. 66, 6d 1882 issue, at $1.10, this stamp catalogues $1.75. I had also bid on this one higher than above price, without success.

Some other stamps hard to get, whilst not so elusive as these two just mentioned, are Malta No. 36, 5d 1904-5, mult. CA, Barbados No. 109, 2d 1907, mult. CA, Jamaica No. 41, 1d 1905-9, mult. CA and Tasmania No. 85, 10d 1899.

All four of above cost me in the aggregate I believe about double 1911 catalogue prices, the only one coming under catalogue being the last mentioned.

Some one else included as very scarce Jamaica No. 47, 1sh brown, 1905-9 issue mult. CA wmk. I still need this stamp and once had an opportunity to get one at $1.10 but at that time considered the price high, but have not had a second opportunity to buy one at that figure.

Another scarce one is New South Wales No. 67, 8d 1882-88 issue cataloging $1.75. I recently had the good fortune to pick up a very fine unused copy for $1.10 at auction.

All of the above cited cases go to disprove the sometimes accepted theory that all good stamps, excepting U. S. may be purchased at 50% catalogue.

I could mention others but think perhaps I have used up my share of your valuable space.

THE SLATER SALE.

Bartels' 47th sale will be held May 15-16 at the Collectors' Club, N. Y. City. The catalogs are now out and the copy at hand shows a fine line of U. S. stamps in blocks, pairs, strips, etc., the property of A. B. Slater of Providence, R. I. We note a block of eight 5c 1847 full o. g. We hope to publish a fine range of prices realized.

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Any information regarding new issues will be gratefully received and acknowledged. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, 17 Addison St., Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed, stamped envelope. We cannot give applicants the addresses of our correspondents. Correspondence regarding precancelled stamps must be sent to FRANK B. ELDREDGE, Attleboro, Mass., when due credit will be given in this department.

UNITED STATES.—Alfred A. Fidler reports having seen the following plate numbers on the New Washington 1c stamps, all having "A" before the numbers:—

With imprint—5727, 5728, 5730, 5731, 5738, 5739, 5781.

Without imprint—5806, 5859, 5862, 5864, 5870, 5881, 5882, 5884, 5885.

Mr. Fidler also reports having seen the 4c, with imprint and star, 5574, 5575, 5576. He has also examined stocks of the 10c Eagle Registry stamp in four different offices, and found only four plate numbers, all with imprint and "A": 5720, 5723, 5726, 5729.

Miss Amy L. Swift writes:—"Some weeks since I reported a report of 1c and 2c stamps precanceled 'Station A—Whitman, Mass.,' in three lines with bar above and below. Inquiry at this office showed that six values of the current issue were thus overprinted at Christmas time, as follows:—1c, 2c, 3c, 4c, 5c, 10c. About $80 worth of stamps were thus precanceled."

ARGENTINE REPUBLIC.—Mr. Schachne sends us the new cards with the "Sower" stamp. They are identical with the last issue otherwise. In 1107, on the authority of Revista de la Sociedad Filatelica Argentine (which ought to be a reliable authority on these issues) is noted a postal card of 5c rose on cream which without doubt should have been called a letter card and was the one referred to in the context.

CHINA.—Our correspondent, A. P. S. 3553, confirms our note of last week in connection with the issue of Republic stamps here. He adds that later a commemorative set will appear with the following values:—1, 2, 3, 5 and 8c. Our correspondent says that the permanent issue of the Republic will show a "picture of an air-ship." This certainly is up-to-date but a confirmation of the report is desired.

DENMARK.—The Stamp Collectors' Fortnightly describes three of the provisionals recently announced. These are the 16 and 20 ore of the 1874 type, surcharged in two lines with a new value, "35 ore" in deep bronze blue, and the 32 ore of the 1875 official series, similarly surcharged in black. This last stamp has the marginal words, "Tjeneste" and "Frimærke" covered by a chain-like obliteration and the word "Frimærke" is printed over the original value at the foot. There has also been a reissue of the "4 ore" on 8 ore, and "15 ore" on 24 ore of 1904, but reported to be identical in every way with those previously issued.

GREAT BRITAIN.—The Postage Stamp states that it has information to the effect that the 1d post card and 1d wrapper have been printed and supplies delivered, so we may expect to see them at any time now. The stamp on both is identical with that on the new letter-card. The same journal states: The dies for the Georgian Registration envelopes are proving very unsatisfactory. Instead of having a flush surface, they are inclined to be concave, causing blobs of colour to appear in good King George's eye, making him look as if he had just had an encounter with M. Carpentier! New and improved dies are to be delivered to the printers, but it is improbable that there will be any philatelic difference in the impressions therefrom. In this connection it is interesting to note that exactly the same trouble was found in the old large size Victorian series of dies, and these also were re-engraved in April, 1878, the original ones being engraved in January, 1878. Die proofs in black of both are in the editor's collection; the difference appears to consist only in the better embossing of the head in the second die.

Offices in the Levant.—Oswald Marsh's Circular notes the 1pi, perf. 15x14, with the overprint in a new type. The letters measure the same length as before, but are ½ mm. less in height, giving them a much squarer appearance.

LIBERIA.—The Philatelic Journal of Great Britain reports that the 20c value of 1909 issue has been found with inverted centre.

MAURITIUS.—The Schweizer Briefmarken Zeitung reports having seen "specimen" copies of three values of the new stamps, with portrait of King George. The stamps are of the same design as the previous issue, and are printed on multiple paper.

NICARAGUA.—A. C. Roessler sends us a specimen of a new 4c post card from this country, the stamp being of the Goddess type, like the stamps recently issued. BRITISH CONGRESSES.

Apparently the Philatelic Congress of Great Britain is going to be like Tennyson's Brook—at any rate, it will go on for several years yet. It has already been announced that invitations have been extended to the Congress from various centres for every year up to 1915, and now Leeds has put in a claim for 1916. Writing to the Hon. Secretary of the Permanent Committee, Messrs. W. Denison Roebuck and W. K. Skipwith, the Hon. Secretaries of the Leeds Philatelic Society, state:—

"We have pleasure in communicating to you a hearty and unanimous invitation from the Leeds Philatelic Society for the Philatelic Congress to meet in Leeds about the beginning of May, 1916.

The Society and its members will do all that is in their power to render the Congress successful and enjoyable to all who take part in it.

We shall be pleased to learn that you can accept this invitation."

So the Congress is really going to have a good chance of a long and useful record, the list of past Congresses and future engagements being as follows:—

PAST CONGRESSES.

1st Manchester, 1909.
2nd London, 1910.
3rd Birmingham, 1911.

FUTURE CONGRESSES.

4th Margate, 1912.
5th Edinburgh, 1913.
6th London, 1914.
7th Newcastle-on-Tyne, 1915.
8th Leeds, 1916.

Leeds is a most welcome addition to the list, for in few other cities is there so active and keen a philatelic life as there is in the capital of the wool trade. The Leeds Philatelic Society came of age last year, having been founded in 1890, and although its membership is not large (something under 100) it makes up in quality what it lacks in quantity. That the Leeds Congress will be a notable one I have no doubt, but we shall have to wait until 1916 for it. Meanwhile other towns desiring to invite the Congress during the present century had better take the bull by the horns and book up at once!—Postage Stamp.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—In our issue of April 13 Bryant Pollard, Proctorsville, Vt., was made to advertise the 50c U. S. 1909 issue precanceled, second quality, at 20c each. The price should have been 10c. We regret the mistake and trust this correction will procure sufficient patronage to off-set the error referred to.

—B. L. Drew's 245th sale will be held Tuesday evening, April 30. On May 15 he will sell the Edw. F. Weed collection, both at 24 Hayward Pl., Boston. Wm. L. Aldrich, auctioneer.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from George R. Popp.

—M. Ohlman, 19 E. 98, N. Y. City, advises us that he sent Wm. T. Ohle (Sheridan Stamp Co.), 825 Edgecomb Av., Chicago, Ill., an approval selection. It is claimed that the lot was returned but Mr. Ohlman never received the same. Maxwell Kraus, Lebanon, Pa., also sent him a selection which was "not received." Mr. Ohlman would be glad to hear from interested parties.

—"H. F. Chaffee, one of the victims of the recent Titanic tragedy, was part owner of a 40,000 acre farm at Amenia, N. D., also of a large part of the town including the large elevators and seed houses known as "The Amenia and Sharon Land Co." It was on this farm upon which the scene was taken "Farming in the West", represented on our 2 cent Omaha stamp, 1898. It is just ten miles west of the residence of the writer."—S. M. EDWARDS.

—About May 1, the Economist Stamp Co. will remove to 87 Nassau St., Rooms 509-510.

"POST OFFICE" MAURITIUS.

We hear that Madame Desbois is dead. Her name will always be remembered by philatelists, as that of the lady through whose hands passed many of the celebrated "Post Office" stamps, issued in Mauritius in September, 1847.

STAMP CHATTER.

Too many common stamps on hand may provoke a sort of "tired feeling"; a stamp that quits the scene of operations very quickly brings a twinkle to the eye, and its exit is followed by pleasant memories—and a resolution to look out for more of the same kind.

A stamp I handled yesterday—a fairly desirable item—was decidedly the worse for wear, and this must ultimately be the fate of many a stamp that gets sold over and over again. What will some of them be like in the twenty-first century?

Some stamps seem to sell themselves, and anything new and sufficiently interesting may be accepted from one's foreign correspondents with readiness. Some experience and a little discrimination should enable one to detect the sorts that are likely to be quickly appropriated.

No hesitation need be felt in taking several copies of such a stamp as the 6 heller Bosnia, 1910, or the 35c Guadeloupe, 1906.

The 2ch-on-5 krans Persia, 1905, is an attractive stamp, the surcharge thereon being discoverable in either black or lilac. Stamps like these do not seem to have travelled in multitudes.

There is a 100 reis Lorenzo Marques perforated 13½. The other day I discovered a copy with this scarcer perforation; its identity was evident at a glance, without any necessity for using the perforation gauge. Somehow it seemed different in appearance from the very bright copies one usually meets with. I don't know whether this is the experience of other possessors of this stamp.

The two shades of the 12c Sarawak, 1900 and 1905, are readily discoverable, and possibly the earlier stamp is the better possession of the two.

With some collectors doubtless the 50 and 100 ore Denmark, 1904, have got left behind.

There seems to be a good call for the 1910 issue of Argentine just now.

Persia 1910 and 1911 are becoming easier to get.

The 20c Honduras Republic, surcharged with big figures in 1910, does not seem too plentiful.—Stamp Collectors Fortnightly.

PHILATELY'S LONG RECORD.

It will probably be a surprise to most people to be reminded that the popular hobby of stamp collecting, in so far as it is connected with philately as a science, has a record of many years behind it, says the Irish Times (6.3.12). A correspondent of The Times calls attention to the fact that the philatelic science celebrates its jubilee this year. It began to engage serious attention in 1862, when a small, but earnest, coterie of Parisian enthusiasts set on foot a movement for the application of scientific methods to the collection and study of postage stamps. The movement quickly spread to Great Britain, where the first periodical devoted to the question—the Monthly Advertiser—appeared in December of the same year. Since that date the literature of philately has become the most extensive with which any collecting pursuit has ever been endowed. In the interval the philatelists have not had an easy battle to fight. In the early sixties stamp collecting had already come to be recognised as a harmless form of amusement for the younger generation, but the number of serious adult collectors was extremely small. Pioneers in every pursuit invariably meet with a considerable amount of opposition and ridicule, and of the latter the pioneers of philately came in for a good deal more than their fair share. The status of the men who first associated themselves with the study in Great Britain afforded them no protection, but it is greatly to their credit that they persisted in their efforts to live down the ridicule. Some few of them are still alive today to take a part in the formal recognition of their ultimate triumph. In this year of philately's jubilee the science numbers among its followers some of the most prominent men of the age in every civilised land, and the countries where philatelic societies do not exist in large numbers are in a very insignificant minority. It includes among its most devoted adherents crowned heads and earnest statesmen. In these islands it can claim as its unofficial leader no less a person than King George. There are still many persons who regard its followers as enthusiasts, harmless but unnecessary. But these lose sight of the real mission of the philatelist, as distinct from the stamp collector. They ignore the real and important work which he is doing. For the true philatelist aspires to reconstruct in minute detail the entire history of every nation's postal issues.—Postage Stamp.

WITH THE BOY PHILATELIST.

Edited by BERTRAM W. H. POOLE, Box 231, Altadena, Calif.

We propose to insert upon this page matter that will be of interest to the boy collector. Some two thousand boys are now on our mailing list and it is our desire to come closely in contact with them in such a manner as will be most helpful. Any information desired will be cheerfully rendered through these columns. Do not submit stamps for examination.

THE BEGINNERS' GUIDE.

In commencing this series of short general articles for the guidance of the beginner I do not propose to delve into such matters as the origin of stamps and postal systems, the history of stamp collecting, or other such generalia. I will start by presuming my readers are stamp-collectors, have an album of sorts, a certain number of stamps, and sufficient enthusiasm to wish to become acquainted with what I may perhaps term the "technicalities" of our hobby. Take a stamp and examine it for a moment and see if you can, metaphorically, split it up into its component parts. Of what does it consist? A little thought will show that it consists of a design printed in color on paper. Then it will usually be found there is some sort of separation, for the easy severance of one stamp from another, gum, by means of which it may easily be affixed to a postal package, and in quite a large number of cases there is also a watermark. The first three—design, color and paper—are the essentials and these parts are of primary importance; watermarks, when present, are also important as they form an actual part of the stamp; but separation and gum are not of primary importance for they are not parts of the stamp as originally printed. They are additions made for the sake of convenience—very useful additions it must be admitted, for had the perforation machine never been invented and had there been no means of attaching mucilage to the backs of stamps it is quite conceivable that their use would have been restricted to such an extent that they would probably long ago have been superseded by some more convenient invention.

Our dissected stamp, therefore, splits up into the following parts:—

(a) Design (d) Watermark
(b) Color (e) Separation
(c) Paper (f) Gum

These are not only the parts of a stamp but they are also the general divisions into which all varieties naturally fall. We have arranged them in what we consider their "philatelically logical" sequence, though as most collectors regard perforation varieties as of more importance than those of paper and watermark, and those of watermark as of a higher degree of importance than those of paper a "philatelically popular" sequence would be a variable table with an average arrangement of (a), (e), (d), (c), (b), (f). The popularity of perforations is easily understood: they are quite easy to distinguish and their measurement is an accomplishment quickly acquired by the beginner, whereas a certain amount of experience is necessary in distinguishing between some watermarks, while the sometimes subtle distinctions between various kinds of paper only appeals to the enthusiast of considerable knowledge.

For the purpose of these chats we will adhere to the "logical" scheme of arrangement so that we first of all have to deal with

POSTAGE STAMP DESIGNS.

Obviously the most necessary virtue in a postage stamp is that of utility and it naturally follows that an ideal postage stamp design should be simple, bold, and effective and yet intricate enough to prevent counterfeiting being an easy matter. While the majority of the early stamps of most countries fulfill these conditions only a few of the modern productions would have any pretensions whatsoever to be considered ideal. The current issue of United States stamps can, however, be fairly considered as an "ideal" set for they are simple, ornate, have the value clearly stated, and, being printed by the line-engraved process, would be difficult to counterfeit. They certainly represent a marked improvement on the over-ornamented series of 1902 and compare more than favorably with the current stamps of most other stamp-issuing countries.

The first postage stamp ever issued—the 1d black stamp of Great Britain—bore the portrait of Queen Victoria and the idea of having the portrait of the country's ruler as the main part of the design has been largely followed all over the world to this day. Next in order of popularity we find national coats-of-arms and, while these two subjects are perhaps the most appropriate, as stamp-collectors we may well be thankful that portraits and coats-of-arms do not form the only subjects, or it is to be feared our albums would lose much of their interest. As it is stamp designs cover such a wide range of subjects that treated merely as pictures, their study possesses boundless fascinations. Not only are nearly all the living races of mankind depicted but there are enough animals and birds to form a respectable zoo, enough vessels to form a navy, trees and flowers sufficient to make a wonderful garden, and buildings enough to make an imposing city. In addition historical events are recorded, the wonders of science are commemorated, engineering wonders are illustrated, religious symbols are shown, while of allegorical subjects there is abundant variety.

The interest of the designs as pictures is plain for all to see but pictures are not philately so we must turn to a brief consideration of the part played by designs in providing philatelic varieties. It would seem an obvious truism that minor varieties of design are of more importance than any other class of minor varieties for the design is really the fundamental portion of a stamp. At first, of course, the beginner will find quite enough to do to collect "standard" varieties without wandering into the by-paths of minor ones but, at the same time, he should train his eye to distinguish the small points that make varieties for as he grows into a "philatelist" such knowledge is not only useful but absolutely indispensable. Stamps that can be "plated" furnish varieties in plenty but to this I shall refer at length later on. The differences beginners should first of all learn to distinguish are those between such stamps as the 1894-5 issues of the Transvaal, one of which has shafts and the other a pole to the wagon; the 1896 and 1897 issues of Nicaragua, shown by the date in the right hand border; the 1890 and 1894 issues of the United States, shown by the presence of "triangles" in the upper corners of the latter; the 1897 and 1898 issues of Canada, the former having maple leaves and the latter numerals in the lower corners; etc. These varieties, though obvious to the experienced collector, are often quite obstacles to the beginner.

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES.

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Any information regarding new issues will be gratefully received and acknowledged. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, 17 Addison St., Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed, stamped envelope. We cannot give applicants the addresses of our correspondents. Correspondence regarding precancelled stamps must be sent to FRANK B. ELDREDGE, Attleboro, Mass., when due credit will be given in this department.

UNITED STATES.—George H. Scharr reports the new 1c with Shermack perforations, and the new 2c, imperforate at the sides and perforated 8½ at top and bottom.

The following new precancels have been reported by Donald H. Graham, F. B. Eldredge and Walter R. French:—

Lincoln, Neb ,1c 1912, normal; type II.
New York, N. Y., 1c 1912, normal; type III.
Chicago, Ill., 1c 1911, cancelled with heavy bar, horizontally, about 6 mm. wide.
Greenfield, Mass., 2c 1911, normal; type I.
Fort Wayne, Ind., 1c 1912, normal; type II.
Akron, Ohio, 1c 1912, normal; type V.
Chicago, Ill., 10c 1912, normal; no upper line, type V.
Cincinnati, Ohio, 4c 1911, normal; type VI.
Scranton, Pa., 4c 1911, normal; type II.
Boston, Mass., 1c 1912, inverted, type V.

Lowell J. Ragatz, shows the Scranton, Pa., 1c 1911, with a broken C in Scranton, also a small A, broken top of N and broken E in Penn.

L. L. Davis, reports a 1c 1908-09, mailed from Decorah, Ia., with the precancel spelled Becorah.

BELGIUM.—We have received from the New England Stamp Co., three values of the new set of stamps, so long promised. There are three different designs, the King's portrait appearing only on the higher value. The 1c has a large figure of value in a central square tablet, this being surrounded by a series of crosses in circles, the frame being composed of thick colored and dotted lines, the latter being outside. At the top and to the right of the figure of value is printed "c." "Belgique" appears at the top and "Belgie" at the bottom. The 5c has the Belgian Lion, surmounted by a crown, with one paw resting on the tablet in the lower left corner containing the value, thus, "5c." This also has the name of the country in French above and Flemish below, the former being in colorless letters and the latter in colored letters on a white ground. This design is the most effective of the three. The 10c shows the King in uniform, but without a hat, in what is evidently a characteristic pose, turned about one-quarter to the left. The upper part of the background is colorless, thus bringing the King's head into sharp relief. "Belgique" appears above, and "10 Belgie 10" below, both being in colorless letters. All are surface printed on unwatermarked paper, and are perforated 14. All have Sunday coupons, these being arranged like the 1910 charity stamps, with the coupons divided by a vertical line into two parts, the French at the left and the Flemish at the right, in two lines. The stamps are substantially the same as the 1893 and 1905 sets in size.

Adhesives.

1c deep orange.
5c green.
10c red.

CHINA.—Whitfield King & Co. have shown us a specimen of the new surcharge on the Imperial stamps of China, which is composed of four Chinese characters, arranged vertically of course. The surcharge is in red on the 1c, 2c, 3c, 5c, 10c, 16c and 50c; and in black on the ½c, 4c, 7c, 20c, 30c, $1, $2 and $5. The four characters represent "Chung Hua Min Kuo," which means "Chinese Republic."

DENMARK.—Accompanying specimens of the provisional 35c stamps, chronicled in No. 1113, Whitfield King writes us that the issue was all sold within 15 minutes of their being placed on sale. By the way, we take this information from a duplicate letter sent us by the above firm, the original having been lost on the ill-fated Titanic. The quantities printed of the three provisionals were as follows:—35 on 20 ore, 230,000; 35 on 16 ore, 130,000; 35 on 32 ore official, 83,000.

In a later letter, Whitfield King & Co. send us the new permanent 35c stamp, in the type of 1907 issue.

35 ore orange.

GREAT BRITAIN.—Offices in the Levant.—The New England Stamp Co. has now shown us the new surcharge of "1 Piastre" on the 2½d King Edward stamp, and we find there is quite a marked difference between the two printings. Not only are the letters of the later printing shorter, but they NETHERLANDS.—In No. 1109 we noted the fact that the 5c postage due stamp had appeared in a single color, with the prediction that the other values would be changed also. We have now seen the ½c in a single color, a copy having been shown by the New England Stamp Co. The stamp is type I.

Postage Due Adhesive.

NEW ZEALAND.—The New England Stamp Co. has shown us the 4d stamp, with portrait of King Edward, in the new color, perforated 14x14½.

SWEDEN.—Two new values have been added to the list printed in No. 1100, specimens having been shown us by Whitfield King & Co. Both are in the type with portrait of King Gustaf, and on unwatermarked paper.

50 ore pale gray.

TASMANIA.—Miss Amy L. Swift calls attention to an error in the note in No. 1113 as well as in No. 1059, regarding the new 6d stamp, with picture of Dilston Falls. We have called it re-engraved, but Miss Swift says that the new printing is lithographed We have not at hand either the specimens submitted by her or the copy on which the original note in No. 1059 was based. Can any of our readers give us anything definite regarding the production of these stamps?

THE GREAT MAN'S PRIMER.

FRANK H. HITCHCOCK.

By WALLACE IRWIN.

Oh, see the face on the postage stamp!

Is it the por-trait of George Wash-ing-ton?

Nay, nay, Doug-las, it is not. It is a portrait of a still greater gen-er-al, the Post-master Gen-er-al of the Un-i-ted States.

Oh, yes! It is Our Frank. Do you think Frank is great-er than George?

Yes, and a-gain yes! George was mere-ly Fath-er of the Re-pub-lic, but Frank has been Unc-le of the Re-pub-lic-ans more than once. George caused many an English re-verse, but Frank has pulled off many a re-verse English.

Tell me more of this strange man.

At the date of his birth the stork de-liv-ered Frank Har-ris Hitch-cock to his hap-py par-ents as first class mail mat-ter. At the age of five Frank joined the arm-y.

The arm-y?

Yes, the arm-y of office-seekers. He has been a gov-ern-ment offi-cial ev-er since. So rap-id was his rise that he was finally pro-mot-ed to the rank of gen-er-al.

What! to the rank of gen-er-al?

Yes. Post-master Gen-er-al.

What are the duties of a Post-master Gen-er-al?

He must know the name of every Re-pub-lic-an dis-trict lead-er in the Unit-ed States. He must have a broad and com-pre-hen-sive knowl-edge of men, wo-men and Sen-a-tors. He must at-tend Cab-i-net meet-ings and tell the Pres-i-dent just how the par-ty stands fi-nan-ci-ally. He must keep a cop-y of Brad-street's in his in-side pock-et so he will know the names and ad-dress-es of pat-ri-ots who are will-ing and a-ble to fork over the maz-um-eh.

What a use-ful young man!

Yes. And yet Frank has his drawbacks. For in-stance, he is ec-cen-tric.

In what way does his ec-cen-tric-ity show

Well, in spite of the fact that he is Post-mas-ter Gen-er-al, he insists on med-dling with the post of-fice.

Is not that the duty of the Post-master?

Gosh, Ru-pert! How lit-tle you un-der-stand pol-i-tics! For a Post-master Gen-er-al to fool with the post-office is re-gard-ed as hor-rid bad taste in gov-ern-men-tal cir-cles.

What has Frank done to the P. O.?

In the first place he has reduced the an-nual def-i-cit from six bil-lion dol-lars a year to thirty-five cents. If this keeps up the P. O. Dept. will be making real money and Frank will be re-gard-ed as a dan-ger-ous Soc-ial-ist.

That would be like touch-ing off a pow-der mag-a-zine.

Pow-der mag-a-zines are not the only kind which Frank likes to touch off. He says the 15c mag-a-zines are not fit to as-so-ci-ate with first-class mail mat-ter and should be forced to trav-el in Jim Crow cars. In case they in-sist on trav-el-ing in the Pull-mans with the high-toned mail, he is for charg-ing them dou-ble fare.

Has he any oth-er scheme for trans-port-ing the per-i-od-i-cals?

He has. He says the ed-i-tors can send them by slow freight.

This would cause a ter-ri-ble de-lay.

Yes. It would make the June num-bers appear in June in-stead of in Ap-ril as they now do.

Hard, hard Frank!

He has some oth-er lit-tle plans under his fair, blonde curls. For in-stance, he wants the gov-ern-ment to run the tel-e-graph lines.

Does Frank hate the gov-ern-ment as much as that?

No-body knows. You nev-er can tell a-bout Frank. He's one of those fellers about whom some say one thing and some an-oth-er. Even Chief Ex-ecu-tives can-not tell just how he stands. But they are sure just the same that Frank is the Ready-Money Kid when it comes to col-lect-ing the Iron Men who win po-liti-cal bat-tles.

Is Frank for Taft?

Wish I knew.

Is he for Ted-dy?

My answer is the same as above.

Teach-er, I think I have learned the les-son of this great man.

Shoot at once.

"Why is it so many tight-faced boys are called Frank?"—Rochester, N. Y. Herald.

THE CHILD OF THE BOURSE.

(We have received from C. M. Breder a clipping from the N. Y. Press of April 14. It is entitled, "The Child Mannequin and the Child Philatelists of Paris." The author of the article, Sterling Heilig, gives us a study of child life, portraying Line and Juliette two distinct and opposite types of childhood. In Line the author pictures a very poor girl, refined in taste and a lover of dress, who becomes a dressmaker's model and beautiful to look upon. The author concludes: "Hers will be the joy of beauty though she may never be rich." What Mr. Heilig says about Juliette we reprint and have chosen to retitle the article in keeping with the excerpt that we make from it. It is a pretty pen picture of a famous philatelic resort.—Ed.)

These are the tales of two little Paris girls who got there. They stand for two wide extremes of wide activity, both necessary to a state that would not fall, like Carthage. Just as I begged you not to despise Line, so don't give all your votes to Juliette. They spoil her enough on the Postage Stamp Bourse.

It is one of the unique sights. In the midst of the Elysian Fields of residential Paris, hidden among flowering shrubs behind rich children's Punch and Judy shows, meet on a footing of equality millionaire bankers, retired grocers, international diplomats, Paris rapscallions, children of best families, hungry old women, countesses in velvets, buxom wives of clerks and sinister thugs pretending to be interested.

Interested? I should say so. There are men who carry $10,000 worth of postage stamps on them. Ever since Bosson was decoyed to a room, assassinated and buried in a trunk for his collection, the Sureté has kept two detectives of the Flying Brigade on the spot.

Walk up the beautiful avenue of the Champs Elysees. Beyond the back yard of the President of the republic Thursday and Sunday afternoons 500 and more members of this open Bourse beneath the trees stand chatting. Small albums of rare stamps are passed from hand to hand—though often chained to the owner's wrist or waist. Large portfolios of cheaper average stand spread open on park benches. A smartly dressed old swell fetches a pass book from his inside pocket, opens it at the right page, and flirts it under a rival's nose. Sapristi! Three stamps of the Roumania-Moldavia 1858 series, of which a pair of 27-para, black on rose with large margins, recently sold at the Hotel Drouet for $580—and a single 5-para, black on pale azure, brought $360! Great, isn't it?

Bah! A shabby, military, thin man, with big white mustache, pulls the braggart aside and shows him privately the stamp of stamps, the rarest of the Post Office of the Island of Maritius, 1847, of which only twenty-four examples exist and whose blue two-pence was recently bought by the King of England for $7,200! Cautious ladies clutch their bags spasmodically, taking refuge behind Ma ma Claire, whose specialty is envelopes of 100, no two alike, at 5 cents the lot, for tiny tots to play with.

In this mixed exchange, where extremes meet, a fat boy of 15 may be a Napoleon of finance. One such has formed a corner in Chinese. When the republic seemed to have a chance he bought all and any Chinese stamps—old, new, rare, common, and particularly common. Through other boys as "brokers" he simply plunged on cheap and modern Chinese, junk by the hatful, borrowed money and bought more—bought by the kilo! All have gone up kiting. Now it is a furore. Everybody wants to buy, and none are selling. Of course. All the old imperial stamps will soon be rare. What is the fat boy doing? I suspect he is unloading gently.

Into this arena of 5 cents to $5,000 came little Juliette. With Margot and Leah, three small sisters from 9 to 13 are its pets and wonders. Four years ago Juliette began collecting, as a child does, cheap stuff in cheap little albums. But note how she soared. Her brother and father worked in a commission house of the Rue Hautefeuille. One day they brought her home a bunch of less known currents—Dutch Colonies, South Africa, Japan. In three days the child knew all about them. Of course, she was ignorant of colonial surcharges, by which the (British) officials of Bangkok, Johore, Gwalior, Sungei-Ujenz, Jhind and others make a practical fraud on collectors. But she did perceive an excellent source of stamps in a commission house with correspondents in many lands.

In a week she had won the friendship of the sub-director and put the establishment under contribution. Clerks who collected for themselves, kept back the best; but they had to give up a lot, and others gave her all. In a year the second sister, Margot, caught the fever. Now there were two little girl collectors in the Rue Hautefeuille—and a dozen houses laying aside stamps for them. Already they had a great modern collection, with hundreds of duplicates, all of Bourse value—before they knew that a Bourse existed!

One day Juliette lacked a stamp to complete a set of current Japan. "Why not try the Bourse?" her father laughed.

"What Bourse?"

And so, because it was a springtime Sunday and the Champs Elysees an elegant promenade, he walked his little girl up to the crowd hidden behind the Punch-and-Judys, and told her all about them. "Folks like you," he told her, "interested in collecting. They trade stamps among each other, buy, sell, get rid of their superfluities and pick up what they lack. Many make a business of it and gain lots of money."

It was a revelation to the child. That afternon she mastered Bourse conditions, made three acquaintances, and won the humorous esteem of a wealthy Paris lithographer with the stamp-collecting bug, and made her plans for Thursday.

That was three years ago. Soon Juliette took Margot and Leah with her. Rich in a big stock and a continuous supply from the commission houses, they launched on a trade of cheaper grades—5, 10, 15, 20 cents. But it seemed good to them. Not long. The Bourse taught them of old issues, postage stamps of rarity, worth a little fortune if you find them on old letters. They learned the meretricious value of specialized Colonials—and got it. They learned dates, tints, blocks, wood prints, vignettes, and the difference—at times immense—between perforated and a smooth edge.

Juliette soaked it all up like a sponge. The rich old lithographer taught her the difference between the dear black and cheap blue 10-reis Brazil and yellow and blue Mercury of Austria—and not to snap up for $30 a wash basketful of child's albums because one happens to be open on a Ceylon 1854, 4-pence rose, or 8-pence brown, and quoted in the market at $200. Those junk albums are salted with beautiful imitations from Germany. Few would wish to fool her. Giulio, insinuating, almon-eyed young Leventine, who unloads, now and then, a French Colonies 1877, worth 40 cents, transformed by a slight addition of his own into a Tahiti worth $20, would scorn to try it on Juliette.

Of course, a little girl cannot know everything. There are 250,000 different stamps known to the market. But she has it in her, the merchant spirit. For instance, eighteenth century color printing has nothing to do with postage stamps; yet at a junk shop in Aurillac, on an automobile jaunt with her old friend, the lithographer, it was Juliette who discovered the four so-called Marie Antoinette fashion plates of the Galerie des Modes, which recently sold at the Hotel Druot for $1,085.

There are farmers who arrive at the fair with an aged plug, and quit in the evening with a fine colt and $50. There are men who arrive in cities penniless and have a big business in six years. Juliette is like that.

Would you be like her? Or do you admire luxurious, dainty Line, who earns her way by light sweetness, lives the fashion plates which Juliette digs up in junk shops, and will pass her existence evoking beauty?

The world needs both kinds. Remember Carthage.

So when you see a child with ambition, do not thwart her, even if her heart be set on clothes!

New Coils—There is something new in coiled stamps, according to the following announcement by the postal officers: "Postmasters are notified that the department is prepared to supply the following coils of 500 and 1000 postage stamps: One cent, perforated and unperforated, coiled endwise and sidewise. Two-cent, perforated and unperforated, coiled endwise and sidewise. Three-cent, perforated coiled sidewise. Four-cent, perforated, coiled sidewise. The prices of coiled stamps, in addition to their postage value, are: Stamps perforated or unperforated, coiled endwise or sidewise, per coil, 500 stamps, three cents; 1000 stamps, six cents." The imperforate one-cent and two-cent of the new issue were on sale almost simultaneously with the perforated stamps.

He Loves Them—Many examples of philatelic ardor have been cited in the press to show how completely philately held its subjects in gentle thrall but as the exemplar of philatelic enthusiasm, we give the palm to a grand old philatelist of Tasmania. This philatelic personage is Captain Smith whose name "is a household word in the Hobart district" where he "is one of the well-known identities." The Australian Journal of Philately dwells upon the fine fidelity of Captain Smith to philately and it is proved that he and his stamps almost are inseparable. He has certain prized specimens to which he is so much attached that he carries them in a pocket-book so that he may show his pets to anyone who may be interested; and he, himself, never tires of lingering over their beauties. It would take months to see all his stamps, Captain Smith avers. We should think that no matter how sturdy a veteran of 92 years might be, he would be jealous of any disturbance of his night's rest but at a time when other collectors are dreaming about their stamps, Captain Smith is poring over his. He says that frequently he has "got out of bed at 12 o'clock at night to have a look at his collection." All reverence to this grand old man of philately.

Georgian Era—A London dealer calls attention to the advisability of collecting the stamps with portrait of King George; and in the list of such issues in addition to the stamps that have been issued since the king's accession, there are the half-penny Canada, Quebec tercentenary; Newfoundland, 1899, five-cent and Guy set 15-cent, lithographed and engraved, respectively, and the New Hebrides, bi-national set, which, though without the portrait of the king, bears his monogram, "G. R.," which to the loyal Briton almost suggests the royal presence on the stamps in question. Among the countries scheduled by Ewen's Weekly Stamp News for early Georgian issues are: Solomon Islands, Gilbert and Ellice Islands, India, Seychelles, Mauritius, Jamaica, New Zealand, Union of South Africa, Cayman Islands, Gambia, Southern Nigeria, Great Britain proper and its stamps overprinted for Bechuanaland, Levant and Morocco. For some of the countries but one or a few stamps are anticipated at present while for others sets are booked. There is an inducement to collect the stamps of a new era in the thought that one is personally assisting in the creation of a new philatelic line that may grow to great importance.

That Horseman—A reader who noticed the item some weeks ago, in which it was said that the picture on the two-cent, 1869, was not that of a "pony express rider" as mentioned by a contemporary but represented the regular postal rider of the times wishes to know if the "official" post-rider is copied on the stamp. It was not said that the horseman on the two-cent stamp of the 1869 issue was intended as the "official" rider as, we suppose, the "official" post-rider is to be considered that which is shown on the seal of the postoffice department. On May 1st, 1837, it was ordered "That the seal of the postoffice department shall hereafter be a post horse in speed, with mail bags and rider, encircled with the words, Post Office Department, United States of America." Previously to 1837, there seems to have been no seal employed for commissions etc., as only a wafer with no impression upon it was affixed to the papers of the department. However, an investigator has said that before 1825, there may have been something more elaborate employed as a mark of certification by the department. In the seal adopted in 1837, the English heraldic custom of facing all charges or horses to the dexter or right is violated, as the horse is galloping to the left, as on the two-cent stamp of 1869. However, the cut of the seal in the United States Official Postal Guide, a periodical approved but not published by the department, the charge faces the right.

A Find—There must be something very funny about the following item, as it appeared in B. L. T.'s column in the Chicago Tribune; yet we judge that Mr. Taylor who has been styled the most brilliant of newspaper paragraphers could not sound the depths of the significance of the contribution, as he runs it under the equivocal head: You Interest Us Strangely. "Vancouver, April 17.—You know how you and I and everybody else have been picking up those perforated strips that come on the sheets of stamps, and that look as if they might be stamps, you know how I mean, people drop them in the post-office, well to-day I picked up some and they were not strips at all, they were stamps. Mike." Evidently, Mike is a philatelist without knowing it and collects plate-numbers to some purpose.

Successful—Mr. W. O. Staab has sent us particulars of the recent stamp exhibition by the Milwaukee Philatelic Society at the Milwaukee Public Museum. The exhibition fulfilled the most sanguine expectations of the promoters and the attendance, particularly on Saturday and Sunday was gratifying; the publicity extended by the Milwaukee newspapers had its effect in attracting the outsiders. Over three hundred sheets were on view: Mr. Hirthe's triangular Capes on three sheets were a magnet for the eyes of the strangers; and probably, Dr. Teschan's specialized Swiss and Dr. Kraft's rarities of the German states were the most valuable sheets. Dr. Lincke's United States in blocks were an impressive exhibit. The members of the Milwaukee society alternated as attendants and lecturers; and the fruits of their enterprise already are seen in a revival of local philatelic interest, to say nothing of the missionary possibilities.

A. P. S.—There is nothing at present to indicate any impending political excitement in the American Philatelic Society and no contests have been announced for any of the offices. A few of the members deplore a lack of controversy over office but this condition sometimes arises through the strength and fitness of the regular or present officers. A report has reached us that the present secretary will not serve another year; and if such is the case a vacancy will exist that must be filled with a man whose efficiency will match the high standard set by the present incumbent.

"STAMPS HARD TO GET."

Catalog Value $2.00 and Under.

A correspondent suggests that an article dealing with hard-to-get stamps would be appreciated by our readers. We invite contributions to a symposium, suggesting that it be confined to stamps that catalog $2.00 and under. We shall hope to have a sufficient number of entries to make a worthy contribution to our columns.

KANSAS CITY, MO., April 25, 1912.

TO THE EDITOR:—

I notice in the issue of April 20th of the NEWS "Old Timer" berates the P. O. Department for failing to properly perforate our stamps.

It seems to me the department has done all in its power to produce well centered stamps. The officials have endeavored to manufacture paper which would shrink uniformly and has changed the spacing of the stamps on the plate all to no avail. The rag paper issue, the change in watermark, the starred and the A plates are all evidence of experiments by the Department which it was thought would obviate the difficulty but which did not.

I believe that as long as we continue to have engraved stamps, protests to the department about poor centering will result in nothing.

TO THE EDITOR:—

In your issue of April 29th, I read with interest Mr. Prieth's notes on Bermuda, for this country certainly is making philatelic history at the present moment, and some of its new issues are bound to become scarce. However, I notice this statement, that Mr. Prieth is under the impression that the 3d Bermuda, current, is the only British Colonial stamp appearing at present, with the single CA watermark. Does Mr. Prieth mean exactly what his words convey? Quite a few British Colonials with the single CA watermark are still in issue. At any rate, I append herewith a list of twenty-one stamps, all of which, I believe, are current, and all of which are on single crown and CA paper. I may have missed one or two for the list is somewhat hurriedly made up:—

Bahamas, 1sh, 5sh, £1; British Honduras, 20c; Cayman Islands, 10sh; Fiji Islands, 2d, 3d, 4d, 5d, £1; Grenada, 10sh, ship type; Malta, 3d; Nyassaland, 1sh; Orange River, 2d, 2½d, 3d, 6d, 5sh; St. Kitts-Nevis, 2sh, 2sh 6d, 5sh.

IF YOU THINK IT'S MONEY, IT IS.

Speaking of what will circulate for money, one of the local soldier boys of '61-'65 said that in some parts of the South during the war about anything seemed to go.

"We used to get bottles of Pain-Killer sent us from home, and engraved on the label was the statement that the latter would be good for one cent when presented for redemption.

"We used to wash off these labels, dry them and pass them along as $1 bills. Many's the bit of tobacco and other small supplies I bought with these labels. For all I know they are in circulation yet among the "crackers," for they were passing them along to others."—Prov. Journal.

J. W. SCOTT ON NEW ISSUES.

New issues are mostly sold at a positive loss by the importer. Take the new series of Canada, Newfoundland, etc., ten per cent. over price paid; out of this must be paid carriage, exchange and interest, and the far greater difficulty and expense in getting unnecessary values and damaged stamps. If these stamps were sold in even ten dollar lots there might be one or two per cent. profit in the sales but they are disposed of in twenty-five cents and dollar lots and even then not paid for in bankable funds. Collectors can see that there is no profit in this business, but they do know that it is precisely the class of stamps that the Metropolitan advises its readers to invest in, and to buy the same day that they see the advertisement, because a considerable number will prove to be short issues and rapidly advance in price. If they wait for this to be demonstrated the chance is gone. If they try to pick the winners and succeed—they must have been born so lucky that it is immaterial what they buy or what they do for they will always come down right side up. Some years ago the Metropolitan offered to sell all stamps catalogued at five dollars and up with a guarantee to buy back at seller's option any time at ten per cent. discount from price paid. Some six thousand dollars worth was sold on these terms and about fifty dollars worth returned in ten years. Stamps properly bought of responsible dealers have proved the best and safest investment in the country.—Metropolitan Philatelist.

—Ant. Himmelbauer & Co. of Vienna is circularizing American firms and advertise their wares "just as genuine as the attached postage stamp." A sample of the pictorial issue of Bosnia is used. It is a good advertisement and we are indebted to Arthur Russell for courtesy extended.

—"I notice that in your new issue column you report that I have shown you the 2c 1912, part perforate 12 vertically, with new watermark. It should have read 1911. I do not care to be the means of misleading anyone so shall thank you to make this correction.—ALVAH G. CLARK."

WITH THE BOY PHILATELIST.

Edited by BERTRAM W. H. POOLE, Box 231, Altadena, Calif.

We propose to insert upon this page matter that will be of interest to the boy collector. Some two thousand boys are now on our mailing list and it is our desire to come closely in contact with them in such a manner as will be most helpful. Any information desired will be cheerfully rendered through these columns. Do not submit stamps for examination.

THE BEGINNERS GUIDE.

COLOR.

Although color is, obviously, of primary importance as "part" of a stamp, varieties of color, or shades as they are more generally termed, are of questionable importance so far as the beginner is concerned. Let the specialist accumulate all the shades (and fades) he wishes; some are of undoubted value as marking certain issues or printings, others are of no philatelic significance whatsoever. The beginner will find enough novelty and variety in collecting easily recognised varieties without endeavoring to solve the knotty problem as to whether a certain stamp is "brown-bistre" or "bistre-brown." Collect distinct colors by all means for anyone who is not color blind can tell red from blue, violet from green, or even brown from yellow. I have no doubt that I shall be told that carmine and vermilion, ultramarine and blue, yellow-green and blue-green are equally easy to distinguish. They may be to the experienced collector but not one beginner in a thousand has enough "color-sense" to differentiate between such colors with certainty. Let your red stamp be merely red even though it is really carmine, scarlet, vermilion or pink! If you have a "natural eye for color" by all means keep all duplicates that appear to differ in tint from the stamp chosen for your album. Do not trade such varieties until you have gained experience. Some may possibly turn out to be the "rare shades" beloved of dealers, and others may be fades or something equally ignoble. The point I wish to impress in particular is do not worry to get, say, a violet and a lilac copy of the same stamp merely because you see these two shades listed in a catalogue. Hardly any two people see colors exactly alike. Certainly no two catalogues describe colors exactly alike; and to go a step farther no single catalogue succeeds in labelling colors of precisely the same tint with the same name. Thus a color represented as violet in one country's stamps may be termed lilac, purple, mauve, or even magenta in another part of the catalogue. Naturally this is very confusing to the beginner and until he has collected long enough to be able to judge and match colors for himself he will be well advised to spend his money on varieties of more importance. As a specialist I collect every imaginable shade of the stamps in the countries I favor but though I do this I recognise the futility of attempting to give names to even the most striking of these shades that would be readily understood by other specialists. Catalogues, we know, are full of inconsistencies but in no instance are they more inconsistent than in the listing of shades. In the case of popular countries we find quite an array of shade varieties while in unpopular countries the unsophisticated collector might well be pardoned for imagining that varieties of tint do not exist. To a large extent the listing of shades at all is ridiculous. Take Scott's list of the varieties of the 2c of the 1894 type for instance. We find the unwatermarked stamps given as "pink, carmine lake, and carmine," the watermarked ones as "carmine" and then among the color-changes of 1898-99 there are "orange-red and rose-carmine." Now how many dealers and collectors can recognise the last two varieties with absolute certainty? Yet they are solemnly given catalogue rank while any specialist knows that thirty or forty equally marked tints can be readily found in these 2c stamps. In France we find two shades of the 25c blue of 1849 yet the Confederate States 5c green of 1861, of which it is difficult to find two stamps exactly alike in shade, are also dismissed with two shades. Write to a dozen dealers for the "brick-red" shade of the 1d Great Britain of 1841 and you will probably receive a dozen different tints. Color nomenclature is one of the most perplexing and unsatisfactory problems in philately and the general collector, even when he reaches the "advanced" class will save himself endless worry by collecting colors as distinct from shades. But even then he will probably get into difficulties when it comes to differentiating between carmine, rose, scarlet, vermilion to say nothing of the compounds of these beloved of the catalogue compilers.

SHORT REPLIES.

F. R. R.—(Tyrone, Pa.)—Thanks for your letter regarding the Garfield stamps. The Official description of the 5c of 1882 is incorrect for the star between the words "FIVE" and "CENTS" is a six-pointed one as you remark. I had not noticed the discrepancy between the description and actual design until you called my attention to it.

J. S.—(Kansas City)—Afghanistan is not a member of the International Postal Union and its postage stamps are, therefore, not available for franking international mail matter. (2) The stamps of Aitutaki, Penrhyn Island, and the Cook Islands are still current in those islands. (3) I do not know whether the stamps of Juan Fernandez are still in use or not.

C. B. N.—Quite a number of articles on the stamps of China have appeared in various journals at different times. The most complete, and probably also the most recent, are those in the last two or three volumes of Gibbons' Stamp Weekly from the pen of Mr. C. L. Harte-Lovelace.

B. M.—The Guadeloupe surcharges of 1903 exist in almost bewildering variety. The 29 varieties recorded in Scott's catalogue are magnified into 268 in Gibbons!! If you are interested you cannot do better than get the latter catalogue for I cannot reproduce the list as you ask. It would not only take up too much space but would probably alarm instead of interest the majority of my readers!

COLLECTING ON A WAGER.

(Chas. W. Rosenbaum sends us the following clipping from a San Francisco paper. It reads well and as the reviewer of the latest book would say "the interest is well sustained to the very end." We would like the figures verified.—ED.)

W. Parker Lyon, former Mayor of Fresno, now a resident of Redwood City, has a hobby which is keeping him awake at night. He is a stamp collector.

In the ordinary pursuit of philately there is nothing calculated to bring gray hairs prematurely to one's head, but Lyon is collecting stamps against time, and is getting close to the limit.

It started on a wager. A friend of the former Mayor of Fresno has a big collection of stamps, which he exhibited to Lyon about three months ago. Incidentally, he referred to the years of patient toil he had spent in making it.

"I don't see why it took so long," remarked Lyon.

That started an argument, as a result of which Lyon bet that he could duplicate the collection in three months. He knew nothing about stamp collecting at that time, but he started right out and every moment since he has devoted to securing stamps. He has to get 30,000 all different. To date he has 27,000 and just three weeks are left in which to gather the remaining 3,000. It sounds easy, but those he is seeking are of rare issues and not in the open market. However, he has not given up.

THE CONCEIT OF CONNELL.

By F. J. MELVILLE.

The Hon. Charles Connell provides a curious study in the vagaries of conceit. A little glory, a little position, is and rightly so, a spur to ambition to greater things, but to some the little glory becomes a dazzling light and it was around the blaze of his honourable position in the Executive Council of New Brunswick that Connell appears to have fluttered like a moth until he blinded himself with conceit. And what has a blind man to do with a mirror? Connell foolishly provided himself with a mirror in the projected five cents stamp of the new currency series of New Brunswick in 1860. Nay, one may put it more strongly; he had made and would have set up a graven image of himself that all the world might see him in his glory—an image graven upon a postage stamp.

It was, as everyone now realises, an audacious thing for even a Postmaster-General to usurp the lawful place of the sovereign on a postage stamp. But it is impossible for us to uncover the workings of Connell's mind during the cogitation over this extraordinary step. We know little of the part he took in the work of the Executive Council, and still less of how his colleagues appreciated his services thereon, prior to the pyrotechnic display which the 5 cents stamp set off in 1860.

Connell, himself, had apparently had the full charge of the arrangements for the production of the 1860 issue of stamps, an issue which was necessitated by a change from the English system of currency to a decimal system, a change which was about the same time effected throughout British North America. He claims in his "Report" to have taken particular pains to ascertain the best and most economical mode of procuring the stamps. In New York he made "personal enquiry," and also corresponded with London. The result of his negotiations was that he "ordered from the American Bank Note Company the necessary supply, of the respective values of 1, 5, 10, and 12½ cents each." Apparently he did not consider it necessary to disclose the nature of the vignettes upon the divers denominations; that 5 cents was to come as a surprise, daring and novel, but not unacceptable if only the Executive Council and others had had an opinion of Mr. Connell which more nearly coincided with his private estimate of himself. No! the 5 cents was a treat in store, a presentation steel engraving of a glorified postman, a picture which should be welcomed in every household and tell the story of Connell, which story was the simple fiction, "What a big man am I!"

The incident is practically without a parallel in philately, and perhaps it was as well that it should happen early, that it might be to many a lesson which 'tis better to learn from others than by personal experience.

But I have not yet disclosed the full audacity of the move on Connell's part in selecting the five cents stamp as that which was to bear his counterfeit presentment. It may have been chance, but it also may have been of intent, that the honourable gentleman's portrait should adorn the most widely circulating of the whole series of stamps. This was, I believe, the inland letter rate throughout British North America at that period, and the denomination would be more extensively used than any other of the set. In the light of an initial order for 50,000 stamps of five cents as against 20,000 of the 10 cents stamp with the portrait of Her Majesty the Queen, the choice can scarcely be regarded as pure coincidence.

When the stamps were delivered by the American Bank Note Company—the lot including the 1 cent, violet-brown; 5 cents, brown (Connell), 10 cents, red; and 12½ cents, blue, the character of the 5 cents attracted the attention of the Executive Council who immediately instructed the Postmaster-General not to issue the 5 cents stamp, but to procure a new one bearing the portrait of the Queen. At this stage we find Connell taking an attitude which puts it out of the question that the use of his own portrait was a mere accident of bad form or taste. He stoutly declined to admit the Executive's authority to put their embargo on a stamp, which he, the Postmaster-General, had set up. He took his stand on the ground that the order for the issue was made at the time when he was authorised to procure new stamps. "I do not intend," he says in a communication to His Excellency the Lieutenant-Governor, the Hon. J. H. T. Manners-Sutton, "that the legitimate authority belonging to the Chief of that Department [the Post Office] shall be limited or circumscribed while I have the honour of being at its head." The Executive Council in Committee replied to Connell's lengthy defence that they admitted the Postmaster-General had the consent of his colleagues to obtain decimal stamps, "but they were procured and being distributed before they were submitted to your Excellency in Council for approval, or before the impress they bore was known to the Council, and when submitted it was the opinion of the Council that the 5 cents stamps should bear the likeness of Her Majesty."

Connell still quibbled, although he had placed his resignation in the hands of the Lieutenant-Governor. "I have fulfilled my duty, and did what I supposed I was fully authorized to do. At all events I have violated no law, and . . it is admitted I had the consent of my colleagues to obtain the decimal stamps."

The correspondence and the minutes of the Council make curious reading and any who are further curious concerning the character of the complacent original of the effigy on the 5 cents of 1860 would do well to turn up Mr. Donald A. King's articles in Stanley Gibbons Monthly Journal, where the documents are transcribed at length (March 30, 1895). Let it content us for the present chat to know that Connell's resignation, "the only honourable course to pursue" took effect and the sacrifice of his well-remunerated post was equipped in the verselets ending:—

"Six hundred pounds to see his face
Posting around from place to place."

The stamp, perforated 12, figures in the catalogue, though on my soul I know not why, for 'tis the tantalising trait of the cataloguer that he should exclude many stamps because they were never actually issued, and the Connell stamp was nipp'd i' the bud by an unsympathetic Council, whose members loved their Queen better than their Postmaster-General. The perforated stamp is priced at £30, of course unused; I am satisfied with an imperforate proof to shew my non-philatelic friends when I tell them the story of the unblushing postmaster. Over the proof are in letters of ruddy hue:

O fallacem hominum spem.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

A BIT OF ADVICE.

By WM. H. MATTHES.

The complaint is often made that stamp collecting is not profitable. This is true in many instances, but only when a person does not know what to collect. The writer has seen many a collection, the accumulation of which cost quite a bit of money, but the investment was poor.

How can we find out what to collect? The answer is, by taking good stamp papers, by reading them carefully, and by jotting down and remembering what ought to be remembered. Many collectors try to get along without stamp papers, many subscribe to one or two and these perhaps are poor, and a great many subscribers to good stamp papers simply look over the advertisements and read nothing else. We certainly do not want to say that the advertisements should be overlooked, but one must know whether the offers are good and whether the stamps offered are good and profitable purchases.

The main things in a good stamp paper are the leading articles, the chronicle of new issues, and the Government reports of the different stamp issues. Every good stamp paper brings such reports as often as possible. These can be relied upon and they ought to be kept on file or copied and put together and consulted when a purchase of importance is to be made. It takes some time to find this out when no one calls your attention to it, but if you once know it and adhere to it, you surely will know what to invest in and your purchases will be profitable. When the issue of a stamp of a country which is likely to be popular with collectors is small, you may purchase as many copies of this stamp as you like and be certain that your money is invested well.

Another thing to be remembered is this: One must take into consideration the size of the stamp-issuing country. It would never do to put the U. S., or England, or Germany, on a level with Monaco, or Virgin Isl., or Samoa. In a large country there are many more collectors who are particularly interested in the stamps of their own country, a large country also uses a great many more stamps, even of the highest denominations, in the ordinary run of business than a small country. An issue of 100,000 copies is a small one for the U. S. but would be quite large for Monaco. Consequently if you would look to the profitable side of the investment, you would not buy a stamp of Monaco that was issued in 100,000 copies.

A great many of our collectors here in the U. S. evidently do not know what to collect in our own beautiful and cheap stamps. A few days ago we saw a really fine collection of about 6,000 different stamps, but there was not a vestige of our imperforate Commemorative stamps therein. There were many other stamps of our country and others which cost from 50c to $1.00 each but not an imperforate Lincoln, Alaska-Yukon or Hudson-Fulton, and this collection is not the only one of its kind. Now we are certain there are no more beautiful stamps in any country of the world, we also know that the quantities of each of these issues were published, but evidently most of our collectors have overlooked this or surely not many of these stamps could be had cheap now, excepting perhaps, the imperforate Lincoln, although it is but a little more than two and a half years since the issue of the same.

The number of imperforate 2c stamps of the Commemorative series, given by our Third Asst. Postmaster-General, Mr. James J. Britt, is as follows:—

Lincoln, 1,273,000
Alaska-Yukon-Pacific, 525,420
Hudson-Fulton, 445,200

The Lincolns were issued in sheets of 400, the Alaska-Yukon in sheets of 280 and the Hudson-Fulton in sheets of 240 stamps. It is safe to assume that one-third of these were used. In order to collect imperforates right, one must have at least a pair and better still, a block of four of each. It is no hard task to cipher out how many blocks of each may still be available. If every collector in the U. S. had one block of each of these stamps we doubt very much that one would be left, especially of the Hudson-Fulton. The center blocks are very scarce. There never were more than 3185 center blocks of the Lincoln, 1877 of the Alaska-Yukon, and 1855 of the Hudson-Fulton. The arrow blocks are nothing like common. All told there were just four times as many as center blocks. There is nothing prettier in comparatively common stamps than

CURRENT BRITISH WEST INDIES

Need your attention. Antigua has just sent out the 2p and 3p on Multiple Chalky paper and according to the "color scheme" these and the 6p, 1sh, 2sh are printed in the wrong colors. This will probably be corrected in the near future, and then you will have to pay the price. Jamaica has sent out the 3p King George with big whiskers on the "effigy". If they should take this plate to the barber before another printing the same as they did the ½p Great Britain this would also be a good stamp to have. The time to get all stamps is when they are first issued, then in event of a change you are in right. Let us take the trouble for you. If your name is not on our Mailing List WE BOTH LOSE.

THE NEW STAMPS OF BELGIUM.

By courtesy of the New England Stamp Co. the three designs of the new Belgium set reported last week are herewith pictured. Other values will shortly be issued.

Here is another instance for our collectors of U. S. Colonials. Look at the ordinary collections of the Phil. Isl.! Which of the Phil. surcharged on U. S. stamps do you find in the ordinary collections? Why, the issue of 1899-1901 up to 15c and of the issue 1903 the 1, 2, 5, 10, 13, 15 and possibly the 50c. Why do you generally find these? Because all of these were issued in 100,000 copies or more. The 3, 4, and 6c of 1903 are usually missing. No wonder, for the issue of these was comparatively small. There was 15,000 of the 3c, 3,000 of the yellow brown and 10,000 of the dark brown 4c, and 12,000 of the 6c, 1903 issued. Besides we must remember that some of these stamps were destroyed by the U. S. authorities in Manila in 1907. Why don't the collectors buy these three stamps especially mentioned when they can get them so cheaply up to the present day? The fault lies not with the publishers of stamp news, they have long since published the size of these issues. The fault lies with the collectors, who, as a rule, do not read their papers well.

We would like to mention one more set of stamps, issued not many years ago, to prove our statement. This is the first set of Br. Solomon Isl. stamps, issued in 1907. It has been published repeatedly that of the three high values of this set, viz. the 5d, 6d, and 1 shilling, 8400 copies were issued. Still the whole set from ½d to 1 shilling inclusive can be bought to-day for $2.10, (latest quotation of a big English dealer). There is a great number of collectors of 20th Century Brit. Col., a great many more than 8400. There certainly are more than 10,000 collectors in the world who would be willing to spend $5.00 for a good stamp. Why then can these stamps of Br. Sol. Isl. and a great many more that are comparatively scarce, still be had so cheaply? Here is the answer: Many collectors do not read good stamp papers as they ought to do, they do not remember what they ought to remember if they want to make a profitable investment when purchasing stamps. Our advice to every serious collector of postage stamps who wants to be certain that his investment will bring him material results is: Keep as many good stamp papers and magazines as you can, read them carefully, and jot down the Government reports of the issues in your catalogue. We are positive no collector will ever regret having heeded this bit of advice.

CURRENT CHATTER.

By Angus McTavish.

The following thunderbolt is from the February number of the Australian Philatelist:

"We have on several occasions noted that some Continental journals are in the habit of appropriating a number of our news items without acknowledging the source."

"In an endeavour to catch one or more of them tripping, we (falsely) stated in our last number that the ½d King's Head, New Zealand, had been overprinted in black, for use in the above mentioned Island, whereas the colour is red."

What a smug little idea. By the time the Continental journals have misled their readers, and reached Australia it will be late in April or early in May. By then the mighty staff of the A. P. will have lashed itself into titanic fury. It is sincerely to be hoped that if the Blankenberghe Booster does see black, when it should have seen red, that Australia won't declare war on Belgium. In the meantime all the worms of Europe tremble.

A month or two ago I must have scratched the back of the editor of the Australian Stamp Journal, for, in his February number he says:

"We always turn with a certain amount of pleasurable anticipation to the 'Current Chatter' by Mister Angus McTavish, even if he does give us a 'rap over the knuckles' now and then."

Every rose bush has its thorns, in the meantime, dear St. Patrick, keep on scratchin'.

There is, I believe, very little truth in the rumour that the White City, of Shepherd's Bush is to be removed en bloc to Margate for the benefit of Congress Delegates. Nor will there I am told be any wild elephant hunting allowed with the herd of elephants which is to be imported as a special Congress week attraction. I believe, however, that it will be possible to turtle!

Mr. M. P. Castle writing in the L. P. says of British Guiana that:

"The nearest point of contact with the West Indian Islands group is Trinidad, which is about 100 to 150 miles distant."

One of the drawbacks of living in the West Indies is that you never can tell, within fifty miles or so, how far it is to the mainland.

For some years there has been, so I am told, a wish to change the name of Margate to Marrusalem. The visit of the Congress delegates next month ought to give the movement an impetus.

Mrs. McTavish, until she read a Herts Monthly Report thought that no Club meetings broke up before mid-night. Now she wants to know the meaning of "a most enjoyable meeting terminated at 8.25."

Mr. Ricketts, of the States, is compiling a marvellous Philatelic Literature Bibliography Index of all "articles and notes contained in philatelic publications of all kinds and all languages from 1863 to 1912." I have seen Part I. and it is immense. IMMENSE. In case the monumental article, note, or paragraph referred to below should have been forgotten by even one of the world's workers I extract the following item from Mr. Ricketts' index.

"Abroad, Philately, List of Journals with addresses, Pub. and Sub. 1908. See Lamb, F. F."

THANKS.

Has yet another Cornelius Wrinkle stepped into the limelight or is dear old Corney of the Postage Stamp becoming broader minded. In a recent copy I find:

"Yet when the philatelists go to Scotland for their Congress in 1913 it will become them to sample the to-be celebrated blend which one of the philatelic Macs (a Tavish probably) is to be invited to invent with a view to making the Congress in Auld Reekie an occasion of high spirits and rollicking memories."

A month or so ago Cornelius was belching forth sarcasm and wrath because a delegate at the last Congress, fortified with a recipe for "rollicking memories," dared to hurl, in the sacred room dedicated to Congress palaver, "projectiles of paper pellets" (half-penny a line). If the Coal Strike is really over before the middle of 1913, I hope to meet Cornelius on the 'tother side of the Tweed, and persuade him to join me in sampling the already famous Scotch blend. After all, it is only Cornelius who would dare to suggest that a Southerner should try to teach the men of Edinboro' how to mix their drinks.

Last month the P. J. G. B., for the first time in nearly a quarter of a century, omitted to have an Editorial! Since then there has been a coal strike, the Oxford and Cambridge boats sank, and Mr. Albert Harris has got married.

The dear old S. C. F. has opened a Shilling Fund for the benefit of the Fourth Philatelic Congress. To enable readers of the P. J. G. B. to participate in a good thing I have opened a subscription list to help pay my expenses as delegate to the Edinboro' Congress in 1913. Every bank-note will be conscientiously applied. In the event of Mr. P. doing me in the eye, as he has this year, the funds will be equally conscientiously dissipated in Bruxelles or elsewhere. In the event of death they will help to buy a nice wreath. In any case the money will be put to a good object. Cheques for less than £10 respectfully declined.

Next month, if I feel well enough, I hope to concoct some limericks? dealing with various members of a well-known Society which has its headquarters close to Broad Street Station. This preliminary feeler will enable members to save up. Fees for immortalization One Guinea. Cost of purchasing exemption Two Guineas. Both bargains, the second certainly the cheaper.

To prove that this is no empty threat I append a couple of doggerels (So called because they made the author's dog ill.):

There once was a Librarian named Brand,
Who with the Societies lore to his hand,
Should have spotted a member of that glorious band,
Which inverted was shipped to Liberia's strand;
But he didn't, and so lost a tenner did Brand.

. . . . . .

There was once an official named Higlett,
Whose name, however I tickle it
And puzzle, and puzzle, and wriggle it
Always, and always rhymes with piglett,
But for that he doesn't care a Liberian figlet, does Higlett.

A LA NEW YORK WORLD.

Collectors of postage stamps will be interested in knowing of a proposal to adopt the New Zealand system and abolish the use of postage stamps altogether. If this is done the value of many stamps now in the hands of collectors will soar amazingly.

The plan suggested is that instead of laying in a supply of postage stamps, or buying one or two at a time, as needed, you have a stamp meter installed in your office or home. A letter to be mailed is inserted in the meter and rubber-stamped, with an official mark which serves the purpose of an ordinary postage stamp. The meter records the number of letters stamped in this way, and when the government agent comes round to read the meter he collects for the number of stamps recorded in the machine.

The use of envelopes with a printed stamp in ordinary black type on the upper right-hand corner, instead of the colored adhesive stamp, has already appeared in this country, especially among large business houses.

IMPRINT AND PLATE NUMBER OMITTED.

W. A. Langdon has submitted for our inspection an upper and lower strip of ten of the one-cent green, head of Franklin, recently current, minus plate number and any form of imprint. We indicated last week the find, but could give no particulars other than the bare information which came to hand just as we were going to press. Mr. Langdon submitted with these two strips a vertical strip upon which was the Bureau imprint, the open star and the number of the sheet, 5672. Mr. Langdon informs us that he has plate numbers 5651, 5659 and 5673. The two sheets of one hundred are from the left hand side of the pane.

Believing that this matter was of sufficient importance to call to the attention of the Department we submitted the case to J. E. Ralph, director of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, who replied as follows:

"I am in receipt of your letter of the 26th instant, in which you request me to advise you whether any change has been made as regards the inserting of plate numbers on sheets of stamps. You state that this matter is called to your attention by a correspondent whose letter you enclose, and request me to inform you whether a change in the imprinting has been made, and if so, the extent of the change.

As perhaps you are aware, all plates made for postage stamps after December 1, 1911, and until March 7, 1912, did not have the imprint "Bureau of Engraving and Printing" on them, but did have the letter "A", and the plate number. All plates made after March 7, 1912, have only the plate number upon them, the letter "A" being discontinued on that date. This plate number appears eight times upon each plate of four hundred stamps; twice on the top, twice on each side respectively, and twice on the bottom, each sheet of one hundred stamps containing the plate number twice.
